TOBACCO MARKET.

The Covington loose leaf market opened last Tuesday morning with both floors in the warehouses filled. The sales averaged less than 10 cents per hundred. Tobacco that sold for 35 cents last year only brought about 7 cents.

After a small quantity of the tobacco had been sold the farmers present stopped the sale and at once organized to cut out the 1921 crop and haul the tobacco now on the floor back to their own barns. Farmers should not take any more of the 1920 crop to the loose leaf warehouses.

With Bids approximately fifty per cent less than were made for the same types of leaf last season the tobacco market opened in Lexington. An air of disappointment was evident among the farmers, altho they had an-anticipated lower prices than last year. More than 20 per cent of the leaf placed on sale was rejected.

Crime is on a rapid decline in Kentucky is the docket of the winter term of the Supreme Court. It is to be taken as a sign to indicate the way the wind is blowing.

Taxes paid by Kentuckians to the U. S. Government total around $39,000,000 a year, according to records in the office of Elwood Hamilton, collector of internal revenue at Louisville.

John Utzinger, formerly of this county, but now on a farm near Lawrenceburg, Ind., sends us $1.50 for more news from his Old Kentucky Home. He wants to keep in touch with the friends he left behind. Thanks.

Automobile owners can not understand why all of the money realized from the license tax is sent every Monday morning by the county clerk to Frankfort. The State Road Department needs the money and the roads of Boone county DO—NOT.

Capt. Sam J. Martin, of Newport, Campbell county, has been appointed District Game Warden for Northern Kentucky and assumed the duties of his office last Monday morning. He will have fifty deputies, about half of them will be stationed in Campbell and Kenton counties.

Seventy-five dollars per mile to maintain her roads, is the amount that Boone county can raise for that purpose, by taxation. This is hardly enough to drain the roads. With the kind of traffic that the roads are subjected to, you do not have to draw on your imagination to know in what condition they will get.

The American Legion will enter 1921 with practically 10,000 posts, according to the estimates based on the figures from the week ending December 10 fifteen new posts were added, which brought the total to 9,930. Arkansas led with three posts. The Women's Auxiliary in its same period obtained twenty-seven new units, raising its list to 1,586. Four new units, gained by the New York Department, placed that department in the lead for the week.

Mr. C. W. Kerr, who has been conducting a garage in Burlington has sold all of his supplies to Charles and Russell Miller, of Big Bone, who will continue the business. There is no reason why these young men should not make success, as a garage is needed and they now have the opportunity to build up a good business. Mr. Kerr and family will leave in a few days for South Georgia, where he has accepted a position in the road department of that state. Mr. Kerr is an up-to-date road builder.

The Recorder is in receipt of a very interesting letter from Will Hoshall Kilgore who resided on the farm known as 'Catalpa' just north of Hebron, from 1872 to 1884. Mr. Kilgore says 'I am one of the eight dead mates employed by the Lukanheimer Brass Foundry Co., Norwood, O., which employs 5500 men and is one of the largest factories of the kind in the country, that another large foundry is being built at a cost of $2,500,000 and about the same amount will be expended in building homes for the workmen. Mr. Kilgore now resides at 614 Philadelphia St. Covington, Ky.

The truck owners in Covington have brought a suit seeking to have the law fixing the license on trucks declared unconstitutional and void. If this law should be without funds to meet the Federal aid in road construction, and then the truck owner would have to convert his truck into a flying machine. Be careful Mr. truck owner that you do not kill 'the goose that laid the golden egg.' If the license tax should be removed and toll roads established, every truck owner would pay ten times as much in tolls as he is now required to pay for a license.

Already several prospective candidates for county postmasterhips under the new administration have begun to 'loom up' on the horizon. In the county there are several pretty well established offices, the chief among them being Burlington, Walton and Florence and Petersburg. The first two named are in the presidential class and as such come under the civil service regulations, and unless some good reasons can be found for ousting the present incumbents it may take quite a while for some of the prospects to land the job. However, what does the civil service law amount to if some wishes to be postmaster and the place he wishes is held by a member of the opposition party?

American Legion News Notes.

State legislation which will of the alternative of a $5,000 farm or home loan or cash compensation at the rate of $15 a month of service for veterans of the World War, will be passed by the Oregon Department of the American Legion. It was so decided at a recent meeting of the state executive committee of the Legion. The Legionnaires also voted to sponsor in the legislature a bill similar to the Japanese law of California, aimed to prevent land holdings by orientals in the state, when it was pointed out that the adoption of the California law caused an influx of Japanese into Oregon.

A national poll of the members of the American Legion may be ordered by National Headquarters in the near future to determine which place members will choose in the event that the Legion fourfold bonus bill is passed by the Senate. The Senate Finance Committee reported to the National legislative committee in Washington that this step might be necessary to ascertain an estimate of the immediate expenditure which the bill's passage would call for.

In an effort to alleviate the national shortage of employment, American Legion posts in many parts of the country have established employment bureaus for local former service men where industrial establishments and business firms of the community list their 'help wanted.' These post bureaus are operated free of charge and eligible in any category applicant, regardless of Legion membership.

STILLED

By the Hand of The Grim Reaper—Gone to Her Reward.

The spirit of Mrs. Eliza Blythe Rouse returned to Him who gave it at 6:30 p. m., Dec. 21st, 1920, at her home in Erlanger, Ky. She was a devoted wife and mother, lived for her home and loved ones; yet no friend or neighbor ever laced for a cheering word or helping hand that she could give. She was a member of the Presbyterian church, the daughter of a Christian. She was the daughter of Arthur and Sarah Blythe, and was born in Burlington, Ky., February 18th, 1853, where she resided until short time before her death. She was united in marriage with Dudley Rouse in Burlington, Sept. 3rd, 1873. To this union one child was born, Hon. Arthur Blythe Rouse, who is the Representative in Congress from the Sixth Congressional District. Her husband preceded her to the Great Beyond Feb. 1912. Besides her son, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. F. P. Walton, of Newport, and four brothers, Geo. Blyth, Burlington; Harry W. Blyth, Lawrenceburg; Indiana; James Blyth, of California; and Rev. David Blyth.

While Mrs. Rouse had not been in the best of health for several years, yet her condition was not considered critical until a short time before her death when every comfort that loving hands could bestow was given by her son and relatives.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Train of Dayton, Ky., at her residence in Erlanger, Dec. 21st, at 10 o'clock a. m., after which the remains were placed in the vault in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Burlington, to await final interment.

Her seven nephews, Dr. A. P. Walton, D. R. Blyth, Riggs Dempsey, F. Walton Dempsey, Hubert Rouse and Karl Rouse, acted as pall-bearers. The floral offerings were beautiful and numerous, the flowers being filled to overflowing. Philip Taffero, of Erlanger, had charge of the funeral arrangements and they were perfect in every detail.

The draft of a proposed model State law providing for the organization and regulation of farmers' mutual fire insurance companies has been completed by specialists in the office of Farm Management and Farm Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. Statistics have been tabulated on these companies with a view to obtaining comprehensive and reliable data relative to the cost of property protection through organization. The specialists also have prepared an outline of a system of keeping records for the farmers' mutual companies.

One of the points given special attention is that of hail insurance for farm crops. The department has just published a bulletin on this subject, containing historical data as well as statistical and legal data.

Who shall have vision to pierce the mist
Enshrouding the common thing,
Or, in the dark hours, sorrow Kissed,
The gleam of an angel's wing?
The world is wide, and the world is old
Its mysteries pass our ken;
And only to God are the secrets told
Which live in the hearts of men.

MORE GOOD THINGS.

For those who like rich pastry or cake the following will be a treat:

Scotch Short Bread.—Beat one cupful of butter to a cream, add one-half cupful of light brown sugar, then work in four cupfuls of pastry flour.

If the flour is slightly warm it will work in more easily. Form the mixture into two flat cakes seven inches in diameter. Decorate the edge with a fork or by crimping with the thumb and finger. Sprinkle the top with chopped cherries, caraway candies or preserved citron. Bake in a slow oven.

Tapoca, Pineapple Sponge.—Scald two cupfuls of grated pineapple and half a cupful of boiling water in a double boiler, add one-fourth of a cupful of minute tapoca and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Stir occasionally and let cook about half an hour, then add the juice of half a lemon and one-fourth of a cupful of sugar. Fold in the whites of two eggs beaten stiff and cook until the egg is set. Serve hot or cold in glass cups with whipped cream as a garnish.

Marshmallow Cream.—Soften one teaspoonful of gelatin in two or three tablespoonfuls of cold milk, then dissolve by setting the dish in boiling water. Add half a cupful of sugar and one cupful of double cream and beat until firm. Beat the white of a small egg, then fold it into the cream with half a teaspoonful of vanilla, half of a quarter-pound box of marshmallows cut in quarters, half a cupful of skinned and seeded white grapes cut in halves, one banana cut in slices, and mixed with a tablespoonful of lemon juice to keep the pieces from discoloring. Dispose in glass cups with a cherry here and there. Garnish the top with a quarter of a marshmallow, sprinkle with fine-chopped nuts and chill before serving.

Save Fifty Years!
Suppose you were to set out to gather, by your own personal investigation, the wealth of farm knowledge that a single dollar will buy in a year's copies of

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN
It would take you at least fifty years! And by the time you had your material together, nine-tenths of it would be obsolete—about as helpful in your farm business as the market prices of 1870.

A year of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN represents the work of fifty trained investigators—each a recognized authority in his field, thoroughly informed on the latest methods that make for profit in farming. They give to THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN a vision as wide as the whole farm industry; they bring to it the collective experience of successful farmers the country over. Why not hire these fifty men to work for you? If you send me just one dollar bill or your check TODAY, I'll see that they report for duty on Thursday of next week, and serve you every week of the coming year.

New Legislation Needed.

New legislation affecting the work of the Department of Agriculture is recommended by the secretary of Agriculture in his annual report to insure purity of seeds, feeds, and fertilizer, to facilitate the marketing of live stock, and to continue the road-building program.

The importation into the United States of forage and like seeds is regulated by the seed importation act of August 24, 1919, but there is now no law to prevent the adulteration or misbranding of seeds shipped from one State to another. While it is not clear that Federal regulation of interstate commerce in seeds would be practicable, he said, it is clear that the enlargement of the department's authority and funds for testing and other investigational work, accompanied by full publicity, would produce valuable results. It has been suggested in the estimates, therefore, that authority be given to determine the purity, viability, and truthness to variety of seeds obtained in the open market and to publish the names of the persons responsible for the shipment or sale of the which are found to be adulterated and misbranded.

Buffalo Herds in United States Increase Rapidly.

The American Bison Society reports that in Jan. 1920, there were 3,393 wild and tame buffalo in the United States. This encouraging report sets at rest the very real fear that existed not long ago lest the native buffalo, which once roamed the western plains, would soon become extinct.

Of the nine Government-owned herds, two of the largest under the U. S. Department of Agriculture are located in the Wichita national game reserve, Oklahoma, and on the national bison range at Dixon, Mont. The herds on the Wichita preserve number 164, including 28 calves of this year. In this herd 4 bulls and 12 cows are 10 years of age or over and one cow is 28 years old. The 15 animals that constituted the original Wichita herd came from the New York Zoological Park.

In accordance with the provisions made by the 1919 appropriation bill for their care, it is planned this year to dispose of some of the surplus buffalo in the Government herds. Public parks and municipalities are the largest patrons. By distributing the animals over the country, it dispense or misfortune overtakes the main herds there still will be stock left with which groups could be built up again.

The buffalo in the U. S. have increased about 300 per cent in 12 years. In 1908 there were 1,116 wild and tame buffalo in this country; at the beginning of 1920 there were 3,393. Canada has a larger number—5,093. This is due to the fact that several years ago, when the Pablo herd in Montana, belonging to the Pablo and the Canadian Government bought the animals, sufficient interest not being exhibited by Americans to retain them in this country. The total number of wild and tame buffalo on the North American Continent at present is probably more than 9,000 head.

Many Pests Imported.

The bugs that do so much damage to our crops in this country are nearly all of the immigrants from foreign lands. These unwanted guests, according to the estimate of the Department of Agriculture, cost us $500,000,000 a year. Most of the pests in question have come from Europe, but Asia has contributed some of the worst. The San Jose scale, which is a threat to every fruit orchard, arrived from China nearly a half century ago, and already it has cost us upward of $100,000,000.

The Japanese beetle and the Oriental peach moth both came from Japan, and the lot of damage done by these two insects is enormous. The beetle attacks not only fruits, but also garden vegetables.

Europe has contributed the corn borer whose spread is now causing so much alarm; also the Hessian fly enemy of the wheat, the gypsy moth and many other pestiferous insects, not least destructive of which are various moths and beetles that attack grain, flour and other food products in storage.

From Mexico we have got the boll weevil, the pink bollworm and a little beetle called the "bean ladybird," which promises to inflict immense damage on cowpea and bean crops in the South.

If the American farmer was obliged to contend only with native insects he would have a comparatively easy time, but with an increasing light to be kept up against imported species, his problem is rendered immeasurably more difficult.

The town council is doing all they can to expedite the establishment of the Walton Light bulb factory. Some complaints have arisen which have delayed the project somewhat but it is hoped that these will be overcome in the near future. The intention of the council to have a plant installed that will give the best of service and they don't intend to have anything "put over" on them if they can't get an honest lighting system in all probability have control of the installation and when we do get a light plant, council in industrial it will be of that character that not only excellent service will be rendered but a reasonable rate will be made to the consumers.

Rubber imports increase.

A marked increase in the amount of crude rubber imported into this country is shown by figures for the first ten months of 1920, compiled by the National City bank of New York. During the year 600,000,000 pounds were imported, as compared with 122,000,000 in 1919. Two thirds of the amount imported was used for auto tires.

Since our last issue another year, with its blessings and blunders, has passed into history, and a new year—1921, has entered upon its cycle of time, and what it has in store for us no one knows.

During the year 1920 many of the county's oldest citizens have passed over the Great Divide. Added to this number are a few who were born in the county, have died and by special request their earthly remains have been brought back and buried beneath the soil they trod in boyhood or girlhood. Almost every person has a certain sentiment about the old home where they first saw the light of day. They may roam the wide world over, make new friends, enjoy better environments and even riches, but when the time comes to lay the cares of this world and the spirit is about to separate from a tired body, the mind reverts to the old home.

The good old year of 1920 was one in which we should have prospered as the good Lord certainly gave us much more than we deserved. We were permitted to dwell here in peace and happiness or in strife and turmoil as was our portion. With bountiful crops, showers and sunshine those who did not succeed in making that class of indolent never-do-wells whose lives were usually spent basking in the sunshine of another's toils or in repeating a harlequin story to their more industrious and deserving brothers.

Those who tried, worked and lived economically during the year 1920 have certainly much to be thankful for. For the bountiful blessings of the past year let us thank the all-wise Creator whose mysteries are many, and may the new year, with its hopes and fears, bring to the people of this county health, happiness and prosperity.

Fewer, larger and better schools are needed in Kentucky and County Boards of Education created under the new school law in Kentucky are being urged by State Supt. Geo. Colvin to decrease the number of schools and apply funds to making those remaining as highly efficient as possible. It has been a practice in the past, he asserts in a communication to the boards, to multiply schools and divide the expense, sometimes to secure votes and sometimes to please individuals in the district. In many of these districts, the superintendent says, the population does not justify a school, calling to the attention of the officials the clause in the State law which says that "every school district in this state must contain not fewer than fifty white children of school age."

The entire village of New Salem, Ill., will be shortly rebuilt and will have exactly the same appearance as it did when Abraham Lincoln worked there as a grocery clerk, fell in love with Ann Rutledge and carried her home office mail in his hat. The log huts of Lincoln day have already been rebuilt, and as the foundations of the old houses have been found intact, the new huts stand on the same spots as they did almost a century ago. The store where the great martyr worked, the little mill on the river which he visited, and all other similar structures will be completely equipped and will have as far as possible the atmosphere of 1831, when the village was opened as a State Park in the spring.

An editor is, a failure if he runs a sleepy paper, and a "smart" if his paper is spicy and up-to-date. He is a fool if he fails and a rascal if he succeeds. He either writes it wrong or does not write it at all. He charges too much for his paper and offers insult when he receives his money. He is a good fellow to have around at weddings and funerals, but his paper is not what it ought to be. Half his readers could run a better newspaper than he, but they won't. Oh, the average editor is wrong every way, and he needs fixing. —Vanceburg Sun.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers and his deputy, Miss Lizzie, were kept busy during the last week of 1920 issuing automobile and dog licenses. When the year closed last Friday evening, they had issued to auto owners nearly 600 licenses, and about 500 tags to dog owners, out of about 1300 listed by the tax commissioner.

L. D. McGlasson and wife, of Taylorport, entertained, last Sunday, Lieut. Arch McGlasson, his father, Geo. E. McGlasson and Miss Clara Utz.

Wm. Woodward wife and son Robert, broke bread with R. E. Tanner and wife, Tuesday of last week.

The Christmas exercises at Hopeful was enjoyed by a large and attentive audience. The program was composed by Pastor Royer and was very beautifully rendered by the Sunday school.

Albert Rouse and Miss Luella Tanner, daughter of Arthur Tanner and wife, were married at the Lutheran parsonage, this eve. They have a host of friends who wish them a long and happy life.

The Rouse sale last week was attended by a large crowd, and every thing sold for fairly good prices. Cows sold from $25 to $35 per bushel, cows from $40 to $55, and other things in proportion.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Utz entertained quite a number at dinner Christmas day. The menu consisted of a turkey with all the necessary trimmings and all other delicacies of the season. Music was a feature of the afternoon and the day was spent very pleasantly by all present.

The practice of paying some one a commission to "run up" the price of tobacco on the loose leaf floor should not be permitted by the warehouse companies, and the farmer must not stand for that practice.

If tobacco can not be put on the loose leaf market so that there will be a genuine sale, without paying some one to "hook" or otherwise make the crop bring its true value, then something is radically wrong with the loose leaf sale. This practice is wrong and if continued, the loose leaf warehouse will soon be a thing of the past. To be a success tobacco must bring its value on the loose leaf floor without the farmer having to pay some one a commission in order to get the true worth of his crop.

Whitesburg, Ky. — Mike Dandy, electrician, Burdine, this county, has just been advised that the Industrial Steel Corporation, New York, has accepted his offer of $75,000 cash for his invention, a sand box for motors.

Valuable Shade Trees.

The Japanese walnut offers possibilities for landowners who are seeking to plant nut trees for shade or other purposes, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is nearly as hard as the black walnut and is by no means uncommon in Northern and Eastern States, where it is especially appropriate for farms with door-yard planting. For the present, seedling trees will have to be relied upon almost entirely, as very few budded or grafted trees are available.

This nut has been confused with the Persian or so-called English walnut, although the two are quite unlike. The Japanese is a dwarfish species, with dull green rough leaflets, often as many as 15 or 17 to the leaf, and bears nuts in racemes of a dozen or more.

The shells are thinner than those of the black walnut, but thicker than those of the better Persian walnuts. The flavor of the kernels is much like that of the American butternut.

The cows of Perigueux, France, which serve not only as milk givers but as draft animals, are highly prized by their peasant owners, and nothing that can add to the comfort of the valuable animals is neglected. To save them from the annoyance of swarms of flies which infect that section of France they are furnished with quaint hand-crocheted veils which cover the entire head and hang down almost to the ground. The veils themselves are works of art with long, silky fringes of varying hues, or borders of crocheted lace. In schools which are aided by the Junior Red Cross of America French children are taught to crochet, and so can make these useful veils.

According to the census taken on January 31, 1920, Austria, in its present territorial limits, has a population of 6,067,490. Compared with the corresponding figure for 1910, the census of 1920 shows a loss of 227,309, or 3.6 per cent. The city of Vienna, with a population of 1,842,000 in 1920, shows a loss of 189,493, or 9.3 per cent.

According to a recent survey there are more than 28,000,000 women keeping homes in the United States without servants.

General Scott, who is a standard bearer in 1852, was the first to disregard the tradition that a candidate for the presidency should not deliver speeches in his own behalf.

More copper is being consumed by manufacturers of machines for washing clothes and dishes than in any other industry. Great quantities of metal also are being used for milking machines. The scarcity of farm and household help has boomed the manufacture of labor-saving machinery and apparatus.

"Our timber is being used up four times as fast as the new supply can be grown. Three-fifths of the nation's original timber has been destroyed." Hence, the present high price of wood, also the high price of lumber of all kinds. Probably it is true also that profiteering has something to do with the high prices. A wise policy by nation and state toward forestry is gradually needed. Protection against fire is a first essential.

Supply short, demand great, prices rather firm. Such is the fertilizer situation today. One cause of it is Uncle Sam's failure to run his $70,000,000 air-nitrate plant since the armistice. Had this been done, nitrate might now be selling at half today's prices. Why longer pay to Chile a tax of $1.15 on nitrate from that country? Will Congress stand for it? Germany just now is putting her air-nitrate plants into an enormous trust, $250,000,000 capital to maintain her nitrate and dye supremacy, hoping that the world will become dependent upon her dyes, nitrate and potash. Italy and France follow suit. United States lags behind.

A Kentucky man who shot his daughter was acquitted because he was trying to shoot his wife. Such tolerance of honest mistakes is indeed admirable.

Dolphie Sebrun has purchased of Mrs. Josie Riley her farm near Waterloo, and will move there the coming spring.

THE NEW YEAR.

The new year greets us as have all the consecrated years of time. It now matters little what the old year meant to you. It is gone, gone into the oblivion of the past which holds the joys, sufferings and struggles of humanity from its cradling to the present. If the dead year held pleasant memories so much for that, they now are but memories. What now is important is in what spirit do we face the new year? The future eternally is rich with hope and inspiration. The past is useless save as it may point us to the avoidance of error.

With common interests and a common destiny we are to go forward with courageous purpose, or drop from the ranks of men and things and become one with the dead years.

Sense, experience, duty should inspire us to faith, effort and service. Faith, effort and service in our life relations only can make for that happiness which truly is worth while. Faith, effort and service only can make for success in business.

We are a business nation. We just have weathered a mighty storm. The waves have not wholly subsided, but they are responding to that breathing spirit which still gently commands: "Peace, be still!"

National and international readjustments will be accomplished. The new year should be rich in noble achievement. It should discover the limitation of human conflict, make progress toward the banishment of poverty, invite warring capital and labor to forget their feuds in the development of a practical partnership which should, and would, insure peace and prosperity for both. It should find us returning to the fundamentals of sound government, setting aside invasions of personal liberty, exalting spiritual freedom.

The old year is gone forever, gone with its tears and smiles, its triumphs and defeats. May the new year be a happy and prosperous year for all.—Enquirer.

The next Congress will be called upon to pass two tobacco bills that had their origin in the Burley district. One is an amendment to the Cantrell tobacco census bill and the other a "pure tobacco bill" and the Secretary of Agriculture will be asked to give the Burley tobacco growers a consideration regarding the recommendation to Congress to pass these bills, as well as other measures that will put the tobacco grower in a position to raise Burley at a reasonable profit—a price in conformity with the lands recently purchased.

M. S. Beale, the expert fisherman of Cummins' Ferry, on Kentucky river, set a muskrat trap a few nights ago at the edge of the water and caught a four pound bass. He should now set his trout line and he might catch a muskrat.—Harrodsburg Herald.

The big ash tree near the Neal Bennett home, West Main Street, recently partially destroyed by fire, has been the home of squirrels for more than a quarter of a century, it is said. Despite the fact that the tree has been ablaze several times, the squirrels retain their quarters and thus far have remained undisturbed.—Richmond Register.

The meanest individual ever brought to the attention of The News is the one who stole a mite box from the Wabash Restaurant which was placed there by the Salvation Army for the purpose of collecting funds for the poor of the city during the Yuletide.—Middlesboro News.

Lonnie Quire, living at the mouth of Elkhorn, brought to the State Journal office a pig foot with five developed toes. The pig which grew the five toes was a good sized porker and was well developed and was normal in every other respect, and was one of a number of hogs raised by Mr. Quire and butchered during the past week.—Frankfort State Journal.

A movement to curtail the 1921 tobacco crop in Henry county was launched at a meeting of 400 farmers at the court house.

The plan adopted by vote of the meeting is for a county-wide pledge that farmers shall grow only five acres of tobacco for the first 100 acres they own and two and one-half acres for each additional 100 acres. The agreement is to be binding only in the event other burley producing counties take similar action.

Pledges will be printed and the county will be canvassed at once. Dr. H. W. Glascock was elected president of the Henry county association.

No action was taken toward affiliating with the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association.

New Year's eve in Burlington was very quiet, even the old custom of ringing the bells, announcing the departure of the old and the arrival of the new year, was abandoned. This habit has been in vogue through generations, and just why no one knows. Like all habits it had its adherents and its adversaries. Very few, if any, of our citizens sat up until midnight to speed the going of 1920 or to welcome the coming of 1921—an occasion upon which, in years gone by, the citizens of a village or community would gather together and hold watch-meetings, aiding the old year adieu and extending a good welcome to the new; but, times have changed. Why?

Gov. Morrow, addressing a joint session of the Kentucky Judges' Association and the Ky. Commonwealth Attorneys' Association, at Louisville, one day last week, said that the illicit manufacture and sale of whisky in Kentucky is more widespread than ever before. It has reached a point, he said, where its suppression presents one of the most serious problems confronting the State. Promising the most active prosecution of liquor law violators, he asked the energetic co-operation of his auditors in suppressing the traffic, and said that one of its most alarming features was the spread of intemperance among youths of the State.

Mild weather in October and well into November lead to hopes of a mild winter. Nature offers basis for this hope. Beavers, squirrels and other wild creatures apparently are not preparing for a severe winter. The gulf stream appears to be running closer to our Atlantic shore than usual. Indeed, weather bureau scientists observe much that is unusual and interesting in the minor movements of the gulf stream. Warm weather thus far has saved much coal, supplies in sight have increased, prices are lower especially in bituminous and fuel prospects better for consumer.

Jessie Edkins, of Locust Grove neighborhood, sold his crop of tobacco one day last week to F. P. Smith, of Bellevue, at $1.00 a pound.

Good Time to Make Farm Inventory.

With another season of farm work fast drawing to a close, the United States Department of Agriculture is urging that an annual property list or inventory be made by every farmer. It is the only means, the department specialists say, whereby farmers may know accurately their net financial worth, what progress they are making from year to year, and how their investing in farm property is being distributed.

Property lists, or inventories made in accordance with a plan outlined in the Office of Farm Management, U. S. Department of Agriculture, are not difficult to make and are of great value to the farmer who is striving to better his condition, overcome obstacles to success, and place his business affairs on a secure foundation.

Drift along year after year, not knowing whether you are successful or failing, is not the practice of the business men. Specialists of the department are prepared to give complete directions for making a farm inventory that will put the farm on a business basis.

HOW TO PREPARE RICE.

The black man's recipe to dress rice runs: "Wash him well, much wash in cold water; the rice flour, make him stick. Water boil already fast. Throw him in; rice can't burn, water shake him too much. Put quarter of a bean or little more; rub one rice in thumb and finger; if all rub away, him quite done. Put rice in collander, hot water run away; pour cupful of cold water on him, put back rice in saucepan, keep him covered near the fire, then rice all ready. Eat him up!"

Gertrude Morrison, in American Cookery.

Rice may be used as a substitute for vegetables, as a thickening for soup, an addition to bread sponge, a salad, a main dish, a dessert. There are but a few of the many accomplishments of this dainty food.

Wild rice is obtained in abundance in many of our states and those who have been treated to this wholesome cereal like it very much. It is very similar to the tame rice except it is not polished, which leaves the food value (which in the tame rice is polished away) that is so important in the growth and health of the young.

Rice With Meat.—Take two cupfuls of boiled rice, one cupful of chopped fresh meat, browned in a tablespoonful of sweet fat; remove the meat, add a small onion finely minced, a teaspoonful of minced parsley or half of a small green pepper cooked in the same fat. Place a layer of the cooked rice in a baking dish, cover with a layer of the meat, season well, add some of the onion and pepper. Repeat until the rice and meat are used, cover with one cupful of tomato and bake slowly for an hour.

Baked Rice and Codfish.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of well-washed rice, one cupful of water and four cupfuls of milk. Add the water and the milk gradually to the rice while cooking and cook half an hour. Remove from the stove and add one cupful of rich milk, two well-beaten eggs and three cupfuls of shredded codfish, pepper and salt to taste. Bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes. Serve with drawn butter sauce.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A vegetable dish which is well liked and may be prepared with either fresh or canned tomatoes is—

Scalloped Tomato and Green pepper.—Take about half the bulk of tomato in soft, fine bread crumbs.

For a cupful of crumbs, melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, put one or two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, mix the rest of the butter through the bread crumbs. To the butter in the saucepan, add a slice of thinly sliced onion and half a small green pepper shredded fine. Stir and cook until softened, then mix through the crumbs.

Arrange the tomatoes in a frying pan, add an onion cut fine and prepared crumbs, alternate layers in a baking dish, sprinkling each layer of tomatoes with salt and pepper. Have the last layer of crumbs; bake twenty minutes.

Russian Salad Dressing.—Mix together one-fourth of a cupful of olive oil, one teaspoonful of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful each of mustard and salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika and one-fourth cupful of chili sauce; then gradually, using the egg beater, add one-half cupful of mayonnaise dressing.

Pot-Roasted Pork Chops.—Choose chops with only a medium amount of fat and somewhat thicker than usual. After browning the chops on each side in a frying pan, add an onion cut fine and pepper and salt. Cover with water and let simmer on the back of the stove for an hour and a half. Add a little flour to thicken the gravy, and serve. The flour if added while the chops are browning, will be of better favor.

Pecan Sausages.—Mix together three-fourths of a cupful of hot cooked cream of wheat, one-fourth of a cupful of finely crushed pecan meats, half a teaspoonful each of powdered thyme and sage; mix all thoroughly, then add one egg beaten light and form into shape to resemble link sausages. Place in a pan well greased, and bake twenty minutes. Serve with quarters cut in halves and then in quarters crosswise, rolled in flour and fried on both sides in hot fat. Serve with a cupful of tomato or cream sauce.

PREPARE NOW FOR APPROACHING GARDEN

If Cover Crop Was Not Sown Plow or Spade
The Soil

Whether it is conducted on an extensive scale to supply the market or whether it is to provide for the family, the garden plot is likely to be the most profitable acreage on the farm. Gardening really begins in the fall. When the last vegetables have been removed and covered the prudent gardener sets about to prepare the ground for the next year's crop.

For cabbage, peas, tomato vines and such like, the tomato vines should be cleared away, says the United States Department of Agriculture, and the ground sown to a winter cover crop to prevent the loose earth from washing under the winter rains. A clover crop also improves the soil and adds to the soil. When a cover crop can not be supplied the next best thing that may be done is to plow or spade the ground and cover it rough throughout the winter. This practice destroys many insects that lie just below the surface. The effect upon the soil, a lightening effect upon the soil, especially on clay soils.

Single persons, though required to file a return if their net income for 1967 is $1,000 or more, are, if they are the heads of families, granted a special exemption under the revenue laws. Such a person is exempt from the new regulations as "a person who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are financially connected with him by blood relations, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for their dependent children is based upon some moral or legal obligation." Such persons are allowed the exemption of $900 for each dependent. In addition, they are allowed a credit of $200 for each dependent under 18 years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective.

stant sections of the business district took away business from the old hostelry and it was forced out of business last July. The building was sold and plans made for a modern commercial building on the site. The hotel, when it was built, was said to be the finest in the United States and also one of the largest. Reports current here for many years have it that 1,000,000 bricks were used to lay the first layer of walls.

Gratified

There are two ways for a business man to become a community leader. The first is by active participation among his neighbors. If he is a live one, he realizes to the full that he cannot be a leader of the staid or younger and brighter men yet get ahead of him. He must get out after trade or he must get out after business. If he is a live one, he realizes that real national prosperity can be acquired, outside of whatever can be collected, as the result of successful competition among your neighbors, by united effort to make the home town grow. The advertising man, the business community leader, the man who has no real estate or a business, or who has an income dependent on his business, is a leader among his neighbors. The increment brings prosperity without much effort. As your household grows in size, as your business is found around it, so your business grows more valuable as more people read your advertising or pass your

No man doing his duty by his business unless he sets apart a certain modicum of effort to be directed to measures to make his income grow. Any town can be made to flourish by a systematic and common sense effort to attract new residents and industries. Communities are like stores; it takes advertising to attract interest and attention. Often it is the advertising spread broadcast by the radio that does the very thing the community does all it can to help. Young men who have new enterprises to start, it lays the foundation for concernness that will come prosperous and bring people.

and highly esteemed citizens passed to their reward. W. P. Corbin and Mrs. H. Corbin, wife of Corbin, were born near Newburg, Tenn. born June 21, 1831, was twice married. Dec. 30, 1867, she was united in marriage to Oliver W. Corbin, and they were born two sons, Lyman and Homer. She was again married to Jennie Sanders, and to them no children were born. Mr. Corbin died Sept., 1920, and she died in his 70th year, Mrs. H. Corbin. Mr. Corbin was Boone county Sept. 17, 1838, and was united in marriage to J. Henry Corbin, June 16th, 1861, and died Sept. 13th, 1926, in her 83rd year. She was a devoted Christian and people were loved and respected by all who knew them. They lived consistent christian lives. Funeral services were held at Sardis, Tenn. on Rev. H. H. Corbin and appears, the burial took place in the Rice cemetery. The two sons Lyman and Homer, and brothers Joseph and Corbin, and two sisters, Mrs. M. A. Matlock and Mrs. A. A. Matlock, are left to mourn their loss. Mrs. Lane has been an invalid for many years and is now in her 84th year. Mrs. Anderson is in her 70th year. The Corbin family total about three hundred and fifty years. The caskets were taken into the church at the same time and lowered into the grave at the same time. Contributed.

Judges Fess Whitaker, of Letcher county, in announcing his candidacy for the House of Representatives, says:

"I am a poor, penniless barefoot boy—never spoke a word until I was 12 years old—the industrious son of a noble widow, soldier, sailor, crack shot of the United States Army, one of the navy's excellent gunners, a famous, patriotic pugilist of Whiteside, a masterful railroadrover, rough rider, politician, author, champion of the rights and liberties of the common people, a great factor in developing the Kentucky coal fields, a leader of Letcher county, a victim of unjust circumstances, a martyr for the rights and liberties of the common people, judge of Letcher court and candidate for Congress."

Representative G. M. Young of North Dakota, Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, is not altogether pleased with the tariff hearings now in progress before that body. The cause of Mr. Young's displeasure seems to be the scramble of manufacturers to get some of the tariff subsidies which the House has already voted to the farmers.

To the School Boys and Girls of America :

I have been gratified to hear of the fine record you made last year in the purchase of bonds and investment in Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps. Your Government is proud that the young people of the Nation are developing these most excellent habits. I can assure you that the money you are now investing in Government savings securities is very helpful in meeting your country's needs for the war effort. While you are aiding your Government in the purchase of the securities, you are forming habits which will be most valuable in the future in the management of your personal and financial affairs. I encourage you on your record and encourage you to continue this splendid work.

Sincerely Yours,
D. F. MOUSTON

Tobacco Sales.

New burley sold in Kentucky last month averaged 11.32 a pound compared with 10.75 a pound for the month that sold the previous December, the report issued at Frankfort by Commissioner of Agriculture W. H. Hays revealed.

Sales of the crop totaled but $17,550 pounds against 47,255,977 in December, 1919, and the money was $57,040 compared with $225,250 for the same period. However the volume of business would have been considerably more had not the loose floor been forced to delay their openings.

The grand total and average of all new tobacco sold last month was 4,603,477 pounds at 11.72c. Old tobacco sales totaled 4,164,100 at an average of 11.35c.

Ice-Harvest Time.

Farmers who have not already done so should prepare to lay by stores of ice now for cooling milk and for covering the next winter. In places where the nature provides a sufficiently low temperature, the cost of harvesting and storing ice is low when compared with the saving effected. Ordinarily, it is not so. Harvesting costs of ice for each cow in the herd. This will allow for melting and leave enough for family use. Here cream only is acid about one-third of that quantity of ice will be needed.

Two farmers' bulletins, No. 623, Ice Houses and the Use of Ice on the Farm, and No. 1078, Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm, may be obtained by writing to the Division of Publications, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

for such support. If he provides for circumstances he brought about, his wife away from home he is entitled to the $2,000 exemption allowed a married person, but not to the $2,000 exemption available to a son who has left home, but who sends his mother more than one-half the sum required for her support is entitled to the $2,000 exemption. The mother can not support herself. Otherwise, the amount must be considered as a gift, and, therefore the exemption is not allowed. A son living at home and supporting his father, mother or other relative may claim the $2,000 exemption allowed the head of a family, but not the $2,000 credit unless such relative is a dependent of a person incapable of self-support.

Your Friend--The Skunk.

A woman walked into a department store, according to a story the clerk told, and said to the clerk, "Have you any skunks?"

"Why, yes," was the answer. "I'll call the floorwalker."

Now why is it that the lowly polecat is held in such bad repute? He, you don't want him around when you are giving a dinner party, but if folks would but realize it the skunk is one of the best friends the food-producing industry has.

His assistance in destroying mice, grasshoppers, crickets and white grubs is considerable in a year. An employee of the bureau of biological survey, says that every farmer ought to have at least a dozen skunks working for him all year round with profit. They would yield, besides, from $50 to Instead then of wiping out the skunk dens why not turn this winter to a very real enemy? Yes, we are about to warm you that you ought to sawt the fly. There is one buzzing about in most homes. She will be the grandmother of myriads in July and August. Spare your friends and kill your enemies. Let the skunks alone and swat the winter fly.—

Tampa Tribune.

Champion Corn Raisers.
J. W. Butler, North Bend, Ohio, has been named champion of Hamilton county for the most 10-acre corn contest, conducted by the Hamilton county farm bureau and Ohio State University. His average yield, when reduced to a moisture content of 20 per cent was 87.56 bushels an acre on 10 acres Enos Hays, North Bend, raised 78.66 bushels to an acre.

The first two weeks of January furnished some very fine spring like weather.

The earliest and choicest vegetables are harvested by the man who has the most skill in the garden and uses them to start his garden. He is able to harden the frost line by several weeks, and the plants he grows well developed in his garden are the first his neighbors are planting seed.

The farm income is at its lowest point in the early spring, but it can be increased considerably by the sale of young plants in the hotbeds and ready for transplanting. Tomato, cabbage, eggplant, and pepper plants are always available in the hotbeds. When warm planting days come, and they are easily grown in the hotbed. A little more space and a little more care and the farmer needs for his own use are likely to bring good profits. Before the ground freezes in the fall is the best time to clean out the old hotbeds.

Unless the soil used in the hot-bed is to be exchanged for fresh earth it should be shoveled from the bed and tossed into a pile near by. The decayed manure from the bottom is scattered over the pile and thoroughly mixed with it to form rich soil for next year's beds. Over this goes a coat of straw or leaves held down by bits of boards to keep it from blowing.

Some farmers find it convenient to use evergreen boughs instead of straw for the outer covering.

New hotbed pits should be dug so that they will face the south, and the location should be selected so that the beds will be protected from cold winds and late spring storms. Sometimes the earth taken from the new pit is suitable for use in the hotbed, but this is the exception rather than the rule. A few loads of leaf mold from the woods mixed with the natural soil will often form a smooth, rich, stoneless mass which gives an ideal hotbed filler.

The back or north side of the frame is usually from 12 to 18 inches high, while the south end is about eight inches, so that the whole may have just enough to get the sun upon all parts. The standard hoxbed sash is handled by most dealers, and is made of wood, and is usually six feet in length. A frame wide enough to support the sash seems to be the most satisfactory, though wider beds are sometimes used. The standard ridges placed at 6-foot intervals are well-painted cypress sash, glazed with good double strength glass well set in putty should give the careful gardener 12 to 15 years' service.

Heat for the hotbed is furnished by means of a bed of horse manure 8 to 16 inches thick in the bottom of the pit. Permanent hotbeds are often heated with coils of steam or hot-water pipes under the bed.

Hotbeds require constant care to prevent their becoming overheated, especially during bright weather.

Candidates for county offices will find electioneering a much harder job this time than ever before. As women have been given the right of suffrage, and they will, for the first time, use this right at the coming August primary in selecting county officials, it will require candidates to see just twice the number of voters as heretofore—and to do a great deal more talking—as the women will be harder to convince than the proper person to fill the office to which he aspires. It would pay a candidate to have his little "spiel" printed in pamphlet form and mail them in

From a recent report of the Association of American Colleges it is learned that there are 500,000 college students, or one to every 212 persons in the United States, now attending institutions of learning in this country. The report also shows that the growth of high schools is prodigious, and that a larger portion of high school students is going to college than ever.

HAS ADMIRATION OF WORLD

Capitol at Washington Recognized As the Finest and Noblest Building on the Earth.

Foundations for the central structure of the present capitol in Washington were finished on August 24, 1818. The old capitol had only two wings, connected by a covered wooden bridge, which was destroyed and the wings damaged by the British, who set fire to the building in 1814. Three years later congress voted to remove the wings and build the new central structure, which with its dome was completed in 1829.

The two great marble extension wings in which the senate and house of representatives meet were begun in 1851 and completed for occupancy in 1858. The old dome, made of wood and brick, was torn away in 1855, and the present dome completed in 1864. The great statue of the goddess of freedom, which rests upon the dome, was designed by Thomas Crawford, father of Marion Crawford, novelist. Charles Bulfinch of Boston was the architect of the original central structure and Thomas U. Walter designed the marble extensions and the present dome. He was a Philadelphian.

The total cost of the present capitol was about $16,000,000, and it has been pronounced by architectural authorities, both in America and Europe, to be the greatest and noblest building in the world.—Chicago Journal.

Dentist, Given Emergency Toothache Treatment, Dreads Further Ordeal of a Session in the Chair.

A haggard-faced man rushed into the Park Emergency hospital shortly after 8 o'clock a few mornings ago.

"For the love of mud will you give me something to stop a raving toothache? It's bad me up all night, and I've tried everything," he moaned to the steward in attendance.

The steward made the pain-ridden patient comfortable in a chair and then applied soothing remedies to the offending molar.

"Why, the pain's gone," the patient exclaimed after a while.

"Well, that tooth won't bother you any more for a while, but you had better see a dentist in the morning," said the steward.

"Guess I'll have to," said the patient gloomily.

"Everybody hates to go to a dentist," remarked the steward. "Will you give me your name for our records?"

"Yes," said the patient. "I am Dr. A. Karageorge."

"Are you a physician?" asked the steward.

"No, I'm a dentist," smiled the patient. "I have cured scores and scores of aching teeth, but this one of mine never unraveled me. Guess I'll have to go to a dentist in the morning. Gee, I hate to."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Prospective candidates for County Tax Commissioner should get busy studying the questions to be asked in the examinations which they must answer to qualify as a candidate for this very important office.

Mrs. Fannie Adams, formerly of Burlington, but now living in Louisville, sends us a $5.00 to extend her subscription up another year. Mrs. Adams has been a member of the Recorders' reading circle many years, and may she be blessed with health and happiness many more years, that she may enjoy reading the news from her old home.

Sam Pettit delivered his tobacco to "Pop" Smith last Monday.

A Week's News.

Mrs. Ruth and Elizabeth Kelly visited their sister, Mrs. Dean Stanley, of Lebanon, Ohio, last Saturday and Sunday.

Tobacco is selling for a price much less than the cost of production, yet some growers want to cultivate a crop during 1921.

One of the local tobacco growers who signed the cut-out pledge says he signed not only for the year 1921 but for all time to come. His experience in the tobacco field evidently has not been very satisfactory.

Don't fear to patronize those merchants and business men whose advertisements appear in our paper. They are all reliable firms and we will not, knowingly carry advertising matter for unreliable business "fakirs."

We are always pleased to give space to any items of interest that may be handed us by our patrons. We are glad to know that they will bear in mind that their favors in this direction are always appreciated. Tell us the news and we will herald it to the public.

Miss Sarah Crisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Crisler, who live out on the farm known as the C. L. Crisler farm, has been having a very serious time with abscesses in her throat. Miss Sarah is a nurse at Deaconess Hospital, in Cincinnati, and being annoyed with her tonsils, she had them removed, since which she has been afflicted as above stated. She is at the hospital where she is receiving the very best of attention.

Rev. Tomlin, the pastor, preached two very interesting sermons at the Burlington M. E. church, last Sunday morning and evening. At the evening service he preached upon "Thou Art Weighed in the Balances and are found Wanting." This sermon was one of deep spiritual character and should be an incentive to all hearing it. No preaching at the above church on the fifth Sunday morning—there being no services at any of the other churches on that day.

Bert Berkshire, from out on R. D. one, was a visitor to Burlington last Saturday, and while in town called at this office and left $1.50, for another year's subscription for his mother. He reports his mother, Mrs. Emily Ann Berkshire, who has passed her four score years in life's journey or more as enjoying the best of health. He said she ordered him to bring back some yarn that she might keep her knitting needles busy. This good old lady is one of our many readers who helped us the Recorder while cutting its teeth.

The ball has started to rolling for the offices in the primary election to be held on Saturday, August 6th. There will be many candidates for some of the offices and the campaign will be a long drawn-out one. Every candidate will have ample time to meet and shake hands with the voters in the coming seven months, so do not spend all your power early in the game. Make it a clean campaign and refrain from knocking your opponents. The average voter desires to listen to knocking. If you wish the nomination to which you aspire, you will want the support of your opponent in the general election, so be good sports now and say nothing you may regret.

"Pop" may take the place of "vini" in the dictionaries of future years according to Prof. Lynn H. Harris, head of the English department at Franklin College, who sees no objection to a moderate use of slang in conversation.

When Elizabeth was Queen of England she was very partial to the gloves as presents, giving them to her friends and enjoying it very much when they were given to her.

Per capita circulation of money in the country increased $8.28 last year. A Treasury statement today said that on January 1, there was $6,940,486,718 in circulation, or $66.12 per capita as compared with $6,900,882,866, or $56.89 per capita on January 1, 1920.

The British Navy is strong for the formalities, and when the naval cruiser Prince Rupert sank during the war, was to be raised, two divers went down ten fathoms and hoisted the British flag into place, so that as the cruiser was hoisted the ensign was in place and all saluted the colors.

How careless and forgetful the public can be is illustrated by the amazing collection of articles left behind in theaters. The manager of one playhouse is now awaiting claimants for one set of false teeth, a bottle of whisky and a pair of silk stockings.

Many farming communities in the United States have built community houses within the last decade. A first hand investigation of 250 of these community buildings has been completed by the United States Department of Agriculture during the last year.

In olden times the yule log was always laid aside before it was burned out, so that the next Christmas Day the new yule log might be lighted from the charred remains of its predecessors.

For many months the little city of Coulogne, in the Alsace region of France, had only one chair, the property of the Mayor. Later the Junior Red Cross of America sent a great truck load of chairs and tables made by the boys in the manual training schools in this country.

In the first two and a half months of prohibition San Francisco banks gained more than $66,640,000 in deposits, which is said to be the swiftest increase in bank wealth in the history of the city.

Walking on the heel is the attitude of civilized man alone. The people of the woods who are much superior in their muscular development, all walk on the toe, as do the lower animals. Taking in this suggestion a French doctor prescribed a course of toe walking for patients who are deficient in chest development.

That much valuable material is being wasted annually by throwing away tomato seeds extracted in pulping, soup, catsup and canning plants is indicated by investigations made by the United States Department of Agriculture. Department investigators have found that more than 1,000 tons of seed are thrown away annually in Northern tomato-pulping plants, with large enough output of seeds to pay for shipping, and that they may be made into edible oil and stock food worth about $34,000 (December, 1919). Cost of collecting and preparing the seed is estimated at about $35,000, including all proper charges, and the cost of the necessary equipment is given at not to exceed $50,000.

It is said that near Thompson Falls, in Montana, there exists a well whence issued a steady flow of air. During the hottest days of summer, it is reported the temperature of this curious well never rises above 35 degrees. The man owning this well has put it to a good use, for over it he has built a small refrigerating house in which to keep the food for family use. From the well to his store he has also laid a pipe, and through this comes the damp air of the well. The end of the pipe opens into a refrigerating room of the store, so that this man needs no ice to keep his perishable merchandises in the best condition.

Coppin's and Lower Prices

Many months ago, long before the recent price reductions, this store started a big downward price drive. We took reductions, lots of them, and at that time seemed unnecessary, but have resulted in helping bring prices down to a normal level in the country.

Note---We did not merely meet the low prices as they came, but rather COPPIN'S FORCED PRICES DOWN; and with the aid of many other stores the nation over, leaders in their respective cities, we have materially aided in bringing about the general reductions that have been given throughout the country.

And, nowhere will you find in vague such low prices on every line of merchandise, as are awaiting you right here in this great

ARAB POPULATION INCREASES.

In the Kasbah, the native quarter of Algiers, there still are daggers in the shadows, and they still cut throats, despite the fact the French have ruled the Arabs here for nearly a century. The Arabs are increasing in number and becoming richer. They fought for the French, and the French gave their families heads a certain number of centimes a head for daily maintenance while the father was in the north fighting. Since there are many children in the native families, and each head was used to being sustained on no centimes a day at all, the father returned home to find his family rich. Now the Arabs have asked to be let alone, and necessity has compelled the French to grant the request, for it is whispered up and down the windowless walls of the Arab city that a French policeman does not dare penetrate there at night, says Detroit News. Even by day it is easy to get lost in the entanglements of the streets; and there are places where no sound is heard save the almost silent shuffling of sandaled Arab feet.

The laziest of birds is the frogmouth. He sleeps all day, and at night, instead of flying about in search of food, he sits and literally waits for the insects to come and feed him. He is such a sound sleeper that you can push him off his perch with a stick and not wake him, says Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. He inhabits Australia and the islands of the Indian ocean. In size the frogmouth resembles the whippoorwill, and he gets his name from his wide mouth, which serves as his insect trap. Too lazy to fly for his food, like other birds, he crawls along the limb of a tree, opening his wide mouth and snapping it shut, catching what flies and gnats come within his range. Only after the sun goes down does he show any inclination to move about.

There are undoubtedly acres upon acres of land in the eastern part of the United States too poor for either garden or pasture purposes, which would readily produce white pine trees. The professor of forestry at the Massachusetts Agricultural college calls attention to the price of $30 to $35 a thousand feet for which pine logs are selling on the stump, and says that pine stumps will be as valuable for the next thirty or forty years as it is today. His advice to farmers who own large areas of unimproved lands, to plant them with white pine, with a certainty of profitable sale, would seem to be worthy of consideration.

Secretary Daniels is right in saying that men who will not obey are not fit to command, and that midshipmen who refuse obedience to their lawful constituted authorities will be expelled. Obedience is the foundation of all law and order, and especially of military and naval discipline, and if it is refused in the training process, there is an end of efficiency in students as potential commanders.

When the Lithuanians fired upon the league commission advancing toward them under a white flag, a native woman crossed the field under fire to explain that the commission wore allied uniforms, which explanation caused the firing to cease. It is characteristic of the fate of the peace-maker that this humble heroine did not even have her name mentioned in the dispatches.

In Denmark farmers are required to number and initial each egg sent to market. If one or two eggs are bad, the farmer is fined; if three are bad, he is boycotted. At that rate, the average bunch of eggs the American consumer gets would get the producer hanged.

For the benefit of those who are affected by the rule against the sale of hops in the ordinary commercial way, something is sure to recall the fact that hops used to be regarded as valuable in the treatment of lame joints.

It is intimated that the manufacturers of "near-beer" are trying to put "home brew" out of commission. The manufacturers of yeast cakes may be expected to line up on the other side of the argument.

CAN'T RUSH TO SAGHALIEN

Japanese Government Bars All but Business Firms Approved by War Office.

There will be no rush of adventurers to the new fields for exploitation opened up by the Japanese occupation of Russian Saghalien, according to Mr. Murakami, chief of the fishery bureau of the department of agriculture and commerce, who is quoted in the Yomiuri.

"None except those who really mean business and are in a position to seriously transact business will find any place for them in Saghalien," said Mr. Murakami. "All rights there are in the hands of the military command, and anyone that wants to go there, now must obtain a permit from the war office. Certainly the forests there will yield plenty of wood pulp and other raw material, while there are rich coal mines and possibly oil wells. But the chief product of that region is the output of the fisheries."

Speaking of the fishing rights in Saghalien, Mr. Murakami said that after consultation with the army command an auction was conducted at Nikolaisk for those rights over which the army command is able to furnish protection. No detailed report of the auction has been received. The bidders had to file their applications with a deposit to guarantee their good faith, and they had to be persons who were qualified by long experience in fisheries in that neighborhood.

The Yomiuri says that many reputable business establishments have been holding back from enterprises in Saghalien for fear of the competition of adventurers and the hurt their reputations might suffer in a mad scramble for rights and concessions.—Japan Advertiser.

HOLDING CHEMICAL TRADE

Statistics Show That United States Has Been Able to Hold High Mark Set During War.

Official statistics for the fiscal year 1920 demonstrate that this country has been able to keep its trade in chemical and allied products very near the high mark set during the war, despite the loss of markets for purely war supplies and despite the pressing demand that must be met in the domestic market.

Such is the conclusion reached by O. P. Hopkins, a well-known statistician, writing in the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

"In almost all lines except munitions," he writes, "the exports in 1920 exceeded in value those of 1918, a fact that can be explained in some cases, perhaps, by rising prices, but which nevertheless warrants the assertion that the position has not been weakened. These exports, which very greatly exceed those of the last normal pre-war year, are made up almost entirely of manufactured products. "Imports have more than held their own and comprise raw and partly manufactured products required for further advancement by American chemical manufacturers."

Sea Lion Leather.

Large numbers of sea lions on the British Columbia coast which destroy annually vast quantities of fish food may be slaughtered and their hides placed on the world's leather market. If a proposition which comes from Premier Oliver and has the approval of many experienced fishermen, is carried out. The sea lion weighs from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds, the hides being nearly an inch thick. These hides make a tough and durable rough leather such as is used in workmen's gloves and in saddles. It is stated that these animals will eat 50 pounds of fish in a day. Four hunters recently killed several hundred sea lions in one day off Charlotte Islands.—Selenitic American.

"Lotus Eaters."

Few flowers have been more identified with the world's history than the mysterious lotus of Egypt. The phrase "lotus eaters" is a common one in literature, and is used to describe those who live in a dream world. The food made from the dried seeds of the Egyptian variety seems to have had an effect similar to various opium products, and once in the clutch of the drug the lotus eaters forgot both past and family, and went mooning about, oblivious of demands made by society, kin, or even their own physical wants.

Even Jones' Rich Cargo.

A diver was sent down recently at New York to locate a case of machinery that had fallen into the river. As soon as he reached the bottom he signaled that he wished to come up. When his helmet was removed, the first thing he said was, "What's the number of the case?" There were so many cases at the bottom that he didn't know which one he belonged to his employers. The amount of cargo that is lost in loading and unloading ships is enormous.—Popular Science Monthly.

Mosquitoes Dislike Swamps.

Recent experiments prove that, contrary to the general belief, mosquitoes do not thrive and multiply in foul, stagnant water. In fact, mosquito larvae actually lose vigor and die when surrounded by decomposed vegetation. Whether this is due to bacterial action on the larvae or to an excess of injurious food is not ascertained. The fact has been ascertained that, at any rate, swamps are not guilty of encouraging mosquitoes, and clearing these swamps does harm.—Popular Science Monthly.

State News.

Fritz Meyers, 55 years old, farmer, lower end of Bracken county, and his four sons, Andy, 28, Omar, 21, Corlie, 20, and Ray, 18, have been arrested on a joint charge of arson and assault and battery. On Christmas night a stock and feed barn belonging to Wilford E. Cooper was destroyed by fire, together with three cows, two horses, twenty-five tons of hay and farming implements. Captain Mulliken, of Lexington, with his bloodhounds, picked up a trail, the dogs going directly to the home of Fritz Meyers, and then to the home of his married son, Andy. The Meyers deny having anything to do with the burning of the barn but admit that they had a personal encounter with Al Taylor, a relative of Cooper. The Meyers and Cooper families are neighbors and had feeling was caused when Andy and Omar Meyers each brought suit against John Taylor, a close relative of Mr. Cooper, for $10,000 alleging that Taylor slandered them when he accused them of stealing a hoe. Mr. Meyers and his four sons were placed in the county jail in default of $5,000 each, and will be given an examining trial. There is much feeling in the lower end of the county against the accused men, although there is no danger of mob violence now. The Franklin county grand jury in a report criticized the discipline at the reformatory and stated that "smoking seems to be permitted in all departments of the prison, and we believe it will eventually lead to a burning of the State's property if it is not stopped." Supt. William Meyer, when his attention was called to the report, said, "No smoking is allowed in any of the shops." The grand jury also referred to "complaints of the great number of trustees who are permitted to be on the streets of Frankfort." The superintendent said they are not permitted to be on the streets. This action was brought to the attention of Joseph P. Ryker, Commissioner of Public Institutions before Superintendent Meyer was appointed last summer, and Mr. Ryker said the practice of allowing trustees up town was stopped. "In our judgment," the grand

THE TOBACCO MARKET.

The tobacco sales opened at the Farmers' Warehouse, Walton, last Monday. There was a large crowd of growers present and all seemed satisfied with the prices. Good tobacco sold well but there was no market for common grades. The growers offered, and about 8,000 lbs. were rejected, leaving about 135,000 lbs. that were sold for $25.00 to $31.77. An average of $18.15 per 100 pounds. Bales were held at the old house Wednesday.

The sales at Lexington showed no improvement. The average per 100 pounds at the different Lexington warehouses follows:

Headley No. 2	$11.90
New Fayette	$15.16
Big Tatterstalls	$14.00
Independent	$15.00

The average at Paris was $13.30. The sales at Carrollton were stopped by the growers. At Covington, where a lot of bad tobacco was offered, had a low average. 107,000 pounds were offered with rejections amounting to $2,195. The sales produced $13,044.56, representing an average of $13.39. An unusually fine crop belonging to E. B. Smith, of Hebron, sold for $33.87.

At Maysville the buyers for the "Big Four" would not bid on the low grades. Good tobacco brought fair prices. No sales were made at Cynthia on account of a dispute between LeBus & Son and the Independent as to which one was entitled to the first sale. The 1920 crop will have to be sold to the Tobacco Trust at their prices, which is below the cost of production, or held by the grower for a better market.

Oil Business Dull.
Geo. Riley, who looks after the interests of the Big Bone Oil Co. in the Warren county field, near Bowling Green, returned to his post of duty last Sunday night after having spent several days with relatives in the county. John Baldon, who had been engaged in the road department in this county for some time, returned to Warren county. Riley, and will take charge of the company's machinery, a business for which he is especially well qualified, and he and his associates will make a splendid team in keeping the company's interest in tact. Mr. Riley reports the oil business as rather quiet in the Warren county field just at present, but expects a lively time there next spring, when numerous new wells will be put down.

Their Machine Balked.
Henry Matthews and Weindell Keim, of Petersburg, were on their way home from Florence last Sunday night, where they had been calling on some young ladies when their automobile went out of commission at the Geo. Rousebridge. Being unable to revive the dead machine they walked to Burlington, where they called their friend Albert Stephens from his slumbers and borrowed his Ford and continued their journey, where they arrived about the peep of day. The boys had a strenuous night between Florence and Burlington.

"Pop" Bying Tobacco.
Pepper Smith, Bellevue veteran tobacco buyer made a tour of this territory one day last week and bought several crops of the weed, paying as high as 25 cents per pound for some. Among the crops purchased were those of Russell Smith, 18 cents, and Menter Martin, 20 cents. It is very seldom that Mr. Smith allows a season to pass without making a purchase of tobacco and he has long been classed as one of the county's best buyers.

Retail Merchants Organize.
The meeting of the Retail Merchants of Boone county, Monday was attended by fourteen merchants, all doing business in the north end of the county. They organized by electing W. H. G. Kite, President, and Edward Stott, vice-President and Ralph White Secretary and Treasurer. The merchants were in session the greater part of the day discussing questions of interest to the mercantile business.

State's Revenues.
State revenues for the calendar year 1920, according to monthly reports on the condition of the treasury, made by the State Inspector and Examiner, amounted to $1,115,988.90. This covers the period of the greatest State administration. There was a balance of $125,948 when the administration was checked in January, 1920, making a total revenue available for the year $1,141,944.90.

An Octogenarian.
The Recorder's friend of many years, L. S. Beemon, became an octogenarian last Monday and celebrated the event by sawing wood all day. Few men pass their 80th year with such health, strength and mental enjoyment as Mr. Beemon, and here is hoping that he may enjoy many more birthdays in as good condition as he now is.

A Correction.
In reporting the proceedings of the tobacco meeting in last week's Recorder the name of W. H. Eggleston was used as opposing the cut-out when the name of W. H. Eggleston should have been used. The Recorder regrets that the error was made.

Wool Brought Up.
The pooled wool of Hopkins county was sold for 30 cents per pound a few days since. Thirty-five cents had been quoted, but the market had steadily declined since the offer was made.

THE DEVIL AT WORK.

THE DEVIL KNOWS WHEN
The Printers "Devil" say that all this turmoil and unrest over the country will never cease until the growers cut out raising tobacco, so the manufacturers can't get it; when the knockers cut-out losing, and merchants refuse to sell on credit; when people cut-out joy riding, and throw away their car, then things will adjust themselves like they were before the war.

Some of the tobacco growers are hauling their tobacco from Covington and Walton back to their own barns, refusing to accept the price offered by the buyers.

Tobacco Talk.

Northwest Mo., tobacco growers disposed of the 1920 crop at a sale at Weston, Mo., today, more than 250,000 pounds bringing an average of less than 14 cents a pound. The growers said that it cost them 20 cents to 25 cents a pound to produce the crop.

The Louisville warehousemen said that the tobacco leaf sales houses closed down last week, and they expressed no intention to close, saying that the closing of tobacco leaf houses throughout Kentucky would be of great benefit to the Louisville market—or words to that effect.

Cut-out is "the order of the day" as some of the country correspondents sometimes say. The farmers have cut out tobacco, the merchants have cut out advertisements, and the Democrat has cut out extra pages. Now, we will all be happy yet if the motor cars will cut out their cut-outs.—Cynthia Democrat.

The buyers, we presume, have paid so much for tobacco and can't pay over that amount that's their side. The grower has to pay a certain amount for raising tobacco, and can't sell under that amount, that's his side. If the tobacco growers would let one season go by, without raising any tobacco, we believe that the price would rise to a level where a good living wage could be made on it.

The Blue Grass tobacco growers were fortunate in having a good crop of the weed in 1919, and received a general average of around $15.00 for it. These same growers would not listen to the hill counties' talk of a cut-out or a curtailment of the crop in 1920, but plunged headlong and blindly into producing an over-production in 1920. The extremely low prices at the opening sales on January 3rd has made "Christians" out of the Blue Grass tobacco growers and they are now ready to cut-out or do anything to get out from under the deadfall which they set themselves.

Marketing Farm Produce.

An example of the part that quality plays in a business of direct marketing of farm produce is furnished by the experience of a man in Kentucky who markets eggs, dressed poultry, meats and fruits to consumers in Nashville, Tenn.

The business was established over two years ago by obtaining a friend as the first customer. From this modest beginning the producer has obtained sufficient customers to buy all of the high-grade produce he can supply. Most of the shipments are made by parcel post.
This business is conducted on the basis of high quality with adequate returns. Customers are attracted by the fact that the producer shows in selecting a producer from whom to buy farm produce. Customers are retained by breaking the rule to supply only the best produce raised on his own farm. If, when an order is obtained, this farmer does not have produce of the highest quality, he informs the customer and states that unless otherwise instructed the produce will be shipped at the earliest possible date.

The State Tax Commission prepares the questions and they are mailed to the County Attorney, B. H. Tiley, who will hold the examination in the court house, Monday March 14th, 1921, beginning at 8 o'clock a. m. All questions are to be answered by the applicant in his own handwriting and are to be signed by him and mailed at once to the State Tax Commission, who grade the papers and issue the certificate. The applicant will be examined upon the knowledge of the applicant's experience as an assessor, his knowledge of the revenue laws, his knowledge of the geography of Boone county, his knowledge of the industries and properties of Boone county, and his elementary training and business experience to fill the office. The foregoing examination is provided for by Section 4042 A-11 Kentucky Statutes.

Lights in Six Weeks.

The Walton town council met in regular session Friday night and made a final disposition of the remainder of the $5,000 town bonds to the Walton Bank and Trust Company, the Equitable Bank and Trust Company, having arranged previously to take the other $5,000 of bonds. Carl J. Kiefer, mechanical and electrical engineer, in the employ of the Reliance Engineering Co. of Cincinnati, is here making a survey of the plant and outlining the needs of the plant which will be advertised next week in the columns of the Advertiser, and bids asked for, from specifications set forth. There will be several bids to be bid on separately so it is not expected to put the whole matter in one general bid. The town council, ably assisted by Town Attorney Jno. L. Vest, have worked hard to get the best features of an up-to-date light plant, one that will not only be very efficient but economical as well, and it is anticipated that the cost of operating same will be far below what it cost to operate the old plants in the past. The council expects to have the plant in operation in about six weeks—Walton Advertiser.

Big Banquet at Aurora.

A big banquet will be one of the principal features of the Aurora Farmers Short Course. The purpose of this banquet is five fold, namely, to enjoy first class music and other entertainment, to better the acquaintance between the farmers and the city or town business men, to listen to the educational addresses and to enjoy a first class dinner. All these ideas could be summed up in the phrase, "A good, big, profitable time for all." The farmers will have an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with those from all parts of the county. The farmer and the town business man will have an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted. This will be the biggest and best banquet ever held in Dearborn county and no farmer or business man can afford to miss this opportunity. The banquet will be Jan. 25, 6:30 p. m.

Harry T. Hartwell, of Mobile, Ala., was defeated in his race for Congressman in the First District. According to his statement, filed with the secretary of State, his expenditure of money was the least of all his statement shows: "I lost six months and 10 days canvassing, lost 1000 hours sleep worrying over the result of the election, lost 20 pounds of flesh, kissed 500 babies, kissed 100 kith and friends, put up 10 stoves, cut 5 cords of wood, carried 50 buckets of water, walked 150 miles, shook hands 20,000 times and talked enough to fill one month's issue of the New York World, baptised four different infants, made love to nine grass widows, got dog bitten times, then got defeated."

Pendleton County.

Three rows of tobacco was sold at the Burley tobacco warehouse last week. It was reported to us by the management of the house that the growers accepted the price on 2,000 pounds and the remainder was rejected. The average price or that which was actually sold was $24.53 per hundred pounds.

A Pendleton county wag who has a large crop of tobacco received a letter the other day that he was not excited over the tobacco situation. He says that if the market closes and a cut-out is ordered for 1921 he will vote with the women in 1922 for prohibition of tobacco, and this will give him the opportunity to bootleg his crop at ten times the present price.

J. J. and Walter Austin, produce merchants of this city, sent to Cincinnati Wednesday by truck 5,000 dozen eggs which were bought in three days. Eggs are more plentiful this January than during any previous winter month in years. The old hens seem to know that they have to get busy and help out while tobacco is selling so low.

We tobacco growers have been going to tobacco for the past two years by biting off more than we could chew. By over-producing, especially of non-descript old, and now we are about to get it in the neck, like the chicken got the ax. Last year we had a surplus, but the factories did not want, so by the way, the speculators picked it up, so it is still a drag on the market. Mr. B. is making a hard fight for a big profit by hoodwinking the farmers into a complete cut-out, then they will be able to dump at a big profit. Most folks can be fooled some times, and we are afraid that this is one of them. In our opinion the sensible and most reasonable way would be to curtail the crop at least one-half and then hold for a fair price. It can be done with more profit and less hardship than a cut-out entirely, and a vast majority will acknowledge the fact if they will only use that portion of the anatomy called the brain. So we are hoping that if the cut-out prevails that it will follow suit with John Hancock and never return. The two are a little related, anyway. So if we don't want it, cut it out; but if folks enjoy the use of it, let them have it, don't be hogs. It behooves the folks that make their living by the sweat of the brow to not be led about by the lads that spit over a white collar daily. So, farmers, be quiet; don't lose your heads, and learn to attend to your own business.

Here's what it costs to operate a "Tin Lizzie." Valuing the Ford at $500, the taxes on it are as follows: War tax, $22.50. State horse-power tax, $13.50. State county and school taxes, $7.50. Total $43.50. The tax upon a team of mules worth $500 is $7.00. You can enjoy the use of it, let them have it, don't be hogs. It behooves the folks that make their living by the sweat of the brow to not be led about by the lads that spit over a white collar daily. So, farmers, be quiet; don't lose your heads, and learn to attend to your own business.

Take Your County Paper.

WISE & OTHERWISE

A Combination of Sense, Nonsense, News, Etc.

An Englishman advises picking a wife by her walk. Some prefer judging by her talk. A young man is attracted by her looks, but, regardless of walk, talk or looks, a good cook can nail an old widower any time.

If the magistrates in this county were not afraid that some other magistrate would get a little more money for his district for the working of the roads than he did, there would be more work done.

And by-the-way, who was the gink who restricted the shooting of rabbits? Surely he was someone who was unfamiliar with the destructive power of Mr. Hare, for about this time of year young orchards, etc., suffer greatly from his depredations.

Few intelligent people in this day and generation have sympathy with the man who says that the world owes him a living, but much more of the world in support of the dictum that society owes to the man who is willing to work opportunities for continuous employment.

There are thousands of boys today who would grow in splendid type of manhood if they were obliged to get out into active business life instead of being indulged by parents with an automobile and too much spending money. Such as these are nothing more or less than parasites. They are supported by every one who works, for if every body did likewise there would be nothing produced.

If every man and woman would cast off their bondage of unappiness and envy and determine to rise out of their present environment by diligent study and application of efficiency methods so as to earn for themselves whatever things they desired—I say we would then have a nation of robbers, men and women not contented by pity and leaders to incite strife that brings misery upon themselves and thousands of innocent people.

GARROLL COUNTY.

Owners of dogs have taken out 556 license tags.

County Clerk Wm. Deatherage has issued so far, Auto licenses on cars, 112; trucks, 22; dealers, 4. Up to Saturday $3,247.85 was received from this source.

The big Hudson speedster car of Logan Gaines was burned while enroute from his home above town last Friday evening, but no one suffered any burns, though Mrs. Gaines clothing was scorched. The tank had five gallons of gasoline in it, but it did not explode.

The Volstead law is now a good thing for Carroll county boys, five being employed at the wrecked distillery plants at a wage of $145 a month each, and another Carroll man in Covington at the same salary, making $870 per month for these four Carrollians and two Ghent people.

From expressions of the pessimists one is led to believe that tobacco growers are on the verge of starvation, and that unless they sell the present crop at once the doors of the county infirmaries are yawning for the grover and his family. To harbor any such thought is a sin. Tobacco growers, even of the tenant class, have more money, more clothes, more to eat, even more to sell, than ever before in their lives. Don't suppose for one moment that because of the tobacco crisis that all business houses will close their doors. A little fright of this variety is not unusual, and it could have been averted by a more judicious handling of the tobacco problem. The tobacco problem will be solved by the wisest and safest heads in the country, and will end well. In the mean time the grover will keep on buying and living well.

Chicago — A petition protesting against the employment of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis as national base ball commissioner has been prepared by Thos. J. Sutherland, a Chicago lawyer, and sent to members of Congress from Illinois. It was learned today, Muskegon, Mich.—After several practice shots at the family cat Irving Morton, of Muskegon, Mich. fired his wife and became his target and spent thirty minutes in firing 12 shots into her body. Then he turned the rifle on himself and fired once, dying instantly.

This action, made public conforms with the Rev. Mr. Etten's New Year's sermon, when, in a review of the times, he paid much attention to evening gowns worn by women.

He commented on "the lack of decorum often manifested" and said that some of the gowns did not conform with the sacred character of marriage.

CLEMENCY

Is Denied By The President-- To Remain In Prison For The Present.

Washington — President Wilson has denied the applications for pardons of Henry Feltman, Henry Kruse and Ben Schoborg, of Covington, Ky., who are serving prison sentences in the Federal penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., for violations of the espionage law. The papers were sent back from the White House to the Department of Justice. This means that there will be no hope of clemency while the present Administration is in power. It is expected that there will be a renewal of the effort to obtain pardons for the men under the new Administration.

NOTICE TO GROWERS.

At a meeting of the County delegates at Lexington, Ky., of Burley Tobacco Growers definite action was taken on the formation of a permanent organization and a committee of five was selected to draft resolutions and by-laws. Abe Retnick, Clark county, Harry Hartke, Kenton county, E. A. Brooks, Mason county, N. V. Bacon, Clermont county, Ohio, E. O. Meeks, Carroll county, were selected members of this committee. This committee has invited to confer with them the Marketing Department of the College of Agriculture, State Farm Bureau Federation, Farmers Union, Grange and other organizations. This meeting will be held at the Lafayette Hotel, Lexington, Thursday, Jan. 20th. A meeting of all county delegates will meet at the same place at 11:00 a. m. Friday, January 21st, and every county delegate is urged to be present.

The delegates of the Burley Tobacco growers in session at the Lafayette Hotel strongly recommend to the owners of tobacco crops now on hand to withhold the same from the present low markets. They also adopted the following form of pledge for a cut-out in 1921 and it will be circulated over the whole White Burley district of the states therein named for signatures of the growers. The pledge so recommended is in the following form:

Whereas, it is desirable to cut-out the tobacco crop of 1921, now this form of pledge and all copies thereof shall be considered as one instrument of writing and one agreement and the undersigned subscriber binds himself to every other subscriber of this form of pledge that he will not grow or permit to be grown on his land or any land under his control, any tobacco in 1921.

But this pledge shall not be binding unless at least 75 per cent of the growers of the White Burley District of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia sign this pledge or copies by March 1, 1921.

FOOD SUPPLY.

Only one third of the world's potential food producing area is under cultivation, and the crops raised on that third, thanks to agricultural science, can yield increasing yearly results.

The United States has but 400,000,000 of its 335,000,000 acres of land under cultivation, yet we raise, among other things, one sixth of the world's corn supply and could raise enough on land that is now lying unproductive to meet the needs of Europe.

Russia produces only 10 bushels of corn to the acre, but when science has access to her millions of acres and brings their capacity up to the standard, say of English farms, then she alone will be able to supply the world's cereal needs, with the exception of maize and rice.

Less than a third of the earth's population gets what we call three square meals a day, nevertheless the working capabilities of the world from our point of view, underfed continents of Asia and Africa will compare quite well with either Europe or America. The average meat consumption of the world is 30 pounds a head, yet both the Americans and Australians eat nearer 100 pounds per head, and the Englishman is not far behind with about 130 pounds.

It is evident we can tighten our belts a hole or two yet without any undue danger of starvation.

Joe Walton and family, of Combsbury, spent the day Sunday, very pleasantly, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert White.

ENGLAND HAS A NEW CLASS

"New Poor" Is the Problem There Now—Humdrumness of Life Is Their Tragedy.

England has no nouveau riche—the "new poor" is the class most referred to in England today, according to Miss Clarissa Spencer who has just returned from London as representative of the overseas department of the Y. W. C. A. In addition to England Miss Spencer visited European countries to further the work of the Y. W. C. A. in explaining their peoples one to the other through the medium of their women.

"Not starvation, nor homelessness, but the humdrumness of life is the tragedy of a great portion of English young women," Miss Spencer says. "Young men are few."

"For most of the girls who had been engaged to be married and for many who had just married at the opening of the war, life now holds little but the long years ahead. Some of them, of course, will marry. But many more will have the endless succession of days, each the same color as the last."

Few English girls are idle. Most of them earn their living now. What has struck Miss Spencer so forcibly is that work, food and shelter become meaningless to the vast number of England's girls who no longer look ahead to homes of their own.

Miss Spencer believes that not so many English girls are coming to this country as are going to England's own colonies.

TELESCOPIC CAMERA IN ANDES

Largest Photographic Apparatus in the World Has 24-inch Lens.

The South American station of Harvard university's observatory, tucked away in the Peruvian Andes, near the city of Arequipa, in the old Inca empire, boasts of the largest photographic apparatus in the world. It is a huge telescopic camera with a 24-inch lens which has been of great aid to science in its observations of the southern skies.

The station was founded 30 years ago, and is located near the base of the famous Andean volcano, Misti. The Arecapuan Indians, descendants of the Inca civilization, frequently speak of themselves as the sons and daughters of old Misti. It is said the Indians in the surrounding country still worship the mountain with much reverence, regarding it as the source of earthquakes which often are felt in the region. The volcano erupted seven years ago.

Superstitions in regard to the mountain date back to prehistoric times. The ruins of the ancient pagan temples, a writer says, have been found in the crater of the volcano, and even today near the top may be seen a great iron cross, placed there in 1877, when a party of Spanish priests exorcised and pleaded with it not to erupt again and destroy their cities.

The clear atmosphere of the Arecapuan region is said to have afforded an excellent site for an observing station.

German "Booby Traps."

At the start of the reconstruction work in the devastated coal region about Louisa, Andover, Mich., taught by several disasters that the retreating Germans, before flooding mines, had concealed along the walls unnumbered "booby traps," says Popular Mechanics. Consequently, in order that the divers, charged with preliminary inspections, may "look before they leap," the government recently purchased from England an interesting apparatus for submarine photography. Lowered down the flooded shaft, this apparatus illuminates a ten-foot zone; then, as switches are pressed at the mouth of the shaft, it photographs simultaneously each of the four walls.

The Best Thing He Did. A melancholy looking man entered the establishment of a photographer. "I should like to have a picture of myself weeping beside my wife's grave," he explained.

"I fear I have not the necessary accessories here," said the photographer. Then he added facetiously, "Couldn't we arrange to have the portrait made at the grave itself?"

"No," said the man; "that's to New York state. It would be too expensive to go there. Just you fix up some kind of a grave here in the shop. I'll weep on that. It's no trouble for me to weep anywhere." Everybody's Magazine.

Revised Version. Little Red had been to Sabbath school by himself. When he returned his mother tried, rather unsuccessfully, to tell what he had learned. But all she could elicit was much questioning that his teacher said Jesus was going to send him a quilt. That he insisted, said they all learned. When mother consulted the Sunday school quarterly, she found the golden text for the day was: "Behold, I send you the Comforter."

Washing Machine Activity. Next to the automobile manufacturers, the makers of washing machines are now the greatest consumers of copper. The utility companies, which in normal times are large users of copper, cannot buy much now because they can't get the money. But washing machines are being turned out by thousands in an effort to meet the shortage of labor, and copper enters largely into the construction of most of the washing machine.

GOOD CONTAINERS OF HIGHEST IMPORTANCE

Those With Handles Are Not Likely to be Changed.

Bamboo Baskets Serve Purpose Quite Satisfactorily and May be Used Long Time—Ordinary Splint Vessel Is Good.

One important requirement for parcel post shipping and marketing is a proper and satisfactory container, the United States Department of Agriculture points out. Sometimes the consumer can secure containers more readily and economically than the producer. Those with handles are much less likely to be damaged in transit in the mails than those which are not thus supplied and which are likely to be tossed or thrown or handled by the string or twine used in tying them. A bamboo basket serves the purpose very well and may be used a long time. Ordinary splint baskets made of strips of veneer may also be used, and if they can be secured at a price sufficiently cheap a new one for each shipment is more economical than having them returned, unless they are sent back in lots of ten or more under one cover. This, of course, necessitates using them without a wooden handle, in which case a heavy twist should be used for a handle. This twist can be utilized and the baskets nested, or placed in one another, for return shipment. If a basket with a wooden handle is used, care should be taken to see that it is securely nailed, not only at the rim of the basket but further down toward the bottom, so as to prevent undue leverage, which may break loose the nailing.

CERTIFIED SEED IS FAVORED

Potatoes Are Treated Before Planting With Corrosive Sublimite or Formaldehyde.

Certified seed potatoes are now demanded by all good farmers. Such potatoes are grown from certified seed treated before planting with corrosive sublimite or formaldehyde. The crop gets the best of care. The fields are visited twice during the summer by the state inspector and all foreign varieties pulled out. At harvest they are carefully assorted, only sound stock true to name being packed. After each bag is inspected to make sure that it is true to type and not mixed with other varieties, it is tagged with the state label. Wisconsin, Maine, Minnesota and New York state potato growers are doing an increasing business raising certified seed.

HOGGING OFF CORN IN FAVOR

North Dakota College Secured Return of $45.54 Per Acre by Using Herd of Shotes.

While corn usually is considered not as a money crop but one to clean up the land, yet the North Dakota Agricultural college received a return of $45.54 per acre by using 48 shotes to hog off 18 acres of flat corn in 1918, according to J. H. Sheppard of the experiment station. "The hogs were turned in the field September 6, when they averaged 100 pounds in weight, and left there until November 12, making an average gain of 94 pounds, or a gain of 281.75 pounds per acre. They were marketed at 16.31 cents, which, allowing for shrinkage, gave a return of $45.54 per acre."

USE SUNFLOWER FOR SILAGE

When Grown With Corn Yield Was Considerably Increased—Feed Value Not Impaired.

Considerable interest has developed in the past two or three years in sunflowers as a silage crop. A number of farmers in Michigan have grown sunflowers with corn, says the quarterly bulletin of the Michigan Agricultural college. They claim that the yield was considerably increased and the feeding value was not impaired. Most of them, however, said they preferred that sunflowers should not take up more than one-third of the silage material.

HANDLE SQUASH CAUTIOUSLY

Extreme Care Is Essential If They Are to Keep Well—Good Ventilation Is Needed.

Squash should be carefully handled from the field to storage if they are to keep well. Place on wooden racks in storage house one layer deep. The house should be well ventilated and have a good circulation of air.

HOME TOWN HELPS

Montreal's Experiment in Government Will Be Interesting to Many Communities in the United States.

That American cities have no monopoly in political misgovernment is shown by the record of Montreal, refers to the Pitts—th Dispatch. Twelve years ago the old-time council of 12 members from each of the 31 wards provoked a scandal and investigation that led to a reconstituting of the form of municipal government. Ever since the ward politicians have been trying to get back and to restore their discredited system, which was at first supplanted by a smaller council of 12 members per ward without authority over money matters and a body of four appointed commissioners with the mayor as the fifth. Two of the new commissioners and the mayor were soon charged with practices akin to those of the old system and the commissioners were removed and the mayor reduced to a mere figurehead, while charge of the city was given to four newly appointed commissioners, their chairman being empowered with managerial authority. The politicians naturally made the most of this imposition of an appointed city administration by the provincial government and recently the prime minister named a committee of leading Montreal citizens to draft a new charter on a representative basis. This body has now received the report from its sub-committee favoring a council of nine members elected at large, the election of a mayor by council and the appointment of a genuine expert city manager.

DETROIT VALUES ITS TREES

Newspaper Pays Tribute to Thoughtfulness of the Early Settlers Who Planted Them.

If a woman's crowning glory is her hair, a city's is its trees. Detroit is particularly fortunate in the preservation of its splendid tree-lined corridors, and it is a proof of the thoroughness and good citizenship that they saw the beauty which nature had provided, and carefully preserved it for the glory of the metropolis to come.

Imagine, for one minute, Second boulevard, or any other prominent thoroughfare of your acquaintance, stripped of its curtain of leaves and boughs! It is too harsh even to contemplate.

If you could view the city from the top of one of its tallest buildings, you would obtain an even more impressive lesson in just how much of Detroit is sheltered and enhanced by its trees.

The department of parks and boulevards declares rescue work is imperative to save the elms; it is a matter on which every citizen can unite. The work should be done, and doubtless will be done, with the indomitable and eager co-operation of every citizen.

For Detroit to permit her handsome trees to perish would be nothing less than a crime against the bounty of nature.—Detroit News.

Keep on Planting Trees.

As an asset to any place of property, a tree is not to be overestimated. The moment a tree is planted the value of a piece of property is increased. As Mr. Kennedy says to the boys, "time goes on just the same," so why not plant some trees. The tree-planting campaign that is occupying the attention of the country right now has taken on many phases, and in each of these phases the value of the property is being increased whether it be a school yard or a "Road of Remembrance," such as is being planted with memorial trees in many parts of the country. A properly planted road means better transportation to or from or between towns. That all means better business, better living conditions, and a better country.—Sheila Riddle in National Property Owner.

Preparation of Annual Lawn.

The annual lawn, which is necessary in some cases preparatory to the making of the permanent lawn, may be made by seeding with Italian rye sown either in fall or spring at the rate of two bushels per acre. When properly cared for this will make a beautiful green sward to eight weeks from seeding. It is important that this grass be cut when it has reached a height of three to four inches; otherwise the lawn will be unattractive.

Find Old Roman Tombs.

Four Roman tombs, built in the third century and containing golden objects, urns, glass work, pottery and bones, have been found in a gravel pit near Heerlen in Dutch Limburg. Many of the things are of great scientific value and further excavations are being made.

Killing Piles With Formaldehyde.

To kill flies with a solution of formalin or formaldehyde in water the method is: Put a teaspoonful of formaldehyde into a quart of a pint of water and spread in the house. This quantity is enough to kill all the flies in one room.

Getting Together

One of the biggest problems facing farmers and bankers today is that of providing ample farm credits on reasonable terms. They can solve it only by working together, says

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Our credit system is based on a 60-day paper intended to serve commercial interests with a quick turn-over. It doesn't serve the farmer, whose turn-over comes once a year. How can he be supplied with the capital he needs to run his farm business?

Because the problem of furnishing the farmer with ample credit facilities is one of such vital interest to the whole farm industry and to our national welfare, THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has many trained investigators working on the plans offered for solving the difficulties. Their articles will keep you informed on developments toward easier farm credits. For an example, next week's issue carries a story by E. V. Wilcox on financing the marketing of a major farm crop. Other competent articles are coming soon.

To make sure of getting them all, you'd better send me $1.00 today for the next 52 big issues of this dominant weekly.

Joseph Maurer Dead

Joseph Maurer died at the home of his daughter Mrs. Jas. Smith, in Bellevue, Tuesday at 1 p. m. Mr. Maurer was in his 78th year, and was born in Baden, Germany, coming to this country when he was six years of age. He was united in marriage to Rebecca Cook, who preceded him to the great beyond. To this union five children were born--Charles Maurer, John Maurer, Edward Maurer, Will Maurer and Mrs. Jas. Smith. All are living except Wm. Maurer. Mr. Maurer was one of our most respected citizens, liked by all who knew him and was at all times ready to assist others. He had been a sufferer for several years and bore his burden without a murmur. The funeral will be held Thursday, and burial will be in Bellevue cemetery by the side of his wife.

GOV. MORROW

Urges People To Unite In Putting Down Bootlegging

An appeal to the people of Kentucky "to unite to co-operate and to throw their irresistible power upon the side of law, order and decency," in putting down bootlegging and moonshining in Kentucky, is made in a proclamation issued by Governor Edwin P. Morrow. The proclamation in part is as follows: "I call upon the people of Kentucky, upon its men and women--upon the leaders of thought and conduct--to unite; to co-operate and to throw their irresistible power upon the side of law, order and decency. The will of the people of Kentucky must and shall be made superior to the purposes of an outlawed traffic. The power of the bootlegger and the moonshiner must be made to bend before the authority of the sovereign law of the Commonwealth."

A STATEMENT

From C. W. Myers, Florence, Ky.

In retiring from the General Merchandise business in Florence, Ky., I want to express my great appreciation and thanks to the many friends of Boone and Kenton counties for their kind patronage. Impotent man and the Omnipotent One

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT.—Wilt thou be made whole?—John 5:6.

"How condescending and how kind Was God's eternal Son; Our misery reached His heavenly mind And pity brought Him down."

And here at the sheep market—how fitting a place in which to show us the shepherd, seeking the sheep—no behold an example of that compassion of which Isaac Watts sang in this familiar hymn, and a pattern of the out-flowing of the Savior's grace to every needy sinner.

What brings Jesus to Jerusalem at this feast day? Not the feast itself, we may be sure, for, no longer "a feast unto Jehovah," it had degenerated into a mere "feast of the Jews," and He who had come from heaven to save and bless was outside this empty formalism. In contrast with it is the feast that He will spread for hungry hearts. No, not the feast attracts Him but wretchedness and misery. "A great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting." Oh, what a picture of the whole race.

The Pool. Bethesda, with its five porches—number of grace and redemption—with its spring of healing water, and with its very name, bears witness that God, "in wrath remembers mercy," and testifies to that mercy which accompanied the second giving of the law. But its story is one of misery. "A great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting." Oh, what a picture of the whole race.

The Patient. "The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me." And God writes it down as a part of His word, for this impotent man is making confession for all the world and describing the helplessness of every unregenerate sinner. For, "when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly." No strength had he to plunge into the water, nor money to hire carriers, and the bystanders had no mercy or sympathy. Yet, day by day he came seeking help. "While I am coming," Oh, how many are thus coming! Coming to anything and to everything except to the only Savior, seeking for something to supplement their deficiencies. And here is one that had "mighty to save," but no mere helper for those who are trying by their own efforts to help themselves. He is the Savior of sinners, the Savior of the lost, the Savior of those who look away from all self-help to Him alone. But still Bethesda is thronged and He is despised or disregarded. Oh, soul, He has come to heal and save you and your sin and impotence are your only claim upon Him.

The Physician. Yes, "The Great Physician now is near," and the moment this helplessness is confessed He turns the eyes of the poor man away from the pool and from his own impotence to have them fixed upon Himself. It is enough. To look away from all things to that Blessed One who has already done everything for you and who by His word of power raises up dead souls to live before Him and to walk forevermore in newness of life. If still the impotent man thinks of the pool as the source of healing, as so many now think of the church or ordinances or of anything and everything save Christ, he is to find, as every saved one finds, that it is the infinite word of the Savior that gives life and salvation. "Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk." And the work is done! For this is the word of a sovereign God.

One blessed word closes the story in so far as it concerns the subject of the Savior's grace. "And on the same day was the Sabbath," for His perfect work leaves the heart in perfect rest. Of old God wrought in creation, and rested. So now, in the new creation, the rest of His work is rest for the heart of the Savior and rest for the sinner who hears His word.

"As he speaks to the sufferer Who lay at the pool, He speaks to the sinner who is waiting. Wilt thou be made whole?"

A Combination of Sense; Non-sense, News, Etc.

"Why is it Sam, that one never hears of a darky committing suicide?" inquired the Northerner. "Well you see, it's a slow way. When a white pusion has any trouble, he sets down and gets to studyin' bout it an' worrin'. Then first thing you know he's done killed himself. But when a nigger sets down to think 'bout his troubles, why he jes nacherly goes to sleep."—Life.

A Topeka Kan. man provided in his will for a 20-year subscription to his favorite newspaper and directed that a copy be left each morning in the grating of the vault where he reposes. That seems unusual, but, as a matter of fact, before the Democrat went on a strictly cash-in-advance subscription basis, this great family journal was left at the door of many a man. They have to will us something to get it now.—Cynthiana Democrat.

The contract was signed. A certain gentleman in Owensville contracted with his fiancée to remit $7,000 when the lady fair would become his bride. This day came when the marriage was to take place and the man inquired of his lady love why she was marrying him. Very honestly the woman informed him she wanted the dollars. He became indignant and wanted to call it off. She already had his money and offered to give him $1,000 to stop where they were.

He took the thousand and is now suing the lady for $6,000 for not keeping her contract.—Bowling Green News.

A celebrated revivalist came to address his flock and before he began to speak the pastor said: "Brother Jones, before you begin this discourse there are some powerful bad negroes in this here congregation, and I want to pray for you," which he did in this fashion:

"O, Lord, give Brother Jones the eye of an eagle, that he may see sin from afar. Glue his ear to the gospel, to telephone, and connect him with the central skies. Illuminate his brow with the brightness that will make the fires of hell look like a talloxy candle. Nail his hands to the gospel plow, and bow his head in some lonesome valley where prayer is much wanted to be said, and anoint him all over with the anointment, all of the salvation and set him afire."—Pickup.

I am the Telephone. When I am not broke, I am in the hands of a receiver. I have a mouthe-piece, but, unlike women, I never use it. Fellows use me to make dates with girls, and girls use me to break said dates. Husbands call up their wives over me and wives call their husbands down over me. In ever go anywhere, but some times the company comes and takes me out—it all depends on whether you pay your bill or not.

I am not a bee, but I often buzz in your ear. I am the bell of the town and while I do not wear jewelry I often get rings. Whether I do things or not, I do of people nail me to the wall. I like music, but the only kind I ever hear is chin music—I got all the popular airs, and the most popular one is HOT AIR.

Pendleton County.

G. W. Carter, well-known farmer residing on the Carpenter farm, on the Harrods Creek pike, has a freak pig that was born on Dec. 14th, at Vanceburg. The pig has four fully developed ears, the two outer ears being located just below the regular ears, and are but a trifle smaller in size.

A great deal of complaint has been registered in Pendleton county recently of dogs being stolen. A number of these dogs have been traced by their owners to men who seem to be making a living stealing dogs and selling them. It is just as much a violation of the law to steal a dog as it is to steal a cow, a sheep or a hog. Dogs are valuable now, and those who have been imposed upon by these thieves are going to resort to the law against the offenders.

When John Smith, 69, recluse, sought admittance to the Ashland county poor farm, he was told he could enter but could not bring his dog, which had been his only companion for years. Later Mr. Smith's body was found beside that of his dog in a lonely shack in the woods. His hand still gripped the gun that had ended their lives.

Out in the State.

Lexington—Four Kentucky boys and one girl have been named 1920 champions in the various lines of junior club work and will each receive a handsome silver cup as a result of a summary of the past year's work which has just been completed, according to a statement issued by C. W. Buckler, state leader of the junior club work for Kentucky.

Frankfort.—State Treasurer J. A. Wallace called in school warrants worth $511,948.72 issued prior to September 11, 1920, and 67,000 warrants, issue 1 between May 1, 1919, and October 30, 1919, amounting to $2,000,000.

Two airplanes passed over the town last Monday about 11 a. m. They were traveling due north and were flying quite a distance above the clouds.

THE DEVIL KNOWS

As the devil sat in his easy chair, trying to write the news, the grouch came in sat down by the stove with mud all over his shoes; he criticized everybody, of fields, merchants and teachers, he kicked about the town, churches and preachers; he rapped everything in and out of sight, and when he went out the door, the devil said, g-o-o-d night.

Permanent Officers Elected.

Lexington — Permanent officers of the Burley Tobacco Growers, Incorporated, were elected at a meeting of county committeemen in the Lafayette Hotel, Acting President Frank McKee, Versailles, who called the meeting to order, resigned, saying illness in his family kept him from serving.

The new officers are: J. N. Knoe, Mayville, President; Judge Henry Prewitz, of Mt. Sterling, Vice President; E. L. Harrison, Lexington, Secretary-Treasurer.

A resolution was passed which read as follows:

"In view of the falling market and lack of support of the buying interests, and the failure of warehouses to bring about a satisfactory price, as proposed by the big four, we, the Burley Tobacco Growers, Incorporated, stand for a complete cut-out of the 1921 crop and hold the remainder of the crop until satisfactory prices can be determined and we request co-operation of the warehouses with this in view.

"pledges have been prepared and will be sent to the county committeemen representing the association in 40 principal burley-growing counties of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee. This pledge must be signed by 75 per cent of the growers by March 1, to make the cut-out effective. A resolution was passed urging that the caper Volstead bill be passed as originally passed by the House and not as amended by the Senate."

Germany May Help Tobacco Men in This State.

The German government may relieve the Kentucky farmers of a large part of their low grade tobacco.

Representatives of the Kentucky growers have been in conference at New York this week with a spokesman of the German government, which wishes to bid for a large order of Kentucky low grade tobacco.

If the German government gets possession of this tobacco it will control it as a government monopoly and will sell it to German subjects.

The depreciation of the German mark is the greatest obstacle in the way of working out the transaction along practical lines. Representative Cantrell, who was called to New York to give advice concerning the matter, declines to talk for publication at this time.

To Assist in Marketing Tobacco

The Bureau of Masters United States Department of Agriculture, announced that its regulations for the warehousing of tobacco under the Federal warehouse act are in the hands of the printer and will soon be ready for general distribution. In this connection its specialists will begin investigating for the purpose of establishing a tobacco grades as a basis for aiding growers and warehousemen in the proper marketing of tobacco. Under the present system of selling by private contracts on the farm or by auction in warehouses, they can have no standard for fixing prices. It is declared. The bureau states that 300 applications for warehouse licenses have been received. The act provides for negotiable warehouse receipts on which loans can be made. It is pointed out that tobacco ranks fourth among the crops of the United States, that the tobacco crop is worth more than a billion dollars a year and yields a revenue of $36,000,000 a year to the Government.

Reports from Lexington state that masked men, heavily armed, dashed thru portions of Bath and Fleming counties on horse back Sunday morning and warned tobacco growers to haul no more tobacco to Carlisle and Flemingsburg markets.

The "night riders" threatened violence if the farmers disobeyed their orders and demanded that no preparations be made for planting burley tobacco this year.

CARE OF HARNESS IS OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Wash Thoroughly With Soap and Water Before Oiling.

It Will Last Longer if Kept Clean and is Less Liable to Cause Sores on Horses—Collars Should Be Examined Often.

Harness should be kept clean and well oiled. It will then be less liable to cause sores on the horses and will last longer. Before the harness is oiled it should be taken apart and thoroughly washed with soap and water. When nearly dry apply neat-foot oil with a sponge or a woolen rag. Do not hang harness in heat or in the sun to dry. A tablespoonful of lampblack with two ounces of melted beeswax may be added to the oil for a black dressing. Fish oil may be used on harness, or prepared oils may be secured at harness shops. All parts of the harness should be strong. Every horse should have its own collar, which should fit snugly to the neck from top to bottom. Most sore necks are caused by large collars or by draught being too low on the point of the shoulder. To fit a new or an old collar to a horse soak the collar over night in water, wipe it off in the morning, and fit it on the horse. Work moderately through the day. The collars should be examined every morning and the bearing surface kept clean and smooth. The horse's neck should be kept clean. A good plan in hot weather is to wash it every night with a weak solution of salt water. Keep the collar and hames buckled tight. Before hitching to a wagon be sure that the neck yoke is safe and that the traces will not become unstuffed.

DEVICE TO DESTROY STUMPS

Burner Made of Sheet Metal Has Been Tested and Found Practical—Easily Operated.

The use of dynamite to draw tree stumps from the ground may be substituted by a new device recently invented which does not break up the ground. This invention to burn out the tree stumps has been tested and proved practical. The burner is made of black sheet metal in three sections. It is operated by placing the bottom section over the stump and igniting the stump at the base. The top sections are then connected and the burner will do its work. According to the inventor, thirty burners a day can be operated by one man, each burner obliterating three or four stumps.

SUPPLY OF EGGS INCREASED

Animal Food Essential to Diet of Fowl Must Be Supplied in Winter as Well as Summer.

A bone cutter is an important part of the equipment for every farm poultry department. In summer when the fowls can range over the farm they can supply for themselves the animal food so essential to their diet. But in winter the supply of eggs will be greatly increased if attention is given to this part of the fowl's ration.

INJURY BY MITES AND LICE

Pests Sap Vitality of Fowls and Prevent Growth or Lessen Production of Eggs.

Mites and lice frequently sap the vitality of the fowl and prevent growth or lessen the egg production. A thorough cleaning of the house, regular applications of disinfectants to the roosts and nests, and a frequent dusting of the fowls will control these pests.

FOWLS IN WINTER QUARTERS

No Sudden Change in Feeding Should Be Made for Pullets After They Are Once Moved.

All early hatched pullets should be moved to winter quarters by the middle of October and after once moved no sudden changes in feeding methods should be made. Such pullets if properly housed, should yield a satisfactory

Do We Close the Factory

Fifty-one per cent of the population of the United States live in cities.

Thirty per cent of our population grow crops and raise stock and furnish the necessities to feed and clothe not only those upon the farm but all the rest.

On the farm but all the rest. The farms are the factories where all of this is produced and the population is increasing, the demand for produce is increasing, one short crop and then the rush for produce.

Are you going to close down the factories Mr. Farmer and not be prepared for the shortage? Now is the time to build up your land and improve your output.

You have plenty of food, the nation is short on live stock and farm and field seeds, and improved soil will grow better yields and fiercer stock.

The farmer who quits now will find next season that he made a mistake. Keep the factory going, grow a variety of stock and crops and the world cannot conquer you.—Owen Co. Democrat.

New comes from Lexington, Va., that Owen B. (Pet) Hise, of Richmond, a student in senior law class of Washington and Lee University, was elected captain of the Georgia 1921 law team at the last meeting of the base ball organization met "Pet" as he is known in college played third base on the Georgia team last year and is considered one of the best third basemen Washington and Lee ever had. Hise is doing fine work in the law school as well as in his law team and is very popular among his fellow students.—Richmond Register.

The tobacco sales at the Farmers House, Walton, last Monday were the best sales made since the opening. 22,000 pounds were offered, 1,900 pounds were rejected, leaving a net sale of 90,000 pounds, which brought $20,322.50, an average of $2.24. The sales at the old house last Saturday, were lower than the above average, but a very inferior lot of tobacco was offered. Tobacco is bringing higher prices over the two warehouse floors at Walton than at any other place in the State.

Cards were printed in this office last week for Chas. Maurer, announcing him as a candidate for Sheriff at the August 1921 primary.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The things that never happen are often as much realities to us in their effects as those that are accomplished.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

Fish is so good stuffed and baked that it should make its appearance served with stuff often upon the family table.

Baked Stuffed Fish.—Either salt or fresh water may be used, whole fish or steaks can be used.

When the silvers fish is used the stuffing is placed between the slices with strips of salt pork above. The fish may be filled, sewed and wrapped in strips of bacon before putting in to roast. When the bacon has become crisp, remove it, cover the fish with cracker crumbs and brown in a quick oven.

Choice Dressing for Baked Fish.—Chop the one slice of onion and half a green pepper, let cook in two tablespoonfuls of fat until soft, add one-fourth of a pound of fresh mushrooms, and let them cook three minutes; add a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of sweet basil, a scant half-teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of soft bread crumbs and one-third of a cupful of melted shortening; mix well and stuff the fish.

Ragout of Venison With Sweet Potato Border.—Any portion of the venison may be used, but steaks from the upper portion of the round are usually selected. Cut the steak in small pieces, roll in flour and cook in hot fat until slightly browned on both sides. Add broth from the trimmings and bones of the venison, or simply add boiling water, let simmer about an hour or until tender. For each pint of liquid add one-fourth of a cupful of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of paprika; stir these with cold water or beer to a smooth consistency; add to the dish of meat and stir until boiling; cover and simmer ten minutes. Have ready baked or boiled sweet potatoes; press them through a ricer; add salt, butter and a little hot milk; beat thoroughly over the fire. With a pastry tube pipe in a ring around a hot serving dish. Turn the ragout into the center of the ring and set cooked prunes in groups of three as a garnish around the potato. Serve the prunes with the potato and ragout.

One may wish for a return of Eden. Washing will not change the scheme of the universe. Men must sweat or die. One may, at his pleasure, change the nature of his life. This is a free country. But tell me must he if he would live. In sweat is salvation from all economic ills. There is no other.—The Saturday Evening Post.

WINTER GOODIES.

Cakes and cookies which will keep, are in great demand during the winter months. The following are a few of the good ones:

Molasses Drop Cookies.—Take one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of sour milk, one egg, one teaspoonful of soda, two cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of raisins or currants, and cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger for spices. Mix and set away to bake the following day. Drop by spoonfuls on baking sheets and bake in a quick oven.

Date Cake.—Take one cupful each of sugar and dates, one cupful of boiling water, one teaspoonful of soda, two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one-half cupful of walnut meats. Pour the boiling water over the seeded dates, add the soda. Mix the other ingredients as usual and bake in a quick oven with one-half cupful of brown sugar boiled to either until creamy. A half-cupful of hickory-nut meats added to the frosting improves it, and the nuts in the cake may be omitted when they are used in the frosting.

Spice Nut Bars.—Take four eggs, two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of blanched almonds, one cupful of fruit jam, four cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful each of cloves, allspice, ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon; the grated rind of one lemon, one orange and one square of melted chocolate. Beat in egg whites in whipping pan. Bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes. Remove from the pan and slice when cool in finger-sized strips. Store in a tight tin box.

The official method for preventing or stopping the hicoughs has been announced by the Medical Society of French Hospitals.

It is the simplest thing in the world. Even a child can operate it. Here is all there is to it as put by the famous French doctors:

Place the index finger on the
fractions of an inch above the middle clavicle. Then press carefully the fifth cervical nerve, whereupon the hicoughs will cease.

F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, has just returned from an inspection of Legion posts in a number of Illinois cities. The itinerary included Chicago, Springfield, Decatur, Aurora, Rockford and Moline. At Springfield, the National Commander was greeted by Gov. Len Small. A pilgrimage was made to Lincoln tomb where Col. Galbraith placed a wreath. The National Commander also inspected several Illinois hospitals which lodge veterans of the World War. He was accompanied on the trip by William R. McCaulley, Department Commander, and William C. Schliffe, Department Adjutant.

Although the law allowing convicts in the state prisons 10 cents a day for their work has been in effect only about three weeks, the effect already has been to increase the volume and quality of work turned out, according to
W. H. Moyer, Sup't. of the Kentucky State Reformatory. "Foremen representing the contractors have stated that the law already is having a good effect on the men. They are paying better attention to their work and the quality and quantity of the output already has been greatly increased."

"The men realize that on their behavior and the quality of their work depends how much money they earn, for if they fail to do the right thing their pay is cut to as low as five cents a day."

New Use for Wood Pulp Waste.
By carrying a step further the process of recovering sulphite spirit from the waste of wood pulp factories, by evaporation, it has been discovered that a new and valuable fuel may be produced, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The process precipitates the organic contents of the lye in the form of powdered coal.

The Right Start

The right start counts for a lot with chickens.
Often it spells the difference between profitable success and expensive failure. Professor Harry R. Lewis, head of the New Jersey Poultry Experiment Station, will tell you how to get the right start in coming issues of

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

In a remarkable series of fifteen penetrating articles he will characterize, one by one, the major poultry breeds and will point the way to bigger profits with each.

Successful poultrymen say that
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is more helpful to them than the exclusive poultry journals.
In a single year it prints the equivalent of more than 650 book pages on poultry alone-- top-notch material, all of it, by such authorities as Victor G.
Aubry, James Dryden and Raston R. Hannas. And that is only one department of an all-round farm service that offers concrete help with every problem of your farm business. A whole year of this service--52 great issues--costs but $1. If you send me your check or a dollar bill today, I'll see that your subscription starts next week.

Women with small feet may be said to be thankful for the little things.

Howard Aylor, of the East Bend bottoms, was the guest of his uncle, Ed. Rice and wife, one night last week.

A Deputy Collector will be at the court house in Burlington, Ky., February 18th and 19th, to assist in making out your income reports.

Rev. R. C. McNeely, of Patriot, Indiana, was in Burlington last Saturday morning, and while in town called and ordered the Recorder sent to him at his new home.

W. M. Aylor, of Grant R. D. sends us $1.50 for more Recorder. Mr. Aylor is one of the county's young and progressive farmers, and may he and his family enjoy reading the Recorder many more years.

E. I. Rouse of near Hebron, while in Burlington last Saturday morning called on the Recorder and paid his dues for 1921. Mr. Rouse is a man who knows a good thing when he sees it, and has the Recorder visit his family weekly.

Localities well suited to the production of cowpeas will find it highly profitable to grow seed on a large scale, especially if the machinery for handling the crop is used, say specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Quite a number of the farmers of Burlington precinct sold their tobacco at the Walton loose leaf warehouses, last week, and considering the sales at other warehouses, are very well pleased with the prices received.

The Recorder is in receipt of a series of pictures of the Florida East Coast Overseas Railroad from Geo. E. McGlasson, of Buclittville, who is spending a few weeks with Jay Stevens and wife on their yacht, Oasis, near Key West, Florida.

Wm. Seebree of Waterloo neighborhood, called on the Recorder last Saturday and showed his subscription up another notch. Mr. Seebree is one of the county's best farmers and tobacco raisers, but says no more of the weed will be grown by him.

Miss Hattie White from out on rural route two, was a pleasant caller at this office last Friday, and left $1.50 to renew her father, C. E. White's subscription for another year. This good family have been members of our reading circle many years.

Cowpea seed more than two years old ordinarily has lost much of its viability, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Good viable seeds are uniformly bright colored, while seeds which have been exposed to moisture or are dead are duller and darker in color.

Henry Clore, one of our good friends from out on R. D. two sends us $1.50 to renew his subscription for another year. Mr. Clore is one of the RECORDER's original friends. He is a good farmer and substantial citizen, and may he and his good wife live to enjoy many more years of health and happiness.

Lawrence Kinney, who runs a dairy, one of the largest in the county, on the Dixie Highway above Florence, was a visitor to Burlington, last Friday. He renewed his subscription to the Recorder. He also bought of J. W. Goodridge, near town, a new Jersey cow and calf. Mr. Kinney is one of the county's industrious and progressive citizens and knows how to make the "mare" go.

Cowpeas hay should be substituted in the Southern states for much of the hay which is now being purchased in the North and West, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The greater use of this crop for hay and pasture increases the production of live stock, an essential factor in securing the maximum returns in any system of agriculture. It also aids much in keeping the soil in good condition and maintaining its productivity.

A Week's News.

Few persons are aware of the fact that the automatic machine was first used more than 2,000 years ago. The inventor was Haa, of Alexandria who flourished from 117 to 81 B. C. It was actually a slot machine, which in return for a coin of five drachms offered a cup of wine and was worked on similar lines to the modern slot machine.

A man in Paris has a fountain pen which he has used since 1861.

Connellsville, Pa.—Garden products with a market value of $322,000 were raised in 1920 by employees of the Frick Coke Company under the very glare of the thousands of coke ovens which dot this section of Pennsylvania. Much of this wealth came from the garden which the company provides with every house, but some workers and their families were more a bit to do a than their neighbors and "farmed" 354 additional plots which the company leased for them.

Wages of hired men on farms have been more than doubled in the last ten years, tripled in the last twenty years and were more than four times higher last year than they were in 1878. These changes are shown by statistics of the Department of Agriculture.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE

D. B. Wallace, president of the Equitable Bank and Trust Company, who has been confined to his home for the past two weeks by illness, is improving. His physician, Dr. G. C. Rankins, has advised him to take a much-needed rest and to relinquish all business cares.—Walton Advertiser.

Howe Cleek, of the Beaver Lick precinct, whose house was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, has rented of W. C. Weaver his farm on Gunpowder creek, about two miles south of Burlington, and will take possession about the first of March. Mr. Cleek is one of the county's young and progressive farmers, and a great fancier of Jersey cattle, of which he has a fine herd. We are glad to have Mr. Cleek and his most excellent family as citizens of this community.

Lloyd Weaver and Bob Popham, who put their crop of tobacco on the floor at the Covington loose leaf warehouse during the opening sales the first of last month, and on account of the low prices and the closing of the sales for a few days, brought it back home. Last week they trucked it to Walton, where it was sold last Thursday, at an average of 16 cents. Why this difference of nine cents on the pound with the same buyers at both places? This crop of the weed had been handled 8 times and only lost 50 pounds in shrinkage and waste.

The third annual meeting of the Southern Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers will be held in Lexington Feb. 14, 15 and 16, according to an announcement which has just been made by J. B. Kelley of the Farm Engineering Section of the State College of Agriculture who is chairman of the committee on local arrangements. Joint meetings have been arranged for the morning with the Association of Southern Agricultural Colleges which meets at the same time while the afternoon and evenings will be taken up with lectures by at least twelve speakers of national reputation. The afternoon of the first day will be spent in visiting points of interest in the Blue Grass Section, according to Mr. Kelley.

That Kentucky school children waste almost half of their school life by failing to attend their classes 61.7 days out of the 150 provided in the school term, there by causing the state a loss of $5,443,112 is shown by figures contained in an article written by H. R. Bronner, for School Life, an official publication of the Department of the Interior at Washington. The statistics show that Indiana children waste less than those of any other State the Hoosiers losing only 56.7 days, or 7.1 per cent of the 155-day term. The general average for the U. S. showed a total of 25.4 per cent, or 39 million dollars. The loss was attributed to the expense of providing heat, teachers buildings and supplies for children that never came to take advantage of the educational facilities. Kentucky's percentage of waste was shown to be higher than that of any other State in the union.

In order to prevent Jack from becoming a dull boy as a result of all work and no play, many hours can be spent profitably in the school room by forgetting books and lessons for a time and testing seed. Seed testing is a diversion that is as practical as it is enjoyable. It is admirably adapted for exercise work in every school room whether or not a systematic course in agriculture is given. Little equipment is necessary. A study of samples of farm seed is shown by the pupils' parents to determine the percentage of germination and the extent of impurities in the seed, offers a means of connecting the school with the home with benefits to both. Impurity tests can be made by an examination with a magnifying glass. The only apparatus necessary for germination tests of small seed consists of two plates, and a piece of blotting paper. Write to the U. S. Department of Agriculture or Farmers' Bulletin 243, "Testing Farm Seed in the Home and in the Rural School." It gives complete directions.

Christ—The Subject of All Scripture

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—Search the Scriptures, they are they which testify of me.—John 8:18.

The only absolutely true history in all the world is found within the pages of the Bible. Wherever Scripture touches history, unlike the historians of the world, it touches it with a true hand. The historians of the world are naturally unable to look at history from any but prejudiced eyes. The very perfections of their national heroes, as recorded in their writings, leave us with the impression that these were supermen and almost incapable of wrongdoing. But we know that they were men of like passions with us, however unlike they appear on the pages of the histories. But when the Holy Spirit wrote history, though it be the history of a David, He told us all the truth, and the man David stands before us as he really was. While the Bible contains the only wholly reliable history in all the world, its object is not merely to record history, but to set before the reader the person of Jesus Christ.

The only true philosophy is found recorded on the pages of the Bible. All the philosophies of the world, unable to rise higher than their source, can have no fuller message than "Man, know thyself." But because of inherent inability, man alone can never know himself nor come to the knowledge which tells him whence he came or whither he goes; he continues on his way like a ship without rudder or pilot, knowing neither the port from whence he sailed nor the harbor to which he is bound, and the reason for his being upon the sea of life at all remains an unsolved enigma to him.

But the philosophy which comes from the Bible begins by saying, "Man, know God," and then graciously proceeds to reveal God to man. In that revelation man may know both the God who speaks and himself besides. But while the Bible contains the only true philosophy in the world its object is not to give man mere philosophy, but to bring to man the knowledge of God as revealed fully in the supreme subject of Scripture, Jesus Christ.

Again, the only true moral code in the world is found within the Bible. Like the philosophies of the world, the moral codes formed by man rise no higher than himself, and have in view man's relation to man only; they do not deal with man's relation to God. But the moral code of the Bible begins with man's relation to God, followed by man's relation to man. The first and great commandment is, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart," and the second is like unto it, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" (Matt. 22:37-39). But while it contains the only complete moral code in the world, its subject is not that merely, but is Jesus Christ.

Without Christ the Bible would never have been written. He is the Key which unlocks all its mysteries; the Light that reveals all its hidden excellencies. The Bible is like the temple of which the Psalmist says, "Every whit speaks of His glory" (Psalm 19:1). Jesus said: "Ye search the Scriptures for in them ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me" (John 5:39). "Had ye believed Moses ye would have believed me, for he wrote of me" (John 5:46). "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets He expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself" (Luke 24:27). "All things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses and in the prophets and in the Psalms concerning Me" (Luke 24:44).

When "Holy men of God wrote as they were moved upon by the Holy Spirit" (2 Peter 1:21) they wrote of Jesus Christ. From the beginning to the end of the book, through the histories and the prophecies, the poetry and the Psalms, the one radiant object presented to our view in type, symbol, ceremony and prediction is the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the supreme subject of all the Scriptures, and we read our Bibles to little profit if we fail to find Him there as we study its pages. But finding Him, we will learn the truth that God would have us learn for our comfort and profit, and for our growth in grace and spiritual power. As we read the Bible, depending upon the Holy Spirit to take of the things of Christ and show them unto us (John 16:13) we will come to know, in ever-increasing blessing and delight, the Lord Jesus Christ as our Savior, Friend and Lord. As He is the supreme subject of the Bible, to know Him should be the supreme object of our Bible study.

Men seem neither to understand their riches nor their strength. Of the former they believe greater things than they are; of the latter, less than they are.

Stretched across a box in the city "watch house" while their mothers plied them with straps, three colored youths "believed" and "yelled" until Chief of Police Salvers ordered the strap wielders to declare an armistice. The punishment was given at the direction of County Judge Lancaster, who found them guilty of stealing $21 from the cash drawer of Penn & Parker, coal and feed dealers, Saturday afternoon. — Georgetown Times.

Forty shoats averaging sixty-seven pounds per head made a total gain of 2,399 pounds of pork valued at $337.09 in a sixty-day corn and soybean demonstration which was conducted this fall by W. N. McCubbin, a Taylor-co., farmer, in co-operation with County Agent J. L. Miller. The total weight of the animals when they were turned into the four-acre lot was 3,315 pounds. Neighbors of McCubbin estimated that the corn yield of the plot was 180 bushels and if no value is given the soybeans he received $1.98 per bushel for the corn, which the hog raisers estimated at $12.24 per bushel. The value of the pork produced was estimated at 12 cents a pound. Results of the demonstration show that the animals made an average daily gain of 1.24 pounds while on the corn and soybeans.—Paris Kentuckian-Citizen.

Establishing Tobacco Standard

In order to assist in placing the marketing of tobacco upon a more business-like basis, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is about to begin investigations which will lead to the establishment of tobacco grades applicable throughout the entire industry. Though tobacco ranks fourth among the crops of the United States, it turns more than $1,000,000,000 a year in agricultural wealth to the Nation, and more than $300,000,000 in annual revenue to the Government. It is marketed in a manner which producers of less important crops would regard as a short cut to financial ruin.

For this condition, the specialists of the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture, blame primarily the auction system of sales in certain sections and the private contract system in other localities. Under the former method loose piles of tobacco to be sold are placed on the floor of a warehouse and examined by the prospective buyers. The tobacco is not graded, nor does the owner have much opportunity to describe the merits of his product. The auctioneer then offers the tobacco for sale and the buyers are practically in a position to obtain the tobacco for any price they choose to pay. In the latter case the tobacco is sold privately to growers, who usually have a definite idea of market prices, to buyers who are fully informed. The sales are frequently made on the farm and confirmed by contracts that are more binding on the seller than on the buyer. The sale often is made before the tobacco is harvested. At the time of the transaction the tobacco may be so far from being in a marketable condition that the buyer is unable to determine its value, in which case the farmer usually gets what the buyer estimates to be a safe price or chooses to offer.

In a bulletin published by the Massachusetts Experiment Station it is stated that "under the contract method of sale the farmer has all to lose with no corresponding gain to the buyer or the middleman. The same statement would apply equally as well to the 'auction' system." Department specialists say.

Because of lack of grades, the tobacco producer is unable to determine if he is receiving a reasonable price for his product. There is no basis for comparison between the prices paid in one community and those paid elsewhere. Quotations of one market usually mean little to other markets, for they are not based upon recognized standards of quality.

The clock tinker is looking for people who think to have a good time.

Use Cavalry To Get Night Riders

Gov. Edwin P. Morrow, following a conference with the Adjutant General, ordered that the State's cavalry forces be made ready for immediate service against night riders. He also announced that a special court of inquiry into the night riding operations in Bath county last Sunday will be held at Owingsville, Bath county, Friday. Gov. Morrow issued a smashing warning to night riders in a long statement.

There are cavalry troops at Louisville, London, Louisville and Manchester. London and Louisville troops have horses, while the other two troops are now receiving horses.

Rewards of $500 each for capture of the night riders were offered by the Governor.

1000 Members Their Goal.

One thousand members is the goal that the Jefferson County Farm Bureau has set for itself for accomplishment this spring. The membership now is a little over the seven hundred mark and new members are being enrolled every week. Every member sign up a member is the motto the bureau is holding before its constituents.

Almost five hundred members were present at the annual meeting of the Jefferson County Bureau; the large attendance showing the interest and enthusiasm the organization has aroused in its community.

Acetylene Plant Went Wrong.

Something went wrong with the acetylene lighting plant of Bernard Rogers, of Bellevue, one day recently, when his son, Harry, went into the cellar where the plant is located, and after putting water in the generator he lighted a match for the purpose of inspecting the plant, and an explosion immediately followed. The plant was badly burned about the hands and face, but not seriously injured. The force of the explosion shook the entire dwelling.

Mr. Sterling—an old negro who brought a poor crop of tobacco last week, when his account was figured out, he had nothing for his land and was in debt to the warehouse for $1.00, which he promised to bring a chicken in payment for his debt. He was back bright and early the next morning with three fat pullets. The warehouseman said to him, "Why uncle, you just owe me a chicken and have brought three." He replied, "I know it, boss, but you see, I've got two more loads."

Many people who complain of high prices and other business difficulties, help exaggerate these conditions for everyone by their persistent buying on credit. The credit habit adds to cost of living, it ties up the country's resources, and is a drag on all business.

If every person in Boone county would pay his debts for home and personal supplies, and hereafter pay cash, it would release a lot of local money now held up in credits. The merchant who has to borrow heavily to offset the debts the public owes him, could pay off these loans. This would cut out the charge for interest and bad debts which he now has to add to the price of his goods.

But even more important, it would release many thousands of dollars to be used right around home for business enterprises, building houses, helping farmers finance their next crop. If more money were available for loans all over the country, interest rates would come down, which would reduce the important expense of production. Factories that had slowed up on account of high interest rates, could go ahead with full force.

The business disturbances of the year 1929 were due principally to a shortage of capital. There was not enough money in the country to do its business on the inflated price level. Conditions are essentially sound, since there is good banking and currency system which protects solvent business men and stocks of merchandise are not heavy. Business could go ahead with greater confidence if the people will provide the loanable capital needed for maximum production.

There are two ways for such capital to be provided. First, everyone to save money and deposit it in good banks. That is always necessary. Second, everyone to quit buying on credit and to pay cash, so as to release unnecessary loans. Considering how this would relieve difficulties and reduce business costs, it is a wonder people don't see it.

Men as well as women can help reduce the high cost of clothing. A little care on the part of the wearer will do much to preserve clothing already on hand, and thus eliminate the necessity of spending large sums frequently to replenish the wardrobe. This is brought out in a recent publication of the United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin 1083, Selection and Care of Clothing.

Immediate attention to rips, sewing on loosened buttons and hems, reworking worn buttonholes, and "preventive" darning are recommended as means of prolonging the life of a garment. The latter repair measure consists of reinforcing a worn place with rows of fine stitches or by laying a piece of cloth under it and darning it down with ravelings of the material. The heel and toes of stockings and socks especially may be treated this way before a hole is entirely worn through. Shortening sleeves or trousers a little to do away with a worn edge, or putting new cuffs and collar or new trimmings on a dress may often add months to the life of a garment.

If you wish to arise at a certain hour, make with your right foot as many marks on the floor as the hour on which you wish to wake, then go to bed backward.

To insure happy dreams burn some hazel nuts and do the ashes up in a package which you must place beneath your pillow, you will then dream sweetly.

If you wish to marry never look under the bed.

The Hindu say it is bad luck to sleep with your head to the north, but sleeping with your head to the south promotes longevity.

It is considered by some nations dangerous to sleep while thirsty, for they believe the soul leaves the body in search of water, and if the body should wake too quickly the soul might not have time to return to it, so the body would die.

In Germany the nightmare is believed to be a spirit that being which places itself upon the breast of the sleeper depriving him of the power of utterance or movement.

Cow Peas For Hogs and Cows.

At the Arkansas Agricultural Experiment Station, steers fattened on cowpea pasture and cottonseed meal made an average gain of two pounds a day for 90 days. As long as the cowpea vines were green and considerable seed was available, very little cottonseed meal was eaten. The cost per pound of gain was only two cents for the cottonseed meal, thus showing the high value of the cowpea pasture. The Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station reports that cowpeas planted in July furnished two grazing periods for milk cows before frost, and that the gain of milk was noticeably increased.

In a feeding trial at the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station it was found that pigs fed on corn alone gained 0.38 pounds daily, while hogs on cowpea pasture and corn gained 0.97 pounds daily, consuming 36 per cent less corn for each pound gained. The same station conducted a feeding experiment with pasturing for dairy cows, using an upland cornfield from which the ears had been removed and in which cowpeas had been drilled between the rows. The field was first pastured by three milk cows and later by three dry cows. The milk cows in the meantime received 3 pounds of cottonseed meal daily. On this pasturing the yield of milk was 15.8 per cent greater and the yield of butter 8.5 per cent higher than when the cows with the same grain feed ran on a good pasture of Bermuda grass, carpet grass, and lespedeza. In addition to the increase in milk and butter, the milk cows gained a total of 85 pounds during the 18 days, and the dry cows 53 pounds in 9 days.

Without Strong Flavor

The Dairy Division U. S. Department of Agriculture advises a larger use of sweet cream butter, because of its better keeping quality.

The United States Navy is a large consumer of this kind of butter, made according to the Navy specifications from unripened or sweet cream, instead of from the cream ripened to sourness, of which most creamy butter is made.

The principal reason the Navy desires sweet cream butter is that it keeps better. As the larger part of the butter supply is made during the summer months, it is necessary to put some of it in cold storage in order to have enough for winter, and in the course of time it develops various more or less undesirable flavors due to long storage. Butter made from sweet cream does not develop such flavors for a much longer time, if at all. Many months after it has been made it is equal to fresh butter, provided it has been kept under proper conditions; hence sweet cream butter is especially suitable for shipping to distant countries, and for long voyages.

Sweet cream butter is gradually coming into wider favor in the domestic market. It has not so pronounced a flavor as ordinary butter, but it has a mild creamy flavor which is pleasing.

Peter Sanders, aged father of J. B. Sanders, died at the home of his son in Covington, on the 19th inst., but now at the 103 years of age and had been failing health for several months.

The Right Start

The right start counts for a lot with chickens. Often it tells the difference between profitable success and expensive failure. Professor Harry R. Lewis, head of the New Jersey Poultry Experiment Station, will tell you how to get the right start in coming issues of

The COUNTRY

In a remarkable series of fifteen penetrating articles he will characterize, one by one, the major poultry breeds and will point the way to bigger profits with each.

Successful poultrymen say that THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is more helpful to them than the exclusive poultry journals. In a single year it prints the equivalent of more than 650 book pages on poultry alone—top-notch material, all of it, by such authorities as Victor G. Aubrey, James Dryden and Ralston R. Hannas. And that is only one department of an all-round farm service that offers concrete help with every problem of your farm business. This Rapid Age.

Man's business requires haste. The average business and professional man eats in a hurry and gets dyspepsia. He walks in a hurry and gets apoplexy. He talks in a hurry and gets the lies. He does business in a hurry and becomes a bankrupt. He marries in a hurry and forgets it in a hurry. He makes his will in a hurry and leaves a legal contest. He dies in a hurry and goes to the devil—and his tribe increases.—Exchange.

Proper Flower Arrangement.

The essential point in all flower arrangement is that there shall be form and balance, yet that the composition shall not be perfectly symmetrical, as perfect symmetry is not found in nature. In order to attain the desired effect the flower stalks and branches used are carefully bent and twisted, and this work is done with such delicacy and dexterity as to conceal the fact that their forms have been altered by artful human means.

Averts Diphtheria Epidemic.

Striking evidence of the value of a full-time county health department is furnished by the experience of two neighboring Blue Grass counties who have had with diphtheria this winter.

In Scott county, where there is such a full-time County Health Department, a case of the disease was discovered in a school. The child who was suffering was removed immediately to his home, his family was quarantined, and the room where the disease had developed was disinfected. Scuba, made of all the children's throats in the same room, were sent to the laboratory of the State Board of Health for examination, and when it was found that none of the children had the disease, they all were given a Schick test to see which would develop diphtheria if exposed to it. Those who were not found to be immune immediately were given an inoculation to prevent their acquiring it. As a result of these energetic measures only one case of the disease developed in Scott county and the rest were—none.

In neighboring county a child also developed diphtheria in a school in the county seat. There the similarity ends. This county has no full-time health department, only a physician receiving $200 a year, and the absence of someone whose sole business it is to stamp out diphtheria immediately already has led to the closing of the school in the county seat for sixty days, to the development of 138 cases of the disease in the county, and to eleven deaths.

Apart from the saving of human life and suffering in Scott county, and the awful waste in the neighboring county, the effective preventive measures in Scott did not cost the taxpayers of that county a cent outside of its regular expense for health work. The neighboring county, on the other hand, already has spent $4,000 in combating diphtheria, and there is no way of calculating how much has been spent by private families for physicians, nurses, undertakers and the other expenses incident to sickness and death.

Heavy Trucks are Ruining Roads of County.

We saw something the other day that well illustrates just why it is that the roads of our county have so short life. A truck loaded with tobacco presumably from Owen county, on its way to Carrollton market, passed through town and the weight of the tobacco must have been at least 4,000 pounds. What this did to the roads, which were in a yielding condition, can well be imagined. Yet people wonder why it is that roads do not last indefinitely.

There is no desire to close the roads to trucks for these form the highly favored way of transportation at this time. The truck is a commercial and industrial necessity and has come to stay, with an increasing number in use each year.

But there is a desire and there should be the enforcement of legislation which would see that trucks are not so heavily loaded as this one we noticed the other day. No truck should be permitted on the roads, at least at certain seasons of the year, when the latter are most easily damaged, carrying over a ton of freight, which would be about half the weight of the load of tobacco referred to. The roads are given too little protection, and it seems the public sentiment should at least be sufficiently interested to see that this very necessary adjunct to our civilization would be better cared for. The people who wantonly disregard the laws regulating road traffic should be made to respect them. Warsaw Independent.

You can see the same conditions on Boone county roads any day.

Notices were posted in the Cincinnati Southern Railroad shops at Ludlow, Ky., announcing that there would be a general reduction in the working force at the shops next Saturday. It was estimated that approximately 100 men will be thrown out of employment. The same number of men were laid off the early part of last month. Reduction in the force of shop employees is said to have been made at Somerset.

The L. & N. has laid off ten per cent of their employees.

Four Generation, Oldest 71

One roof shelters four generations of the Gaines-Cropper-Carroll family, residents of Louisville for the past twenty-five years. Mrs. L. V. Gaines, the great-grandmother, is 71 years old; Mrs. F. Cropper, the grandmother, 51; Mrs. Wm. Edward Carroll, mother, 28, and William Edward Carroll, Jr., 3½ years old. Mrs. Carroll's mother and grandmother were natives of Boone county, but came to Louisville 25 years ago. Mr. Cropper has been freight claim agent of the Southern Railroad Company for a number of years, and W. E. Carroll is the president of the Gaines-Cropper Company, 317 West Liberty Street. Local Happenings.

Next Saturday being a legal holiday, all banks will be closed.

Saturday is Lincoln's birthday, and the Tuesday following is St. Valentine's day.

In the cities, they complain about the noise, and in the country they kick about the silence.

The disarmament movement has not yet struck those girls that are distributing their killing looks.

A people who kick about their income tax, can always avoid the same, by giving away their money.

Those women who wear the backless gowns might explain why they bother to wear any clothes at all.

Congress is asked to tax bachelors. It might be more appropriate to prosecute them for dodging the draft.

A lot of people are willing to go in for community work, provided they are paid $2.00 an hour for their time.

The movement to do away with capital punishment has not made much progress since the crime wave got started.

If you visit the big cities, you can get some splendid bargains, consisting of $30.00 suits marked down from $75.00 to $45.00.

The president elect is consulting with the "best minds," but the political bosses think the best minds are those that mind best.

Most people, if they really want to know who caused the high prices can locate at least two guilty parties by looking in a mirror.

Price reductions have not yet led to any big drop in building, except that some of these poorly constructed modern houses have fallen down.

Unfortunately no girl has yet been able to make up for the lack of stuff inside her head, by putting two inches of sole leather into her high heels.

You may save some motor car speeders by separating the railroad grade crossings, but the fast drivers feel that there are many telegraph poles and trees along the road that need to be knocked over.

If some merchants worried about the big city and mail order competition a little less, and would use a little more of the advertising methods that boom the big city and mail order store business, they would come out better.

C. L. Renaker, of Dry Ridge, Grant County, sends us $3.00 for past and future subscription to the Recorder. Mr. Renaker is one of Grant county's young and hustling farmers, and knows a good thing when he sees it. This explains why he came to Boone County, to get the good wife he has.

We are indebted to Judge B. N. Tanner for a copy of the Boone County Recorder published in Burlington, Kentucky. The editorials are snappy and interesting and the news notes are quite readable even at a distance of so many miles. A number of short articles are being copied in this week's Advertiser from the edition headed up-Fayette Advertiser.

Wm. Flinn, of Plattburg, who is attending the State College at Lexington, came home last Thursday to spend a few days. He had completed his examination for the last session and as he would be doing nothing to do at the college for several days he came home to spend the time. It will take young Flinn two years after this to complete his course and he intends to go the whole distance.

The Farmers Warehouse, at Walton sold 117,770 pounds of tobacco last Thursday, at an average of $4.50. This tobacco was contained a quantity of low grades. There was very little dissatisfaction at prices, low grades were lower and no change in the prices of good grades. Seikman & Wingate, who live about three miles north of Burlington, sold their crop, containing 2,175 pounds at an average of $4.50. Mr. Seikman's age of $40.00.

If Mr. Groundhog came out on the 2nd last, he failed to see his shadow. For overhead conditions, while bright to a certain extent, were minus sunshine. (This is cheer full news to those who long for the warmer months, and others who are firm believers in the "groundhog.") Some of the superstitious contend that the groundhog must see his shadow in the forenoon, while others argue that if he sees this shadow any time during the day, he will return to his bungalow to remain six weeks longer, and during that time we are to have no change in the weather. It is the firm belief of some of our local fishermen, who are getting their poles and lines in shape.

HOLDINGS OF TOBACCO

Are Largest Reported at Any Time in Last Five Years--Control! Urge Curtail of Production.

The quarterly tobacco census, giving stocks of leaf tobacco held by manufacturers on Jan. 1 last made public by the Bureau at Washington, shows an enormous supply, and in of particular interest in view of the present depression that recently has been of great disturbance to the tobacco market.

This report shows the aggregate of all stocks on hand Jan. 1, 1921, to be 1,446,914,468 lbs., as against 1,318,131,291 pounds on hand a year ago and 1,271,521,930 on hand December 1, 1920.

Using this report as an inspiration, Representative J. Campbell Cantill, of Kentucky, himself a large tobacco grower, issued a lengthy statement in which he advocates a complete cut-out of the 1921 burley crop, and if not feasible, a cut-out of the 1922 crop. Following is his statement in part:

"The statement issued by the Bureau of Census of the United States Government, under the Cantill tobacco census law, shows that the manufacturers and dealers have on hand and in stock 238,000,000 pounds of burley tobacco. This is by far the largest amount of burley tobacco held by the manufacturers during the past five years on January 1. On January 1, 1918, the manufacturers had 117,000,000 pounds of burley; on January 1, 1919, 138,000,000; on January 1, 1920, 327,000,000. The statement also estimated from reliable sources that the 1920 crop which is just beginning to move, to market, amounts to 325,000,000 pounds. Addition of 325,000,000 lbs., to 238,000,000 pounds in the hands of the dealers on January 1, 1921, gives us a total of 563,000,000 lbs. of burley tobacco on hand Jan. 1, 1921.

Why, in the name of common sense, does the burley tobacco grower persist in raising big crops to break his own neck in the future, when he can produce on the present basis of consumption, with a three years supply of burley tobacco in the hands of the manufacturers and growers? To continue year after year, to produce burley tobacco with this tremendous surplus, will inevitably lead to the old condition of overproduction in Kentucky 12 years ago, when practically every tobacco tenant was an absolute slave of the tobacco trust, and when the leaf owners themselves could barely secure enough from their lands to feed and clothe their families.

Five hundred pennies, each representing a donation, were received last week from poor children of Louisville as a gift to the starving children of Europe. The children who made up the fund live near the Union Gospel Mission of Louisville.

RECONSTRUCTION

"Reconstruction" is not the terribly difficult problem in this country that it is in Europe. In those war torn lands millions of crippled men must be taught to support themselves. Debris amounting to almost the entire capital wealth of some of these countries must somehow be financed. Markets have been destroyed and many business men have to create a wholly new trade.

America's problems are relatively small. Our country is just as rich as it was before the war, and we have no great body of crippled men. Our man power is nearly intact. Pessimists will require to the rear, while men of confidence and hopeful spirit see the wonderful opportunities of new work and will carve out new fortunes for themselves.

The first step after a period of upheaval when the ordinary habits of business are upset is to get everybody working. The relief from the emotional strain of the war, created during 1919 and the first half of 1920, produced a good and extraordinary good business, but on an artificial basis.

When people began to recover their senses, they rebelled at the inflated price level, and stored up goods for sale. This was the bubble. But as when a balloon bursts in mid air, the descent was too rapid for safety. The business needed a parachute, and for lack of some have come to grief.

The so-called Consumers strike has gone on as far at present as is consistent with safety. While the price level ought eventually to descend still further, if the people attempt to force it further down now, it will increase embers of discontent.

Good merchandise bargains are being offered now, probably as low as they will be at any time during 1921. It is good time to buy, and public welfare demands a greater movement of commodities.

How Much It Meant

When Mother Prayed.

In a meeting of ministers whose intent was the deepening of the spiritual life, one of the speakers, a venerable modern saint, arose and related this incident of his early life. One night, he said, when he was a boy on the old farm, he was as usual, as the open garret, and just as he was dozing off to sleep he heard a familiar footfall on the unthought stairway. His knee jerked, and he knew that he was alone, but he thought he would fall asleep and see what he might do. Slowly, on tip-toe, lest he might wake his mother, he crept to the end of the chamber, put her candle upon the old-fashioned bureau, took a hard-bottomed chair that stood near by and, bringing it to the door, he knelt down and buried her face in his hands. Never had his heart beat so fast or so loud, he declared, as it did that night. It seemed as he must undisturb her by raising up in bed, reaching his arms around her neck and giving her a kiss that had never been planted in his face. But he restrained the impulse, and, instead, she arose after the lapse of many minutes and kissed him; and then she turned the chair back to its place, took the candle and went down stairs. But he did not go to sleep. It was long after midnight, he said, when he returned, and he told us, two great thoughts kept coursing through his mind all night. The first was, with such a mother, praying for me, what manner of man I ought to become, and the second, I realized to it that nothing that I am responsible for comes between those prayers, getting to me. He concluded the incident by saying that the memory of that evening had chastened his whole life, and often since entering the ministry the thought of his mother's prayer had proved a source of inspiration and strength. John Balmor Shaw.

Agent Sutton is a Hustler.

Earl Robinson, of Richmond, came over last Thursday in search of Barred Rocks from which to increase the efficiency of his stock of poultry. The hustling county farm agent, W. D. Sutton, learning of Mr. Robinson's desire had him supplied with the chickens, getting two from Dr. Yelton and a cock and two hens from Mrs. B. C. Graddy, of Bullittsville, and Mr. Robinson was his return for the price of his purchase. The poultry business in Boone County should be one of the county's leading industries in view of the excellent market for poultry products right at its door.

Emmett S. Wegland, aged 55 years, died at his home in Erlanger, on Tuesday of last week. Funeral services were held at his residence Friday evening by Rev. Ribble. His remains were forwarded to Ghent, Ky., Saturday morning. Mr. Wegland was survived by his widow, Mrs. Mable Crigler Wegland and one brother, Scott Wegland, of Louisville. The Odd Fellows had charge of the services at the grave.

LIBERTY BONDS

Found in Man's Shoe-Identified as Property Stolen From Walton Bank

The following is from last Thursday's Enquirer:

An arrest made last night in Covington will clear up the robbery of the Walton Bank & Trust Company at Walton, Ky., December 14, according to police.

Detectives Green, Higgins, and Parker arrested Camillus Terleau, 26 years old, 1123 Russell street, Covington, who is charged with vagrancy, and Al Nibbellett, 31 years old, 514 Chestnut street, Covington, who is charged with disorderly conduct.

The officers say they found three Liberty Bonds secreted in Terleau's shoes, which were in denominations of $500, $400 and $50.

Detective Higgins, who went to Walton following the arrests, said the bonds were identified by A. R. Johnson, cashier of the Walton Bank as those stolen from safety deposit boxes December 11. Johnson said, according to the detective, that the $500 bond is the property of Benj. Bedinger, Walton, who is in Florida, and the $400 bond the property of Mrs. Pearl Johnson, widow of the cashier of the bank. The $50 bond was not registered, but Mr. Johnson positively identified it, the detective said, as one of the bonds stolen.

Terleau told police he found the bonds in a house on Bankless street, Covington, where he had a room a few weeks ago.

The safety deposit vault at the bank was opened and 30 boxes ransacked. The entire contents of 18 boxes were stolen. Besides the bonds $139 in postage stamps, $280 in revenue stamps and a quantity of war savings and thrift stamps were stolen.

A warrant for the arrest of Terleau was issued by J. C. Hedinger, Esq., for breaking into the vault of the Walton Bank and Trust Co. and for stealing the bonds. After his trial in the Kenton circuit court for stealing the automobile of A. W. Corn, of Erlanger.

You Are Right.

The trouble with most of the schemes for saving the farmer is that they are based on the assumption that the farmer is the only one who is in a position to meet the present farming situation. It is that they would doctor the effect and leave the cause untouched. Loading money to a farmer who is in a position to do a good thing, of course, and so are some of the ideas advanced. But they would bring only temporary relief, and the farmer wants legislation that will put his business on as safe and sound a basis as any other business. He wants the boards of trade abolished. He wants established markets. He wants some assurance that the millions he is called upon to feed will not rise up, and he wants to have something to take to send him to the poorhouse. He wants the public to quit passing impossible like the tariff and high freight rates from back to front, and to let him have his own. He wants to have the same assurance of profits before he produces that the manufacturer has. He wants to have something to say about what his grain and stock will bring. These are economic conditions that must be answered. And when they are answered right, the farmer will be able to use such a sound basis that quick remedies and charity loans would never again be mentioned in connection with the farmer. Congress could help a lot, if it would. Why can't it get just as interested in agriculture this winter as it did in the railroads last winter?—Paris, Mo., Appeal.

No Smoking Allowed.

The Kentucky W. C. T. U. having completed its mission of making the Bluegrass State as dry as a marsh, now announces its belief that tobacco is more dangerous to the human race than liquor has ever been. The president of the union pledges herself to work for a constitutional amendment which would absolutely forbid the growing of tobacco on American soil or its importation from any other country. And this just at a time when the raising of tobacco was about to become a large war in California. Do not the Kentucky ladies know that leaf tobacco is being extensively used in other countries than those lined by the American soil? Is it any wonder for his suicide it is also valuable as a commercial insecticide. While our men are poisoning their bodies with the noxious vapors of why not kill off the vipers that bother our prune bushes and account plants? It is only for laboratory purposes that California grows tobacco. Why not banish its growth from American soil?—Los Angeles Times.

American Legion Notes.

Scores of letters have been received by the editor of the American Legion Weekly urging that the American Legion request the state department to obtain the release of the two Americans who were captured in Germany during an attempt to arrest Grover Cleveland Bergdolf, Americas most notorious draft dodger.

Ninety new units of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion were chartered in the last two weeks, raising the total number to 1,838. Iowa led with thirteen, followed by Indiana, eleven, New York, ten, and Minnesota, nine. The latest scheduled convention of the auxiliary will be held in the Department of Washington at Tacoma, February 17, 18 and 19. This will be the tenth annual convention of the women's organization.

The people of the U. S. are in sympathy with efforts of veterans to obtain passage of the Fordney bonus bill, according to Lemuel Bolles, National Adjutant of the American Legion, who bases his opinion on reports from North Dakota, Oregon, Minnesota, Illinois, and other states. The legislatures of the first three states have passed resolutions urging the United States Senate to pass the bill and plebiscite of Legion members in Illinois showed an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the national bonus. Ninety-nine per cent of the Illinois Legionnaires also expressed themselves in favor of a state bonus.

In spite of the unemployment situation, which tends to increase the need of veterans for ready money, the members of the Illinois Legion members preferred some form of compensation other than cash.

European Relief Council.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr. has contributed $1,000,000 to the fund of $3,000,000 being raised by the European Relief Council for the salvation of child life in the war-torn countries of Central and Eastern Europe.

When Herbert Hoover was presented with this great gift, he made it clear that the contribution came from Mr. Rockefeller as a personal donation and that it was in no part that of his father or a beneficiary from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Mr. Hoover, said he simply was not getting the money needed to save the lives of the starving children. He said that the people of the United States have more than they need, with an 18 months food supply in hand and a mounting surplus that is causing unemployment, and yet were not responding readily to the call of the suffering.

"Something must be wrong if such a situation is allowed to continue," he said, "if we would preserve the foundations of civilization we cannot allow it to go on. The people of suffering Europe must be given the knowledge that America stands behind every project to promote the welfare and happiness of humanity. These people are predicting a good will among men rather than upon documents. There is nothing so mad as to do good to them, so I say that if peace is to endure the suffering of these innocent little victims of war must be relieved."

A check to Richard Ben, Kentucky Treasurer, addressed to any bank in the State will help complete this fund.

Reroute Dixie Highway.

The Dixie Highway Commission and the Cincinnati Auto Club are attempting to have the Dixie Highway route from Lexington to Lexington via Independence, Falmouth and Paris. Meetings will be held under the auspices of those organizations in Lexington at all points along that route in order to get the citizens residing along the route so enthusiastic that they will dig down, in their jeans and overalls, to construct a boulevard in order that the members of the Dixie Highway Commission and the Cincinnati Auto Club may ride over the highway in their Packards and Pierce Arrows just the same as if riding in a Pullman. The Automobile Club will furnish the motor cars and enjoy riding over the road after it is completed and all that you will have to do Mr. Citizen and Taxpayer is to furnish the money to build and keep in repair this road so that Mr. Auto member can ride over it in comfort and luxury. The 1920 session of the Legislature by an act passed by that body, routed all of the State and Federal aid roads, but their action does not seem to have met with the approval of some non-representative automobile clubs who are trying to dictate the road policy for the state of Kentucky, regardless of what the Legislature may have enacted.

An Interesting Heirloom.

An interesting heirloom was brought to our office last week by C. N. Ashcraft, of near Hobart. It is a pair of copper spoon molds, which were brought from England by Mr. Ashcraft's great-grandfather, who was one of the early settlers of the C. W. Association. Mr. Ashcraft says for all he knows, this ancient relic might have been brought over on the Mayflower.—Grant County News.

REFERRED TO GRAND JURY

Was Case of Boys Who Fought With Knife, Bricks and Cocoa Cola Bottle.

Ray Scroggins was before Judge N. E. Riddell last Thursday, charged with striking Morion Perry on the head with a Cocoa Cola bottle. The evidence developed the facts that Perry had cultivated a crop of tobacco on the lands of Geo. Gray, that the good tobacco had been sold. Gray & Scroggins had agreed that the low grades would not be put on the market at present prices, but if Perry wanted to sell they would divide the tobacco in the barn January 24, while Gray was not at home Perry loaded the tobacco over the objection of Mrs. Gray, who had Scroggins' grandson, and her son lock the front gate. Perry broke the lock and started out the gate when Scroggins grabbed one of the horses by the bridle, Perry jumped off of the wagon and struck Scroggins on the breast who then hit Perry on the head with the bottle. Virgil Perry then grabbed Scroggins and struck him in the back with his knife, making six ugly wounds. About this time striking Perry threw a half brick striking Scroggins on the back of the head, cutting to the bone and rendering him unconscious. Ray Scroggins is 16, Virgil Perry 14 and Robert Perry 13. The case was referred to the April grand jury.

Tobacco Growers Organize.

The Burley Producers of Boone County are organizing to cut out the 1921 crop, all for the purpose of securing better conditions for this great cash crop of your county and state. It stands fourth in commercial importance, returning in agricultural wealth more than $1,000,000,000 a year. We are working for a better understanding among producers, for improvements in our marketing systems, to work out more definite ideas as to acreage, that there may be at all times a surplus of a more staple market for your product, and this we cannot do by going ahead, as individuals, by merely trying to see how much you can get for your crop, at your own expense, a demoralized market, with ruin, destruction and starvation in its wake, as your reward for the sacrifice of toil and sweat.

This end we must have unity of purpose, and for that reason we are asking you to get into your organization—the dues are only $1.00 per year. Let us hear from you. Any of the following gentlemen will be pleased to have you sign: Burlington—Robt. Huey. Bullittsville—E. J. Aylor, Robert McGinnis.

- Petersburg—Wm. Stephens.
- Bellevue—Al Rogers, Leomer Louden.
- Carlton—Don Williamson.
- Big Bone—Joe Clegg.
- Beaver—C. C. Sleet, Joe Huey.
- Union—Len Barlow.
- Verona—M. Whitson.
- Falmouth—Clem Kendall, Hubert Burt.
- Constance—Emmit Riddell, Semour Wilson.
- Walton—Scott Chambers, Walter Burt.

Any of these gentlemen are intensely interested in the welfare of the tobacco interests and the interests of their county. Have them see your local school at your school houses, talk matters over. They will do you good.

C. O. HEMP MING, Chairman
LACY CROPPER, Secretary.
Petersburg, Ky.

Consider Your Hours.

Let this and every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and let every setting sun be to you as its close; let each day be a record of some kind of thing done for others—some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourself, so, from day to day and strength to strength, you shall build up, by art, by thought, and by just skill, an Ecclesia of which shall not be said: "See what manner of stones are here!" but "See what manner of men!"—John Ruskin.

Chesterwhite Association.

The Boone County Chesterwhite Association held its annual meeting at the court house, last Saturday. The same officers were retained for the coming year. The Pig Club for the following year was discussed. It was agreed upon for all members to sell pigs at the same price, and pigs in the club are to be farrowed during the month of March and must be purchased between May 1st and 15th. Chester Tanner, S. H. Ryle and the County Agent were appointed to purchase the pigs for the boys. All pigs must be registered Chesterwhite. The Association is going to carry on an extensive advertising campaign in the spring. This to be done through the Secretary. All boys engaged to auction sales must be registered in the C. W. Association. The breeders are to meet March 28th, to plan their advertising campaign and arrange money for the Pig Club. ROBERT CLORE, Secretary and Treasurer, Boone County Chesterwhite Association.

The Income Tax Law

Applied to Farmers.

By Maurice L. Lyons.

The term "farmer" as applied to individuals under the Income Tax Law embraces all persons operating stock, dairy, poultry, fruit or truck farms, plantations, ranches, or any land used for fruit raising or agricultural purposes.

If the total net income of the farmer for the taxable year was $1000 or over, he is required to make a personal income tax return, unless he was married and living with his wife on the last day of the year, in which case return is required to be filed in the event that his total net income equaled or exceeded $2000. But all that is required is the filing of the return, and to whether any tax is due, the Government is another question.

The single farmer has an exemption under the law of $1000 and therefore if his net income was $1000, his exemption would render him tax exempt.

The married farmer has an exemption under the law of $2000 and 200 additional for each child under 18 years of age. Further than this he has $200 for each person other than his wife dependent upon and receiving chief support from him, regardless of age, if such dependent person is incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective. It therefore follows that if the married farmer has a net income of say $3000 and an exemption of $2000 plus $600 for three minor children and $400 for his father and mother or the parents of his wife who are old and incapable of self support, that these exemptions would render him tax exempt.

Now let us take the farmer who has a net income of, say, $10,000, and by net income I mean the income that is left after all allowable deductions are taken, and he then has an exemption of, say, $2000, being a married man and having two minor children. He would have left the amount of $8000, the first $4000 of which is to tax at 1 per cent, or $40, and the balance of $4000 at 2 per cent, or $80. He would further have to pay surtax on in plain words an additional tax on everything over $5000 of his net income of $10,000, as follows: From $5000 to $6000, or $1000 at 1 per cent, being $10; from $6000 to $8000, or $2000 at 2 per cent, being $40; and from $8000 to $10,000, or $2000 at 3 per cent, being $60. Therefore the entire tax would be $558.

Well, then, what is the first step to be taken by the farmer? It is to ascertain the gross income for the taxable year, which includes gains, profits, and income derived from every source whatever, unless wholly exempt from income tax. To be more specific, the farmer must include all gains or profits and income derived from the sale or exchange of property of any description, including farm products and live stock.

The gain or profit from sale of animals purchased and used solely for draft or work purposes, or solely for breeding purposes, should be reported as income.

There must also be included in gross income amounts received for board of person, board and pasturage of animals, labor of men and teams, and hire and use of machinery.

Having determined the income, the items wholly exempt from tax are:

1. The proceeds of life insurance policies paid upon the death of the insured to individual beneficiaries or to the estate of the insured.

2. The amount received by the insured as a return or premium or premiums paid by him under life insurance, endowment, or annuity contracts, either during the term or at the maturity of the term mentioned in the contract or upon surrender of the contract.

3. The value of property acquired by gift, bequest, devise, or descent.

4. Interest upon the bonds or other obligations of any State, City, County, Town, or Village of the United States or of any territory or any part thereof, or of the District of Columbia.

5. All Liberty Bonds, Victory Notes, U. S. Certificates of Indebtedness, and War Savings Certificates are exempt both as to principal and interest from all Federal, State, and local taxation, except (a) Estate or Inheritance Taxes and (b) Federal Income surtaxes, excess profits, and war profits taxes.

6. Amounts received through accident or health insurance or under workmen's Compensation Acts, as compensation for personal injuries or sickness, plus the amount of any damages received, whether by suit or agreement on account of such injuries or sickness.

Therefore, if any of the above items from Numbers 1 to 6 have been included in the farmer's gross income he should take them out and disregard them.

(To be continued in next issue.)

As is perhaps true of all men in public business, the editor is sometimes criticised for not printing such an item as the grumbler thinks should have appeared in the paper. Well, if you stop to consider, the editor and printers have about all the work to do that is required to be done to issue a paper. It is true many items of news escape notice that otherwise could be given to the public. We are told things as being "news items" that perhaps are interesting only to the informant, and only of minor importance. The proper way to judge a newspaper is by what is left out. Be considerate, by all means.

Lot of people who don't dare trust their money in a good bank, will invest it with a fake stock promoter who has no assets but his city tongue.

The people are anxious to see whether the new management is going to accomplish the results it has promised.

A drop of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline is announced in many parts of the country and the further drop is predicted. One authority says it will drop to 20 cents a gallon within 5 months. Anyway, let us hope so. Gasoline and coal oil have been two necessities which have not come down any from war prices, and with everything else falling there is no good reason why it should not drop.

B. J. Crisler, of Petersburg, and son, Wm. Crisler, Supt. of the Nutritia Co., Lawrenceburg, Indiana, last Sunday. Mr. Crisler has opened a feed store at Petersburg, where he will handle all kinds of feed and will be glad to have you call on him when in need of anything in his line. See ad in another column. They each left $1.50 to boost their subscription up another year.

Judge S. Gaines left last Monday morning for Williamstown, where he will convene court. The Grant County News says: "The mid-winter term of the Grant Circuit Court will convene here next Monday. This is a full three weeks' term, and while the civil docket was pretty well cleared up at the last term, there is enough new business to fill the court, grinding for the full three weeks. Two homicide cases will come before the court if the grand jury indicts. Several important equality cases are on the docket and a large number of lesser importance."

High School Notes.

In another column the Boone County High School announces the appearance of Robert H. B. Tremain & Co., the fourth number of the Burlington Lyceum Course. This company will appear at the court house, Thursday night, Feb. 15, 1921. This is an organization of unusual merit and popularity. Mr. Tremain three years of study, observation and experience, has come over to be recognized as one of the foremost exponents of the art of character portrayals. So completely does he impersonate these characters that you forget Tremain and live only in the characters he portrays. His assistant, Miss Van Dyke, is an accomplished musician with a charming personality. All this combined with her dramatic powers, makes her a versatile entertainer. When you have heard these two people you have had a pleasant and enjoyable evening. It is the hope of the Hi School that the entertainment will be liberally patronized.

Editor of the Recorder: Burlington, Ky.

Dear Sir:

I read in this week's Recorder of Wm. Edward Carrell, Jr., of Louisville, having two great-grand mothers living. My cousin's baby, little Dorothy Marce Northcutt, of Newport, Ky., can beat that. She not only has both grand mothers and both grandfathers but also four great-grand mothers and one great-grand father.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace Northcutt. Mr. Northcutt's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Hergert, live in the same house as does Mr. Hergert's mother, making our generation under one roof. Mrs. Hergert's mother, Mrs. Harding, lives in Madisonville, Ohio. Mr. Northcutt's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Northcutt, and Mrs. Charles Northcutt's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rouse, live in Covington, Ky. They are formerly from Boone county.

Mrs. C. N. Northcutt's mother, Mrs. Sarah Northcutt, 78, is the oldest great grandmother and lives in Cincinnati, and is also from Boone county. L. R. H.

During the past four years when billions of dollars were dumped into circulation in this country, wages, farm products, and manufactured articles advanced by leaps and bounds, thereby creating a false structure under the solid normal business standards of the country. Some men believe these high levels would always be maintained, and it is only the way farmers argued that they would never return to five-cent tobacco and sixty-cent corn; the laboring man said it would never be possible to go back to the old dollar and two dollar a day labor. But in a short space of time these conditions have returned, and it is only the wise and economical man who is weathering the storm. The school of experience is a little one, but it is the only one that fools will ever learn in.

Four Eclipses This Year.

There will be two eclipses of the sun and two of the moon this year. On April 23 the sun will be partially hidden out, and on April 24th, it will be almost completely hid from view. Each eclipse may be seen with the naked eye, but it is warned that smoked glass should be used. The two eclipses of the moon will be in October, one on the 1st and the other on the 24th. Both will be almost total.

Herbert Kirkpatrick, local dealer in furs, bought three very large and handsome fox pelts one day last week of Ralph Cason, who lives down on Middle Creek. The three pelts brought Mr. Cason about twenty dollars, whereas a year they would have brought him over forty dollars. Besides the furs, these furs caused Mr. Cason to be pleased by devouring about fifty young turkeys for him this past season.

TREES NEEDED ON ROADWAYS

No Reason Why the United States Should Be Behind Europe in Matter of Beautification.

One of the pleasant impressions which our soldiers brought back with them from overseas was of miles of country roadways beautified with magnificent trees. In this country a shade tree by the roadside is so rare as to cause comment. Once in a while during a trip of many miles one will come to a place where some wise man of the past has set out in a row along the side of the road maples or oaks or elms. But an even commoner sight are the stretches where somebody has cut down the trees and left the roadway bare and unsightly. Not infrequently telegraph or telephone companies have gone backing their way through a stretch of fine old trees.

It appears that a land owner residing on any country road may cut down trees along the highway for cord wood and plow the land to the very edge of the road without interference, and that the law has permitted him to set out saplings in the spring and get 25 cents each in reduction of taxes. Public service corporations, it is stated, also have certain rights under the law which seem to work to the disadvantage of private citizens seeking to beautify the highway adjoining their property by planting valuable trees.

The State Forestry association will submit a proposition to its entire membership this fall by letter ballot, with a view to determining whether codification and revision of the state's shade tree laws shall be one of the objectives in the campaign for necessary forestry legislation. The association is appealing for the support of all citizens interested.

This is something which may well command our favorable attention. The movement should provide not only for the protection of such roadside trees as still exist, but should also make provision for the replanting of those already destroyed.—Buffalo Express.

BACKYARD ORCHARD AN ASSET

Can Be Depended Upon to Pay Dividends of Pleasure and Health for Many Years.

The orchard behind the village home has always been an asset of great value. We knew one office that had cherries, peaches, plums and apples for the entire fruit season—early and late—and it yielded enormous dividends of pleasure and health for a full quarter of a century.

A few fruit trees may be grown with profit in the back yards of cities not too closely built. One exists in a nearby city, where ten years ago a wise businessman planted fruit trees in his back yard, and for ornament set out Japanese apricots and dwarf quinces in his front yard. From his trees he now has two crops, one of surpassing beauty—during blossom time and another of palatable and healthful fruit later. There are also berries on his lot in abundance, and a wild goose plum tree that carries prodigious crops.

It may be stated as a fact that no man ever planted fruit trees who did not thereby become a benefactor. There is room for thousands of them in the rear of Omaha homes.—Omaha Bee.

Roads of Remembrance.

The trees planted at the technical high school were in honor of former pupils in the service and not for the dead. Women's clubs, highway associations, state forestry associations and the American Forestry association are taking an active interest in the movement. No more beautiful way of paying tribute to the boys who went to war could be devised than the planting of trees, and it is an undertaking to be encouraged. Memory trees, singly or in groups, or along "roads of remembrance" will be known for what they are quite as well as a carved monument and may be far more beautiful.—Indianapolis Star.

Vacant Lot Gardens.

According to C. O. Davis of the Milwaukee garden commission, more than 1,000 vacant lots are now under cultivation. One of the benefits of the planting of gardens is that it stops people from using the vacant lots as dumping grounds for their garbage and rubbish. The heaps of refuse often form breeding places for flies and mosquitoes.

Yet greater benefits are realized in the profits derived from the garden produce, and the healthful exercise gained in caring for the plants.

Now for Tree Planting.

Trees for city street planting may be of the same kind for a dozen blocks and must be evenly spaced, says the American Forestry association of Washington, which will send a free tree planting guide to any one. When trees are planted along a country roadside it is better to have them in groups of a few kinds and informally located.

Wait to Remember.

Well-kept back yards pay better dividends than well-kept cemeteries.

THE DEVIL AT WORK.

THE DEVIL KNOWS

A grocer called at the office one day last week, and asked the devil to tell him, "WHAT IS A KNOCKER?" In reply the devil said:

"After God finished the rattle-snake, the toad and the vampire, He had some awful substance left with which He made a knocker. A knocker is a two-legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water-sogged brain and a combination backbone made of jelly and glue, where other people have their hearts. He carries a humor of rotten principles. When the knocker comes down the street honest men turn their backs, the angels weep tears in heaven and the devil shuts the gates of hell to keep him out. No man has a right to knock so long as there is a pool of water deep enough to drown his body in, or a rope to hang his carcass with."

STATE TREASURER OF CHINA FAMINE FUND

JOSEPH BURGE.

IN President Wilson's appeal for aid for the 40,000,000 Chinese facing starvation, he points out that $1 will feed one Chinese for a month. Through the appointment by the President, Joseph D. Burge, president of the Louisville Board of Trade, is state treasurer and the Rev. Dr. E. S. Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, is chairman. Funds for the China Famine Fund should be sent to Mr. Burge, 9 Board of Trade building, Louisville.

URGES FRIENDSHIP BE CEMENTED WITH CHINA

DR. HENRY E. DOSKER.

NOT only from a humanitarian standpoint but in view of the serious situation faced by America in the Orient, it would be wise to cement the friendship between the United States and China, in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. Henry E. Dosker, a member of the faculty of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Louisville. Dr. Dosker, who served as a missionary in Japan and also in China, made an urgent appeal for funds for the 40,000,000 starving Chinese in the famine stricken provinces north of the Yellow river.

He has been in this territory and says he is not surprised at the report of the American Minister at Peking, which states that 15,000,000 of the inhabitants are subsisting on dry leaves, wild plants and tree bark, and the death rate from starvation now is 15,000 a day with a typhoid epidemic even more terrible. Joseph D. Burge, 9 Board of Trade building, Louisville, is treasurer in Kentucky for the China Famine Fund.

The Army Preparing For Life.

Previous to the Wilson Administration, the army was regarded merely as a fighting machine. But the attention was paid to the effect of the service on the men who enlisted. Men who were given no useful ways of occupying spare time, except such ordinary tasks as cutting grass at the army posts, frequently developed bad habits and lawless ways. Under the present administration, the theory has been not merely to make the army an efficient fighting machine, which has not been overlooked by any means, but to make the experience in the service a useful one for the soldiers. There has now been in operation for about a year, an educational and vocational system which trains them in such useful callings as agriculture, printing, tractor work, etc.

Thus not merely are the men saved from formation of the vicious habits which the idle army life often encouraged, but they are helped on to efficient production and business success after their term of enlistment is finished. Before this system was introduced, it was difficult to get recruits for the army. Big posters were put up all over the country, and recruiting officers were sent around everywhere, but the young men would not enlist. Now with this training, the army has become popular and there is no trouble about getting recruits. The expense of recruiting has been cut down from $90 to $12 per man.

This is one of the most statesmanlike changes that has been made by any administration for many years. The Wilson regime will be remembered for a long time as the one that put the army on a new basis and made it a successful training school for life as well as the country's means of defense.

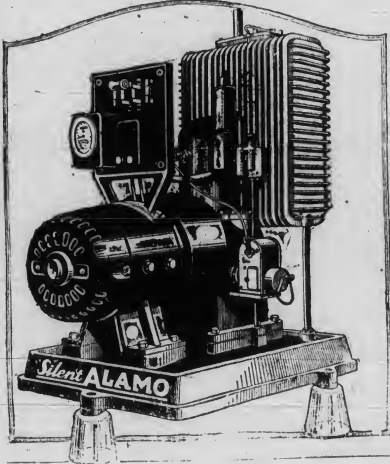

Labor income is not the limiting factor in determining how much the farmer shall have to eat, but it is the determining factor for the wage earner in the city. Food, fuel, and shelter are primary requisites of life, and the farm furnishes the proprietor a good proportion of these necessities in addition to the income he derives from the sale of farm products. These things that the farm furnishes directly toward the living expenses of the farmer's family enable him to live even though his crops are poor. This, in turn, is the source of his income from the farm is often underestimated, often unrecognized, unless provision is made for accurately recording it in the farm accounting system, say specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Hides During the Day.

Both the larvae and adult weevils work during the night, and conceal themselves in the day under rubbish or in cracks in the ground. Usually they work on the underside of the leaves where often undetected, and are not seen except by the careful observer. The most important check on the pest is the fungous disease, which kills the larvae in vast numbers during the months of April and May, and again in October or November.

The girls that have to support themselves with canes may as well work in the field as in the legs.

Warren G. Harding's first year as President will cost the country $189,800.
He will receive $75,000 salary, $25,000 for traveling expenses, $30,000 for furnishing and upkeep of White House and grounds.

The new First Lady of the Land will have $50,000 to refurbish the house, pay servants and buy autos and horses, gasoline and oats.
Congress allows $5,000 to heat the executive mansion and the greenhouses, $18,000 for greenhouse extensions and upkeep, $30,000 for gardener's services, and $30,000 for repairing and reconstructing greenhouses.

White House grounds closed since war began in 1917, are to be opened to the public again. It will cost $10,000 to improve them.
The new administration is expected to be a brilliant one--for $5,000 will be spent to light the mansion grounds and greenhouses.

But the President will have some bills to pay out of his own pocket. There are food and clothing and the state expenditures.
They'll cut a hole in his $75,000 salary.

Mr. J. W. Russell Bradford, of Florence, says any one in Boone county puzzled about their income tax report he will give them the latest information, if they will call at his home.

Walter Huey and sister of Burlington, while on the way to White Haven last Friday night, their machine went out of commission when within three miles of Union, and after working and coaxing for about an hour it failed to go, and he called for assistance at Union, and in a few minutes they were on their way rejoicing.

A woman who was too economical to subscribe for her home paper sent her little son to borrow the copy taken by their neighbor.

In his haste the boy ran over a four-dollar stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a wary Summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed wire fence ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a five dollar pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and killed herself eating corn.

Hearing the racket, the mother ran, upset a four-gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole litter.

In her hurry she dropped and broke, past all hope of mending, a twenty-five dollar set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled, cream and into the parlor, ruining a twenty-dollar carpet.

During the excitement, the eldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the cat and the calves got out and chewed the tails off of four fine shirts. All to save $1.50.

Plowing in January.

We are indebted to Judge R. N. Tanner for a copy of the Adviser, published at Fayette, Mo., from which we take the following item:

"This is the first time in years the farmers have been able to do any plowing in January, but this is just what they have been doing for several weeks, at odd times. It is said the ground works up in good shape and the weather has been just cool enough, so they have been able to get much of the plowing done. Those who had been waiting for the opportunity to get the ground in shape will be the first to plant in the early spring."

Henry Horace Grant

Dr. Henry Horace Grant, 67, who died in Louisville, was professor of surgery in the medical department of the University of Louisville and professor of the principles of surgery and oral surgery in the dental department of the university. He was a fellow of the American Medical Association and of the Southern Surgical & Gynecological Society, and a member of the Mississippi Valley Medical Association and the Jefferson County and State Medical Societies.

He was the author of "Principles of Surgery and Diseases of the Mouth and Throat," published in 1902 and until recently was one of the editors and business manager of the Louisville Monthly Journal of Medicine and Surgery. He had been a frequent contributor to surgical journals and was widely known among physicians and surgeons of the country for his papers read at various medical gatherings.

BORN IN BOONE COUNTY.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Lella Owsley Grant, to whom he was married in 1853, Dr. Grant is survived by a son, Dr. E. Owsley Grant, a Louisville practitioner. He was a brother to the late Dr. W. Ed. Grant, former City Health Officer.

Dr. Grant was born in Petersburg, Boone county, Dec. 12, 1853, the son of Dr. Elijah Lane Grant and Jane Rebecca Pratt Grant. After attending the public schools of Boone county, he entered Centre College, Danville. He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts there in 1875, and entered the Jefferson College of Medicine, Philadelphia, from which he was graduated with the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1878. In 1884 the degree of Master of Arts was awarded to him by Centre College.

When he left the Philadelphia medical school, Dr. Grant began a general practice of medicine at Newcastle, Ky. He remained there about two years, coming to Louisville as a general practitioner. In 1890 he began the special practice of surgery there.

Soon after coming to Louisville Dr. Grant became a teacher of anatomy in the old Kentucky School of Medicine. In 1890, he assumed the professorship of surgery in the Hospital College of Medicine, which he held until 1908 when this institution was merged with the Medical Department of the University of Louisville. He then became professor of surgery in the university.

He invented a number of surgical instruments which are now in wide use. One of the most notable

This road engineer was directed to pay $2.00 per day for labor, and for team and man $1.00 per day. The claim of S. M. Billter for work done on the Lexington pike, was rejected.

Lodged in Jail

Earl McNulty, who assaulted Miss Rosalee Peno a few weeks since, while on his way home from school, went to the school house Tuesday afternoon and took home, but missed school and gone home, but three of the scholars who knew McNulty were clearing the building for Miss Peno and was told she had gone home. McNulty then stated that he would be back in a few days and get her. The County Judge was notified when he and Deputy Hammett went in search of McNulty and had him behind the bars in Burlington jail. An examining trial will be held in a few days.

The Elder Brother

By REV. LEW W. GOSNELL

Assistant Dean, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT.—And he was angry and would not go in; therefore came his father out and entreated him.—Luke 15:22.

D. L. Moody frequently preached on "The Elder Brother."

the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them. It was to rebuke us murmuring, by setting forth, in contrast, the seeking love of God, which goes forth to publicans and sinners, that Jesus spoke the parables of the lost sheep, the lost coin, and the lost man, or the prodigal son. In fact, he draws a portrait of the murmuring Pharisees in the story of the elder brother. As Mr. Moody said, there are still many of him; for he finds successors in all formal religionists, who have no sympathy with God's joy over the recovery of the lost.

First of all, such men find no joy in the service they themselves offer God. When the prodigal came home, the father called on those about him to make merry. The parable goes on to say: "Now his elder son was in the field; and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing. And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant" (vv. 25, 26). Such meriment was foreign to his spirit. And so it is always with formal religionists, for the joy of the Lord is not theirs. John Wesley was such no one ever after being ordained to preach. When on his way to America as a missionary to the Indians, his ship ran into a dreadful storm. He was disturbed at the outlook; and was amazed to hear a company of simple-hearted Moravian Christians singing calmly and joyously in the midst of the storm. Even their children joined in the songs. Wesley was so much contrasted by their conduct with his own feelings. The incident was an important factor in leading him out of a life of religious bondage into the liberty of the glory of the children of God.

Notice, too, the restraint between this son and his father. When he would lecture to the sounds of merriment in the house, he did not ask his father, but went to a servant. A life of true prayer is impossible to the formal religionist. He says prayers, but this is not the same as praying. The prayers of the Pharisees were full of vain repetitions, for like the heathen they thought they would be heard for their much speaking. To refer to John Wesley again, he never prayed without a prayer book until after he had come into the experience of a true child of God. How different is such restraint from "the boldness and access with confidence" to which God invites us.

How beautiful to read: "Therefore came his father out, and entreated him" (v. 28). It has been well remarked that this verse shows there is a gospel for the Pharisees! God loves the formal religionist quite as much as the prodigal. And if he only knew it, the formal religionist needs the compassion and grace of God quite as much as does the prodigal.

For, see the spirit exhibited in the son's complaint, that the father had never given him a kid that he might make merry with his "friends." Evidently his springs of joy were not in his father, but in his friends. And, verily, the successors of the elder brother would not be happy even in heaven. They would not find their joy there with the Father and would not respond when the Great Shepherd said: "Rejoice with me; for I have found the sheep which was lost." But did not the father say, "Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine?" Yes, but he refers only to earthly things; the "living" he had divided. True, it is better not to squander our "substance," of body and mind and possessions, in riotous living, as did the prodigal. But it is true, also, that while a correct life is better than an irregular one, it will not of itself secure heaven.

The best robe was graciously laid on the repentant prodigal's shoulders. The elder brother never wore it, and never will, until he recognizes the fitness of his rage.

Sum Total of a Life.

The sum total of a life lived in union with God is realized when the highest aspiration of the soul takes form in corporate and objective worship, and prayer becomes but the voice of one who has placed at the feet of the Lord Jesus a soul consecrated to the service of the dear Master, and the greater glory of His holy Name.—Rev. Henry Lowmire Drow.

CUPID'S OWN DAY OLD LOVE TOKENS

Fourteenth of February Belongs to Him Alone.

Anniversary Brightens the Drab Month With Memories of the Past and Joy of the Present.

Brightening the dull, drab month of February and doing their very best to cheer up and bring love into our hearts, the valentines—the valentines smile at us with their face-and-forget-me-not daintiness from the shop windows.

There are elaborate "national" valentines of celluloid and blue ribbons that come in big lace boxes, like French dolls; there are valentines that when pulled out like an accordion become Cinderella coaches of cardboard, laden with Loves and Venuses and Cupids. Others resolve themselves into pink-and-blue palaces; you never know—peopled with delightful goddesses and doves.

But the best and most sincere, perhaps, are the old-fashioned valentines—visits of foamy paper lace, through which you look upon hearts redder than lovers' lips, in a prospect of violets and forget-me-nots. And hidden away, like a billet doux in a bouquet, a little verse:

This heart, sweet love, I send to you,
Together with these violets blue:
And if you like this heart of mine,
I pray you be my Valentine.

Could anything be more simple or direct to the point? As unerringly as Cupid's darts or a beau's rapier, the verse carries its message home. It says that the Elizabethan lyrics, the love songs of Herrick and Lovelace and Suckling, survive today only in the valentine.

And, ah, what memories these harbingers of love bring with them! They lead us back along the columbine-bordered road to yesterday, over the asphodel meadows of Youth and First Love and Childhood Fancies, and we meet and kiss our first sweethearts again—alas, they have gone out of our lives these many years.

And so, dear little Valentine, accept this message close to your heart—for surely a sweetheart is the sweeter for a valentine, and, as all wise men know, "his love that makes the world go round."

GOOD OLD SAINT IN TROUBLE

Embarrassed by Shower of Hearts, Though It Would Seem He Should Be Used to It.

St. Valentine slyly
Pretends his umbrella.
"This shower of hearts
Would embarrass a fellow.

"I'm glad that I manage it
Once in a year.
Exercise is the thing Hearts are needing, I fear.

"While many are beating
They're all out of time,
And cold as December
Instead of warm June.

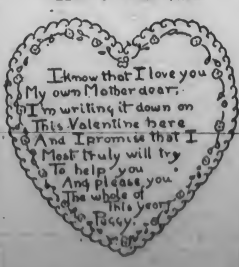

"So I'll mix 'em and change 'em
And warm 'em up too."
I wonder if he'll say
Your heart up for you?

Valentine Challenge.

One form which the observance of Valentine's day took in England was that of a person's valentine being the first young man or woman that person saw on Valentine's day. This developed into the custom of challenging one's valentine by saying, "Good morning, 'tis St. Valentine's day." The one who said it first upon meeting a person of the opposite sex received a gift.

Interesting Valentine Reading.
Interesting reading for Valentine's day is Dickens' account of Samivel Weller's labors writing of a valentine to his housemaid love, signed "Your lovesick Pickwick."

TEDDY'S VALENTINE

Years Ago All Valentines Had a Personal Touch.

Much of the Romance of the Day Has Passed, Though Sentiment Is the Same as Ever.

Three hundred years ago young men and women wrote their own valentines, which consisted then only of love mottoes, or declarations of affection, written in verse from a very full heart and on plain paper. Many of our great-grandmothers saved these old mists.

Perhaps our parents came across such valentines, old and yellow and decaying, packed away in lavender in the bottom of a dusty trunk up in the attic. Yet when these valentines were first penned and put in their hands how grand the heart did pulsate and the blushes rise to her cheeks! No matter how halting the sonnet, or anagram or triole, it was the music of love to her. "Heart," "dart" and "art" did rhyme sweetly!

The machine-made valentines that we buy nowadays have lost this personal touch, though perhaps some of them have gained from an artistic point of view. Today it is only the school children and a few open-hearted interested grown-ups who find the custom of valentine making and valentine giving the fascination that it used to be. Why, even Charles Lamb wrote valentines and loved to.

Now the modern young man drops in a confectioner's or florist's shop and orders candy or flowers sent to her. He scorns the valentine sonnet—whereby the girls of today are missing a heap of romance.

This was the day when a young man might accuse some young woman he admired of being a coquette without insulting her. In those days "coquette" had just such a naughty meaning as "vamp" has today. It meant a heartless trifter.

If she thereupon sent him a handmade valentine on which were two bleeding hearts made as one, it was her answer to his accusation. It meant that conquering the hearts of other men than he, meant nothing to her; that only his heart and hers in all the world counted, that her heart was bleeding for him just as much as his was suffering for her.

The comic valentine is an outgrowth or burlesque of the super-sentimental valentine and has almost died out. Instead of pointing out the recipient's perfections and charms it dwells vividly and uncomplimentarily on his mannerisms, clothes and appearance, in colored caricature. Red hair, large nose, blotched complexion, remarkable skinniness or avoirdupois are usually the jocular themes. Because valentines are sent anonymously, it is possible with impunity to remark scathingly on the physical characteristics or disposition of one's friends or foes.

NOT AS IN DAYS OF OLD

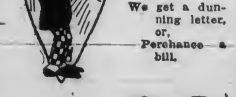

Valentine Day Missives Somehow Differ From Those of One's Gay and Festive Youth.

When we were yet a youngster small,
And sweethearts true swayed
What joy was ours! How we recall Their mushy lines!

Then when to man's impotent
Grown, those dreadful
Comics were our bane;
Their hits at faults we thought Unknown.

Gave us a pain.

No old time token greets our eye,
To make us either gay or mad;
Both love and malice pass us by—
It's very sad.

Make Sure of Valentine Kiss.
If you have no sweetheart to come to kiss you early on St. Valentine's morning, go out and sweep the nearest well with a broom. Once the cubs are gone he will come flying.

Local Happenings.

The following is from the Crittenden correspondent in Grant County News:

Crittenden seems to entertain the Tournament this year. The executive board met last Friday at Walton to discuss the tournament plans, which is to be held May 25, 26 and 27. There are many reasons for having it here. Reason one, Crittenden has a central location. It can be reached by rail, motor or airplane. Reason two, it is not a great distance from the farthest school. Reason three, the schools like to come to Crittenden. Reason four, Crittenden has one of the best auditoriums in this district and also the required seating capacity. Reason five, we have a real high school orchestra which will add much attraction to the occasion. Reason six, we have a charmed, royal host. We can all guarantee to entertain and provide for our guests. In other words Crittenden has everything to make this a great place for the tournament. Are these sufficient number of reasons? Good reasons? So come one, come all, you Crittendenians and let us give a big boost for the Northern Kentucky Tournament at Crittenden.

Why is it that no preparation is being made for work in 1921 no fields being cleaned off for the plow, no barns cleaned, no manures spread, no hum of industry that brings contentment and prosperity. Does it pay to make matters worse by shirking on job and dodging the issue. This is the time to curry and feed old Dolbin, get him ready for the plow. Fix the hot beds, clean the barns and hen houses, and spray the fruit trees and bring the work up for a good start when the season opens. We have had a fine winter and there for an early spring so let us use our brains a little more and prepare for a successful year.

Suitable plantings are necessary to make the yard or farmstead into a pleasing, homelike whole. Trees are used for windbreaks, as frames for the buildings or a background for them, and to give shade. Shrubs are needed in abundance to hide partially the foundation lines of buildings, support their corners, give reasons for trees in drive or walks and to screen unsightly objects. Native trees and shrubs and those known by trial to thrive in the locality are the best to use.

B. C. Kirtley, prominent young farmer of East Bend bottoms, was a business visitor to the county seat, last Saturday. He called on the printers and left $1.50 to retain a front seat in the Recorder's joy-wagon for another year. Mr. Kirtley is one of the busiest men in the county but he finds a little spare time to auctioneer a public sale when called upon to do so. He has had a number of this kind of work to perform over in Indiana, the past few months.

Measured by the time required for the work of this office in the year, the office of County Tax Commissioner, is the best paying office in the county. The prospects of an examination may keep down the size of the field, but at that there will probably be several candidates. The office in Boone now being worth about $4,000 per year, while it was formerly worth from $1,200 to $1,500. The salaries of the clerks must be paid by the commissioner.

John J. Schwartz, of Tacoma, Washington, died of heart trouble, February 3, 1921. He was born in this Boone county, Oct. 12, 1866, and moved to Washington in 1904 to make his home. He is survived by two sisters—Mrs. D. Tripp and Mrs. H. J. Tapp. The body was taken to Washington, where it was buried.

Altho there has been very little good sugar weather this season, Sterling House, of Pleasant neighborhood, has had his camp in operation and has made several gallons of the very finest of molasses, which sells at $4.50 a gallon. Ransom Ryle, substantial farmer and good citizen of Locust Grove neighborhood, was a visitor to Burlington last Saturday, bringing a little urgent business. He took time to call at the Recorder's and informed us that if he had the time he would like to make several speeches to the farmers on the tobacco question.

Dr. Kenneth Ryle, the veterinarian, has been kept on his feet for the past month or so, but he took time enough one day this week to call at this office and pay for another year's subscription to the Recorder. His wife, Dr. C. G. Ryle, who is located at Georgetown.

Mrs. Geo. Penn, left last Saturday for a visit of several weeks with her mother, at Georgetown and other relatives in Scott county.

A SWEEP OF P. M'S.

The idea seems to prevail in Republican circles, that there will be a general sweep of Democratic office holders, in so far as these are not protected by the classified service. If so, the new president is going to make a great mistake. The people are sick of this constant rotation in office.

If a new manager on taking charge of a business asked whether his subordinates agreed with him politically, and if he discharged those belonging to the opposite party from his own, he would be considered wholly incompetent. He could never succeed in organizing production unless he forgot about political considerations.

Mr. Harding's new administration would be stronger if it let all faithful office holders remain in their jobs regardless of politics. It may be admitted that executives in charge of departments need to be changed. But in other cases, political consideration should be ignored, as they would be in private business.

It may be said that both parties have heretofore followed this practice of making political removals, when an administration changed. There is no doubt true, and both parties are to blame. But the administration that should have the wisdom to discontinue this unbusinesslike course, would go a long way to please the people, who are sick of the squabbles over office and the pulling and hauling of politicians.

Considering the tremendous army of hungry office seekers who are now taking up the time of the Republican chiefs, it is too much to expect this to be done. Perhaps when the Democrats get back to power they will be able to see far enough into the future to resolve on such a popular course.

Enthusiastic Campaign.

Hindman, capital of Knott county nestled among the foot hills of the mountain of Eastern Kentucky has furnished an interesting story and experience in money raising during the recent campaign in this State for the suffering children in Eastern Kentucky.

Fifty boys and girls members of the Bible Class of the Hindman Settlement School, found their inspiration for the campaign for suffering children in Eastern Kentucky in the stories in the Literary Digest.

These young mountain people organized themselves into small groups and equipped themselves with information concerning the conditions in Europe, sailed forth to solicit from the village of Hindman and for miles and miles to the neighboring towns around Hindman, collecting their funds in small sums totaling $27.22, which was received at the State Headquarters of the European Relief Council.

Perry Davidson, who sent in the collection from Hindman, is a boy, who has seen a more thorough or enthusiastic campaign. It was real crusading. There is no wealth in all this neighborhood but these are the splendid example set by the workers and the villagers, all people of limited means, would have proudly contributed. Hindman was stirred up to the warmth of sympathy and self denial.

The Kentucky fund is still short of the $100,000 goal. The $27.22 dollars, check should be sent to Richard Bean, Treasurer Board of Trade Bldg., Louisville, Ky., or deposited with any bank in the State.

Showing the Right Spirit.

At the last meeting of the Fiscal Court a number of citizens residing along the Woolper pike from near Fork to the Petersburg pike, submitted to the court the proposition that they would put a quantity of rock to crush or haul the rock to the court house. The court was asked if they would haul the rock to the court house and put it on the pike. The court was asked if they would haul the rock to the court house and put it on the pike. The court was asked if they would haul the rock to the court house and put it on the pike.

"Lizzie" Penned Up.

A prominent farmer who lives about three miles from Burlington has made a firm New Year resolve. He sat down one day to write a letter to his wife, and he found that his ink was low. He went to the garage and drained his machine. Coming back to his house he found his wife. The automobile was due. Gas is high and farm products are low. Lizzie is out there in the garage penned up, and if you don't get your ink, butter and egg money feeding and running her, I haven't a word to say. But as for me—old Dolbin—she is a good girl. I am going to give her a new horse shoe until times get more prosperous.

Some young men's idea of the first step toward business success is to equip themselves with a dress suit and plug hat.

Formally Declared Elected.

Warren G. Harding of Ohio, and Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, were formally declared today by Congress to be President and Vice President of the United States for four years beginning March 4th.

Thus was written the final chapter in the history of the 1920 Presidential elections. The scene was laid in the chamber of the House of Representatives with the Democratic Vice President Marshall presiding. The occasion was the canvassing of the electoral votes cast by the electors chosen on November 2-4 for the Republican candidates and 127 for the Democratic candidates, former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, of Hyde Park, N. Y.

REDUCTION NEEDED.

Every year for the past five or six farm property in this section of the State, and we presume in other sections as well, has been boosted. If the boost was not a valuation of $50 an acre, the commissioner it was made by the various county boards of equalizers, and if the county boards of equalizers it was taken up by the state board at Frankfort. During the past two years real estate values soared, and land was sold for $35 and $50 an acre jumped to $75 and $100 an acre. Quite a considerable amount of land changed hands at a tremendous price, and under our assessment law such land had to be paid in at 90 per cent. of the price paid for it.

The assessment last which ten years ago was between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 was increased to between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. Landowners who had been paying on a valuation of $50 an acre were raised to $100, $125, or even $150 an acre, and lower priced land was increased accordingly.

This year has seen a slump in the price of land. The increase of one and two years ago, land which was valued at $100 an acre last year would hardly bring back that price now. There are really so few transactions in real estate that a fair basis of depreciation can hardly be found. The depreciation is apparent to those familiar with conditions, however.

This being the case it seems only fair there should be a reduction in land values by the Tax Commission. The county board should not be done for the year 1921 for which the assessment has already been made, but it is only right that the county board should be done at the next assessment. As it stands now there is lots of land assessed at a higher figure than it can be sold for, and it is doubtful if all the land in the county if sold at public outcry would bring its assessed valuation.—Grant Co. News.

In Line of Duty.

A dramatic appeal to the House to reward the heroic war exploit of Lieut. Edward Isaacs, United States navy, who stepped forward in another man's place for a German submarine after his ship, the President Lincoln, had been torpedoed, was made by Representative Joseph H. Eagle, of Texas, Democrat.

The speaker said Isaacs record would stand out as one of the daring feats of the World War. "When a prize submarine was demanded an officer prisoner," said Mr. Eagle, "Isaacs came forth and announced that his commander, Percy W. Rood, was not to be taken. He was the Secretary of the Navy, probably had perished and that he was ready to go.

"For 11 days, while a captive of the enemy, he led facts about the German navy's plan of operations that were of utmost importance to the allied fleet."

With this in mind he escaped, at the risk of his life. Mr. Eagle continued, and was wounded so seriously and beaten so severely that although 29 years old he was physically unable to remain in the navy.

$1,000 Reward.

One thousand dollars "dead or alive" for the capture of a bank robber will probably soon be the reward given by banks of Kentucky in an effort to rid the institutions from losses caused by bandits. The plan was formed at a meeting of the executive committee of the State Bankers Association held at the Shelburne, Louisville.

A number of other precautionary measures were also planned. The Legislature will be requested to enact a severer punishment for bank robbers. It was suggested that banks in small towns equip their buildings with burglar alarms and provide night watchmen.

The increased reward of $1,000 will be raised according to a plan announced by Harry D. Smith, secretary of the association, by having $500 banks in the State make a subscription of $2 each upon the conviction of a bank bandit.

GAVE "COLD" CHECK.

Saturday morning Sheriff Conner was called by phone to Petersburg to investigate the conduct of a man, in a soldier uniform, who was accompanied by a lady. The man answered the description of the soldier who passed a worthless check on the Ludlow, Ky. Savings Bank, last Wednesday.

Upon his arrival in Petersburg and after talking to the soldier, Sheriff Conner was certain he was the party who had passed the check at the Ludlow Bank. He arrested him and brought him, with the young lady, before the County Judge. The man said his name was Stone, and he admitted that he passed the check and also implicated another man, Francis Grady. The lady who was with Stone, named Mrs. Mary Clark, of Cincinnati, not quite 15 years of age, Stone and the Clark girl had been at Aurora and other places in Indiana selling cards and pictures Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume went with the Clark girl to Ludlow where she pointed out to them the residence of Grady whom Stone had implicated in the check deal. The Clark girl was delivered to her father and grand mother in Louisville.

Stone and the Clark girl together with the Ludlow police, arrested Grady and also took into custody Anna Dirch, a girl just over 15 years of age, who was with them and turned her over to the Kenton county authorities. The Government authorities will proceed without delay against Stone and Grady for violating the white slave act. Deputy Hume took Stone to Covington Monday morning. Sheriff Stone claims to be a soldier of the late war and that he was wounded in the Argonne and also gassed. Stone has a number of wounds on his body, his right leg was so badly injured that he has no feeling below the knee. Stone shows the effect of having been gassed, as he is unable to get his breath and also seems to be mentally deficient. He says he left the Great Lakes hospital Chicago, on March 23rd, and has been in a desert. It is to be regretted that one who has served his country and received the punishment of a court-martial, should be a deserter. It is to be regretted that one who has served his country and received the punishment of a court-martial, should be a deserter. It is to be regretted that one who has served his country and received the punishment of a court-martial, should be a deserter.

Stone and Grady were tried in the Ludlow police court Monday morning and the charges against them were dismissed. Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume held their man for the Federal authorities who reached Ludlow shortly after they had been dismissed on the cold check charge. These men will be given a preliminary hearing on Thursday before United States Commissioner Mrs. Bell, for violating the white slave law.

The Rat-A-World Menace.

The necessity of a campaign of unvarying efficiency against the common brown rat is an outstanding fact. No other animal or insect is so dangerous and persistent an enemy, and no other enemy succeeds in inflicting the damage that the rat annually imposes upon humanity. The rat is at least equal to the human population, and the same ratio holds true for practically every other pest of the human race. The Bureau of Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, places the value of the food and clothing destroyed annually by each individual rat at $2. Keep well within the boundaries of conservatism this means that each year, in this country alone, over $200,000,000 worth of food is lost to other purposes than to feed our rats. In another way 200,000 men in the United States are denied the right to the maintenance of 100,000,000 rats.

Death to Insects.

To the sorrow of some of the insect pests which have been under the effect of plant leaves and so escape the effect of poison sprays, the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, has been experimenting with a mixture of dust mixed with kerosene to give the poison bulk, forty per cent of the mixture is made of remarkable work in controlling meadow, cabbage, and pea aphids, onion thrips, and western cucumber beetles. The spray and dust are hard to reach with ordinary sprays, but the floating dust settles upon the under side of the leaves and is not so easily washed off. The experiments show that much larger areas can be treated in less time than is required by spraying. The equipment is not necessary to apply the dust, it is much less expensive than a spray outfit and its cost of application is less than by the other method. It can be mixed with arsenate of lead or sulphur for use against insects and fungous diseases.

Roughed Lips Are In For Good Washing.

Birmingham Ala., girls with hectic complexions artificially produced are in for a face washing wherever they appear on the streets. It is the future, according to Mrs. Hulda Newsome, police woman.

Mrs. Newsome declared today that whenever she sees a young girl with a "shinkey white complexion, cheeks of brilliant red, vermilion pigment on her lips and her nose powdered to the white of the face, she feels like scolding her to the nearest bathroom and administering to her face a liberal dose of soap and water.

Mrs. Walter Kelly.

Mrs. Jessie Waldo Kelly passed from the mortal to the immortal at her home on Sumner street Monday evening at 6 o'clock, aged 46 years, 1 month and 21 days. Mrs. Kelly was a noble woman and a Christian, being a member of the Presbyterian congregation; a devoted wife and affectionate mother, bringing up her children in the best manner possible.

W. J. Howe, of Hamilton, is renewing his subscription to the Recorder as follows: "You, the former publisher and the many readers of same, have my best wishes for health, happiness and success in the future."

Well Satisfied.

W. T. Davis in renewing his subscription, writes as follows: Gadsden, Ala., Feb. 8, 1921.

Dear Mr. Riddell: We are all well and satisfied here where we are located in Alabama on a good farm of 76 acres. The weather has been very pleasant here this winter, the ground being frozen only a few times and very thin ice, 1/4 of an inch.

The Hare and Rabbit.

Although hares and rabbits look very much alike, they have wide differences of which many persons are, however, ignorant. Apart from the obvious facts that the former have longer legs and ears, young hares are born covered with fur and with eyes open, thus being able to run in a few minutes, rabbits are born naked, blind and helpless.

This perfectly suits each creature's way of life. Hares live solitary in the open, having only "forms" or slight shelters in the grass, for homes. Rabbits live under ground, and in community they have warm burrows, and their young are kept for some weeks in snug, comfortable nurseries, lined with leaves, grass and fur. Yet rabbits have the shorter nose. The pair who five to eight months old. Young hares wait a year before mating. Their families make no effort to leave the place of their birth, the notoriously profligate rabbit.

A marked physical difference between the two types of animal is found in their feet. The hare has five toes on each foot, and only four to his hind legs. The sole of his feet are marvelous-like soft brushes. Women know give a size thirty shoe for applying rougher than a hare's foot.

By day hares remain quiet in their "forms" feeding and traveling through the night. To foil any would-be pursuers, as they come in at dawn, they run in a maze, crossing and recrossing their trail, finally taking several long leaps to the safety of a clump of grass which they call home.

Club Enrollment To Have Big Increase.

Lexington—More than 12,000 Kentucky boys and girls ranging in age from 10 to 18 years have already been enrolled in 10,000 Junior Agricultural Clubs. This is a result of an recent proclamation made by Gov. Edwin P. Morrow, signing a law for the enrollment of the campaign which are being compiled in the office of C. W. Buckner, state director of junior club work in Kentucky.

With indications pointing toward an enrollment of approximately 23,000 youngsters an increase of about 50 per cent over the 14,000 in 1920 will be realized, according to Mr. Buckner. The campaign was conducted during the week of Dec. 6 to 11.

The latest enrollment in a single county was reported from Whitley county where County Agent E. F. Davis already has 1,200 boys and girls signed up to the work. He expects to enroll at least 150 more. Other counties which have enrollments of more than 500 youngsters include Jackson, Warren, Davies and Laurel.

Christian County Heifer Establishes State Record.

Pembroke, Ky.—What is said by state authorities at the State College of Agriculture to be the highest milk and butter fat record ever made by a yearling heifer in Kentucky has been reported from a Jersey, Blue Bell's Sarah Ann, in the herd of Mrs. H. H. Felcher, of this city. The cow started her official test when she freshened at the age of one year and five months and during the year she produced 3,218 lbs. of milk, 28 1/2 pounds of butter fat equivalent to 595 pounds of butter. Mrs. Felcher was assisted in the testing by H. G. Cross, assistant county agent of Christian county.

The Unemployed.

In view of the continued large number of people who remain out of employment in many places, the question of finding jobs on public works ought to be taken up by states and municipalities. It is not an easy matter to arrange, as the business situation may change in a short time. Four months from now may see the factories very busy. Yet in view of the harm done by having large numbers of men idle, plans should be formed for action, in case this revival is delayed.

It would seemingly be good policy to hurry up plans for the building of a large amount of highway construction. States where there are many idle men, ought to put through a lot of road jobs, that need doing and must be attended to soon.

The federal government and many of the states are planning a lot of road construction for this season. The work should be pushed ahead with all possible speed, so as to relieve unemployment as quickly as possible. Cut out the red tape when men need work.

Farm Flock Makes $98 For December.

Corydon, Ky.—What can be accomplished by the proper care and feeding of the farm poultry flock is shown by the results obtained from the flock of T. Wilson, of this city, where a profit of $98.26 was realized from 100 birds. The flock was started in December. Mrs. Wilson is conducting a demonstration in cooperation with the State College of Agriculture, showing the proper care and management according to its recommendations.

INCREASED ASSESSMENT.

The State Tax Commission has filed with Governor Morrow, their third annual report, being for the year 1920. This report shows that the assessed value of lands has increased $56,153.30. Town lots have increased $19,341.31. Tangible property other than live stock has increased $38,754.26. Live stock has decreased $10,061.55. Bank shares have increased $2,638.74, while intangible property has decreased $85,698.27. The great loss in the assessment of intangible property is explained by the fact that the assessment in 1919 included the intangible property of the Bingham estate, amounting to over $1,000,000. This estate was not assessed in 1920 and suit has been approved by the commission seeking to assess this property. Excluding the Bingham estate there was an increase in tangible property of $11,726.97.

On each $100 of tax collected for state purposes, is borne by the different classes of property as follows: Lands $49.90, Town lots $1.00, Intangible property $15.10, and live stock $34.90. In 1915 the amount was as follows: Lands $41.75, town lots $3.97, intangible property $15.10, and live stock $34.90. In 1915 bank deposits were subject to a tax rate of 55 cents and produced a revenue amounting to $60,718.51 while in 1920 a rate of 10 cents, bank deposits produced $260,919.32.

THE JOYS OF SHOPPING.

When the women read how Mrs. Harding is busying herself with shopping, in search of the elaborate equipment she will need for her experience in the White House, they feel a thrill of sympathetic interest. Most women would enjoy this chance to buy beautiful things freely, about as much as any other pleasure. The first lady of the land will have in her varied life.

No man quite realizes the pleasure of shopping. Some women get out of shopping. She has an inherited love of fine fabrics, and is trained from girlhood to a discerning sense of the excellence in this kind of products. She feels the same elation in securing a nice piece of merchandise, that a hunter feels in capturing a deer or a fisherman in landing a big trout.

The modern producers of textiles and clothing each year in their sense of harmony in color and design, produce a variety of artistic idea can't help being fascinated by the beauty of all these works of human skill.

Shopping is a pleasure. It is not a lot in the acquirement of costly fabrics. There is also a pleasure in making moderate returns on the investment. The woman who, after a careful study of advertising and of the material offered, returns with an excellent piece of goods at a moderate price, feels a sense of elation. She has beaten the game of high prices, and she shows her trophy to her friends with a certain pride.

Living Conditions.

"The distressing living conditions of the European people was told by Private Perry of Louisville, formerly an officer on General Pershing's Staff and now an American Relief Worker in Herbert Hoover's Administration. The following story of conditions in Budapest, being only one of a number of places he has visited in the last three months: "Even the wood that is used," said Mr. Perry, "in the American Relief Administration Kitchen for cooking soup rations, which is given to 50,000 starving children of Budapest, is imported from another country."

"The schools have been closed since October 1, due to lack of fuel. The bread lines start forming at midnight, in spite of cold, wet rains, snow and slush. The bread offices open at nine in the morning, soon the supply is exhausted, hundreds are turned away empty handed."

"There are 7,000 refugees living in box cars scattered throughout the railroad yards in Budapest. These people are total Hungarians who have come to Budapest from occupied territories because they would not swear allegiance to their victorious enemies, the Jugo Slavs, the Rumanians, and the Czechoslovaks. They live precariously, a family of four to ten in each box car—and these box cars are not more than half the size of our American freight cars. I went into several of them, and was made sick by the stench and odor and the literal horror of the poverty of these people. Scarlet fever has now broken out among them. You may be able to visualize the rottenness of it all. Sometimes when a child returns from the bread line with a loaf, or empty-handed, as the case may be, he will not know where to find his home, for it has been shunted over to another track or yard."

"I went into some of the tenement houses; there I found an average of five people to one room ten feet square, in which all the members of the family, cook, eat and sleep—no windows are opened during the winter time. These people pay a rental of about a half cent a week. I found a widow with nine children in one of these rooms, not one of them had shoes, and the mother was almost crazy with despair."

Funds continue to come to Richard Bean, Treasurer of the European Relief Council of Kentucky but not sufficient yet to reach the desired goal.

Camp Taylor to be Sold.

Camp Zachary Taylor probably will be auctioned in parcels in April. It was announced when the War Department out of thirty-two proposals, accepted the $1,000,000 guarantee bid of the Louisville Real Estate and Development Co. Last-minute efforts to have the base hospital property at the camp excluded from the sale were abandoned when it was asserted in Washington that the camp hospital would not be suitable for public health services.

It had been suggested that the hospital be retained and improved in preference to improvement of the United States Marine Hospital here, for which Congress has been asked to appropriate $603,000.

Potash in Germany occurs in the form of a rock salt and runs in seams of thirty feet or more in thickness. As mined it has about the same consistency as the common rock salt of commerce, and its grinding is easy. The depths at which the true potash deposits are situated make it necessary to sink shafts leading to levels of as much as 5,000 feet below the surface.

In Tune With the Times

The day of big expenses on War Time Prices and Profits is past, for merchants as well as farmers, and we have adjusted our business to meet present day conditions.

We cheerfully take our losses on any merchandise in stock when wholesale prices dropped.

We are receiving, almost daily, shipments of NEW GOODS, bought at today's lower prices—and all are being sold on close margins of profits, depending on increased volume of business.

TO JUSTIFY OUR ACTION.

The changes recently made in our store room saves one-third of our heat and light expenses; we have one-third less floor to sweep. We have as much shelving as before, our stocks are more compact and easier to sell from, and our rent is lower. We are therefore happy because these conditions reduce our running expense and enables us to operate on smaller profits.

WE WILL CONTINUE TO CARRY

good selections in all lines we have been carrying.

Dry Goods, Notions, Ladies' Ready-to-wear Garments, Hosiery and Underwear for all, Rugs, Carpets, Matting, Linoleum, Window Shades, Draperies, Men's Underwear, Etc.

We hereby extend to the citizens of Boone County an invitation to call and see our New Store and inspect our splendid values in all lines. You'll know the war is over when you see OUR LOWER PRICES.

Farm Bureau Notes.

The Farm Bureau officers are learning that the greatest constructive work as well as ability to serve every member comes from the precinct as a unit, rather than the county as a whole.

The Executive Committees are calling precinct meetings in their respective precincts. These meetings are more than a success and tend to give every precinct equal service. Do you need one in your precinct?

The Boone County Farm Bureau acting in accordance with all the other Farm Bureaus in the country, are sending all agents for fertilizer factories home, telling them to come back with a price more nearly that of other commodities, and we will have a big order, but not until then. You will see cheaper fertilizer presently.

The Farm Bureau is enjoying the greatest activities of its young life. Every day brings about new duties.

Our whole aim is to serve. Our clover and grass seed orders for this season to date totals 365 bushels.

Our headquarters are becoming a veritable exchange for purebred and breeding livestock—even unto poultry.

The Farm Bureau is laying out fertilizer demonstrations on several places in the county. Don't you think a series of plots treated with different combinations of fertilizer would be of great value in your community?

On the last day of January the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation reported a membership of 51,000. This is an increase of 10,000 members in 90 days.

Mr. Gray Silver, Washington Representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, reports that the Gronna Bill to regulate the packers has passed the Senate.

The farmers of Kentucky have not yet fully realized what the new freight rate means to them. If the railroads had secured the rates they asked for, the annual charge in the U. S. would be over $400,000,000 more than it will be in 1921. The organized farmers and shippers of the country were able to force reduction in the valuation of the railroads $1,700,000. More than one half the freight charges falls upon the farmers.

If the farmers of the country had not been organized and properly financed, the AVERAGE farmer would have in 1921, paid over $30.00 more freight than he will have to pay. This saving alone will pay for five years' annual Farm Bureau dues at $6 per year.

After a ten day debate on Jan. 14, the Senate passed the Wade worth Bill, which authorizes and directs the use of the Muscle Shoals Nitrate Plant for the production of fertilizer. It should be understood that the opponents of the farmers in this proposition were the American Cyanamide Co., the Chilean Nitrate monopoly, the fertilizer combine and the great by-products interests, including the U. S. Steel Corporation.

If all the Farm Bureau members of the country were to march down the main street of your town at the rate of 5,000 a day, it would take the line ten months to pass the postoffice.

The man who recovers first from the gloom of his bad business, or poor wages, or whatever it was that hit him, is the man who is going to have the most prosperous life. The better times that are on their way, that are on their way just as sure as the sun comes up and out of the east every morning. He is going to have the most prosperity because his effort will stretch over a larger period than the fellow who slouches gloomily until the good times are so apparent that they hit him in the nose.

The second of the series of articles on the Income Tax law as it applies to farmers, which are written by Maurice F. Lyons, Federal Attorney and Income Tax expert of Covington, Ky., is published in this issue. Farmers should familiarize themselves with these articles, as by so doing they will have no trouble making out their income report.

The following is taken from the Courier-Journal of the 9th inst.: "Dr. Horace Grant left $10,000 to Dr. Ousley Grant, a son, by his will, probated in the county court yesterday, and the remainder of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Lelia E. O. Grant. The estate is real estate valued at $16,000, and personal property of an estimated value of $38,000."

Only six states in the Union now have no representation in the American Farm Bureau Federation. Of these, three will probably vote affiliation at their annual meeting in February. The other three have no state federations, but are in the process of organization. The American Farm Bureau Federation by June 1st will probably include among its membership farmers in every state in the Union.

Bayle Hutchinson, 810 Scott street. The funeral was held last Thursday in Covington Burial in Bellevue cemetery. He was the son of Harry and Eva Botts, both of whom died several years ago. Moore," yesterday, succeeded in kidnapping Harry G. Miller, head of a detective agency in Cincinnati, out of $500 in Liberty bonds and making a "get away."

Can Kennedy and Ezra Rouse sent their tobacco to Florence so he sold on the loose leaf market.

The growers are patronizing about all the markets in the State.

J. P. Tanner, our mail carrier, while on his route one day last week, had trouble getting around. His horse fell in a mud hole and he had to get out of his rig and assist him before he could get out, which was a very unpleasant job. He went home the next day and was caught in a heavy rain and got soaking wet.

All this happened on account of the condition of the roads. Is there a remedy?

Has any one figured the damage done to the roads in Kentucky, caused by hauling tobacco to market? Most of the tobacco is delivered when the roads are wet and slippery and not in condition to sustain that traffic.

The use of chalked instead of printed notices for advertisement and political propaganda has ancient precedent, as the "graffiti" of Pompeii attest. There we find in red letters painted on the walls that "the harbors wish to have Trebus as aedile" or that "the fruit sellers wish one cotinus for the dumplings."

Shoe Three Feet Long.

The latticed moccasins resembles in a general way a large tennis racket, with the handle missing. The body of the shoe is two or three feet long and twelve inches or more wide at the broadest part, says the American Forestry Magazine. The rim is of ash, hickory or elm. The ski is made of beech, birch, maple, ash or spruce.

"THE CAT CAME BACK"

Earl McNulty Escaped From Jail At 5 A. M. Captured and Back In Jail At 10 A. M.

Earl McNulty, who was confined in jail for assaulting Miss Rosa Peeno, of Constance, escaped.

Monday morning, McNulty had made all plans for his escape. He had a key to the jail door and had covered them with the best clothing so that the led had no appearance of being occupied by the jailer. McNulty slipped out the door and Jailer Fowler locked the door as usual, but McNulty had secretly hidden himself behind a box in the corridor. When the jailer unlocked the door and opened the corridor door and went down a few steps to get a water bucket, McNulty sprang from his hiding place and ran down the stairs. He went with Jailer Fowler in pursuit. McNulty soon outdistanced the jailer. McNulty was tracked by the jailer to the rear of the building and then northwest to the Bell Telephone office. McNulty made his escape by running through the back of the office, down the street, being about 500 feet away when Jailer Fowler went to make the fire in the jail.

McNulty ran down the street with the telephone and he and Deputy Hume started in pursuit in a Buick Buick. A telephone message received from the Bell Telephone office neighborhood, stated that McNulty had just left from his home in the neighborhood. McNulty and Deputy Hume started in pursuit in a Buick Buick. McNulty was captured by Deputy Hume and Jailer Fowler.

Jailer Fowler has been very cautious with his prisoners, but they will escape from any jail jailer.

The Weather.

The weather the first two weeks of February with the bright, warm sunshine, boys playing ball, robins and birds flitting from tree to tree warbling as blithe as though it was good old summer time, made one feel as if spring time had really come, and that Mr. G. Hog, the eminent prophet, was going to make good and that the backbone of winter was broken.

Notwithstanding—all these hardships notwithstanding—this part of the country was visited by a high wind and heavy snow fall last Saturday. Snow began falling about one o'clock Saturday morning and continued throughout the day, all night and at times took the appearance of a blizzard and snow flew in every direction.

Upon anchoring, three

In this climate, these sudden changes may be expected at the time of year, and when these changes come, it is safe to predict they will not last long, and the backbone of winter is broken and according to the groundhog we will have very little more winter.

"That, on the first day you hear it thunder during the winter months, on that same date May we will have a cold spell. And, as it thundered on the 14th inst., keep a watch on the 14th of May—as it never fails—so saith eth said prophet."

"This is the sixteenth snow the winter," said another. "As the first snow fell on November 1st there will be no more snow after this is gone." Stick a pin here.

TAKE YOUR COUNTY PAPER

Republican Leadership.

It is a comparatively easy thing to criticize. A man of very small ability can stand on one side and pick a lot of flaws in the work of people who are trying to do things.

The Republican leaders had a comparatively easy time for the past eight years. All they had to do was to find fault with what the elected officials of the country were doing. As those officials were faced with the most serious problems that the country has confronted since its foundation in 1789, the finding of mistakes was not a difficult thing to do. Anyone who had been in power, and who had had to confront new situations of incredible difficulty, would have made false moves.

But now the Republican party finds itself up against a new situation. It is compelled to take the responsibility, and it has to do something besides criticize. It must formulate plans of action, and do something decisive and it says, "The calling for action on many questions that have been postponed and ignored."

The administration could do nothing on these lines for two years past, since a majority of Congress was hostile to its proposals. Congress was disorganized down whatever the executive suggested. Consequently it did not seem of much practical use to lay out new lines of policy.

The last year the Republicans were in power, they did not show this faculty for constructive action. More than half of their party broke away from constructive action. More than half of their party broke away and joined an independent movement, as the result of their dissatisfaction with the way it is being run. They failed to meet the demands of the country.

The Republican party ought to have learned something in these eight years of defeat. If so, it has not been apparent in the actions of Congress since the election.

My Old Man.

I thought, we thought we heard you refer to your old man this morning as "the old man."

You are eighteen years of age, are you not? Just so. That is just about the age when you have the first attack of big head.

You imagine it all this moment that you know it all. We see by the cut of your trousers and the angle of hat, and the swagger of your walk, that you are madly in love with yourself.

Some of those are errors of youth which we older ones can overlook, but it is not to be heard you speak in terms of disrespect of one you should never mention save by the sacred name of father. He may not be up to your style in the modern art of making a fool of himself, but ten to one he forgets more in a week than you will ever learn. He may enjoy his old pipe more than the scraps of tobacco in a tin of scraps of rice paper, but he still is entitled to all the reverence your shallow brain can muster.

By and by, after you are through knowing it all and begin to learn something you will be ashamed to look in the glass, and you will wonder where the fool-kicker kept himself when you were ripe for sacrifice.

And then, when the "old man" grows weary of life's tolls, journey, and stops for the long rest, and you fold his hand across his breast and take the last look at a face that has grown beautiful in death, you may feel a sting of regret that you spoke of him in such disrespectful manner, and when you hear other sprouts of imbecility use the language that so delighted you in the germinal period you will feel like chasing them with a stake and crushing their skulls to see if there is any brain tissue on the inside.—Ex.

Restoring "Normalcy."

Some people are helping bring back good business, and some are obstructing it. Producers and distributors who continue to ask high prices for their goods are in the latter class. But every manufacturer and dealer who cuts his prices down to the level of the goods he would rather keep moving, even if he no more than gets a new dollar for an old one, he is doing a lot toward bringing better times.

And similarly the working people who insist on unchanged wages for themselves while all kinds of prices have been taking the toll of inflation are also obstructing the return of good business.

The constant circulation of rumors about the solvency of the contract, the process of trade about Christmas time, it was said in many centers, that the majority of business men were in a bad hole, and the impression was given that many were not solvent.

But nearly two months have passed, and while there have been a good many failures, yet the proportion is small to the total number of people engaged in business. These reports are all exaggerations. The great majority of business men made money enough in the inflation period to carry them through the deflation era.

An article appears in another column of this issue on the question of Income Tax, prepared by George G. Dunlap. Mr. Dunlap is a son of Rev. George Dunlap who resided in this county a few years since. Mr. Dunlap selected as his life mate a Boone County girl, Miss Grace Grant, daughter of Dr. J. M. Grant, of Petersburg.

WISE & OTHERWISE

A Combination of Sense, Non-sense, News, Etc.

The candidate in the Democratic primary who thinks he can get the nomination without the influence of the women and their votes, had better stay at home and scratch dirt—with the chickens.

A preacher says society girls at social functions wear only four garments, two of them being stockings. The other two must have been a slipper and a ig leaf, as the smile was not counted.

A hold-up man in a Western city the other day, after relieving a prosperous citizen of his roll, amounting to $200, handed back $20 for "incidentals." There's the real difference between a hold-up man and a profiteer.

An expedition is to spend five years in Asia in search of the "mystery link" between man and monkey. Judging from the way the election went last Fall, we should think the chances for an expedition of this kind very good right here in America.

The gentleman working man who formerly was pulling down from eight to twelve dollars a day and wearing $15 silk shirts to work in, is now a common laboring man, without a job, and rubbing his empty bread basket up against the free soup counters.

There is no longer any doubt that the goose who lays the golden eggs is the laborer, the fellow who feathery one nests for us. A man works hard all his life, is reasonably honest, and dies a pauper. It is plain as the wall on your baby's nose that somebody got all that the poor fellow ever made.

F. E. A. South, of Atlanta, Ga., whose wife adopted eleven babies and palmed them off on her husband as his, must have felt like the barn rooster when the old hen came off the nest with a brood of lossings. He looked at the strange birds a while, and then remarked that they were caught in his net, and he would have to claim them.

It is strange to us that some organization in this country should have seen cause to call a jury of 1,500 preachers to pass judgment on ladies dress. The verdict of a huge jury was to have been expected in advance. Many women from all ages, from Eve down, have worn just what they pleased, and not even the judgment of a preacher's jury will lengthen the skirt, collar or sleeve one eyelash.

Kentucky News Gullies

George Bruer lost a fine horse on his farm at Martin. He started to catch the horse in the barn when it whirled away, stepping on a tobacco stick. The end flew up and penetrated about two inches between its front legs. The stick was removed and the horse dropped dead in less than twenty minutes.—Vanderburg Sun.

Mr. O. C. Evans of the Mt. Sterling laundry is the owner of a dog that Sunday gave birth to six puppies, two of which are decidedly green. This is a peculiar sight as we have never seen nor heard of a dog of this color. This has caused quite a bit of excitement, and Mr. Evans has been busy for the past few days showing his callers the rare sight.—Sentinel-Democrat.

When Dr. Welch finishes his cleaning of the various dens of vice in Louisville we hope he will come down to Owensboro and break up the sinful private whist parties of the ladies of this town, and confiscate some of the old multi-colored jerseys they have been swapping around town. Our Law and Order League evidently needs the help of such a practical crusader.—Owensboro Messenger.

We have several people in this county past 80 years of age. J. J. Cummins is in his 82d year. His mind is clear and to hear him talk of General Morgan and his command is very entertaining. B. F. Whitaker is past 80, and is stout and hearty. He lives at Oddsville. Mrs. Joe Ross, mother of Squire J. C. B. Ross, is in her 81st year, and can tell you things that happened years ago, the same as the things of yesterday.—Cynthiana Democrat.

Not a firm in Kentucky pays a child labor tax, according to Elmer Hamilton, Collector of Internal Revenue. The tax, required by the Government, consists of 10 per cent on the gross value of articles produced with the aid of child labor.

Under the law manufacturers or employers are subject to the tax if they employ children less than 16 years old. No child less than 14 years old may be employed in mills, causing factories, workshops or manufacturing establishments.

The law also provides that child labor may not be employed more than eight hours a day, nor more than six days a week. Hours of such child employment are limited to the period between six o'clock in the morning and seven o'clock at night.

Federal officials voice the belief that the State law limiting employment of children less than 16 years old, which has been enforced vigorously, has not been down to zero the child labor tax obligations.

The total tobacco sales of the season at Lexington is $1,188,295 pounds at an average of 13¢ per pound.

Shock Frequently Does Good.
Keep fear out of your system, but don't be troubled at a little fright. Anything in the nature of a shock or a jolt is helpful if it doesn't come too late. It is the only way that three-quarters of the inhabitants of this earth can ever be made to realize the necessity of doing what is in them to do.—John Blake in Chicago Daily News.

A BIG MEETING.

Jeffrey Morgan, George Penn and W. B. Sutton have been holding meetings at different points in the county on behalf of the farm bureau. New members have been received at each of these meetings. When Mr. Morgan and Sutton attend a meeting you can rest assured that the interest of the farm bureau will be properly taken care of, as these men are thoroughly familiar with farm bureau work. A royal time was had at the Morgan meeting Monday night. A picture show was given, lunch served and every one enjoyed the evening.

Monday afternoon these men attended a meeting at Petersburg, which for enthusiasm and benefit done the farm bureau, was one of the best.

Manager Penn and Farm Agent Sutton held a meeting one night last week at the Riddell school house on the Bullittsville picnic farm bureau business. A number of new members joined the bureau at that meeting, which was very enthusiastic. The night was dark and rain falling, and some folks thought that Messrs. Penn and Sutton would not be present, but when these gentlemen made a date for a farm meeting they will be there. A little rain or snow will not keep them away.

Mrs. Jessie Waldo Kelly

"Life's race well run.
Life's work well done.
Life's crown well won--
Now comes rest!"

Mrs. Jessie Waldo Kelly, aged 64, widow of Walter Kelly, slipped away into the sleep eternal February 8, 1921, after a distressing illness of many months duration. Perhaps it is not making too broad an assertion to state that never in the history of our little city has a life and death so touched the hearts of our people. Bereft of her husband almost three years ago, with four children to train for life's battle, she took charge of his business, and with the help of the larger children ran it until her health was irrevocably gone. Mrs. Kelly was pre-eminently a wonderful wife and mother, measuring up to the description as given in the 31st chapter of Proverbs. When she realized that she was marked for the tomb, she kept up a most thorough training of each child, both in books and the many problems that come up in daily life. How well she succeeded in this undertaking is known to all, for he it said to the credit of Waldo, Lucinda, Martha and Hester, they are equipped to act their parts; and they also repaid their mother with obedience and loving care.

Still the home could ill afford to lose the guiding hand and the visible presence of this mother, whose life was singularly pure and beautiful; whose devotion to duty was rarely surpassed; whose conscientious persistency in following what she believed to be right. These traits together with a trustful faith in her Saviors merits she possessed, and we cannot understand the why of her going, but we do know the good God has made no mistake.

"Peace, be still,
Bow thy head and take Life's rapture and Lifes ill,
And wait at last all shall be clear!"

Mrs. Kelly was a member of the Universalist church, but in the absence of a church of her faith she worshipped with the Presbyterian congregation of this city, and was loyal in her support and faithful in her attendance.

After witnessing the heroic life and passing of this woman, Carrollton should be a better place in which to live. We should have more sympathy, more neighborliness, more kindness in our hearts for all about us.

Besides the four children Mrs. Kelly is survived by her mother, two sisters and three brothers, together with many other relatives. The funeral, conducted by Rev. J. Fenstermaker, took place at the home Thursday at 10 a. m.

There was also a beautiful talk by Miss Sue Brownlinski, interment in the L. O. O. F. Cemetery, Carrollton Democrat.

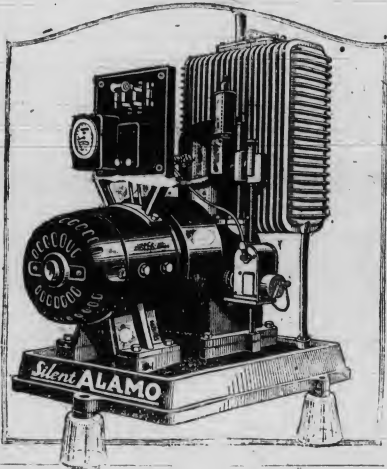

Mrs. Ada Comer, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Nannie McAttee, at Elwood, Indiana, has just returned to her home in Cheltenham with pneumonia.

In Tune With the Times

The day of big expenses on War Time Prices and Profits is past, for merchants as well as farmers, and we have adjusted our business to meet present day conditions.

The Rag Hollow Sunday school has installed a new organ in the church and many attend now that formerly did not. "Music bath charms" to soothe the "savage breast," and there are many who need something to stir up the dormant liking for higher things. —Greenup Republican.

How is this for generosity and big heartedness? The past week one of the leading business men of this place, one who handles the biggest business in this town, sold his crop of tobacco which had cost $2,400 to raise for $61. His tenant who was in on the deal was worrying about it and how much he owed his landlord, and what did this jolly good fellow do but tell him to go home and rest easy as the checks were all cleared between them. How's that for an example to some of the professed good fellows? —Cynthiana Democrat.

Newt McLaughlin, 70 years old, and Mrs. L. W. Ross, 65 years old, well known residents north of Murray, are uncle and aunt of a great grandmother. The great-grandmother is Mrs. Will Overby, 65 years old. Her daughter, Mrs. Sam Oglesby, aged 31 years, is the grandmother, and her daughter, Mrs. Ewing Workman, 18 years old, is the mother, and her daughter, Billie June Workman, one week old, is the child. What kin are the uncle and aunt to this child of the fifth generation? Now, go slow, and unravel the relationship for the Ledger. —Murray Ledger.

The residents of the Stanford Pike neighborhood are circulating a petition asking the fiscal court to make the road surface rough enough so that horses can stand up. The people claim that a horse cannot be rough shod to a degree that will enable the animal to stand up. It is not known what can be done to change the surface of the pike. Last fall it was covered with Tarvia and the surface has become as hard and as slick as glass, say the people who travel it. —Danville Advocate.

Cost of Tobacco.

Tobacco cost studies were conducted on eighty-one farms in the Burley area, covering 625.5 acres of tobacco by the Ky. Agricultural Experiment Station. The average acreage on each farm was 7.7. The highest yield was 2,221 pounds and the lowest 273 pounds, the average 1,111. The total cost per acre on the farms studied, including land rent, ranged from $163 to $103.18 averaging $29.10. The cost per pound varied from 15 cents to 31 cents, averaging 20 cents.

The lowest cost per acre from farms reported in 1919 is itemized as follows:

Man Labor	$69.75

Atmospheric Action.

The atmosphere of the earth acts very much in the same way as does the glass of a greenhouse—it allows the rays of the sun to pass through, but imprisons the heat. Thus it is cooler on the top of a mountain than at the sea level, because, though the mountain top is nearer the sun, the atmosphere is much less dense.

Wonderful Vatican Library.

The Vatican library is the most sumptuously housed of all libraries, and contains some of the rarest manuscripts in existence. The printed books include over 3,500 volumes issued in the Fifteenth century, many of them vellum copies. The library is said to contain over 250,000 volumes and 80,000 manuscripts.

Lumber is Down

Yes, Lumber is down—down to where a farmer can afford to build anything that can be made of lumber, even in the face of a low market on farm products.

Lumber was the last commodity to go up and the first to come down. Today lumber prices are down to where it is hard to see how they can go any when costs are considered.

You farmers have reason to be disappointed in the returns from last year's crop, but lumber selling on the present basis we don't believe you can afford not to do whatever building or repairing may be necessary before Spring work commences.

Whether it's a barn, or a shed, or just some boards for fixing up around the place, the facts about lumber will appeal to any man or woman who believes in thrift and knows values.

Come in and talk over your particular problems. We want to be helpful, and we welcome an opportunity to show you.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

During Argonne days, "Bobby" worked hard for the Boches. Today he is mascot of Argonne Post of the American Legion at Galveston, Texas. "Bobby" is a German police dog who was taken prisoner by a Galveston soldier of the Fourth Division before he could deliver an order for blowing up the position his captors were occupying.

The Vermont Department of the American Legion leads in the proportion of Legion members to the number of ex-service men in the state, according to records at National Headquarters. North Dakota has the second largest proportion and South Dakota the third. New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania are the first three states in total membership and number of posts.

The mileage of Wm. L. Harris Post of the American Legion at Boston, Mass., is probably as large as any Legion organization, for it is composed entirely of mail carriers and postal employees.

William P. Cary, first vice commander of the California Department of the American Legion, has been appointed judge of the superior court of San Diego county.

The latest indorsement of the American Legion by a labor organization came from Nevada, where C. W. Farrington, state organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and a number of labor leaders pledged the cooperation of their organization with the Legion in its fight against radicalism.

By arrangement between the American Legion and Bureau of Commercial Economics, the most complete and valuable collection of educational and travel motion picture films in existence will be placed at the disposal of Legion posts for free exhibition. Legion members will order films from catalogs which will be sent to all Legion posts. The films will be sent from a number of distributing centers, which will be designated in the catalog. One thousand separate topics are embraced in the films, which have been taken in all parts of the world.

Wearing his army gas mask, the Rev. F. W. Smith, commander of Ray Stone Post of the American Legion at Shrewsbury, Mass., braved the smoke and flames of a fire in the town hall to rescue two American flags from a post headquarters room. Clutching the flags, he groped his way back through the halls, feeling his way out by a string that he had tied to the back door on entering the building. Rev. Mr. Smith served as a chaplain with the Canadian Black Watch.

He called in to see the printers and left $1.50 to have his time moved up another notch. He left the office on the hunt of some rat poison.

It is service that counts and wins as the Farm Bureau in Lewis county has demonstrated.

Throughout the year 1920 the Lewis County Farm Bureau worked with a small membership—but they worked. And that fact has made the drive for 1921 members comparatively easy. The prospect for 500 members is very flattering.

Twenty-five farmers walked into the Farm Bureau headquarters in Vanceburg last week and without solicitation asked to join the County Bureau. Members who purchased clover and grass seeds thru the Bureau are coming in after their seed, renewing their pledges for 1921 and leaving with the Secretary orders for seed oats, cow peas, soy beans and fertilizers. All are enthusiastic over the saving for the farmers through cooperation.

To live in too dry an atmosphere is unhealthy and adds to the doctors bill. Statistics show that about one-third of all deaths in this country have been due to diseases of the throat and lungs. Fresh, clear, pure humid air, as found out of doors is the treatment generally prescribed for such ailments; and until people understand the need for the proper kind of air in the home, especially during the seasons when the doors and windows are kept closed, the recurrence of such discomforts are to be expected. See Farmers' Bulletin 1194, recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The community supper given at the town hall in Union on the evening of Feb. 22nd, for the benefit of the European Child Relief Fund, was liberally patronized.

This was given under the auspices of the Missionary societies of both Baptist and Presbyterian churches, but it resulted that nearly every one in the town and community, responded cheerfully and heartily to the call of work and funds for this good life saving appeal, donations coming from many who could not be present to enjoy the menu.

Notwithstanding the bad condition of the roads, a good crowd was out and the sum of one hundred dollars was realized.

President-elect Harding has selected as his Premier Charles E. Hughes, a selection that meets with the approval of all Republicans and Democrats. Mr. Hughes is a man of high ideals and he is known as one of America's foremost citizens. He will take office with an ability, experience and fame meeting to the highest standard. The cabinet according to a Republican daily, is all that could be expected except if one or two pillars. The selection of some members of the cabinet made to pay political obligations, and we surmise that those selections are the ones referred to by the Republicans daily. It would be no easy matter for the President-elect to have selected a cabinet all members of which would have measured up to the standard of a Hughes cabinet.

William T. Crisler, a former Petersburg boy, but now residing in Brooklyn, in writing to the RECORDER to change the address of his paper to his new home, 901 Newark Ave., where he had just moved his party. "I hope I will not miss next week's issue. It has been many years now since I left the home and scenes of my childhood days and although my memory of people and scenes there is more or less indistinct, the Recorder very often reminds me of past events and of names now quite dim in my memory. It will be twenty-three years next August since I came to New York and became associated with my present employers during which time I have been in Kentucky only once, for a space of about a week, which seems now more like a dream than a reality."

PETERSBURG.

The entertainment given by the Petersburg Graded school Feb. 22, was a perfect success in every way, and was so much appreciated that a request was made to repeat the performance Friday night, Feb. 25, at Christian church. At the suggestion of the school, the children of first and second grades were remarkably well trained by Miss Joyce and deserve special mention. The other grades under the supervision of Miss Carver, Miss Witham and Miss Agnes Carver, showed splendid training and were. The teachers and Prof. Carter are such an efficient team that Petersburg is justly proud of her school and believes it accord to none in the county. Prof. Carter has secured a cabinet of stereoscopic views in number, and our do not escape to be added to the library. The pictures illustrate books, pictures, history and have explanatory notes and comments printed on back of each. The library is so general, donated by Mr. L. L. L. of Newport, Ky., and Mrs. E. A. Chapman of Chattanooga, Tenn. Each corner, residents of Petersburg, is a wonderful addition to the school and community. The school is said to have of Prof. Carter's zealous efforts in behalf of school and welfare of community in general.

Farm Bureau Notes.

If you were in attendance at any of the five precinct meetings held Monday and Tuesday at Petersburg, Hebron, Union, Walton and Florence, and heard Geoffrey Morgan on Farm Bureau work, you are a staunch Farm Bureau advocate.

We regret that Mr. Morgan could not spare us but two days, for we had requests coming in from every precinct asking that he come to their precinct. He promised to come again the first three open days he has in March. Watch for news of his speaking in your precinct.

Thirty odd new members joined at these meetings and many other new members are coming in as a follow up of these meetings.

After listening to Mr. Morgan's report of things accomplished thru out the State and nation by the Farm Bureau Federation during its first year, one readily knows that the price of his dues have been paid time and again, aside from all the benefits derived locally in our County Farm Bureau.

If you have ordered clover and grass seed thru the Farm Bureau, they are now at headquarters ready for delivery. The prices are somewhat lower than first delivery. We are still taking orders.

A committee has gone down below Rising Sun, Ind., to buy a couple of bargains of alfalfa hay.

The Farm Bureau has distributed three car loads of mill feed to its members during the last ten days and another car is on the road.

Due to the cooperation of the Farm Bureau over the country, fertilizers have certainly dropped to a more favorable price. On the last day Mr. Morgan was with us last week, he received word from headquarters that the price of 16 per cent acid phosphate had declined to $20.00 per ton. This price may vary slightly at different railroad stations, but is approximately the same. Other mixtures of fertilizer are lower in proportion.

The Farm Bureau is putting fertilizer demonstration plots on the pikes over the county. Do you have a strip of uniform soil along the pike to offer for this purpose?

A good many of the old members of the Farm Bureau are of the opinion that we are collecting the 1921 dues with the notes they signed last year. These notes put the bankers to extra trouble, and requires a revenue stamp, so we are asking every member to give his check or cash to pay the year's dues. Old members who have not paid should do so in person.

Beat the high cost of machinery. Let everybody observe the Implement Repair Week. During Implement Repair Week the Farm Bureau members all over the county are urged to inspect their equipment, make out a list of all the parts which will be needed to put them in first-class condition and order these parts from their implement dealer. Do not wait until the rush season is on and encounter the usual delays due to poor transportation or congestion of orders at the factory. A break down may mean the loss of an entire crop. Then, too, Farm Bureau members by putting old implements in repair, will save buying new equipment. This will positively result in the U. S. and allied companies lowering the present high cost of farm machinery.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation is still strenuously endeavoring to obtain from the Bureau of Markets of the U. S. Department of Agriculture the checks that are due Kentucky farmers for rebates on wool purchased below government fixed price during the war. The last letter received from Mr. Gray Silver, at Washington, was very encouraging, as he stated that the checks were almost ready and would be mailed out in a few weeks.

Have you got that new member yet? You protect your family with life insurance, your crops with hail insurance, your buildings with fire insurance, yourself with health and accident insurance. How about a little marketing insurance? Invest six dollars in your Farm Bureau and let's see if we can't get on a basis. When we can say what our products are worth. Don't wait for your neighbor to do his part and yours also. Other words quit miking your neighbors cow through the fence.

President and Manager of the Farm Bureau Geo. Penn and Farm Agent Sutton attended a meeting of the Ohio county, Ind. Farm Bureau, a few days ago, and in the wake up of that meeting the Ohio County News has the following to say:

"Members were glad to extend hospitalities to Geo. Penn, chairman of the organization over in Boone county, to W. D. Sutton, Boone county's agent, and to J. Collier Kelly, one of Boone's most progressive farmers and stock raisers. Messrs Penn and Sutton gave talks that were exceedingly helpful."

President Penn and Farm Agent Sutton are exciting their best efforts to make the Boone county Farm Bureau one of the best in the State.

KENTON LOOSE LEAF TOBACCO WAREHOUSE can handle rapidly without congestion, 800,000 lbs. of tobacco a week. Have sold more than that. One week we had somewhat of a congestion, but we opened both houses and soon cleaned it up. Today we are able to unload everything that comes; hardly any one waits over; if they come early in the day, get them unloaded same day they come.

OUR MARKET SHOWS IMPROVEMENT. Good grades are holding firm at established and, we think, high prices. Mediums have moved up and are now selling better than heretofore. Common grades seldom bring less than 2c; early in the season they sold as low as 1-2c.

We believe farmers should endeavor to move their crops during February and March. KENTON WAREHOUSE will take care of you better than most any other market, because it is more able to do so, for the reason it sells FIVE DAYS A WEEK and has two Splendid Warehouses.

What Will the Harvest Be?

The value of clean seed of a productive strain isn't apparent when you are planting it--but harvest time will tell the whole story. A. L. Stone, Secretary-Treasurer of the Association of Official Seed Analysts, explains why good weedless seed pays best, in next week's issue of

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Now is the time to give thought to the selection of seed on which you plan to spend a whole spring and summer of hard work and on which you rely for a whole year's profit. You can't be too careful: the right start counts for much.

Out in Nebraska there's a county that has built itself a nation-wide reputation by specializing in better seed. Its grains command a premium on every market; it is not only earning unusual profits for its farm populace, it is doing a distinct service to agriculture as a business. THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is quick to point out the practices that pay. That is one reason why it is gladly welcomed in 800,000 farm homes. It is more than "just a farm paper" to its wide family of readers; it is a friendly counselor, a whole-some force that makes the farm business more prosperous and the farm home happier. If you send me $1.00 today it will make the first of $2 weekly visits to you next Thursday.

THE DIXIE HIGHWAY.

The State High Commission is this week advertising for sealed bids for the construction of the Dixie Highway from the north corporate limits of Williamstown to the south corporate limits of Dry Ridge, on the tenth day of March at the old capitol building, Frankfort, Ky. The distance is approximately three miles.

It has not yet been determined of what material the road will be constructed, but the general opinion is that it will be of concrete. The specifications call for either concrete, rock asphalt or bituminous macadam.

At the same time the State Highway Commission is advertising for bids for the construction of the Mair street of Williamstown, a total of one and three tenths miles. If the two contracts are let it will mean that considerably more than four miles of concrete highway will be constructed in the county this year.

The work will be done under the supervision of the State Highway Commission and the Federal Government, and will be paid for as follows: 50 per cent. by the government, 40 per cent. by the town and county, and 10 per cent. by the State.

Of course, it is possible that all bids may be rejected.

The Price Of Silence. It Pays.

The Negro preacher had successfully concealed the fact that he had served a term in prison, but long years of upright living had not destroyed his fear of exposure.

One Sunday, on rising to begin his sermon, his heart sank on seeing in one of the front pews a former cell mate.

Turning the Bible around a couple of times to gain time he fixed his eye on the stranger and delivered himself slowly and impressively as follows:
"Ah takes mah text dis mornin' from de sixty-fifth chapter an' de do' of hundreth verse ob de Gospel of Saint John which says 'Dem as sees me, an' knows me, an' says 'rothin', dem will Ah see later.'"

African Dominoes - Dice-

The total lack of comprehension between the American negro and his Algerian brother will go down in history as one of the outstanding features of the war. A dusky stevedore at Brest met one of the colored French troops on duty there and laboriously the Yank—tried to establish some means of linguistic communication. Finally a brilliant thought struck the boy from Georgia. He produced a pair of ivory cubes and rolled them excitedly under the Algerian's nose. Intelligence still registered zero.

"Man," said Sam, in disgust, "You ain't no cullud punson. You ain't no human. You're ah corpse."

—Aluminum Bulletin

The traffic that passed through the Panama Canal for the year 1920, was made up of 2941 ships in commercial service, paying toll, and 21 vessels in the service of the Navy, passing thru the canal without the payment of toll. The toll carried for that period amounted to $16,253,362.21. From the opening of the canal to July 1, 1920, the total revenue collected amounted to $3,426,675.29, and the operating and maintenance expense for the same period amounted to $3,657,766.89, leaving a loss of $231,091.60.

However, during the last three fiscal years the receipts have exceeded the expenditures by $3,129,212.55. The canal is in a fair way toward paying the cost of operation without allowing an interest charge on the cost of the canal, which amounted to $367,151,638. The canal shortens the route from New York to San Francisco 5,566 miles, New York to Valparaiso, 3,741 miles.

Lumber Back to Normal

Lumber has reached a price level where its value bears the true and proper proportion to the value of the products you farmers raise and sell. In other words, lumber prices today are consistent with prices on farm products.

There's nothing mysterious about it—just the old law of supply and demand—and a willingness on our part to play fair with our customer friends by reducing our prices to a point where you can afford to buy.

Help The Living

So-called "respect for the dead" is a curious thing. Many that never worry about the living feel very bad when some one's dust is disturbed. Even Shakespeare thought more of his "bones" than of his plays. The Chinese patiently endured the invasion of their territory by the Japanese and Russian soldiers and they objected only when they fought in a graveyard. They thought that was an outrage, but they had said nothing about fighting elsewhere which had caused the death of many non-combatants.

The living need all our care and worry. One single child fighting sickness and hunger is more important than all the graves and dead bodies in the country. You can help a sick child. You cannot hurt or help a dead body. If the corpses of St. Paul's were good beings when alive, no subway will bother them, and if they were bad, no subway can make it worse.

Every foot of the earth's surface is a burying ground. Human beings for thousands of years have lived and died here. Millions have come and gone, more than one for every square foot of the earth's surface.

Wherever you walk, you walk over a grave. Wherever you dig, you dig into a grave. All the trees and flowers grow from the graves. The earth is one great grave. If you think of it as such, but it is also a beautiful garden, with a few plague spots to be wiped out, a race to be improved, and real paradise as its future.

Let us think about the living, the flowers, the trees and mankind. Let the dead live in their good deeds, rather than in reserved plots, stone receptacles, or dismal, forced-in burying grounds.

BOONE CO. HI-SCHOOL

WILL PRESENT AS THE FIFTH NUMBER OF THE

Burlington Lyceum Course

Dr. W. H. Sears,

HUMORIST

Monday Night, March 14th, 1921

at Court House, Burlington, Ky

Eight O'Clock

Dr. Sears is a lecturer of twenty-one years experience and comes to us very highly recommended. Millions of men, women, and children have been made happier and better by the lectures of Dr. Sears and he is doing better work today than any other time of his career. The High School hopes that he will be received by a large and enthusiastic audience.

Don't Forget the Date.

Mr. Geo. Pern, manager of the Boone Co. Farm Bureau informed us last Saturday, that since January 15th the Bureau had handled seed, feed, etc., to the amount of nearly $5,000—all bought and delivered to the farmers at a great saving. Another car load of feed and one of fertilizer will soon be ready for delivery.

W. E. Vest, the Real Estate man, of Covington, was in attendance at county court, last Monday. He called in to see the printers and handed us $3.00 to pay for past and future subscription. He said he had sold several farms the past week, among which was the Ben Weisenberg farm at Verona—consideration $16,400.

Mr. R. C. Creel, of the Pleasant Valley neighborhood, has a cow that gave birth to a calf last Saturday night that had two well developed necks and and heads, each neck was of the same length. It was born dead.

W. C. Delph sold something over 300 pounds of tobacco on Covington market last week at 27 cents a pound net. It was of the Golden Seal variety.

Miss Katie Kirkpatrick, of Cincinnati, was the guest Saturday night and Sunday of her mother, Mrs. Nina Kirkpatrick and family.

A ration which has been recommended for dairy cows by Prof. J. J. Hooper of the State College of Agriculture is composed of four pounds of corn meal, two pounds of wheat bran and two pounds of cottonseed meal. This is supplemented with 30 pounds of corn silage and 10 pounds of clover hay. A cow that is dry should receive six to eight pounds of this grain feed with the hay and silage while a fresh cow should receive a pound of grain with the hay and silage for every three and one-half pounds of milk produced.

There were 578,211,964 tons of coal mined in the United States in 1918, says a correspondent. If all this coal were put into one train of 50-ton cars, this train would consist of 11,564,389 cars, and it would take 271,284 engines to pull it. This is based on the hauling capacity of the average American engine. This train would be 342,722 miles long, and would encircle the earth over 13 times at the equator.

Town progress movements have too much talk and too little work. People get together and discuss, they write stuff for the newspapers, and bring out nouns of good ideas. Then they forget all about them and nothing is done.

Deaths

CONNER.

Mrs. Ada Conner, widow of the late O. P. Conner, died at 3 o'clock last Sunday afternoon at Scarle's

Oaks Hospital, Cincinnati, after a two weeks' illness of pneumonia and a complication of other diseases.

Mrs. Conner was born May 1851, and was a daughter of the late W. A. Carpenter and wife, of the Union precinct. She was united in marriage to O. P. Conner

May 18, 1869, and four children came to bless this home—one son and three daughters. Her four children survive, L. A. Conner,

Sheriff of Boone county, Mrs. Nan

McAtee, of Elwood, Indiana,

Mrs. R. B. Carver, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Cora Rouse, of Paynes

Depot, of Scott county.

All that her physician and loving children could do was done to save her, but it was not God's plan for her to remain longer, and she closed her eyes forever on this world to open them in a happier and where there is no painful separation, no more sickness and death.

She became a member of the Universalist church many years ago and lived a faithful member to the end. Mrs. Conner was naturally of a quiet disposition, always trying to do right, and was loved and respected by all who knew her, and a gloom passed over everyone when the message was received that her spirit had

Paris Papers Praise Wilson.

The Paris morning and evening papers of all shades of political opinion devote lengthy articles to the change in the Administration at Washington in which comment on the departure of President Wilson holds a larger place than speculation on the coming of President Harding.

The Temps says: "President Wilson is an apostle; he believes in principles as one believes in God. He has failed in his noble effort, as he has failed to fail all those who wish to act above human nature as it is constituted."

Woodrow Wilson will remain, however, as a man who understood that young America's place was at the side of the Allies and who dared to unsheathe the sword to defend right and liberty. For this alone he will remain forever in history as a great American. Alfred Capus, the famous French writer, says: "Among the great figures of the war, President Wilson is probably the only one whose standing in history will experience the greatest difficulty in determining. Mr. Wilson's powers of realization are quite superior to those of his imagination and thought. He leaves France a better memory."

The Petit Parisien says: "Despite the bitter attacks to which he has been subjected, President Wilson will remain great in history because he has been a noble soldier of idealism and humanity."

La Vierge says: "President Wilson leaves the White House triumphantly than when he entered it four years ago. There is a tragic grandeur in the greatest physical collapse of a man who two years ago was the moral dictator of the Allied nations."

The Radical, which represents the Left Center party, says: "History has recorded justice to Washington and Lincoln; we do not doubt that it will also record the best services of President Wilson among the best servants of the United States. The work of Mr. Wilson was worthy of that of Washington and Lincoln."

Wart Disease Of Potatoes Also Attacks Tomato Plants

Recent investigations made by the United States Department of Agriculture, of the control of the potato wart disease, a European trouble found in this country in 1918, disclosed the fact that the disease also attacks tomatoes. Out of 25 varieties of tomatoes planted in wart-infested gardens in eastern Pennsylvania in 1920, 19 were found to be susceptible to the disease.

Wart is a very serious disease of potatoes, causing practically a total loss in badly infested soil. It attacks the tubers, causing early outgrowths, which may practically cover or consume the potatoes. Its present known source in the United States is confined to gardens in a few mining villages in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland, from which its spread is restricted by State quarantine laws. The disease attacks only the stems and roots of the tomato plant, causing small warts; it probably does not reduce the yield of fruit.

The importance of the discovery of the susceptibility of tomatoes to potato wart lies in the fact that affected tomato plants will serve to carry the disease over from year to year in the absence of potatoes, and to introduce it into new localities when the transplanting of tomato seedlings grown in infested soil. It is not yet known definitely whether all varieties of tomatoes are susceptible to the wart disease, but it is feared that such may be the case. Other plants belonging to the potato family are suspected of being susceptible to the disease, and some of these have been tested, but with inclusive results. These tests will be repeated.

Henderson Hens Lead.

A flock of 165 White Leghorns has which produced an average of 15.5 eggs per hen for the year and which was owned by Mrs. J. T. Wilson of Henderson county, was the highest producing one for that month. Out of 47 demonstration flocks which are being conducted by the State College of Agriculture in cooperation with the various owners, according to a report which has just been made by J. Holmes Martin who is in charge of the poultry work of the college, a flock of 122 White Leghorns owned by A. J. Culver of Christian county was second on the list with an average production of 12.7 eggs for the month. A Buckeye flock of 52 Rhode Island Reds owned by Mrs. Eugene Culton was third on the list with an average production record of 12 eggs.

LIMABURG.

Miss Annie Brown is better. Mrs. Tom Sharps has bronchitis. Mrs. Mitchell of Paris, Ky., is visiting at M. J. Herrington's. Mrs. Mary Baker and Mrs. Nellie Garnett were Sunday guests of Mrs. Louise Poston. Will Kennedy and wife and Miss Mildred Swartz, spent last Saturday night and Sunday with W. G. Gross and wife. The party given at the home of P. Buckner, in honor of Holman and Claude Lymann, of Nicholas county, was enjoyed by all. Last Wednesday, while sawing wood, Chester Tanner was struck by a falling limb, inflicting a ugly gash in the forehead. Sterling House has a new spraying outfit, and is ready to spray your fruit trees.

The people who think business men are all robbers, are not commonly the ones invited to take charge of other people's money.

Out in the State.

A friendly suit to test the legality of a recent election ordered by the Board of Education in which the people, by a vote of eight to one, authorized the issuance and sale of school bonds for public schools was instituted. The authority of the board to call the election is questioned in the suit and it is held that this power rests with the City Commissioners of Owensboro.

Frankfort, Ky. — Contracts were let by the State Highway Commission for twenty-seven and one-half miles of the Ohio River Road, the section of thirteen and one-half miles from Havesville to the Davies County line, Hancock county west to the Hancock Construction Company for Shively and 14 miles in Breckinridge county from Hardinsburg to the Meade county line, and to Costello Bros. & Mayes, Knoxville, for $77,000.

Frankfort, Ky. — County Clerks have submitted their claims to five per cent of the motor vehicle license fees collected by them. A suit filed in the Franklin county court here by S. H. Lewis, Clerk of Fayette county, against the State Tax Commission and State Inspector and Examiner Henry E. James.

The suit is to test the question in which all the county clerks of Kentucky are interested, and it is decided in their favor they will receive additional fees aggregating $100,000 on an estimated revenue of $2,000,000 from vehicle license fees of $25,000.

Lewis claims 5 per cent of $25,000 in fees he has collected in addition to the 30 cents allowed for each license collected by him. The 30-cent fee is for issuing the license and the 5 per cent fee allows him 5 per cent for collecting the motor car license fees.

Lewis retained nearly the entire commission claimed by him amounting to $875,000 and the State Inspector and Examiner, Mr. James, claim the 30-cent fee for issuing license and remitting the money to the State.

IN TOUCHING GOODBYE

To Cabinet Wilson Makes Last Visit to Executive Offices.

Washington, March 1.—President Wilson met with his Cabinet today for the last time and in the meeting's closing said farewell to the ten men who have been his official advisers, four of them since he entered the White House.

The final meeting was held in the executive offices, the President walking over from the White House attended by an attaché and aided by his cane.

After an hour and a half spent, as Cabinet members said, in a discussion of "official business and otherwise," the President autographed for each of his advisers a photograph taken at last week's meeting. Then Mr. Wilson said goodbye to each member. He greeted each in turn and chatted for a few moments before shaking hands. At the end of the President's voice trailed as he extended his thanks for past services and good wishes for the future.

Each member's departure was expressed to the Chief Executive by a few words of appreciation for his helpfulness and cooperation with their respective departments. They have arranged to purchase the chair which the President has occupied in Cabinet meetings during his two administrations for presentation to him before his departure from the White House last Friday.

When they were gone the President remained behind for a few minutes to receive a waiting delegation of the Valley Forge Historical Society, who presented him with a certificate as "Honorary Perpetual Benefactor" and the insignia of the organization. Dr. W. H. Hark, of Valley Forge, Penn., made the presentation and offered the certificate, the first of its kind ever bestowed by the society to the President, as a teacher, writer and maker of history.

Then Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint, stepped into the Cabinet to wish the President farewell.

"Take good care of the mint," the President enjoined him, as he shook his hand and inquired after the health of his family.

A few minutes later, the President, leaning on his cane and limping slightly as a result to his left side and limping slowly out of the executive offices, where for more than six years before he was taken ill, he bade goodnight to his Cabinet members. The President's last visit to the offices and the leaving-taking plainly affected him.

He descended the steps and as he started down the walk he turned a movement as if to return once more, but apparently reconsidering the impulse, went straight forward and passed out of sight around the corner of the building.

World Champion Hen Mother of 811th Egg.

Lexington, Ky.—Lady Walnut Hill, the world's champion egg-laying hen at the State College of Agriculture, added new laurels to her record when she laid her 811th egg. She became the mother of three baby chicks.

The eggs, which were hatched in an incubator, were among the first of the season. Lady Walnut Hill, included among the chicks was one from the 811th egg which marked the start of her fifth lay.

Strange as it may seem, the grandmother of the chicks on their father's side is their mother while their father is their half brother. The mixup in the family relations resulted from mating Lady Walnut Hill with one of her sons.

The chicks will be closely watched to discover whether they will equal the record of their mother.

Interest Lags In Cutout.

Lexington, Ky.—Growers are taking but little interest in the proposed 50 per cent reduction in the barley tobacco acreage for 1921, according to President John W. Newman of the Barley Tobacco Growers' Association, who stated that pledges sent some time ago are coming in only slowly.

Members of the association, however, favor the cut, he believes, but are unwilling to sign the pledge unless the mass of farmers do likewise. A plan to launch a campaign to obtain pledges will be taken up at a meeting of the directors of the association.

The curtailment, however, will not be made unless 60 per cent of the growers sign before April 1.

Burning of plant beds already has begun in several sections of the Bluegrass.

An Historic Forest.
The historical associations connected with the forest of Valhombros are very interesting. It was founded in the Twelfth century and given its name which, literally translated, means "Shadowed Valley," by Saint Giovanni Gualberto, says Nelson Courtlandt Brown in the American Forestry Magazine. It was founded as a monastery and retreat for one of the Benedictine order, of monks, and from its early inception the monks took great pride in caring for, cultivating and replanting the forest.

Jud Tunkins. "The trouble with a smart man," said Jud Tunkins, "is that he's liable to spend more time showing off than he does working."

One Explanation. Jud Tunkins says the reason so many of us are afraid of work is that we are too bashful to get acquainted.

Local Happenings.

Every day the Treasury Department is approached by many ex-service persons who say they know nothing of their rights and benefits under the War Risk Act. The entire personnel of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance is instructed to advise ex-service people in completing their applications for compensation and to assist them in the adjudication of their claims in accordance with the very liberal provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act. All ex-service persons suffering from disability which they received in line of duty while in the service, or those suffering from disability which was aggravated or accelerated by their service, deserve and will receive the utmost consideration.

Inasmuch as the Bureau is particularly anxious to assist all disabled ex-service persons, it is requested that the public at large advise any disabled ex-service man who is not familiar with his rights to immediately file a claim for compensation.

The Louisville office of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the officers of the American Legion, or the Red Cross will gladly give ex-service men all information they desire and assist all disabled ex-service persons in the completion of their claims for compensation.

The most prepossessing hen is not always the most industrious layer. She may be the loudest cackler, but if her owner uses trap nests she can not fool him. Her ear check up on results. The trap nest is so arranged that when the hen enters she is confined. Specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say that trap nests may be used to advantage in the best breeders of hens. It adds mechanical precision to judgment and experience in developing the flock and maintaining it at a high standard of egg production. It tames the birds and tends to stimulate laying. It furnishes definite knowledge of the traits and habits of each hen. It furnishes the most satisfactory basis for breeding and it eliminates the nonproductive hen.

The French Government will pay homage to the American heroism of the World War by erecting a monument to the American military cemeteries at Belleau Wood and Remagen. The French Ministry of War has assumed the expense of the purchase and beautification of the property necessary for the American Marine Corps monument as a tribute to the French Republic to the soldiers of the United States.

Nine persons escaped from the Covington jail March 8. The prisoners made saws from old knives and sawed the iron bars of their cell and made their escape through the jail basement. A number of prisoners have escaped from this jail within a short time, and an investigation is being made in order to locate the cause of so many prisoners escaping. If the jail is not secure then the city of Covington will have to erect a more modern jail.

Atmospheric conditions in homes say specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, are frequently not maintained as they should be. Houses are often over-heated in most cases practically no thought is given to humidity, or air moistening. Physicians insist that an overheated house is unhealthy, and that it causes colds, coughs, and the tendency to be nervous and feverish may be attributed to continually breathing air having too little moisture in it.

There is still a considerable quantity of tobacco in Boone that has not been put on the market. Farmers have been slow in getting their tobacco stripped this year, and while it is not thought at this time the loose leaf tobacco will continue to sell much longer, the crop will be pretty well cleaned up before the time set for the markets to close.

Twelve Nelson county boys and girls interested in dairying have organized a dairy club. They purchased their calves and started what they intend to make a foundation herd of dairy cattle, according to a report from E. M. Previtt of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture.

Mrs. Genie Blyth, who spent the winter with her sister, Mrs. S. P. Tilley, at Clearwater, Florida, returned home last Friday evening. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Tilley. Mrs. Blyth expects to make her home with Mrs. Blyth.

SUMMER SCHOOLS

Why Not Have Summer Schools For Benefit of Idle Teachers Thru Summer.

Kentucky has a number of modern well-equipped school plants that are closed thru the summer months. Kentucky has a number of competent and qualified teachers who are either idle or engaged in other work thru the summer months. Kentucky has some 14,000 public school teachers of whom not one-fourth are properly prepared. Kentucky has three state teacher-training institutions offering summer courses to teachers actual or prospective. It is desired that the maximum number of teachers attend the summer school at one of these institutions.

If the maximum number of teachers attend one of these institutions there would still be left more than 10,000 public school teachers without opportunity for work in a summer school in Kentucky. Why can not Kentucky use her competent teachers otherwise engaged in other business, to conduct a summer school in these well-equipped school plants, otherwise closed, for the benefit of these 10,000 public school teachers, otherwise denied a chance? Kentucky has a number of teachers, salary within the last 12 months, she has a right to demand increased efficiency on her part of the teachers. The taxpayers have increased their school taxes; they have a right to demand that they shall have better prepared teachers. If the increase in salary of teachers and of superintendents means that we shall have the same teacher and the same superintendent, without improvement of interest or preparation or capacity, it is released by the attendant. Specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say that trap nests may be used to advantage in the best breeders of hens. It adds mechanical precision to judgment and experience in developing the flock and maintaining it at a high standard of egg production. It tames the birds and tends to stimulate laying. It furnishes definite knowledge of the traits and habits of each hen. It furnishes the most satisfactory basis for breeding and it eliminates the nonproductive hen.

FREE MAIL DELIVERY.

By the excellent work of our popular Congressman A. B. Rouse and our efficient postmaster, W. T. Dudgeon, the Postoffice Department at Washington has made an order for mail delivery addressed to street numbers in Walton delivered by carrier each day. The residential district will receive mail four times a day.

E. L. Aylor has been appointed as letter carrier and will enter upon his duties on the date mentioned above.

This will be a great convenience to the citizens of the town and more especially to those living a considerable distance from the postoffice. The benefit to business men will be considerable and save the time it takes to go to and from the postoffice. The new order of things makes it necessary to name the street numbers in Walton. High street will be the dividing line of Main street north and south. The expense of numbering the houses will have to be borne by the citizens. Town council will designate the numbers for each house and these numbers will have to be adopted. To have mail delivered to the residences it will be necessary for residents to have mail boxes placed at some convenient place on the premises, otherwise the mail will not be delivered. The cost of the house numbers will be from ten cents up for each single number and the cost of mail boxes will be from fifty cents to $1.50. Our local merchants will have a stock of numbers and mail boxes on hand to sell before the delivery begins. Walton Advertiser.

Fifty-Fifty.

The personnel of the Frankfort Reformatory force will be equally divided between Democrats and Republicans. It was announced by Henry V. Bastine who will become superintendent March 15. He will add to the force only Democrats until the two parties are equally represented.

Mr. Bastine added this course, he said, because he is convinced that any effort on his part to disregard politics in appointments would be misunderstood or misinterpreted. He said that he was conscious of his motives and Republicans expecting him to be a partisan.

His plan is the same as that adopted by Capt. John A. Clifton at Edenville, who is a Democrat. That does not mean that any Republicans will be discharged or make Socialists or Independents will be ignored, it was explained.

The prison will be nonpartisan in its management, which means that no political party on the part of employees will be a condition of campaign contributions from them.

The farmers of the Kenton precinct will meet in the K. of P. Hall Sunday March 19, at 10:30 a.m. for the purpose of organizing a boys and girls pig and poultry club.

If the government should become socialist, it would be all tied up with tied tape.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Hattie Gaines.

The announcement of the death of Mrs. Hattie Gaines, wife of W. L. Gaines, which occurred Sunday morning March 16, about nine o'clock, was a terrible shock to her many friends here and elsewhere, although it was known for several days that her condition was alarming; and to add to the sadness her mother-in-law lay silent in death at the same time in the household, and it had been but a little more than two months since her mother was called to the Great Beyond.

Mrs. Gaines was a most pleasant, lovable woman, endearing herself to all people, no matter be they rich or the poorer class, and her place in the church and social circles will be hard to fill. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Miss Leah Gaines, who was her almost constant companion, and together they took great interest in church work, and were always looking after the sick and needy, which occupied much of their time and attention. —Carrollton News.

Geo. M. Moore Dead.

George M. Moore, an aged and well known citizen of Walton, died at that place last Monday week after a lingering illness. Mr. Moore had been gradually declining for several years and his family and friends had realized for some time that the end was near.

Mr. Moore had lived for the past several years at his farm near Crittenden, and after selling the farm about two years ago moved to Crittenden. He later purchased a residence property in Walton and moved there.

He leaves a wife and two daughters, Misses Thelma and Georgia Moore, and a son, who was a member of the Christian church. The funeral took place from his late home, the remains being taken to Beaver Lick where Rev. Simmons, pastor of the Christian church of Erlanger, preached the funeral sermon after which the remains were interred in the cemetery there. C. Scott Chambers had charge of the funeral arrangements.

L. L. Bristow Dead.

Funeral services for Judge L. L. Bristow, 67, of Georgetown, Ky., were held last Friday at a Lexington hospital. He was 67 years of age, and his illness, was held at his home Sunday afternoon.

Judge Bristow was suffering from a long illness of the teeth. Following the extraction of the tooth blood poisoning developed. He was county judge of Scott county for more than 20 years, and was very prominent in Republican state politics.

He married Miss Alice Rucker, daughter of the late J. R. Rucker, president of the Baptist College, Covington, Ky.

His widow and one son, J. R. Rucker Bristow, a representative of the Proctor & Gamble Co., Cincinnati, and a daughter, Mrs. J. E. Bristow of Walton. One sister, Mrs. Joseph B. Coombs, lives at Ft. Mitchell, and Miss Pearl Reppas, 221 Wallace-av Covington, is a niece.

Georgiana Hankins.

Mrs. Georgiana Hankins, widow of W. T. Hankins, died at her home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Emma Hankins, in Ludlow, last Thursday night, aged 80 years. The remains were interred at Hebron, on Saturday, March 12th, at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Hankins was for many years a resident of Hebron neighborhood.

Robert Carroll Hall.

Another home has again been made sad and lonely by death. On last Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock the death angel knocked and found advance notice in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hall, who reside about a mile from town on the Burlington and Bellevue pike, and carried into that beautiful bereaved home where there is no other child, Robert Carroll, aged 11 months, after an illness of a few days.

The little fellow took a decided turn for the worse Monday morning and that afternoon was rushed to a hospital in Cincinnati, but it was found it was beyond hope and he was brought back home when it passed away.

Such trials as death are hard to bear and we can not lift the burden of it. But God knows best. The grief stricken father and mother, and grandparents have the sympathy of all their acquaintances.

After a short funeral service at the Baptist church Wednesday morning at 10:30 by Rev. R. F. DeFolsey, the remains were taken to Old-Follows cemetery and laid to rest.

C. J. Housley who lives down on Woolper creek, was in town a few hours last Monday, and while here called on the Recorder and had his subscription moved up to the top of the list. He is a severe case of rheumatism, recently and took treatment at Milan, Indiana, which was of great benefit to him.

Visitors to Washington who perceive the whippers cultivated by the eminent secretary of state, and that but only jump to the conclusion that this is a socialist government.

PRESIDENTIAL FACTS

Harding the Twenty-Ninth President of the U. S.

Warren G. Harding, who took office March 4th, as the twenty-ninth president of the U. S. is the first president to be selected to that high office on his birthday. He was 55 years old November 2, 1892. He is the first U. S. Senator elected to the presidency.

President Harding is the 7th president contributed to the country by the state of Ohio. Only Virginia, with a total of eight presidents born within her borders, outranks Ohio in this regard. No president has been born west of Ohio. No president has resided west of Illinois.

President Harding is the seventh president of Scotch-Irish paternal ancestry. Fifteen of our presidents, over the period of 133 years, have been of English descent. Three of Scotch, one of Welsh and two of Dutch.

The average age of our presidents at inauguration is 51 years, approximately, while the approximate average age at death has been 66 years.

President Harding exemplifies the rapid rise possible in American life better than any of his predecessors. He was not included in the 1914-15 "Who's Who." Like many of his predecessors, also, his parents were not wealthy and he has risen to the highest office within the gift of the American people, thought, frugality, industry and thrift, of which he is a warm exponent, as evidenced by his recent approval of the Government's Thrift and Savings Certificates.

Only A Printer.

"He is only a printer." We overheard the remark recently on the streets of Washington by a member of aristocracy. We did not reply in kind, but we thought a plenty.

Who was the Earl of Stanhope? He was only a printer. The former Emperor of China was a printer, as is also our president. What were G. P. Morris, N. P. Willis, James Buchanan, Simon Cameron and Schuyler Colfax? Printers all of them, and practical ones. Mark Twain, Amos Cummings, Bret Harte, Hamilton Charles Dick, science and philosophy in his day, Benjamin Franklin, made it his boast, that he was a journeyman printer.

Daniel Boone Council.

The American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic organized a branch at Florence last Wednesday eve. to be known as the Daniel Boone Council. The following officers were elected: J. T. Crowley, President; John Murphy, V-President; Mrs. George E. Scott, Secretary; Miss Mary E. Bunker, Treasurer; Michael J. Knaley, Rev. Gerald J. Connelly and W. F. Bradford Trustees. The first meeting will be held at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Crowley, at 1000 E. Main-st. and Frederick Schmitt, of Covington, were the speakers. A large gathering was present, many coming from Covington and the following resolution was adopted:

We Citizens of Boone county, assembled in public meeting in Florence, March 9, 1921, to approve the following Resolutions: Whereas the struggle for Irish independence is attracting world wide interest and sympathy and the people of Ireland are being once again unfolded to our contempt and hatred. Therefore we petition the President and Congress of the United States to grant express true American citizenship in welcoming a new republic and grant official recognition to the Republic of Ireland.

J. T. Crowley, Chairman. Mrs. Geo. E. Scott, Secretary.

The Other Man's Bull

When Germany is the victor the collection of indemnities is not based upon the willingness of the payer to admit defeat. King William of Prussia was residing at the palace of Versailles when the terms of the peace between France and Germany were made after the Franco-Prussian War, in 1871.

The terms were these: 1. France must cede to Germany one-third of her territory, including Metz, and the whole of Alsace with the exception of the Helldorf region.

2. France must pay to Germany 5,000,000,000 francs, the equivalent of 1,000,000,000 American dollars, as war indemnity.

Certain departments of France must be ceded to Germany. The indemnity should be paid in full.

The French paid the last indemnity in 1873, and not until 1913, in full. It was made did the Germans with draw from the clipped territory of the defeated country.

The strawberry crop is coming out fine, and a big yield is also indicated for this year.

Recognizing Women in Politics

Some of the women prominent in the Republican organization said to be disappointed because women were included in the "best minds" with whom President Harding consulted in shaping his initial policies. There will be many demands for the appointment of more women to public office, both in the federal and state governments.

How far should women be selected for the highest places in government? Many women of a confident, energetic, and intelligent type, feel that as well able to exercise political leadership as any man. They have the same ambition to advance in this field that men have, which is perfectly legitimate.

The men will be disposed to feel, however, that women are new in this form of activity. Politics is a game that calls not merely for the endurance but long experience. Many women who were most active in their campaign for suffrage, had never taken any great interest in political problems, and will take little time for them to familiarize themselves with the many questions that are novel to them.

The skillful political manager will recognize that women are not going to line up just like the men. The men can not always figure how they will react on an given proposition. The shrewd politician will want to include women leaders in his circles of advisers, and will study very carefully how pending propositions are going to affect their own views.

Many of the old time slogans of party politics, that drilled the masculine cohorts into line for many years, will have mighty little influence on the new voters. And other considerations relating to home interests and the welfare of children and efficiency of education, which have been considered by old line politicians, are going to weigh heavily with these women. Some politicians do not yet realize this truth.

The Wilson Administration

The fateful administration of Woodrow Wilson now belongs to history. It has been assailed with a bitterness known in no previous part of our history. Yet it has accomplished some wonderful things. A few of those most notable may be mentioned below.

1.—It carried through to success the nation's part in the most terrible war in history. In spite of all criticism and opposition the fact remains that it won the war.

2.—Compared with the Civil and the Spanish American wars, it was honestly conducted. No such atmosphere of suspicion and calumny as appeared after previous struggles.

3.—It was skillfully conducted in the field. The federal government in the Civil war was constantly changing its general policy, and its changing of policy was a masterpiece of correct judgment, the command of our forces in France was put in the hands of a man capable of great leadership, organization, and he carried it through to success with comparatively little friction.

4.—It was a war conducted on a high moral plane. In previous struggles the soldiers were demoralized by vice. In this war every effort was made to surround the soldiers with clean influences.

5.—The mobilization of our forces was conducted with wonderful efficiency by the draft boards, and the manhood of America was assembled without friction or disturbance for its difficult service.

6.—Marvellously skillful work was done by propaganda to educate the people up to the cause of the war and the reason why we must fight.

7.—The Wilson administration reorganized the financial system of the country by the federal reserve bank, its difficult service, practically impossible the financial panics that used to devastate business about every 10 years.

8.—Other acts of reform legislation that have been passed have immeasurably improved economic conditions. The Wilson administration will be long remembered for these great achievements.

Big Fruit Crop Promised.

The next few weeks will tell the tale as to whether there will be a fruit crop this year in Warren county. And rather prognostications will be closely scrutinized by the fruit growers. With the thermometer standing at 77 Tuesday afternoon, probably the warmest yet this season, the fruit buds of the peach blossom began to open in the morning, and by noon a great many of the trees were in full bloom. The plum trees have been in bloom for some time. The apple and cherry buds were swelling rapidly under the balmy spring weather.

The fruit men are authorized for the statement that fruit is never killed in this section in March, but often late frosts in April do much damage, but seldom kill all the fruit.

The trees are very heavily laden with buds this year, and a bumper fruit crop is now indicated. Should two-thirds of the blossoms be killed, there would still be a very large fruit crop. This is rather unusual, as last year was also a big fruit year, and was a bumper crop for two years.

The strawberry crop is coming out fine, and a big yield is also indicated for this year.

LAST YEAR'S TOBACCO

Not Equal to That of 1910, According to Price Averages. Officials Report.

That the 1920 crop of tobacco especially in the burley district, is much inferior to the 1910 crop is borne out by the report of sales made for February by the Commissioner of Agriculture Hanna. There were a total of 2,185,751 lbs. of the 1919 burley crop sold during February, which brought a total of $274,192.13, or an average of $15.19 a hundred during the same period there were 3,484,111 pounds of the 1910 burley crop sold, bringing a total of $12,058,517, or an average of $13.05 a hundred.

The most conclusive feature of the comparison of the crops is that this year's crop is not putting their inferior grades on the market, but are using them for fertilizer, while all grades of the 1910 crop are being sold. As a result of the comparison it is seen that on the average the best grades of the 1920 crop are bringing less than the grades of the 1910 crop sold. There were a total of 4,744,833 pounds of the 1919 crop sold of all the various types grown in this state, which brought $71,651.74, or an average of $15.19 a hundred. There were 117,747,01 pounds of the 1920 crop sold for $1,335,497.72, or an average of $12.17 a hundred. The ratio of the average in the burley district continues about the same through the state.

Several reasons are given for the inferiority of the 1920 crop, but the most plausible is that the crop was so large that the burley were overcrowded and much of the tobacco was damaged after it had been put into the barns.

A Pugnacious Harbinger

Few birds inhabiting this latitude are more generally interesting than the jay. He apparently is sturdy, efficient and happy under conditions. He will not take a bluff. You have to hand him the real thing before he knuckles to you. There's nothing of the aristocratic about him; he shares no less rounckneck and doesn't care who knows it. He is a brawler, a boaster, and can, and does, out-wrestle a hunter, except the chat and parrot, but he wears feathers, and he gives these loquacious rivals a run for the money. He is the one bird that can make a cat look about him; he is the one bird to get next to him. He is a believer in the Jacksonian principle that to the victor belongs the spoils, and many a robin learns at evening time that the jay is a victor in any scrap he undertakes.

Daily at this season he is very busy with his courtship. His methods are somewhat similar to those attributed to the cave man, but his sweetheart seems to enjoy them, for she keeps two or three eggs at a time, and the same time she does not differ from some of her sisters of mortal kind, and, like them, she is ready to fight for him, as a good wife should do.

As a harbinger of spring the jay is some advertiser. It is fine to hear him bawling and bullying around. He has little to say of the languages of propriety but he is handsome, a picturesque villain, and most everybody likes him. He is a very real factor in the advance guard of Spring's choral legions.

A Sure Sign.

Robins singing herald the approach of spring, according to the poet, and numerous other long-haired prognosticators, and if they are true indications spring is about here. The birds are on some of the trees look as the winter was awakening from the winter's sleep. However, these indications, while good, are not infallible, and we yet await the one sure prophecy—that that will be when two certain gentlemen are seen ending their way with pole and line toward the Kentucky creek. That sign has never been known to fail.

"Do Unto Others."

The time of year is approaching when the citizens of the town will begin to clean the rubbish from their premises. It is alright to do the dirt and filth from your own back yard, but it is equally neighborly act to have it hauled and dumped in the street or alley of your neighbors—as you would have them do for you. Your neighbors, pile your trash in the street in front of your own property.

Free Trip to Chicago.

Free trips to the 1921 Chicago International Livestock Exposition will be provided for the Kentucky club champions in poultry and dairy calf growing thru the co-operation of a Chicago packing house, according to an announcement which has just been made by C. W. Buckler of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture and leader of junior club work. It is probable that free trips for club champions will be provided, Mr. Buckler said.

Any Kentucky boy or girl can enter the contest by getting in touch with Mr. Buckler, the county club leader or the county farm or home demonstration agent. The only requirement for these makers of the trip is that they prepare a brief story of their experiences while at the show.

Your Farm Is Your Factory

Perhaps you never thought of it in just that way, but farming is a great manufacturing business and your farm is a factory in the true meaning of the word.

The factory manager overhauls his plant every so often to make sure that it will run properly and produce the most goods at the least cost. In just the same way, the farmer checks up his buildings and equipments, makes those little repairs which save big repairs later on, and builds whatever buildings he needs to help produce more crops with less labor and expense.

Lumber prices are back to normal. No longer need you postpone building on account of high prices of lumber. Now is a good time to build that new barn you have been wanting for several years and to make other improvements. Begin now and get them done before Spring work commences.

Here in our business we are trying to do our part in bringing conditions back where they should be. Our years of business experience, our building plans and ideas, and our friendly, sincere counsel and assistance are at your service for the asking, with no obligation, of course.

Let's talk it over the first convenient day.

$500.00 Reward

Will be paid to anyone by two men who are responsible—one from Boone and one from Kenton county, Ky.—who can take the sting out of a man who has had the Shingles, and place them in as good health as before having same.

I have been sick from the effects of the Shingles for two years, and was not able to give my customers and friends the service I always had before, but, as I have improved in health a great deal lately, I think, I will be able to take care of my customers as heretofore. I am still in the CARRIAGE BUSINESS and expect to remain just as long as I can make a living at same.

Now, a word in regard to rubber tires, I suppose some people think any one can apply a tire to a wheel, but, that is a great mistake; there is just as much in applying a tire to make it wear, as there is in the quality of the tire. If I do like some, cut a pound out of each tire before applying, and take the compression out that ought to be in the tire, I would have more money than I have now.

I have been applying rubber tires for just twenty-six years, and, I think, I should know something about them. I am using the T. J. COOPER TYRE—nothing but first grade and strictly guaranteed to be the best on the market—one price to all.

Those who are going to have repairs done, get your work to me as soon as possible, before work on the Dixie Highway starts, and your work will then be ready for you when the road is ready to travel upon. They claim it will be completed in 40 days from the time they start work on it.

Repainting and anything in the carriage line—one price to all. All work done by me must be strictly first-class.

Write or phone me at any time for prices.

There is very great probability that the fruit crop will be killed

According to reports coming in flockmasters in this county are having unusually good luck with their lambs this year. The losses are very small and the lambs appear to be making a good start.
The high price of sheep, wool and lamb's tallow has increased the sheep industry greatly in Boone county, but the slump in prices last year has been very discouraging to the owners of sheep and lamb's tallow and in many instances is very desirable to make up in a measure for these losses.

Present indications are that the acreage of tobacco planted in this county this year will be considerably smaller than that of last year.
Many of the growers were not at all satisfied with the price they received for their last year's crop and decided to turn their attention to other crops this year.
The fall down in price has been particularly hard on the tenant class as that class of growers depend largely and in many instances entirely upon the tobacco they grow for their living.

the skirt shortage.

After hearing a real jazz band, some people feel like asking where they got their liquor.

A lot of the people who are are not saving a cent to help build them.

The superfluous office hollers sire to the time when they have to go to work.

The general verdict among Kentucky and Missouri Colonels is that prohibition has converted inauguration into a "melancholy festivity."

It is said that Governor Morrow of Kentucky is greatly disturbed about the prevalence of moonshining and bootlegging in his State. But it seems to us he ought to find some comfort in the thought that the time is coming when he will be able to pass the worries to his successor.

Kentucky women won't enjoy equal rights until somebody discovers the formula for "Colonel."

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Although he is sixty-four years old, Clay C. MacDonald, a member of the American Legion in St. Joseph, Mo., has been selected as chief of police of that city. MacDonald is a veteran of the World War with a good record, and it is believed that his experience and ability will check the results of the national crime wave in the Missouri city.

More than 21,000 new claims of veterans for compensation and other government benefits have been filed by the middle of February as a result of a service contest among Illinois American Legion posts, which started last Armistice Day under the auspices of a Chicago newspaper and for which prizes were offered. Similar Legion campaigns to obtain just compensation for the disabled are in progress in Montana, North Dakota and many other Legion districts.

A letter of congratulation has been received by F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, from the French War Veterans Society of America, in reference to the Legion badge determined stand against the efforts of German propagandists to drive a wedge between this country and France. To a campaign of systematic calumny you made the only kind of reply which it was fitting to make and the "pouls" approve it and thank you, the letter states. The Indiana legislature passed a resolution commending the Legion's fight against the Boche campaign.

Thousands of ex-service men of foreign ancestry will learn of the activities of the American Legion as a result of the addition of more than one hundred foreign-language newspapers to the mailing lists of the American Legion News Service. The nationalities represented are French, Italian, Scandinavian, Jewish, Slovak, Russian, Lithuanian, Greek, Polish, Serbian, Chinese, Bohemian, Magyar, Finnish, Danish, Ukrainian, Rumanian, Bulgarian and German.

Financially the world is our debtor. Economically we produce more than we consume and if as a nation we are to progress industrially as we should, it is essential that we market for our goods be found beyond our own borders.

With our almost limitless resources we have been a prosperous nation. We have always produced in excess of our ability to consume. Prior to the war, our manufacturing industries with a favorable balance of trade were sailing in fair weather. European countries had plenty of money and short-time credit was the rule. Now, with the tremendous increase in marketing facilities occasioned by the war, the question of foreign trade is of paramount importance. The surplus demands an outlet.

This bonus for tobacco market will close in a very short time and those who have not sold their crop will get them off the market without a bid. The market is a little average.

A Week's News.

Rome.—Fire in the world-famous Church at Loreto, the Chiesa Della Casa Santa, destroyed the altar and the statue of the Virgin. The fire was caused by a short circuit.

Washington.—Complete cessation of army recruiting has been ordered by Secretary Newton D. Baker of the War Department, in accordance with the direction of Congress as embodied in a joint resolution passed over the veto of President Wilson.

There are about half a dozen motion picture theaters in Tientsin, of which the leading foreign house has a capacity of 800, and the Chinese ones seat from 500 to 2,000 persons and give two shows daily. Films from most of the large American companies are exhibited, the popularity of the stars being about the same as in the United States.

Ex-heros can't understand why the world has such a short memory.

"When plants die, they give off a large amount of electricity. If 500 people holding in a pot all died at the same moment, they would give a current sufficient to electrify the cook," said Sir J. C. Bose, in a lecture on growth of plants, to the students of University College, London, recently. You can describe a lilac plant with chloroform, he said. Usually it sleeps in winter and blossoms in the spring, but if given a dose of chloroform in winter it blossoms on awakening from the chloroform sleep.

Fifty million horsepower comprises the total, both steam and water power generated, now in use in the United States. It is conservatively estimated that as much more can be developed by utilization of the water power resources. The Department of the Interior has placed the potential water power at 60,000,000 horsepower, of which but 10,000,000 is now developed. This saves the country annually of 33,000,000 tons of coal annually.

Although it has been known for more than 100 years, balsam wood is just coming into use as a substitute for cork in some of its capacities. It is the lightest cork material in wood known and a paraffine treatment makes it available for many purposes for which cork heretofore has been exclusively used. It must be disposed of quickly after being cut, for it rots rapidly when exposed to the atmosphere in the tropics where it grows.

Why should a novelist care whether one likes his book or not if 50,000 copies of it are sold?

The Peruvian Central railroad is a wonderful monument to the science of railroad engineering, the climb being made through a system of "switchbacks" and having 54 tunnels in its track. At one point, Tickle pass, it rises to an altitude of nearly 19,000 feet. The mines are rich in historical lore, having been operated in a primitive way by the Inca Indians a long time before the advent of Pizarro, the famous conquistador of Peru. In the near vicinity of the mines are many ruins of old Inca temples and other evidences of a remote but well developed form of civilization that dates back to ages that as yet have not been definitely established.

A Shameful Amendment.

Because of a shameful amendment reflecting the opinion of a Senator who said wives deserted often deserved desertion, the Canadian-American extradition treaty as ratified relates to desertion of minor children only.

There is no more fruitful cause of tragedy than the desertion of wives by husbands who have no sense of moral responsibility. In innumerable cases women without means of support, oftentimes women not in physical condition to accept employment, are deserted by fair-weather husbands wishing to be rid of burdens. To put the matter plainly, many wives are deserted when and because there is a prospect of the additional domestic expense which the birth of a child will entail. Under the treaty as amended an American husband may be extradited if he has left minor children at home. If he has deserted his wife because he fears having to support a child, or if he deserts a childless wife because she is a bedridden invalid, or because he is convinced that ward of her and would be free, he may not be extradited from Canada!

Anyone who has had any experience in the courts or in a Police Court, a domestic relations court, a court in which divorce cases are tried, a criminal court—knows that a vast amount of misery, vice and crime grows directly, plainly, out of the desertion of wives, many of them childless; many of them blameless. To general knowledge of the facts and due to the late Senator, wife desertion is an extraditable offense when the wife deserter crosses a State line. Much good has been accomplished by the Kentucky law under which a wife deserter may be extradited. Before its enactment any husband who wished to leave his wife might cross the Ohio River and escape into Canada. Under the treaty with Great Britain as amended a man may step across an imaginary line between Canada and the United States and go unchallenged of justice. An elementary sense of justice, not chivalry—would have forbidden the enactment of this extradition treaty by the United States Senate.—C. J.

"TYPICAL KENTUCKIANS"

The Nashville Banner tells us that the late Champ Clark was a "typical Kentuckian" though he spent the greater part of his life as a citizen of Missouri.

This is interesting enough to inquire further into the purpose of learning our Nashville contemporary's estimate of Mr. Clark in order that we may ascertain something of its ideas as to what the "typical Kentuckian" is. Here is what the Banner says of Mr. Clark:

He was good to look at; of a social disposition, fond of talking and of listening, a storehouse of good stories, which he was always ready to swap with the boys, and the personal friend of every man, woman and child he met. He took his Democracy as he took his liquor—straight—and both sometimes not overwisely, but rather to excess. People the world over love such men as he.

Friends of Mr. Clark will by no means care for this summing up, and unless the Evening Post is mistaken, the men and women of this Commonwealth will find the affirmation that the man so described above is the "typical Kentuckian." Not that we deny that it describes with reasonable accuracy a certain "Kentucky type," but is that type general, and is it of a type that we most care for in Kentucky?

The Evening Post is prepared to answer the question propounded in the negative. If we are to consider those who have been described as "professional Kentuckians" we must admit that the unattractive description given above fits the case pretty well, but after all, the "professional Kentuckians" number but a handful. The "typical Kentuckian" is a man not very different from the "typical citizen of other States; he is a man willing and able to work, much more prone to think than to talk endlessly, not always good to look at, but usually warm-hearted, hospitable, and straightforward, and lastly, in a large majority of cases, a straight out prohibitionist.

The Banner thinks Mr. Clark a "typical Kentuckian." Well, another Kentuckian acted as Speaker of the House of Representatives at Washington within the memory of men and women now living. That man was John G. Carlisle. It would be difficult to find two public men more different than Champ Clark and John G. Carlisle. Mr. Carlisle was a man of remarkable intellectual powers, essentially a thinker, although able to put his thoughts into language that was the more impressive because of its classic simplicity. Mr. Carlisle was not the personal friend of everyone he met; on the other hand, he was a reserved man, and made his way to place and power by other arts than those of personal popularity. We do not affirm that Mr. Carlisle was a "typical Kentuckian," and of his mentality we are aware, but we do contend that we in Kentucky have as much a right to point to him as a worthy representative of Kentucky as others have to point to types of a different kind.—Louisville Evening Post.

The most popular cough medicine among the Chinese is a white powder made from the kernels of peach stones. A single wolf has been known to kill in six months 150 head of cattle valued at $5,000. No matter how much right may be on his side, a man will find himself in the wrong at the end of any argument with a woman. A farmer suggests that a farmer should have two wives, but says that one is enough for a city man. This view will be informed, no doubt, by many a city man. Walter Brown and Sam visited Clifton Roberts at 9 o'clock Saturday and Sunday.

Automobile Housings

People who drive automobiles by night need a "good light," whereas times when so many use lanterns. The man who drives with a poor light, and who tears ahead at a rapid rate depending on others to get out of the way, is a peril to the public.

But the one to avoid this danger uses a dazzling light, is much more of a peril, and he causes many drivers into the ditch. Some who meet him become bewildered and run over pedestrians or otherwise get into trouble. The dazzling light is one of the chief offenses of the road, long as his path is safely lighted. Deep and fervent are the curses vented upon him by other users of the highways.

Most of the states have headlight regulations, which are often so indefinite that neither drivers nor officers can tell if the law is violated. Consequently, headlight rules of many states are not well enforced. Dazzling light still causes many accidents.

The Illinois committee representing the Illuminating Engineering Society and the Society of Automotive Engineers, have worked out a system of specifications for head lamps, which is claimed to be the most practical plan yet devised. This standard has been adopted by Connecticut, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and California, which states have nearly 25 per cent of the total automobile registrations.

Every automobile owner in Boone could should be glad to co-operate in efforts to do away with the glaring headlights nuisances. The testing of lights should be so simple that it can be done in any garage, and when a good system is established every owner should have his lights comply with the standard.

The candle power of lights can be determined by a simple device in accordance with the system worked out by this committee, so that this plan of regulation is apparently practical. If so it should become universal, as it would save many accidents and make the use of the roads at night far more satisfactory.

Feeding Value of Tankage.

Leghorn pullets, if heavy layers, consume about 32 pounds of feed per year.

Pullets that were poor layers used within 13 pounds as much feed as the good layers. This amount of feed, if of the proper kind, may increase egg production over 100 eggs per bird.

When given an opportunity pullets ate eight to ten times as much oyster shell as grit.

Results indicated that the presence of animal protein in a ration increased the efficiency of the other feeds given.

Also the egg production varied from year to year, the general tendency was, that meat scraps and tankage to be equally efficient.

The pullets in the pen-fed tankage laid an average of 133.5 eggs; in the meat scraps pen, 179 eggs; and in the no-meat-feed pen, 99.35 eggs per year.

Under war-time conditions it cost slightly over $2 to feed a laying Leghorn pullet for 12 months. It cost an average of $0.123 for feed to produce one dozen eggs in the tankage pen, $0.136 in the meat scraps pen and $0.33 in the no-meat-feed pen.

It cost less to feed a pullet when no tankage or meat scraps were fed, but it cost more to produce one dozen eggs.

The amount of feed required to produce one pound of egg was 3.6 pounds in the tankage pen, 3.77 pounds in the meat scraps pen and 9.32 pounds in the no-meat-feed pen.

Sudden severe lowering of temperature in the winter retarded egg production of Leghorns.

The highest egg producing months regardless of the ration fed, were March, April and May.

The income was the highest during the spring months when the price for eggs was the lowest.

The profit over feed costs was $1.17 in the tankage pen, $1.60 in the meat scraps pen and $0.43 in the no-meat-feed pen.

The feeding value of tankage was $1.37 per ton and of the meat scraps was $1.03 per ton.

The three pens involved in the experiment produced eggs of similar fertility, but the tankage-fed pen was considerably lower in "hatchability" of eggs than the other pens. The eggs of the meat scraps pen hatched slightly better than those of the no-meat-feed pen.

A Leghorn pullet produces about 25 pounds of manure on the roosts each year. There was nothing to indicate that the ration given had any influence on the mortality of the flocks.

Wages Will Be Reduced.

New York.—The New York Central Railroad announced that, beginning April 16, it would revise downward the wages of approximately 45,000 employees. It was understood that the subsidiary lines, forming a system which employs 17,000 men, or almost one-tenth of the railway workmen in the United States, soon would follow the lead of the parent organization.

There is more snail-pole in this country at this time than there has been for years. One case in Waterloo, another in Petersburg and another at Constance.

Farm Bureau Notes.

Fruit growers who expect to do spraying this season should start the spray pump immediately for the dormant spray. The extremely mild February and March is favoring the buds very early this spring, and if you postpone the dormant spray many days longer it will burn the foliage when applied. When you consider that a pair of San Jose scale will reproduce 2,500,000 young ones under favorable conditions from spring until fall, one should spare no pains in giving the trees a thorough spraying, making sure that every branch receives a film of the lime-sulphur spray. There is no question but that all orchards should be sprayed. It is positively a good investment, even if you don't have a commercial orchard, but just have the average home orchard.

Mr. Fleet, member of Commission handling a large portion of the sheep and lambs going through the Cincinnati Stock Yards, said recently to a delegates conference of the Co-operative Livestock Shipper's Federation of Ohio and Indiana, that sheepmen would add $2.50 to $3.00 per 100 to the price of their lambs to dock and castrate them. We hope to have several demonstrations in the county this year where half the flock will be operated on and check up the results on the market, as to the value of dollars and cents of this work.

At this conference held at the stock yards it was agreed that Stock Yards Company would furnish alfalfa hay instead of timothy to all sheep and lambs. This will be furnished only upon request. So if you will want your sheep or lambs fed alfalfa you must request it.

If you don't pasture your lambs the night before you ship them, the market, it will pay you to send them to the stock yards before midnight to sell the following morning. This will save you the three pound dock on lambs and five pounds on ewes. The stock yards will also pay for the alfalfa applied to lambs shipped by truck.

The early hatched bird lays the water eggs. You can have a winter egg basket if you hatch your chicks early. Chicks hatched March 1st usually start laying in late October while those hatched May 1st usually do not start laying until the following February. Which kind will you have? Do you want pullets that will lay when seven months old, when eggs are high priced, or the ones that lay when eleven months old when eggs are cheap? Hatch them early and get the price.

The Farm Bureau unloaded a carload of mixed feed to its members at $31.50 per ton.

The Farm Bureau at its last executive meeting voted to furnish pig and other club members any feeds that they might want to make a balanced ration at cost. This is also true of fertilizers to grow corn or other crop projects. This applies to all club members whether their parents are Farm Bureau members or not.

Office Seekers.

When a new president is inaugurated, his first duty has usually been to attend to the rush of office-seekers who desire a "government" job. Both the quotation marks and the suggestion that many people think a federal position is something to be down in.

The number of people who desire public office is surprising, considering that the compensation is not usually liberal. It has often been urged that these positions should be better paid, so that they should attract the most able class of people. Yet when higher rates of pay are granted, some times the only result is to increase the political scramble for them. Meanwhile first class business men would not enter the service, owing to uncertainty of tenure and lack of system for promotion of exceptionally deserving officials.

Government service ought to offer the same chance for advancement as in a private business. But until appointments are made strictly on merit, the taxpayers will not reward this work more liberally.

Pepper Smith, of Bellevue, was the only Boone county tobacco buyer who had the nerve to go up against the tobacco market at the beginning of the season. In his first campaign of buying he paid as high as 25 cents a pound all round for some crops, but he commenced reducing his price until it was only about one-half of that he paid at first, but still he got the weed and secured a considerable purchase in the Bellevue, Rabbit Hash and Gunpowder neighborhoods. This purchase he received at Bellevue where he dried it and shipped it to the hoghead market in Louisville. It is hoped that Mr. Smith has made a good thing of his venture and has come out with a handsome profit on the right side of the ledger.

In a monthly publication issued by the prisoners in the Mountaineers, Va., penitentiary, is an editorial written by a convict who knows whereof he speaks. He holds that the law that prohibits the citizen from carrying a gun is just what the crook wants, and protects him in his business. The law against "pistol toting" has made the same safe for the armed robber to ply his trade, says the writer. He commends that the best way to stop the crime wave is to give the respectable citizen the right to carry a gun, and protect his valuables and property, and that the "blue bellows" and other "harmless" be taken off policemen and hat they be sent out in plain clothes. "You can't stop the holdup man by arming his proposed victims," says the writer.

While this has been an unusually mild winter it has not been such a good thing for the farmer. A boost in the matter of dispatching his work and preparing for his 1921 crops, because of the large amount of rainfall, the land is so saturated that the crops that would justly move about over it with teams. There have been few freezes and at no time has the ground been frozen very deep. Farm work has accumulated until the farmer will be a very busy man when the weather settles. Some are predicting a backward spring will follow the mild winter.

Should Be Condemned

Farmers, who haul their tobacco to the market and sell it on the floor of the loose leaf houses are required to pay a certain sum for each one hundred pounds they sell. This payment should end the selling expense to the farmer, but in many instances it does not. This year, more than ever before, there has been a disposition on the part of many growers to favor some one to boost the price, this sum varying from $100 per hundred pounds to a split of all the money received above a certain amount. This practice should be condemned. It is not probable that it is having a good effect on the markets and it is giving them a bad reputation. From what we do not receive any more for their tobacco than they would have received anyway, so they are just throwing their money away and establishing a bad precedent. It is certainly bad enough to have to pay 50 cents per hundred for hauling tobacco, but to have to pay 50 cents per hundred for hauling tobacco, without having to go to the further expense of hiring someone to buy it. Warehousemen who have the real interest of the growers at heart are generally against the practice. —Grant County News.

The Gardenless Home.

Newly arrived aliens often express surprise in their broken language, at a country where comparatively few people cultivate a plot of ground. They speak of the industrious habits that used to prevail in the old world, where people always expected to raise their own vegetables and had a scrap of land to do it on.

This country, in its prodigious living, has largely got beyond the garden habit. Good work at food has been done during the war, but the large majority of the novice gardeners have given up the practice.

Meanwhile most people loaf away their spare hours, their favorite hang-outs, and declaim about the cost of food and maintain they are not getting a living wage. Some of them say they are too tired after their day's work to yield the hoe. But a lot of them would be physically improved by the outdoor work it would place them on the beginnings of the road to prosperity.

The geographies say that the Mississippi is the biggest river, but they didn't figure on the Canadian border.

War between Costa Rica and Panama, and casualties were far less than in the war between the United States and Mexico. It got their gold lacerated.

A New Administration.

Formerly when a new administration began to administer the government at Washington, most of the people belonging to the opposite party at once proceeded to condemn all its acts. The old timers could see so good in the ideas of their opponents, and would make wholesale attacks on their motives.

Nowadays a great body of people cheerfully give recognition to good work by political opponents. Every new administration within recent years has started in an atmosphere of political good feeling, and Mr. Harding's will be no exception.

Yet party spirit will never die out. It grows out of the different theories that people entertain in regard to economic and governmental methods. If every body thought alike, there would be no progress. But people should recognize that their own opinions are always fallible, and they should be willing to acknowledge that their opponents are as honest as themselves.

HOME AND FARM.

Farmers have learned this year to plant only ground that will produce the best tobacco, and then only a small acreage.

The hog market seems upon the eve of getting stronger and a few farmers are feeding hogs for June market.

The supreme court decision in favor of the Federal Land Bank will please some of our farmers who wish to borrow money on long time.

Now is the time to trim and spray the fruit trees and plant the early triumph potatoes.

Authorities say that good seed corn will be scarce and should be thoroughly tested before planting.

Horses and mules are low but the market seems to be getting better.

No good heifer calves should be vealed this year as the demand for dairy cows is growing.

All waste straw and fodder should be put out on the thin land or broken places.

Farmers who do not grow a large crop of tobacco or clean off old fields this spring and sow soy beans and cane, both of which are fine dairy feed.

Red Cross Notes.

Sixteen Kentucky chapters of the American Red Cross now places in the honor list of the Fourth Roll Call by exceeding their 1920 enrollments with a total gain of 2,541 members in those communities.

This has just been announced by Lake Division headquarters here, the increase being based upon reports to March 1. Some of the chapters, which went beyond their figures of the Third Roll Call in the last membership enrollment and others which fell short of the preceding years totals are still obtaining members so that the final results in the state are expected to make considerable additions to the honor roll.

Here is Kentucky's honor list of chapters of the Fourth Roll Call: Boyle county, Breckinridge county, Casey county, Central City, Christian county, Cloverport, Harlan county, Green county, Hopkins county, Jenkins, Johnson county, Leslie county, Magoffin county, Muhlenberg county, Nicholas and Rockcastle counties.

The total membership in Kentucky from the Fourth Roll Call, as reported to March 1, is 35,401.

Among recent signs of culture from the colleges was the report that the freshmen were breaking the sophomore dormitory windows.

Out in the State.

Frankfort, Ky.—With simple rites the funeral and burial of former U. S. Senator Thomas H. Paynter were conducted here last Thursday. Scores of friends attended.

Georgetown, Ky., March 12, 1921.—The news that the Director of Music in Georgetown College is a Knight in the order of the Crown of Italy came to light yesterday when Mr. C. Frederick Bonawitz, Instructor in Vocal Music at Georgetown, was seen receiving a letter addressed to Sir Frederick Bonawitz.

Mr. Bonawitz served in the American army in Italy being assigned to Laison work on account of his knowledge of the Italian language and located and equipped numbers of huts and social centers throughout Italy both at the front and in the defensive areas in recognition of his services the King of Italy knighted and decorated him.

Mr. Bonawitz's extensive study in Europe made him very valuable to the Italians on account of his knowledge of the language. He came to Georgetown after spending a summer on the Redpath Chatauqua platform.

Georgetown, Ky., March 8, 1921.—The Clericonian Literary Society won the annual inter-Society Debate last night. The Society team, composed of J. L. Lair, of Hustonville, Shauf of Georgetown, and Wallace Beale of Georgetown, defeated the Negative side of the question which was, "Resolved that Ireland should be given complete independence."

The Affirmative was supported by Guy Stevenson of Columbia, Ky., Wayne Keller of Henderson, and J. B. Head of Lexington. The four best speakers were chosen to represent the College in the Dual Inter-Collegiate debate to be held next month. Stevenson, Shauf, Lair and Keller were chosen. Two teams of two each will be made up from these four. One will debate the affirmative and the other the negative against two teams from another Kentucky College.

Bowling Green, Ky.—The strawberry crop in Warren county this coming spring will be one of the largest in the history of the county under favorable weather conditions. The acreage this year is almost double that of 1920, and the plants have weathered the winter in fine shape. Last year there were approximately 1,100 acres of bearing plants, but owing to a late freeze the crop was cut in half, and only about 200 cars of berries were shipped by the association. This year the acreage is estimated by Manager H. D. Grammam at 2,000 acres, and the association expects to ship not less than 500 cars. To care for this coming crop the growers now have 20,000 crates of six gallons each. Last year the berries brought between $5 and $6 per crate. A fair average is $3, and should this year's crop prove as anticipated, it will bring over $600,000.

Owing to the oil boom here, the strawberry loading tracks are somewhat congested, and to facilitate the shipping of the crop, the Louisville & Nashville is constructing a siding and loading depot at Bristol, four miles north of the city. All the berries grown north of Barren river will be handled through the Bristol depot. This will materially relieve the handling facilities in Bowling Green.

It requires a rather flexible imagination to consider that the roaring start of a powerful automobile, or aeroplane engine, the noiseless movement of the electric car and the cheerfully lighted farm home where the farmer sits reading his evening paper, are all accomplished by the same agency. The largest submarine while operating beneath the surface of the water, depends on the power hidden in little black boxes to drive its machinery. Storage batteries propel numerous electric launches on the water's surface, and the penetrating shaft of light from the miner's lamp is produced by the same mysterious force. A wireless call for help from a ship in distress, with its life-saving possibilities, is produced from a few coils of the myraid automobile now using our highways after nightfall show the practical value of this current produce.

Fruit Growing.

Fruit growing is almost as old as civilization in America. Within 50 years after Cortez conquered the Aztecs, the Indians were cultivating peaches, a fruit brought to America by the Spaniards. Since that time horticulture has been of increasing interest to the inhabitants of the new world. Horticulture in one or more of its numerous phases attracts the home-maker, whether man or woman, city dweller or country resident.

The farmer, as well as the city man, now considers the improvement of the grounds surrounding his home and is concerned in establishing rural parks and interesting places of historic interest. Both, therefore, turn to the landscape gardener when perplexing problems arise concerning public or home grounds improvement.

If the city fruit gardener desires information about varieties of strawberries or grapes, or how to prune his raspberry or spray his apple tree, the horticulturist is prepared to assist him. The farmer—whether growing fruit for home use or market—frequently wants advice about such things as the best location for his orchard, proper cultural practices and fertilization or spraying. The horticulturist is ready to help him solve his problem.

Moreover, nearly every farm home now has a garden; and the value of the back yard and vacant lot gardens in cities is no longer in doubt. Here again the horticulturist, with his first-hand knowledge about the best methods for making both land and labor yield the highest returns, is of service.

Nor does the horticulturist's interest stop at the so-called more practical things. The housewife particularly likes to grow flowers, but is often disappointed in the results she gets because of failure to observe some cultural detail or because of plant pests. She may look to the horticulturist for help, since flowers and their culture are one of his four major interests.

Propagation of plants, the improvement and culture of potatoes and tobacco, decorative planting and the growing of vegetables in doors are other specialized phases of horticulture of interest to many. As the number interested in them increases the problems also increase and keep the horticulturist busy trying to find their solution.

Work Will Stop.

On account of the last Congress not passing an appropriation bill for river and harbor work, Major Sheets was notified last week that the appropriation for Dam 38 was cut one-half. He accordingly let one hundred men go, reducing his force more than half. Whether the work will be continued in the spring, but it is feared that river improvement will be held up for the next two years in which case the work that has already been done on this dam will be lost.

LATER—Work on Dam 38 has been ordered closed down Tuesday, March 15. All men, excepting five who will be retained five days to clean up the reservation, will be discharged. They may mean the abandoning of the river dams or no work for two years. Mr. Prell of the Markland dam will look after the property interest here. In the time that he has been in charge of the dam work, a remarkable showing, having accomplished more in that time than has ever been done in the history of other government dams. He has an amount of time. He has been a friend to his men and has the respect of every man working for him.—Rising Sun Recorder.

Can Prescribe Beer.

The Revenue Department made known last week an opinion by the Attorney General that the Government is without authority to prohibit or limit the manufacture and sale of liquors, wines or beer for non-beverage purposes. The opinion, one of the most comprehensive dealing with the question of prohibition, expressly states that there must be no limitation on the use of liquors except that prescribed by Congress in limiting the sale of medicinal liquors to one pint for ten days. The question of limitation, then, the opinion said, is left to the good faith of the physician.

MR. SEARS' LECTURE

Enjoyed By Large Audience
At the Court House
Monday Night.

If every man, woman and child of accountable age in this community would find it possible to adhere to the rules for better living as laid down by Dr. H. W. Sears in his lecture on Monday night it is an assured fact that a marked improvement in the social life of Burlington and vicinity would be highly noticeable in the future. The worthy doctor, as the fifth number on the Lyceum Course, delivered an address to the large audience which not only justified the title of humorist which the advance placards carried, but was also full of good, sound logical advice as regards the right and wrong manner of living. In conformity with the title, "Don't Worry," his lecture treated of the unnecessary worries and cares which the human race assumes and the purpose of Dr. Sears was to point out to his hearers some of the ways by which they can dispense with their tireless burden and be the better in all ways for so doing.

Of a commanding appearance and forceful personality, the speaker assumed control of his auditors from the very start with his merry quips concerning several persons late in entering and through certain of his remarks could be termed rather personal in their nature the sting was extracted from them by the merry tone of his voice and the good humor which emanated from his personality.

In opening, Dr. Sears made reference to a certain old negro, who, in delivering a sermon, told his hearers he intended to "scut the inscrutable." Proceeding, he outlined in an epigrammatic and interesting manner most of the various ways in which the people of today are prone to assume cares and worries absolutely unnecessary to their life and, to emphasize his point in this particular, attention was called to a motto which a certain man had inscribed over his door reading thus:—"I have had a great deal of trouble in my life, the most of which has never happened!" Or, to put it more plainly, we should discontinue the deplorable habit of crossing bridges before we come to them as it is well established fact that we never come into contact with the greater per cent of the matters we worry over. As to our control over things in this world there appears but two classes—those matters which we cannot help and those which we can. What shall it avail a person to spend his time and effort in useless perplexity over the former, as to the latter, simply get out and help them. Simple, indeed, yet hard to follow.

In proceeding, the Doctor divulged the fact that he was a retired Presbyterian minister. He called attention to the fact that the churches throughout the world are gradually and surely conforming to a theory which has been his pet thought for many years in that the indications point to a future amalgamation of the various beliefs and denominations which will boast for its doctrine the only creed necessary to a Christian life. "I believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and love Him with all my heart," the speaker ridiculed the thought held by some that religion should be a thing which entails a long face and a grouchy manner and he said a person exemplifying such traits reminded him very much of an animal he saw penned up that afternoon along the road to which God has given the longest face he knows of. Not mentioning ears, the imagination supplied them. As was his wont throughout the evening, Dr. Sears then related an anecdote to gain his point about a small boy who was crying very bitterly. A well-meaning friend inquired as to the cause asking the boy if he did not have a good friend in the Lord who had given him his eyes to see with, his nose to smell with and his feet to run with. "Yes," sobbed the boy, "but my nose runs and my feet smell."

Space will not permit of a more extended delineation of all the good things included in the address which should serve as a helpful inspiration to all present in striving to get more from life and dispense with the useless habit of worry for, by statistics presented by the speaker, more insanity, physical wrecks and cases of nervous prostration are caused by worry than by any manner of diseases combined. In concluding, Dr. Sears extended to his hearers a cordial invitation to join him in living in the vibrant environment which he has enjoyed for thirty years, namely, the town of "Don't You Worry on the banks of the river Smiley."

It would be hard to estimate the many true and logical thoughts presented in the lecture and each one present should really feel beneficial results from having heard Dr. Sears. What's in a name? Can the discourse be truly labeled as a force which SEARS the cares which beset us and cause them to fall from our shoulders as the withered leaves are stricken from the tree, not as by a frost but through the agency of the set flame of truth?

Remember with newly polished shoes and three or four acorns, know how to sympathize with the poor soldiers who have done damage to their

The poultry standardization campaign being conducted by the Kentucky State College of Agriculture in cooperation with the various counties is meeting with unusual success in Madison county, according to reports coming from the Berea Rhode Island Red Association. Farmers in that county who are using the standard breed which is the Rhode Island Red have already sold 200 hens to Camp Knox, have sold more than 1,000 hatchlings to different Kentucky hatcheries and are now filling orders for hatching eggs to go to South Carolina and Texas. It has been estimated that approximately 70,000 hatching eggs will be sold out of the county during the coming season.

It is a mighty good idea for people to look around carefully in their own environment, and think how they can use the experience and acquaintance they have already gained. Taxation of Farm Lands.

There is considerable complaint regarding the increased assessments of farming lands which in some localities advanced abnormally in selling value during the war, when farm products reached the peak of high prices, and it was for this reason, our organization opposed the quadrennial assessment of land as proposed in the Legislature of 1920, believing that the high values would not com-

The chief trouble seems to be in the inequality of the increase referred to, in different localities. The policy has been apparently to add to those already contributing more in proportion and letting down lightly the chronic delinquents. The rich farming counties have been hard hit while the rich mining counties seem to have largely escaped the assessors' attention and hence the dissatisfaction.

The Constitution is conflicting endowing the Legislature with power to raise revenue by fixing the tax rates, based on former assessments, and then permitting by another section, the assess authorities to fix the taxes to be paid, by raising or lowering assessments. This is one of the greatest faults in the old laws, which unfortunately has not been changed in this respect.

There are certain immutable economic laws the violation of which is dangerous and compliance with them is advantageous. Prosperity depends on the volume of raw materials, supplied chiefly by agriculture, and on the factories to turn them into useful products, with the aid of labor which latter furnishes consumption and the process is an unbroken chain every link of which is dependent on the others.

Kentucky, originally a part of Virginia, was admitted to the Union as the fifteenth state in 1792. According to the 1920 Census, taken as of April 1, 1920, its population was 2,049,000, which represents an increase of 100 per cent since 1870.

The total land area of the state is 40,181 square miles. The population in 1910 was 1,200,000. During the period the population of the state increased by 14.0 per cent. Kentucky has 120 counties, which 64 show decreases as compared with 1910.

The Business of Farming

In the business of farming, buying is just as important as raising and selling, and there are three powerful reasons for buying lumber TODAY.

Buy lumber because the price is right. Lumber is back to normal and it is our belief that, everything considered, there is nothing to be gained by waiting longer.

Buy lumber to protect your investment. Repairs which have been postponed from previous years can now be made at normal costs. Repairs made when needed often save many times the amount expended.

Buy lumber to bring greater returns from your farm. Lumber is the big item in many improvements which will cut the cost of hired help, reduce waste, give greater storage, or add to the comfort and convenience of the home—and lumber prices are down where they should be.

Bring your building problem to us. We believe that our business can serve your business to your best interests, and our friendly help and counsel are at your disposal, without obligation.

Business Conditions.

Business sentiment is somewhat mixed, and while in some lines there is improvement, all signs indicate a period of hand-to-mouth business, based upon immediate requirements for prompt delivery. Whatever opinion may have been entertained a month or two months ago, it is now clear that the process of placing business upon a level fairly comparable with that which prevailed prior to 1914 is in progress. The process will be hastened by the readjustment of those basic commodities which have as yet remained almost untouched by the movement toward lower prices. Particularly is this the case with regard to iron and steel, the necessary materials for practically every industry.

Retail prices and labor costs have not kept pace with falling commodity prices. Labor costs must be readjusted to new price levels in an orderly fashion with the greatest possible recognition of the social problems involved. Viewing the matter as a whole, must come before the business situation can be said to be once more in stable equilibrium. Retail prices, as is usual on a falling market, have lagged behind the downward movement of whole sale prices and their adjustment has been delayed by the introduction during the past few years of a temporary speculative element into the circle of distribution. These speculative middlemen, who, for the most part, have no economic purpose, have largely been eliminated by rapidly falling commodity prices, but the effect of their presence still lingers to some extent in the unduly high cost of much of the present retailers' stocks, as well as in a general lowering of the standards of commercial morality and disregard of trade conditions.

It is difficult to conduct business at a profit in a period of declining prices. Speculative gains in commodity markets are believed to be passed, and in the case of iron and steel and a few other commodities the full force of re-adjustment have not yet been felt. With a continued decline in commodity prices, normal business is being seriously affected. The extraordinary profit in the U. S. during the years following the Civil War, and of in just such an extraordinary decline in prices, come absolutely to the period of the present depression. Not only is the normal trade of the country being affected, but the public sale of Walton and Burcham, near Bellevue, last Saturday drew a large crowd, and fair prices prevailed—milk cows being from $60 to $130 conditions were recognized as among the necessary assets of the well-established business.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, has ordered the Kansas Department of that organization to make a thorough investigation of the recent outrage at Great Bend, Kansas, in which two organizers of the Non-partisan League were tarred and feathered. Aitho the mob of residents of that vicinity included a number of ex-service men, there was no organized support from Legion posts, according to press correspondents. Col. Galbraith ordered all Legion posts to refrain from interference with the political activities of the Non-partisan League several months ago.

Aroused by the greed of landlords in Shreveport, La., the local post of the American Legion has placed itself on record as opposed not only to the hardship placed upon renters living in homes and occupying office and business buildings owned by rent hogs, but as pledging its aid in seeking a remedy for the evil.

More than 1,000 new members were obtained for the American Legion in Virginia during the last two months in spite of unfavorable agricultural and industrial conditions.

The increased cost of railroad fare will not trouble the members of Superior, Wis., post of the American Legion, who will attend the next Legion state convention at Eau Claire, in box cars. "We traveled France in side door Pullmans and we believe that we prefer the Yankee type of box cars to riding the velvet at present prices," the Legionnaires said.

Graves of 150 Civil War veterans will be provided with markers by Kent Voyles Post of the American Legion at Elizabethtown, Ind. To raise funds for the undertaking, the Legionnaires will give a banquet of "alum," prepared by former Army cooks belonging to the post. Elizabethtown Legion members are also backing a movement to establish a public library.

American Legion posts and the Home Service department of the Red Cross in Detroit have consolidated efforts under the name of the Service Men's Bureau, and will cooperate in the work of adjusting claims, hospitalization, education and War Risk insurance for ex-service men.

The public sale of Walton and Burcham, near Bellevue, last Saturday drew a large crowd, and fair prices prevailed—milk cows being from $60 to $130

Will be paid to anyone by two men who are responsible—one from Boone and one from Kenton county, Ky.—who can take the sting out of a man who has had the Shingles, and place them in as good health as before having same.

I have been sick from the effects of the Shingles for two years, and was not able to give my customers and friends the service I always had before, but, as I have improved in health a great deal lately, I think, I will be able to take care of my customers as heretofore. I am still in the CARRIAGE BUSINESS and expect to remain just as long as I can make a living at same.

Now, a word in regard to rubber tires, I suppose some people think any one can apply a tire to a wheel, but, that is a great mistake; there is just as much in applying a tire to make it wear, as there is in the quality of the tire. If I do like some, cut a pound out of each tire before applying, and take the compression out that ought to be in the tire, I would have more money than I have now.

I have been applying rubber tires for just twenty-six years, and, I think, I should know something about them. I am using the T. J. COOPER TIRE—nothing but first grade and strictly guaranteed to be the best on the market—one price to all.

Those who are going to have repairs done, get your work to me as soon as possible, before work on the Dixie Highway starts, and your work will then be ready for you when the road is ready to travel upon. They claim it will be completed in 40 days from the time they start work on it.

EX-COUNTY JUDGE DEAD.

C. C. Roberts Passes Away at His Home in Walton—Was One of the County's Best Citizens.

Charles Conley Roberts breathed his last at his residence in Walton, Friday March 18, at 3:30 p. m. He had been in failing health for some time but his death was unexpected. He had been down in Walton during the morning, and also had been about two squares from his residence in the afternoon and died shortly after returning to his home.

He was sitting in a chair and his good wife thought that he was falling to sleep, but in a short time she noticed that he was breathing his last.

He was born near Verona, Boone county, March 2nd, 1859, hence he was 62 years and 12 days of age. He was united in marriage to Martha E. Rogers Dec. 12th, 1877, and to this union five children were born: Shoba, Leslie, Mary, Clifton, and Mrs. Menter. Mr. Roberts had a short time ago had four years and four children, Leslie, having died some years ago, and a brother Geo. W. Roberts, of Verona.

He was prominent in Boone county politics, having held the office of Constable of the Verona precinct for a number of years, which office he resigned and was appointed.

pointed deputy sheriff under Sheriff David Beall, February 1889, this office he held four years. On the first Monday in Jan. 1893, he qualified as sheriff of Boone county, this office he held for five years to the first Monday in January, 1898, when he assumed the office of County Judge, retiring therefrom the first Monday in January 1902. All of these offices were filled with credit to his constituents and honor to himself.

When the news of the death of Charles C. Roberts was received in Burlington, last Friday, a feeling of genuine sorrow was cast over the entire community and hundreds of friends mourn his sudden taking away. In his personal life he was a heart warm in all its generous impulses, true to every profession of friendship and kind and benevolent through all his purposes.

There was in his make up the finer qualities and instincts which portray the southern gentleman, just enough of the old-fashioned frankness and cordiality to make you feel a freedom and confidence in his association, just enough of that genuine hospitality to give you the assurance of his naturalness and sincerity, and that hospitality bespeaks itself through every hour, whether within the portals of his home or out in the walks of the world.

We look back fondly to the days of our association with such nobler souls, and the heart throbs in deeper memory of their splendid lives and the days to come we will treasure the remembrance of their regard and good will.

Charles Roberts was a good citizen and neighbor and was highly respected in this community where he lived many years. He was of a quiet disposition, always responsive by nature to do a kindly act for any in need of assistance.

His family has suffered an irreparable loss of a kind, efficient husband and an exemplary father and a community a useful citizen. He was universally esteemed for his integrity, his uprightness and his kindness. The life remains were taken to a Highland cemetery and laid to rest.

Funeral services were conducted at Walton, on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends, after which the remains were taken to Highland cemetery and laid to rest.

The deepest sympathy is extended to the family in their bereavement by the Recorder.

The pallbearers were R. E. Fry, C. C. McNeely, Harry F. Roberts, Hugh Roberts, of Walton; A. B. Reiser and N. E. Riddell, of Burlington.

Undertaker C. Scott Chambers had charge of the funeral arrangements which were handled in a perfect manner.

A Reduction of State Taxrate.

The every increasing wealth and industries of Kentucky makes it easier to raise revenues sufficient to defray the running expenses of the government. As a member of the special session of the general assembly of this state we stood for reduction of the state tax-rate from 35 cents to 40 the present state rate, and we believed then, and believe now that the rate should still be reduced from time to time until the real estate of Kentucky should bear no part of the burden of the running expenses of our state government. The next reduction should probably cut the rate to 25 cents per hundred dollars, which could be made up from special taxation which is daily growing.

A tax upon real estate should be levied for county purposes only, a tax that every citizen should be proud to pay because it would be a mark of honor and the benefit would come to each individual in his local community.—Owen Co. Democrat.

HOUSE CLEANING TIME

When Man is an Outcast—The Home in Turmoil, and Broom Has Full Sway.

This is the season when almost every home in Burlington is in turmoil and the so-called head of the household is the victim of the home goes about with a dust cap on the little knot into which she has twisted her hair and pushing everything before her with a broom there are millions of her all over the land, proving the old saying that woman's work is never done. For he it is known this is woman's season of tyranny over man. It is Spring house cleaning time and the fanatically scrubs, sweeps and dusters. She runs up and down stairs from cellar to attic and conducts her drive against dirt. The rugs and carpets are torn from the floors and carried out into the yard. The cushions are downed and the pictures are piled in the hall. The furniture is in mass formation in the center of the room and there is no place to read the evening paper. When father comes home at night he is introduced to the stroller and the neighbors can hear the rat-a-tat of the broom as she sweeps the location of every picture nail in the house or wrestles with the window curtain rollers. He knows better than to rebel and meekly obeys her orders and other things Mother is making the home so clean that for weeks no same man will want to live in it and after the war is over and father has received his discharge, with no pay for the overtime, he will sneak down town at evenings and try to drink his sorrows in Coca-Cola at the corner drug store. But he of good cheer, fellow sufferers it will blow over and home will be home once more. But why does she do it?

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

KENTUCKY FARM WOMEN

LEARN SEWING METHODS. Kentucky has the distinction of being one of the two states in the Union where farm women receive instruction in sewing methods. The Kentucky State College of Agriculture, at which time 21 women were enrolled in learning methods of making clothing quickly, easily and good results by themselves and their families. At the present time more than 100 women in the State are taking the course and passing it on to their neighbors. Massachusetts is the other state giving this work to farm women.

FERTILIZERS STAY CHEAP

EVEN AT PRESENT PRICES. In spite of the fact that some farmers claim they cannot afford to buy fertilizers at the present cost of these materials when applied to crops, the following figures produced by R. C. Stephenson of the Soils and Crops Department of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture show that crops could drop 50 cents per bushel, wheat to 75 cents and hay to 50 cents per hundred pounds and the use of limestone and phosphorus still be profitable even at their present cost. Experiments conducted on the different soils types of the State were used as a basis in computing the figures.

CREOLIN WILL CONTROL

"GAPS" IN BABY CHECKS. Burning the dead chicks and all worms removed from them, according to this confined and allowed is off the ground and adding three drops of creolin to each pint of drinking water which the young birds receive by the poultice department of the Kentucky State College of Agriculture for the control of "gaps," the most common chick ailment.

UP TO HARDING

To Dispose of $15,000,000 Worth of Temporary War Structures.

Now that President Harding has moved into the most desirable home of real estate in the country, his Administration will have to decide what the Government is to do with the score of sprawling office buildings erected in Washington at a cost of $15,000,000 for use of the army of civilian war workers during 1917 and 1918.

Under the pressure of war conditions the Government bulged beyond the physical limits within which its activities previously had been confined and now an indication of the extent of its bulging sits occupancy of temporary office buildings covering six-fifths of a city block, with floor space almost twice that necessary.

Most of these buildings continue to be occupied by the slowly contracting force of the executive department, but sooner or later it is assumed, a majority of them will be vacated. A few now require extensive repairs. All but one, which is the largest and most expensive, were built of wood and paper, with a stucco finish and therefore cannot last more than a few years.

It has been more than two and a quarter years since the signing of the armistice, and thousands of Government employees have been relieved, yet only one indication of the temporary office buildings have been vacated and none of the 19 have been removed from its site. In addition to these temporary department buildings there is a group of mud-colored "dormitories" erected on Union Station Plaza to afford living quarters for women war workers. Their future will be has not yet been determined.

A few statistics will help one to visualize the vastness of the office building enterprise upon which the Government launched at the outset of the war:

The total cost of the ninety-two buildings, exclusive of the twelve or more dormitories was $14,570,436. Nine of the buildings are on Government land and 10 in one group on leased land for which the monthly rental is slightly in excess of $50,000.

The entire roof area is nearly 2,000,000 square feet. Within inch of rainfall and nearly 8,000,000 gallons of water would wash the roof surface.

The buildings have nearly twenty miles of corridors and 29,000 square feet of floor space. To clean the windows of these buildings it would take them about six months to do the job.

There are more than 80,000 feet of rainfall and nearly 8,000,000 feet of wiring. The electrical systems include 27,000 light outlets, 36,000 plug outlets and nearly 6,000 buzzer systems. The Congress must order the buildings removed. Authority is given to remove two of the structures in one of the pending appropriations bill but this measure does not go into effect until July 1, 1921.

Why Such Such an Effort?

Sometimes people look upon attendance at church as a duty which must be performed, and yet one which requires more of less of an effort.

When we go to a show we pay late price to see performers re-produce scenes of every kind of life that are old to mankind. It affords us the change nature, requires and we are satisfied.

A minister (this is something we did not know before. He extracts his information from a source that can not be questioned, from the fountainhead of truth and knowledge.

The pages of the Bible contain most thrilling stories and more astounding wonders than all the prints of civilization combined—and every word is truth.

All this is yours for the going, at a cost that never grows old, but there is no ticket taker at the door, and no admission is charged. You are welcome without price. Can you ask more?

There is no doubt that the high cost of travel is interposing barriers between the various sections of the country, and passenger travel creates a business for the passenger travel diminishes freight movements are sure to go down. And the cost of travel is increasing. It is inevitable. With other prices dropping, the railroads executives will do well to consider the advisability of a broad cut in passenger rates.

It may be impossible any time in the near future to reduce rail freight rates, but steps should be taken at once to consider the effect that the swollen passenger rates are having upon passenger travel.

HOME OPPORTUNITIES

Plenty of Opportunities in Boone For Those Ambitious For Larger Success.

A certain well known man started as a country store-keeper. He is still one, but he operates a chain of stores and does $5,000,000 of business in a year. Some one asked him what he considered was the secret of his business success.

"It was the faith I had in the possibilities of this business," he replied.

The great many people after they have been in business a few years, get discouraged at their slow progress. They think it is a struggle over into some other line, or want to some other city, they would do better. That it takes the change, they find it takes them about five years to reach where they were in their first location.

Scraping the Tariff Board.

President Harding has packed the Tariff Commission with protectionists of the highest cut. One of his selections for this board is the secretary of the notorious Home Market Club, which has long advocated excluding all foreign-made goods from the American markets. Another is the president of a high tariff organization. Evidently the new President is determined that the "expert advice" that may be given Congress about the tariff shall come from "experts" who believe in the highest form of protection.

This action will be explained by some as indicating that the President intends to side with those members of his party who advocate going back to the American-made goods. It is equally probable, however, that the whole thing is merely a part of a plan to get rid of the Tariff Commission. The Republican party has never believed in a Tariff Commission, and no matter what it does in the immediate future, it is not a character. It is determined not to be embarrassed by the recommendations of experts not themselves believers in the doctrine of protection.—Louisville Post.

FARM VALUES DOWN

Average Value of Improved Lands Slumped From $85 to $65 During Year.

Frankfort, Ky.—The March crop report of C. Hanna, Commissioner of Agriculture, shows a sharp decline in land values in Kentucky. These values have fallen since March 1, 1920, from an average of $85 per acre to $65 per acre. The average value of improved farm lands a year ago to $40 average March 1, 1921.

The average value reported this spring for poor plow land is $33, compared with $12 a year ago; good plow land $75, compared with $65 a year ago and average of all grades a year ago $53 compared with $70 March 1, 1920.

As there have been comparative low sales the last several months, these estimates are based partly on last fall's sales and prices at which farmers are now holding.

Kentucky cash rent paid for farm was rented in 1920, was reported as $916, and the average size of such rented farms as 112 acres. When cash rents were rented for cash, the average cash rent was $9.70 an acre.

The Constitution is conflicting in endowing the Legislature with the power to increase or decrease the tax rates, bond or lowering assessments, and then permitting, by another section, the assessing authorities to fix the taxes to be paid, by raising or lowering assessments. This is one of the gravest faults in the old tax laws which unfortunately have not been changed in this respect.

No state can prosper on agricultural and industrial enterprise and it is a fatal mistake to overtax the sources of wealth and industry with the taxation of other property and reducing the taxes on all.

There are certain immutable economic laws which are a violation of which is dangerous and compliance with Vantageous. Prosperity depends on the volume of raw materials, supplied chiefly by agriculture, and factories turn them into useful products, with the aid of labor which latter furnishes consumers and the process is an endless chain, the link of which is dependent on the others.

Lower taxes stimulate industry and it is wrong to penalize production. Therefore, the taxes on land used for farming purposes should be light in order to encourage production and meet the competition of other states some of which levy no State taxes on land.

This organization has always been in favor of lower taxes on land used for farming purposes and all other taxable property in the state is subjected to taxation; as the law requires, there is no reason why the tax rate in any class of property should not be lowered.

Kentucky's Population

Kentucky, originally a part of Virginia, was admitted to the Union as the fifteenth state in 1792, according to the fourteenth census, taken on January 1, 1920, its population is 2,110,000, which represents an increase of 128,723, or 6.5 per cent, over the 1910 figure. During the decade the population of the U. S. increased by 14.9 per cent.

Kentucky has 130 counties, of which 61 show decreases as compared with 1910.

The total land area of the state is 40,518 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 51.1 against 57 in 1910 and 53.1 in 1900.

The American people are sending over $350,000,000 to help the starving people of Europe, but they are not contributing one cent to fund the federal office men.

President Harding is said to have fruit 31 questions of great difficulty. At least there are 36 secretaries and 43 representatives, the number of problems appears to be 363.

The take work promises to be a National Pickle. The swollen pig a lot of waste, which is sent to auction.

The Business of Farming

In the business of farming, buying is just as important as raising and selling, and there are three powerful reasons for buying lumber TODAY.

Buy lumber because the price is right. Lumber is back to normal and it is our belief that, everything considered, there is nothing to be gained by waiting longer.

Buy lumber to protect your investment. Repairs which have been postponed from previous years can now be made at normal costs. Repairs made when needed often save many times the amount expended.

Buy lumber to bring greater returns from your farm. Lumber is the big item in many improvements which will cut the cost of hired help, reduce waste, give greater storage, or add to the comfort and convenience of the home—and lumber prices are down where they should be.

Bring your building problem to us. We believe that our business can serve your business to your best interests, and our friendly help and counsel are at your disposal, without obligation.

Business Conditions.

Business sentiment is somewhat mixed, and while in some lines there is improvement, all signs indicate a period of hard to mouth business, based upon immediate requirements for prompt delivery. Whatever opinion may have been entertained a month or two months ago, it is now clear that the process of placing business upon a level fairly comparable with that which prevailed prior to 1914 is in progress. The process will be hastened by the readjustment of those basic commodities which have as yet remained almost untouched by the movement toward lower prices. Particularly is this the case with regard to iron and steel, the necessary materials for practically every industry.

Retail prices and labor costs have not kept pace with falling commodity prices. Labor costs must be readjusted in an orderly fashion with the greatest possible recognition of the social problems involved. Viewing the matter as a whole, further lowering of retail prices must come before the business situation can be said to be once more in stable equilibrium. Retail prices, as is usual on a falling market, have lagged behind the downward movement of whole sale prices and their adjustment has been delayed by the introduction during the past few years of a temporary speculative element into the circle of distribution. These speculative middlemen, who for the most part have no economic purpose, have largely been eliminated by rapidly falling commodity prices, but the effect of their presence is still to be seen in the cost of the goods at retail prices, as well as in the general lowering of the standard of commercial morality and disregard of trade conditions.

Difficult to conduct business at a profit in a period of declining prices. Precipitous declines in commodity markets are believed to be passed, and in the case of iron and steel and a few other commodities the full forces of reaction have not yet been felt. With a continued depression, normal business activity is satisfactory. The enormous profits in the U. S. during the war have been followed by the Civil War era in just such a manner as to bring about a period of declining prices. The period of declining prices is now in evidence. Not only the prices of commodities but the prices of labor and the prices of the products of the land are all down. The public sale of Walton and Burham, near Bellevue, last Saturday drew a large crowd, and fair prices prevailed—milk cows bringing from $60 to $130.

conditions were recognized as among the necessary aspects of the well-established business.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, has ordered the Kansas Department of that organization to make a thorough investigation of the recent outrage at Great Bend, Kansas, in which two organizers of the Non-partisan League were tarred and feathered. Altho the mob of residents of that vicinity included a number of ex-service men, there was no organized support from Legion posts, according to press correspondents. Col. Galbraith ordered all Legion posts to refrain from interference with the political activities of the Non-partisan League several months ago.

Aroused by the greed of landlords in Shreveport, La., the local post of the American Legion has placed itself on record as opposed not only to the hardship placed upon renters living in homes and occupying office and business buildings owned by rent hogs, but as pledging its aid in seeking a remedy for the evil.

More than 1,000 new members were obtained for the American Legion in Virginia during the last two months in spite of unfavorable agricultural and industrial conditions.

The increased cost of railroad fare will not trouble the members of Superior, Wis., post of the American Legion, who will attend the next Legion state convention at Eau Claire, in box cars. "We traveled France in side door Pullmans and we believe that we prefer the Yankee type of box cars to riding the velvet at present prices," the Legionnaires said.

Graves of 150 Civil War veterans will be provided with markers by Kent Voyles Post of the American Legion at Elizabethtown, Ind. To raise funds for the undertaking, the Legionnaires will give a banquet of "alum," prepared by former Army cooks belonging to the post. Elizabethtown Legion members are also backing a movement to establish a public library.

American Legion posts and the Home Service department of the Red Cross in Detroit have coordinated efforts under the name of the Service Men's Bureau, and will cooperate in the work of adjusting claims, hospitalization, education and War Risk insurance for ex-service men.

Will be paid to anyone by two men who are responsible—one from Boone and one from Kenton county, Ky.—who can take the sting out of a man who has had the Shingles, and place them in as good health as before having same.

I have been sick from the effects of the Shingles for two years, and was not able to give my customers and friends the service I always had before, but, as I have improved in health a great deal lately, I think, I will be able to take care of my customers as heretofore. I am still in the CARRIAGE BUSINESS and expect to remain just as long as I can make a living at same.

Now, a word in regard to rubber tires, I suppose some people think any one can apply a tire to a wheel, but, that is a great mistake; there is just as much in applying a tire to make it wear, as there is in the quality of the tire. If I do like some, cut a pound out of each tire before applying, and take the compression out that ought to be in the tire, I would have more money than I have now.

I have been applying rubber tires for just twenty-six years, and, I think, I should know something about them. I am using the T. J. COOPER TIRE—nothing but first grade and strictly guaranteed to be the best on the market—one price to all.

Those who are going to have repairs done, get your work to me as soon as possible, before work on the Dixie Highway starts, and your work will then be ready for you when the road is ready to travel upon. They claim it will be completed in 40 days from the time they start work on it.

The Recorder hopes that he will speedily recover.

By the death of C. C. Roberts at his home in Walton, last Friday afternoon, Boone county lost one of its most estimable citizens, whom in times past, the county was pleased to honor with the highest and most responsible political positions within its gift, and in each and every instance he measured up to the requirements, acquitting himself in his official capacity with honor to himself and credit to the county. He was prompt and fearless in the execution of official duties but always pleasant and considerate in his dealings with individuals. He served as constable, deputy sheriff, sheriff and county judge and made a record as a public servant that has never been surpassed in this county.

As a private citizen, husband and father few there be who reach the standard set by C. C. Roberts, and a reference to his life along these lines will ever be a pleasure to the members of his family and those with whom he associated. The entire county deplores his death.

A Frozen Center of Population.

'Like Credit and other things, except ice, in these times of scarcity, the center of population seems in danger of becoming frozen. In the past decade it has moved less than ten miles, almost dead west. It bids fair to become a dry lake bed if it does not even slip back eastward.

Since 1790 the center of population has zigzagged westward more than 500 miles from a point east of Baltimore to one west of Bloomington, Ind. Erratic as the ten-year jumps have been, their average tendency has been almost due west for 130 years.

Up to 1810, when the railroads were well begun, the average movement of the center was forty-one and five-tenths miles a decade. Then for fifty years the average ten-year move was more than seventy miles; in 1860 it was fifty. This period marks the turning of the West. In 1900 the movement had been fourteen and four-tenths miles.

In 1910 it was thirty-one miles. Now it is only nine and eight-tenths miles, a new low record.

But for the great growth of population in a single State California, the center would already have begun retracing its steps. This pause in the westward course of empire is otherwise explained in the fact that for the first time the town and city population has passed the rural. It is an industrial age. And, let the Serate ask if it will what "we have to do with it," industry tries look to the seaboard, with a prudent eye on the markets of the world—New York World.

Last Monday was designated as the day upon which spring should arrive, but it appears to have reached several days before that scheduled for its arrival.

Passing of the Clouds

The farmer and business men are beginning to realize that the clouds in business have passed, and are looking forward to the dawn of a new and prosperous day.

This is being experienced by the rise in prices of tobacco, hogs, cattle, etc., over the low prices of two months ago.

When prices begin to decline everybody rushes to market and when prices begin to advance everybody buys.

Crops will be produced this year at considerable less cost than for the past three years; people will be more economical in their expenses and in the long run have more net profit.

CONGRESS HEARS DRAMATIC PLEA FROM FILIPINO

Philippine Resident Commissioner
Isuro Gabaldon

Washington. — "Must the heart of America beat only for the freedom of Ireland, of Poland and of the Czechs - Slovaks, and not for the independence of the Philippine Islands?"

This was the question Resident Commissioner Isuro Gabaldon of the Philippines addressed directly to the membership of the House of Representatives in a speech which was given very close attention and was frequently applauded.

"At one time," said Commissioner Gabaldon, "Congress had before it no less than thirty resolutions expressing sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people, if not actually voting Ireland to grant independence to Ireland. At that time, also the Philippines were knocking at your door. Out of the womb of war, many European republics were born, and America has refused to uphold the same. And yet the claim of the Philippines is unheeded. Must there be exceptions, then, in international justice?"

"My plea, gentlemen of the American Congress, is that you ignore no longer the repeated requests of a deserving people for an independence that rightfully belongs to them. The granting of independence now affords the United States a golden opportunity to give to the world unanswerable proof of its sincerity, its consistency and its altruism. It will be the greatest example of square dealing in the history of the ages."

"Do not think we are not appreciative of all you have done for us. We are. America has truly treated the Filipino people as no other nation has ever treated an alien race in all history. The high points of the American policy in the Philippines have been consistently inspired by this aim. We know that you were actuated in your labors by the desire to contribute to our own welfare."

"And we love you perhaps most of all for your solemn promise to grant us that which we hold dearer than life itself—our freedom. Independence is our national ideal. It is our all absorbing aim. It grows stronger every hour. For the spirit of nationalism never dies. Much less can it be subdued. We believe that we can never hope to be a sturdy nation if we are to rely forever on the magnanimity of the United States."

"America's task in the Philippine Islands is finished. What you have assumed as your sacred obligation in that part of the world has been fulfilled. A people with a medieval system of institutions has been transformed into a conscious nation, imbued with all that is modern in the activities of nations. And if you give us independence our gratitude to you will increase a thousand fold; it will last forever if you keep faith with us. "There is but one issue in the Philippine question, and that is: Is there today a stable government on the islands? In the Jones law you promised independence upon the establishment of such a stable government. Your own Governor-General has officially reported that there is a stable government in existence today, and we also have submitted plenty of evidence to substantiate its existence. Therefore, we hope and expect America will now carry out its pledge."

SEHON BREAKING GROUND FOR KENTUCKY CHILDREN'S HOME

WHEN ground was broken Tuesday, March 1, for the $300,000 home of the Kentucky Children's Home Society at Lyndon, Ky., by George L. Sehon, head of the society, the spade marked the future monument to Kentucky childhood erected by Kentucky children.

Mr. Sehon last month announced that work would start on the group of buildings, March 1, regardless of weather conditions and the promise to Kentucky's childhood was kept. The ceremonies were marked by a solemnity befitting the great work of the only institution of its kind in the country—an institution whose mission is to redeem from the clutches of evil environment those children who have not been born with the advantages that go far toward meaning success in the business world.

"You can't make a man pursue out of a sow's ear," Sehon, one of the sceptics told Mr. Sehon twenty years ago when his work was in its infancy.

"But today in many schools in Kentucky there is at least one child who got its start at the Kentucky Children's Home Society," said Mr. Sehon. "In every community there is some beloved character, man or woman, some successful man or fond parent who once was a ward of the Kentucky Children's Home Society and who now would be in the evil surroundings of his or her birth, but for the helping hand of the society."

Mr. Sehon intends to raise the fund for the cottage plan institution at Lyndon, through the schools of the state. He wants the nickels and dimes of the children to build the monument to childhood instead of obtaining the money in a lump sum from some philanthropist. He believes that through this method of raising the money, each childish heart will be filled with the thought of the good done with that nickel or dime; of the soul that has been saved or waif reclaimed.

Approximately $150,000 toward the $300,000 has been raised toward the society's fund. The ninety acre tract of land which will be the future home of the institution has been purchased, leaving about $100,000 cash on hand to be at the disposal of the society for building purposes.

It is estimated that this sum will be needed in the erection of the administration building and two double cottages which will house about 75 children each. These buildings will be completed about October 1.

As accommodations then will be available at the new home for only about 150 children, whereas about 100 children now are at the home on Baxter avenue, it may be necessary to erect some temporary buildings.

Mr. Sehon says he feels assured that the remaining $150,000 needed to complete the cottage village will be raised during the campaign this summer.

Ultimately the institution at its new location next to the Kentucky Military Institute will consist of the administration building, eight of the cottage buildings, a school, a hospital, a chapel and power plant, the latter to provide heat and light and also to manufacture

Dr. Johnson was as constitutionally prone to melancholy as any man who ever lived, yet he said: "Man's being in good or bad humor depends very much upon his own will. The habit of looking on the bright side of things," he added, "is worth more than a thousand pounds a year."

MEALS FOR THE CHILDREN.

There is much on the grownups' tables which should never be given to children and the custom of having them served away from the temptation of such food is followed in most families.

The mother who takes time to study her child will in her general reading and conversation with other mothers learn many attractive ways of serving the common foods that are included in her children's diet.

Any ripe fruit or dried stewed fruit, mashed until fine and stirred through cereal such as oatmeal, cream of wheat rice or corn meal will cook well and make a pleasant change from the ordinary serving of cereal.

A different arrangement of the food, a new dish, a garnish of some well-liked food will often be an appetizer for a flapping appetite. Our stockmen tell us that the young animal should never stop growing and they see to it that they don't, for it means an increase in profits. How much more important is it that the little human animal be fed so that there may be no weak places in the body structure to appear in later life?

Some day our states will look after the feeding of our children who are to do the world's work, with as much expenditure of funds and energy as they do upon the stock, valuable as that is.

Bread and butter grows monotonous but when sprinkled with a bit of grated maple sugar or a layer of bright jelly, it is seldom refused. Baked apples, baked pears, baked bananas, as well as baked potatoes, are all good food.

Other suggestions are—eggs carefully scrambled with milk or baked with cream and bread crumbs until just set.

Plain bread and butter cut in fancy shapes with cookie cutters and garnished in various ways.

Baked custards, flavored with caramel, topped with apple, rice with dates.

Club Life for Women.

Women are reputed to be more social than men. But they never have done so much to develop social life in clubs and lodges. They hold periodical meetings at which they hear lectures and make plans for further activities. They are more or less social, yet that side line of predominance that side line of predominance.

It is interesting to note that in England, where men's clubs can scarcely find members enough to pay their bills, women's clubs have long waiting lists of applicants eager to join. These clubs are not like women's clubs in America. They have club houses, and are run more like a man's club in this country. This raises the question whether women in America will go more into this form of club life.

Two difficulties have prevented their doing this in the past. First, their lack of sufficient incomes. Second, their home ties and the occupations of women having children.

The more civilization advances, the more care and time mothers feel they must give to their little flocks. This keeps them at home a multitude of women who would enjoy the independent club and lodge life that men have so long conducted. In these times an increasing number of women have independent incomes. They are likely to develop social clubs on a basis much like those of men.

Wool of Own Sheep Gives Cloth to Eastern Farmers.

Starting with the object of providing Vice President Woolidge with wearing apparel of native wool, a Massachusetts farm bureau now plans to have the entire clip of wool owned by the association manufactured into cloth and sold locally.

After the national election, the farm bureau in Berkshire county, which had pooled its wool clip and had stored it with a cooperative association, arranged with a local woolen manufacturer to have some of the selected wool woven into cloth. A tailor in the county made an overcoat for the Vice President from it.

Extracts from Secretary Wallace's Statement Regarding Depression on Farms:

While the farmer is selling the things he produces at prices no higher, and, for great surplus crops, lower than the previous normal, he must buy practically everything he needs at prices from 50 to 150 per cent above the previous normal. The severe agricultural depression is inevitable as long as such a condition exists, and this depression will certainly be communicated to industry and business generally.

It is a terrible indictment of our modern civilization when this great country is in the period of what almost might be called economic chaos because of our great surplus food supply, while across the seas, in both directions, almost half the world is suffering for want of food.

It is a time for every man who can help to take hold. As it the days when we dragged our fire engines by hand to the scene of the fire and every good citizen rushed out and took hold of the long rope and did his bit, so must do now.

We can not hope to reach normal conditions until we arrive on a price level which will be fair to all our people and all products. Farm products must come up in price and other products come down until the normal relation between them has been restored.

Funds Available for Roads.

Approximately $622,000.00 now known to be available for roads and bridge construction and maintenance during the year 1921, according to information sent to the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, by the several State highway departments. Should pending legislation be passed by Congress, additional appropriations be made for Federal aid, this sum would be increased by the amount of the Federal appropriation.

The approximate amount available to Kentucky is $8,000,000.

School Notes.

There is a great urgency for all teachers to enroll as members of K. E. A. which meets in Louisville April 19-22. Arrangements have been made for our one-half day fare in transportation. This organization is a teachers' organization, works out almost all school legislation. It endeavors to improve schools and teachers. Even if you are not a teacher, you should enroll and pay the fee of one dollar per year, which entitles you to a copy of the proceedings and a year's subscription of the K. E. A. Bulletin, a monthly magazine, which is well worth the price. At the last meeting Boone county had only two teachers. If all counties were on the same basis there would be no such organization as K. E. A. Yet through this organization your salaries have increased more than 50 per cent within the past three years, and your county school board has increased your term one third. Boone county teachers should not expect the other fellow to do it all. Is this fair? If you desire you may rent the one dollar to me and I will see that you are enrolled and receive your enrollment card even if you can not attend.

At a meeting held last Thursday night four members of the breeding hogs of the four important breeds: Poland China, Duroc Jersey, Chesterwhite and Hampshire, donated $50.00 to be given in premiums at a county fair. The hogs were consignment sale to be held just before the Florence fair.

These four breeders are a committee with County Agent Sutton to select the champion pigs. The herds for the club members at $10 per head registered. A special feature of this local club is that the boys and girls have the four best breeds of hogs to pick from. They invite other Farm Bureau members to join them in this good work.

The Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau voted to furnish any and all feeds that club members used to supplement home grown feeds in making a balanced ration. These feeds will be furnished at cost whether the boys and girls parents are Farm Bureau members or not. This applies to all club members in the other precincts as well.

The Ladies Aid served a very frugal lunch and held an auction Bazaar sale at the conclusion of the program. They realized about $45.00 from the sale.

Much good will come of this days work in the Carlton precinct. The Second Annual Convention of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation will be held at the Auditorium of the Seelbach Hotel on March 30th and 31st, and the meeting will be called to order by President B. B. Woods, at 10 a. m. on the 30th.

On Tuesday March 29th there will be held in the Auditorium of the Seelbach Hotel a tobacco marketing conference, convening at 10 a. m. The object of this Conference will be to decide on a definite plan for handling and marketing tobacco that will be applicable to all types of tobacco. Those present at this meeting will include representatives of all farm organizations in Kentucky, and all States that grow tobacco have been asked to send delegates. Invitations have also been sent out to the State Department of Agriculture and representatives, the Kentucky College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, as well as to a number of all tobacco marketing organizations in this and other States. Invitations have also been sent to many agricultural papers to send representatives.

Mr. C. H. Gustafson, Chairman of the Marketing Committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation and Chairman of the National Grain Marketing Committee of Seventeen, will be present at this tobacco conference and will explain the plan decided upon to the delegates at the Convention the next day.

Those persons who want to spend $1,000,000 a year on the army and navy will be combining some time because they can't compete with other nations having lower taxes.

Schools Are Making Filipinos An English Speaking Race

This is the type of schoolroom that is rapidly making an English speaking nation out of the 10,500,000 inhabitants of the Philippines.

If a teacher in a public school in the Philippines desires to punish a child, she doesn't have to apply the ruler. She simply sentences the offending pupil to remain away from school a few days!

This is the most severe punishment she can inflict, for Filipino children take an almost abnormal pleasure in going to school and acquiring an education. The all-Philippine legislature, in response to the popular demand for "schools, and still more schools," is constantly increasing its appropriations for education, but the schools can scarcely be constructed fast enough to care for the ever-increasing enrollment. The school enrollment is now 832,000 without any compulsory attendance laws. When Dewey sailed into Manila Bay there were 2,100 private schools in the islands. Today there are 6,500 schools and colleges, with 17,000 Filipino teachers and about 1,000 other teachers, 341 of whom are Americans.

The University of the Philippines is the center of learning of the entire Orient, and is the pride of the Filipino people. It has an enrollment of 3,500 students. Santo Tomas university of Manila, older than Harvard, is another famous seat of learning.

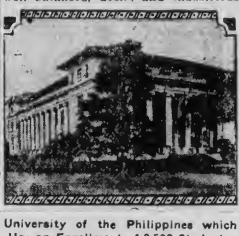

The school system includes normal schools, agricultural colleges, twenty-seven farm schools, a mutual school and a school for the deaf and blind.

The Filipino pupil, in addition to learning English and in addition to his regular studies, learns basket making, embroidery and the weaving, the trades peculiar to the islands, as well as the domestic sciences and pedagogy. There are more positions than can be filled by the trade school and commercial college graduates. The trade and agricultural schools produced $1,768,500 worth of goods in 1919.

There is nothing that the Filipino people take more pride in and that they are more grateful to the United States for, than their school system, which has been declared by many competent critics to be one of the finest in the world. While the system was implanted in the islands by Americans, every cent of the cost has been cheerfully borne by the Filipino people. The schools are making an English speaking race of the Filipino nation. English is the official language, and it is declared will continue to be when independence is granted.

"The Filipino boys and girls are well balanced, docile and industrious pupils," says Junius B. Wood, who was sent to the islands by the Chicago Daily News to investigate conditions there. "To attend school is a privilege to a Filipino child or young man, not an unenviable duty. In the cities those who work days go to school at night."

University of the Philippines which has an Enrollment of 3,500 Students.

"Today there is hardly a barrio where youngsters cannot be found who speak English. One-third of the house of representatives and eighteen of the twenty-four senators speak English in the next election. In 1922, the young men of the new schools will be stepping into control, and the first great goal of the public school system will have been reached."

A Passing Landmark of Old Manila

This is a photograph of the famous old Bridge of Spain, Manila. It is now a departed landmark of the Philippines, for its place has been taken by one of the finest bridges in the entire Orient, the new Jones Bridge.

The Jones Bridge is named in honor of the late Congressman W. A. Jones of Virginia, author of the Jones law of 1910 which promised the Philippines independence upon the establishment of a stable government.

The old Bridge of Spain is called "the mother of Manila's bridges." The original bridge was built of pontoons sometime between the years 1500 and 1600, being known as the Bridge of Boats. The stone bridge shown above was built about 1630. It was twice damaged by earthquakes, and was once partly demolished by a flood.

PRESS COMMENT ON PHILIPPINES

The Philippines (Sheenandah (la) Post.)

Our idea of the Philippine question is to get out as quickly as possible and stay out. What do you say?

Our Little Brown Cousins (Argus, Rock Island, Ill.)

There is no mistaking that Filipinos want their independence. And it is just possible, as they insist, that they in the islands, better than we Americans over here, are the best judges of whether they are fitted for independence. The United States wants no outburst in the Philippines as England does in Ireland. The easiest way to head off a rebellion is to give the islands their independence before they have cause to rebel.

Shall We Let Philippines Go? (Cedar Rapids (la) Republican.)

The United States cannot continue to hold the Philippines unless this nation wants to give the lie to its own professions in the matter. The United States must keep faith with the world. The American people do not want the Philippine Islands to become their Irish question.

Filipinos Are Making Headway (Mt. Vernon (O.) Republican-News)

The Filipinos are making an intensive and intelligent campaign for independence. They are using their claims with shrewdness and vigor. They declare that they have proven beyond question that they are capable of self-government, and they believe that with independence the Filipino will so conduct himself as to gain the respect of the world.

OLD LANDMARK GONE

Where Kentucky Hospitality Was Dispensed for Nearly A Century.

Geo. Kreylich has a force of men razing the residence occupied by Hon. Joseph A. Gaines for so many years four miles out on the Petersburg pike. This building is known to be considerably over one hundred years old, having been built by John Gaines, who sold it to Stephen C. Gaines, who, in turn sold it to Joseph A. Gaines, consequently it has been in the Gaines family over a century, its present owner, Mr. Geo. Kreylich being a daughter of the late Joseph A. Gaines. The timbers composing the structure were prepared in the woods with the broad-ax, and when the frame was raised and pinned together it made a structure that was almost massive and was very stout, and at this late day the workmen find the building in a fine state of preservation and very hard to tear to pieces, the very best of material being used throughout in its construction. Thus disappears another of the county's old residential landmarks, one where hospitality was dispensed for at least a century in the most unostentatious manner, each of its owners being noted entertainers.

In Memory of Louis Bristow.

Hamilton Ohio, March 20, 1921.
To the Editor of the Recorder:
Dear Sir:—As I know not the address and wish to express my sincere, heartfelt sympathy to the family of the brothers, sisters and family of Judge Louis Bristow whose death you announced in last week's Recorder through, which with your permission I can reach all of them. Ben, Frank, Napoleon Edmund and Louis, all of whom rode one pony through rain, snow, and sleet, over a mud road, to other persons impassable, to attend my first school. Their elder brother Jerome, Mrs. Jeff Childers and Mrs. Wm. Reagans, had been schoolmates of mine at White Haven Institute where we formed a lasting friendship for each other. In a few years their father and Mr. James Williams, who were the year to teach their school, and there the four boys and their sisters, viz: Jennie and Statira, were my regular pupils for more than a year. They were all kind and obedient pupils for whom I've always since had great respect.
Now to the survivors I express my deepest sorrow and most sincere sympathy in the death of Louis. But do not sorrow, as those who have no hope, for Louis having been a nice, good, clean, kind and obliging boy and having become a Christian in young manhood, (I read his letter home just after he accepted and obeyed his Savior) believe you have every reason to be comforted with the thought that, while it is in some respects a sad separation, he is at rest, and not subject to any more sorrow or pain, but is enjoying his position in the presence of God and the Lamb. "The body returns to dust, but the Spirit of God who gave it." Now let me admonish one and all to emulate the good and noble things you saw in him, and may we all live pure lives subject to the Father whose Son Jesus died and died for us so that when the summons comes to each of us we will be ready to go to meet him in the "Great Beyond" to enjoy his companionship forever. It is his sincere wish and prayer of your friend and teacher.

Out in the State.

Lexington.—Pleading that land prices had greatly deteriorated during the last year, representatives of the Fayette county Farmers' Union appeared before the County Tax Supervisors and asked that assessments be equalized on the basis of present values, rather than the high prices of war times. The board promised to take this into consideration.

Whitesburg.—The Fiscal Court here has appropriated $600 each to the six magisterial districts in Letcher county, to be used temporarily on the roadways—the work to be in charge of the magistrate in the precinct. This work will be started at once. It will be followed, however, soon with the construction of permanent modern highways in every section of the county. Both State and Federal aid is to be obtained for the permanent work.

Covington.—A man who registered as June Harvey, 41, Crittenden, Ky., charged with forgery, was held to the grand jury by Judge Manson in Police Court in the sum of $1,000. Harvey was arrested by Cincinnati officers and returned to Covington. A warrant was sworn to by Fred Droste, road-house proprietor on the Madison pike, charging Harvey with having signed the name of his brother, W. W. Harvey, of Crittenden, Ky., to a check for $300. The check, the police say, was drawn on a bank in Crittenden, Ky.

Chas. Cumberly, living near Gertrude, demonstrated that it is not always the man that grows the greatest number of pounds of tobacco that receives the most money for his crop. Mr. Cumberly, who is numbered among the best handlers of tobacco in the county, planted one and one-quarter acres of tobacco last year, which he looked after properly, both while in the patch and after it was housed. Exactly 1,600 pounds was taken from this small plot of ground, with his net results $68.55. He sold the last Thursday on a poor market but averaged $12. five baskets, bringing $19. To the Chronicle the solution to the tobacco situation seems to be a smaller acreage and better care of the weed from the time of setting out.

The Needs of the Army.

Congress has debated earnestly the question whether the United States army should consist of 150,000, 175,000 or 200,000 men. It makes little difference under present conditions, which of these figures is determined upon, except that the people are not in a mood at present for having to change over its entire system there by causing delay. An army of 150,000, with a large reserve of men who had had training, and with a system for calling these men into service promptly in case of emergency, and with a well-trained National guard, would be a better defense than a much larger regular army without the backing of a well organized reserve.

The folks who think that trade is never going to revive, will be weeping in a few months because others got ahead of them.

The Simple Home.

The American people have always been pleased to think that their great president Abraham Lincoln, once lived in a log cabin. It is also pleasant to think that President Harding dwelt for a time in a simple little story and a half cottage. It was so small that it had only two windows in its frontage, one on the first floor and one in the gable above. Just about the same little kind of shack that many plain people use now at rustic summer resorts.

A public man gains no added virtue from this plain start. But the fact that so many have risen from these simple beginnings, proves that democracy is a real thing in this country.

A great many of the men who were born in handsome homes have come out fine fellows, who have been simple and unostentatious. But it is a safeguard of our institutions, that so many of our public men have climbed from small beginnings. They know what it is to work for a foothold in life. Their experience will make them sympathetic with struggling people.

Moses Aylor from out on R. D. 3, sends us $1.50 to renew his subscription to the Recorder that he might retain his seat in our reading circle of which he has been a member for many years, being one of those who helped turn the Recorder in its infancy. The remains of Mrs. Eliza Rouse were interred in the I. O. O. F. cemetery yesterday.

A large number of Judge Roberts' Burlington friends attended his funeral last Monday.

C. G. Riddell, of Rabbit Hash, spent Monday in Burlington visiting relatives and friends.

Dr. K. W. Ryle, of Burlington, and Miss Eliska Stephens, of Rabbit Hash, were married last Saturday at Covington, Ky. The Recorder joins in wishing them a long, prosperous and happy married life.

Rev. Wilford Mitchell, of Florence, occupied the pulpit at the local M. E. church, last Sunday morning and evening in place of the regular pastor, Rev. Tomlin, who was engaged in work at another church.

Some of the mump patients are able to be out on the streets again. There are now about a dozen cases in town, and more to follow. It looks as though Burlington will be entertaining mumps the rest of this summer.

The crop of lambs in Boone county this year bids fair to be a good one and with plenty of feed should bring in a large sum of money for the grower. The weather the past two months has been fine on the young lambs.

People seem to think that all that is required is to give an editor the copy, and he'll put it all in print without any type being set. Don't wait until the last day to get a row of type and advertisement in the Recorder.

This sector has been enjoying real spring weather, the past week, the thermometer registering up in the seventies, and some of the early gardeners have been busy planting early garden stuff—such as onions, lettuce, peas, etc.

The sale of Geo. Decker on Tuesday last week was attended by a fair sized crowd of liberal buyers, and everything that was sold brought good prices. Mr. Decker moved back to Kenton county last Saturday.

Dr. J. M. Grant, of Petersburg, suffered a stroke of paralysis one day last week and was in a serious condition, but is some better at this writing. Dr. Grant has been practicing his profession longer than any other physician in the county, and has a large number of friends not only in Petersburg but in other parts of the county who are grieved to hear of his illness. The Recorder hopes that he will speedily recover.

By the death of C. C. Roberts at his home in Walton, last Friday afternoon, Boone county lost one of its most estimable citizens, who in times past, the county was pleased to honor with the highest and most responsible political positions within its gift, and in each and every instance he measured up to the requirements, acquiring himself in his official capacity with honor to himself and credit to the county. He was prompt and fearless in the execution of official duties, but always pleasant and considerate in his dealings with individuals. He served as constable, deputy sheriff, sheriff and county judge and made a record as a public servant that has never been surpassed in this county.

As a private citizen, husband and father few there be who reach the standard set by C. C. Roberts, and a reference to his life along these lines will ever be a pleasure to the members of his family, and those with whom he associated. The entire county deplores his death.

The Deadly Arrow.

A mounted Indian or white man with bow and arrows could easily kill more buffaloes than a man could kill with a rifle, says the American Forestry Magazine. At close range the arrow was as deadly as the bullet. It made less noise, and arrows could be discharged four times as rapidly as bullets from muzzle-loading guns.

A Frozen Center of Population.
Like credit and other things, except ice, in these times of abnormality, the center of population seems in danger of becoming frozen.

In the past decade it has moved less than ten miles, almost due west. It bids fair to become stationary, if it does not even slip back eastward.

Since 1790 the center of population has zigzagged westward more than 500 miles from a point east of Baltimore to one west of Bloomington, Ind. Erratic as the ten-year jumps have been, their average tendency has been almost due west for 130 years.

Up to 1840, when the railroads were well begun, the average movement of the center was forty-one and five-tenths miles a decade. Then for fifty years the average ten-year move was more than seventy miles; in 1860 it was eighty. This period marks the winning of the West. In 1900 the movement had been fourteen and six-tenths miles.

In 1910 it was thirty-one miles. Now it is only nine and eight-tenths miles, a new low record.

But for the great growth of population in a single State California, the center would already have begun retreating its steps. This pause in the westward course of empire is otherwise explained in the fact that for the first time the town and city population has passed the rural. It is an industrial age—and, let the Senate ask if it will wait, we have to do with abroad, industries look to the seaboard, with a prudent eye on the markets of the world—New York World.

Last Monday was designated as the day upon which spring should arrive, but it appears to have reached several days before that scheduled for its arrival.

Passing of the Clouds

The farmer and business men are beginning to realize that the clouds in business have passed, and are looking forward to the dawn of a new and prosperous day.

This is being experienced by the rise in prices of tobacco, hogs, cattle, etc., over the low prices of two months ago.

When prices begin to decline everybody rushes to market and when prices begin to advance everybody buys.

Crops will be produced this year at considerable less cost than for the past three years; people will be more economical in their expenses and in the long run have more net profit.

ESSAY WRITING CONTEST

Considerable Interest Being Manifested By The High Schools.

Considerable interest has been manifested in the Essay Writing Contest being conducted by the University of Kentucky among the accredited high schools of the State. And many of the larger high schools have indicated to the University that they will enter the contest. Up to the present time a number of High schools have indicated their intention to take up the work.

The subjects submitted by the University for the essays are:

1. James Lane Allen.

2. Suggestions for the Improvement of My Home Town.

3. Why I Wish to Attend the University of Kentucky.

The student is permitted to take his choice of subjects, and get the data from any source whatever. The essays must be written by the pupil and certified to by an officer of the school as being the pupil's own work. The contests are conducted between March 15 and April 15. On or before April 20, each school certifies to the University the three best essays from the school. These are then selected by three judges selected by the University, and a gold medal is awarded to the winner. A silver cup is awarded to the school represented.

The trophies have been purchased and it is expected that the name of the winner will be announced at the Inter-School High School Tournament to be held at the University on May 6 and 7. The High Schools in Boone county should take up this work.

WHISKY AND PRINTERS' INK

A southwestern farmer gave a printing office an order for ink. The job was promised for the last day before the big drought. The printer decided to take a few parties drinks. He took several. Then he set and ran off the bills.

The farmer called for the bills paid for them, took them home and the next day started to put them up. Here are some of the items he read when he came down to the ink of articles offered for sale: Twenty-five cows, broke to work; 41 head of cultivators, coming in soon; 120 rod of canvas belting, better than new; 6000 lbs. of corn, to be farrow in April; 11 head of chickens, with grass seed attachment, in good working order; spraying outfit, for use on children; and many other articles too numerous to mention. Should lay in a good supply before the balance goes up; articles under $10, cash; as the railroad will not except C. O. D. shipments.

GIVE US THE NEWS.

Tell It To The Editor. Every newspaper editor is desirous of printing all the news of his subscription field. That is the object of his paper.

But unfortunately an editor is partly human—at least he is molded in human form. He doesn't possess a diamond pipe or a diamond eye, or eyes, or ears for the collection of this vast fund of information.

That is why the editor urges you to tell him what you know—to keep informed of the doings of your community, and its friends, or of the community in general.

That is the only way to make a good paper, and is one of the prime requisites to a good community in which to live and do business.

Tell it to the editor. He'll tell others if it is tellable.—Carrollton III, Gazette.

CAUSE OF PIG LOSS.

Many pigs are lost and others are stunted in growth as the result of poisonous berries of high hills in front of hogpens. This is the observation of a Nebraska swine grower in a letter to the United States Department of Agriculture.

He urges that stockmen examine their equipment, and be certain that small pigs are able to follow the sows into the pen. Attention to balanced rations, sanitation, and pure water are likewise mentioned as methods of preventing runs.

SAVING DAYLIGHT.

It is a temptation to talk of saving daylight. To arise an hour earlier and to play an extra hour before dusk gives the apartment-dweller a chance to have a chance to know that this earth is not merely a place of hard pavements and office desks. Father of the golf, Sister Sue can play another tennis set, and Brother Bill has time to loosen up his pitching arm before a day of toil. It is doubtful if the sun is much, but at least she enjoys the reflected pleasure of the family.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

The little three-year-old daughter of Mr. Mr. W. L. Kelly, of Rabbit Hash neighborhood, was seriously injured at her home last Friday. A large log was being moved in some way the little girl clothing caught on the log, and she was thrown to the ground, the log rolling on her head, crushing her skull over and around the face. She was taken to a hospital in Cincinnati for treatment.

PLANT BLACK WALNUT

The black walnut has long been considered one of our finest trees. Its fruit and its wood are the pride of many of our finest Colonial residences were fashioned from it. With the coming of the war the wood took on a new value, as it was found to be most desirable for airplane propellers and gun barrels, while the wood from the nutbells was employed in the making of gas masks. The appeal for the wood was constant, and though it cost many a pang, the trees were given by their owners with the same spirit which characterized their other sacrifices.

The supply of black walnut in the United States has been steadily depleted. Suggestion is now made by the Department of Agriculture that the planting of young black walnut trees should be encouraged everywhere.

It is urged that this tree played the most essential part of all our timber supply in winning the war. By encouraging such campaign a future supply of this splendid timber would be rendered available.

The tree justifies its cultivation on its own account, and its wood is well known essential for small arms, sporting rifles and shotguns.—New York Herald.

STORM IN SCOTT COUNTY

Much Property Is Destroyed Many Horses and Cattle Killed, Fruit Damaged.

Georgetown, Ky.—Scott county, in the Bluegrass section, was visited by a cyclone between 5 and 6 o'clock March 20th, which leveled a large portion of the county. A number of head of cattle and horses, damaged two dwellings and blew telephone poles, wires, trees and fences. The roads, stopping communication and travel between Stamping Ground and Grade Cross.

The cyclone was accompanied by a severe electrical display, which was followed by a hailstorm of twenty-minutes' duration, which caused great damage to fruit blossoms.

Flames leaped twenty feet when lightning struck a high tension wire which carried current from Lexington to furnish lights for Stamping Ground and Grade Cross.

TOBACCO PRODUCTS AND LOWER "PRICE MOVEMENT."

A great deal has recently been said in the public press criticizing cigar manufacturers for retaining their present standard of prices for cigars in general, and for the recent comedown of prices for leaf tobacco in the Southern tobacco market, coupled with the fact that the public does not seem to know the facts.

That the tobaccos of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas are not the types of tobacco used for cigars, and in these places, that no type of leaf tobacco can begin to be worked by the manufacturer until from one to two years in the case of cigars, and from three to five years in the case of cigarettes and other tobacco products, after it has passed out of the growers hands.

If Kentucky tobacco were selling at one cent a pound, it would have not the slightest influence upon Shadegrown Connecticut cigars, which are now selling at five dollars a pound, or upon any of the cigar leaf types, such as Havana, Sumatra, Java, Georgia, Florida, New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, and Ohio, for the tobaccos of Kentucky and neighboring States are not and cannot be used for cigar purposes.

Moreover, even in the case of cigarettes and plug and other manufactured tobaccos, which are in truth, made of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and Florida, and other tobacco products, after it has passed out of the growers hands, it would have not the slightest influence upon Shadegrown Connecticut cigars, which are now selling at five dollars a pound, or upon any of the cigar leaf types, such as Havana, Sumatra, Java, Georgia, Florida, New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, and Ohio, for the tobaccos of Kentucky and neighboring States are not and cannot be used for cigar purposes.

BARN DESTROYED.

Last Thursday morning the barn owned by Clyde H. Hays, near Hebron, was struck by lightning, which set fire to and burned a lot of hay, oats, feed and all of Mr. Hays' farming tools. The barn was a two-story building, and was burned to death.

The loss suffered by Mr. Hays amounts to about $500, partially covered by insurance.

TO PREVENT LYNCHING

Governor Says Duty of Jailers Is to Resist Mob Until Inevitable or Dead.

Frankfort, Ky.—The removal of Jailer John B. Edger, of Woodford county, for failure to prevent the lynching of Richard James, on March 13, was made absolute by Gov. Edwin P. Morrow following the hearing of a petition for reinstatement made by the former jailer. This will prevent Edger from holding the office of jailer for a period of four years, but meantime, it is said that Edger will seek vindication through the candidacy of his wife, who was named to succeed him as jailer by Judge Edward Mulcahy.

At the conclusion of the hearing, which lasted from 11 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon, Gov. Morrow, without leaving his chair, gave his decision. He said:

"The evidence discloses but one fact. The submission of the jailer to the mob."

"The duty of a jailer to a prisoner confined to his custody is to use every effort to prevent his escape or his falling into the hands of a mob. Duty commands him to use all his courage, energy and watchfulness. It was the jailer's duty to resist the mob until beaten into insensibility or killed."

Does the Governor believe it is the duty of a jailer to resist a mob until beaten into insensibility or killed, or is that statement made for political purposes? If a man permit a mob to injure him or kill him in order to protect a criminal? This does not sound reasonable.

ARE BUSINESS MEN ROBBERS?

Some people seem to think that the business community provide itself essentially with the amount of profiteering practiced for about two years ending last summer. They offer, talk as if the number of business men were disposed to rob the people.

The period of flush times and high prices, was a time of many risks. Business men had to buy on a rapidly rising market. They expected a slump would come and they had no idea when. A man who had to operate in such uncertain times, felt he had to charge a good profit while the getting was good. He knew he would have to take heavy losses when the decline set in.

His forecast was well justified. A great many people who made money heavily in the boom period, were on the upswing, lost a large part or all of it in the deflation period. During the war many business men made money extravagantly. It was a ticklish time to do business in. Many men lost the chance, because they had no courage to buy on the high level of prices. Those who did buy, took the risk would not have been given any sympathy if the market had turned against them and they had lost their fortunes. Men who have taken the customer's part, and who take large chances of failure, are entitled to make a good profit as a return for superior enterprise.

The true test of a disposition to deal fairly with the public, is seen by the charges a man makes in normal times. The man who takes a customer's part, and who proclaims himself a robber, is a haggard disposition. The public should make all possible effort to patronize those whose ideals are more reasonable.

TO ELIMINATE OVERDRAFTS

Frankfort, Ky.—Unless "the overdraft" is not materially curbed the department may be compelled to recommend to the next session of the General Assembly measures to eliminate the practice of overdrafting. James F. Lewis, State Banking Commissioner, stated in a circular to State bankers, "Banks in a measure are responsible for this objectionable habit of their customers," he declared.

"Why not train them to refrain?" "The practice is a serious imposition on the bank and is a source of embarrassment to its officers and customers. It is a check on a bank in which he knows he has no funds he gets the use of the money for nothing. It is a check on the bank's credit without the owner's consent."

"We want to urge you to eliminate overdrafts. You can do it by requiring customers to make prearrangements by executing to the bank notes for their needs."

HENS DOING THEIR PART.

From the number of eggs being hatched by the local merchants here of Boone county are surely doing their part toward the reduction of high prices. Charles Munner reports that he is gathering, daily, 107 eggs from his flock of 110 White Leghorns, while many others are reporting that every hen in their flock is laying daily. There has been a steady decline in the price of eggs since the first of January.

The mild, open winter is given as a reason for the tremendous egg production this spring. Galley & Pettit shipped one day last week 1000 dozen to the city.

A $33,000,000 GIFT.

When Herbert Hoover set out four months ago to raise $33,000,000 starving children in Europe, many observers said it could not be done. They felt the American people were not sympathetic with human suffering unless it was found in their own country, and that no such amount would ever be sent elsewhere.

That vast amount has now been raised, and these pathetic little waifs of tragedy are carried through until another harvest, when their need may be greatly relieved.

The peoples of Europe feel embittered toward this country, for making money out of their misery. But several millions of young folks saved by this gift, will say, "No, it is the American people who care only for dollars. They gave me my life when they had nothing to gain by it."

The ability to cast thy bread upon the waters and it shall return unto thee after many days. The people in Boone county who have contributed toward this noble cause, will never regret the sacrifice.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

More Purebred Sires

Lexington, Ky.—Plans for an extensive campaign to arouse interest in improved livestock and increase the number of purebred sires on Kentucky farms were completed at a recent conference held at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station between Director Thomas G. Cowart and representatives of the various organizations which will cooperate in the movement.

The campaign calls for a census of the scrub breeding animals in the various counties, the rounding up of 300 purebred sires, an auction of these animals at Louisville, and the formation of organizations in the separate counties to look after the disposal of the scrub animals and the purchase of the purebred sires.

Cooperating with the farmers of the State in the campaign will be the agricultural extension division of the State College of Agriculture, the State Experiment Station, the Bourbon Stock Yards of Louisville, the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Breeders' Association, county agents and county farm bureaus.

Holstein Cow Makes

Lexington, Ky.—Star Belle De Kol Lyons, 23646, a nine-year-old Holstein cow, owned by the Coldstream Dairy Farm, Lexington, has established a new butterfat record for Kentucky, according to the State Experiment Station, head of the dairy department of the State College of Agriculture.

The new champion produced 33 pounds of butter during the seven days that was on an official test. Her record for thirty days was 2,652 pounds of milk and 107 pounds of butterfat.

New Mailing List to Include 20,000.

Lexington, Ky.—A revision of the mailing list for extension bulletins and circulars to include approximately 20,000 farm families, is being completed at the State College of Agriculture, according to an announcement made by N. R. Elliott, leader of extension specialists. Any farmer, home maker or back-yard gardener is entitled to receive any of the extension publications free, according to Mr. Elliott.

SAVE TIME AND MONEY

Few foods equal canned salmon in convenience of preparation. It comes in a variety of sizes, one-half pound cans. It can be kept indefinitely when unopened and is quickly prepared in an emergency.

The fact that it has been so thoroughly cooked in canning removes any necessity for additional cooking before serving except for the purpose of warming or cooking. The other ingredients which may be added to special dishes. Compared with the preparation of fresh meats or fish, a considerable saving is effected. The body-building elements of pink or chum salmon are especially important for growing boys and girls. For children over six, it is the cheapest and most nutritious animal food that can be had," states Dr. Harvey W. Wiley. These varieties being the best only have a special value as summer foods and for people who wish to avoid fat producing elements.

BURYING "GEORGE"

"Let George Do It" has been a favorite phrase, satirizing the people who when asked to do public work, always pass the buck to some one else.

The St. Paul, Minn., Association recently decided that as much had been laid on poor old George that his overworked back had broken under the load, resulting in the death of the poor fellow. Therefore at one of their entertainments, a hearse drawn by two forlorn old horses was pulled across the stage, accompanied by a group of towniers, members of the advertising club. They informed the audience that George had died of a broken back, the result of years of overwork.

Let's bury George here in Boone county. If you see a job of work that needs doing, take hold and do it yourself, or let us help you serve with others in getting it done. A county where that spirit prevails is sure to go ahead.

STORM SWEEP

Cincinnati Visited by Heavy Storm Last Sunday Afternoon.

Four persons were injured, houses unroofed, light poles and trees were leveled and other property damage amounting to thousands of dollars was caused Sunday afternoon when a severe electrical storm accompanied by high winds swept over Cincinnati, ending in a cold, warm Easter Sunday.

Property damage to high winds and lightning was heaviest in the suburbs of Cincinnati, especially in the Riverside and Northside areas, where the roofs of more than 15 homes were blown off.

Terrace Park and other communities east and northeast of Cincinnati also were hard hit. Traction poles and wires were leveled, trees uprooted and automobiles blown from country roads.

The storm burst upon Cincinnati about 3 o'clock. For five minutes, according to the Weather Bureau records, the wind blew at the rate of 50 miles an hour and at only a few miles reached a velocity of 55 miles an hour within the city limits. In the country districts of Hamilton county the velocity of the wind was higher, it is declared.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

A good many people have had to lie idle during the past three months. Any man who wants work but can't find it, is entitled not merely to sympathy, but the community ought to plan some better system for providing him with employment.

There have been many men lying idle who were desirable workers and who are not in any way at fault themselves. However, employers always turn off their most inefficient workers first. A large part of those who have been out of a job, were discharged with some satisfaction, because they had been so careless and inefficient in their tasks.

The abnormal conditions prevail during and after the war made a good many men feel altogether too independent. They knew that labor was scarce. They did not seem to care whether they did satisfactory work or not. The earliest spirit of old time industry seemed to have disappeared during the flush times of inflation. It was easy to earn good pay, and there seemed no particular reason why any one should hustle. Conditions have changed since then. When dull times come, these slack workers are paid off, and they are the last to be put on when rush time comes again.

Working conditions have been greatly alleviated for millions of people, by the shorter work day. The reduction of working hours will make goods cost very high, unless a large production is turned out. It used to be promised, that if working hours were cut down, people would be in so much better condition physically that they would turn out as much of a product in eight hours as they did on a ten-hour day. That prediction is fulfilled, the cost of all commodities will continue high.

MEAGER ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

In view of the claim of the Republican party that it possesses superior business ability, the country has been disappointed to learn how little work the Republican Congress accomplished during the session just closed. They had money and time and working tools to accomplish things, and about all they did was to pass appropriation bills. Several of these failed, and many more have to occupy the time of the new Congress.

The so called emergency tariff bill occupied more time than anything else. A majority of the Republican members of the tariff bill was vetoed by President Wilson. Many Republicans realized that it would have little effect in whose behalf it was drawn. On such staples as grain, the price of which is made in Europe, you accomplish nothing by shutting off importations. If it means that Canada sends more to Europe, which narrows down the market for the American staple.

Furthermore this bill tried to hand out favors to one class of people only, ignoring the consumers who would have to pay higher prices for products if it had any effect at all, also ignoring manufacturing interests that may need protection quite as much as the farmers.

The Republican party has professed to favor a budget system for appropriations. President Wilson vetoed such a bill, and a constitutional defect that could have been easily remedied if Congress had been in the mood for the reform. An amended bill had been promptly passed when Congress reconvened in December, the new session could have been the means of regulating the appropriations that have been made, and no doubt much money would have been saved the taxpayers. The new Congress must show better spirit than this, unless it is to ruin its credit and fill rebuke in the elections of 1922.

James Stillman, President of one of New York's largest banks, in a divorce suit has questioned the paternity of the youngest Stillman. This charge, if true, will blacken the character of the mother of his other two children, and put a brand on them to carry to their grave. It is hard to understand why the paternity of the child should be questioned when the charge, if true, could only effect the final distribution of an estate. If the charge is true it should have been kept in the breast of the father rather than published to the world. The Stillman children should have been kept in ignorance of this whole matter.

In this issue the RECORDER announces Rev. J. A. Lee, of Poplar Grove, Owen county, as a candidate for Senator from this district which is composed of the counties of Owen, Grant, Pendleton, Gallatin and Boone.

Rev. Lee is a gentleman of the highest type and has been a life long Democrat, and not connected with any political faction. Rev. Lee is one of Owen county's cultured citizens, and her citizens request the Voters of the other counties in this district to give him their support.

Boone and Grant counties now form the 62nd Representative district which was represented by Mr. Lusby, of Grant county, and Boone county should name the representative from this district to serve during the next session of the Legislature.

Governor Edwin P. Morrow, in commenting on the failure of a grand jury at Versailles, Woodford county, to return any indictments in connection with the lynching there recently of Richard James, Negro, said he was not surprised that the inquiry was fruitless.

It is ridiculous to say that a mob of 40 or 50 men could cross a county, go through a town and take a prisoner from a county jail, lynch him and then go back through the town and across the county without anyone becoming aware of it or the identity of at least part of the mob," the Governor said. "If this mob had rifled a bank at Versailles, all the authorities of the county and a posse soon would have been on the trail."

Mob action will "continue to be a disgrace in Kentucky as long as nothing is done to stop it, the Governor concluded.

Training teachers before educating the eye and both of which must be the young men are going to play base ball.

Mr. Robert Lansing's Ex-Secretary of State version of his relations with Ex-President Wilson, has been published in book form, and the Louisville Post says in part:

Only one word remains to be said as to the probable effect of this book. We believe it unquestionable that at the time Mr. Wilson demanded Mr. Lansing's resignation the sympathy of almost the entire country was with Mr. Lansing. No reason had been made apparent as to why he should be called upon to resign. The incident given was too trivial to lead to a request for the resignation. We believe, however, that with the publication of Mr. Lansing's book and a general comprehension by the public of Mr. Lansing's character and course of action from the time of the armistice to the time of his resignation, the judgment of the people will be reversed. Mr. Wilson, instead of being impatient and unjust, will appear patient and long suffering. Mr. Lansing will be condemned out of his own mouth. Publication of this volume will clear up the episode and will make obvious the reasons for the President's action. Mr. Lansing asks the question, "Was I justified?" In view of Mr. Lansing's own narrative the public cannot consider his conduct as "in accord with the best tradition of the public service of the United States."

Billy Sunday believes in a liberal use of the hickory switch in the education of the child advocating its use at several points in his sermon. One of these was:

"Many a boy or girl is punished by being sent to prison, when all they need is a good spanking and to be sent home," he declared. "If I were a judge I'd never put a boy or girl behind prison bars for the first offense. I'd give some of them a sentence, but I'd suspend it, and the result would justify me every time."

"Now, I don't believe in lashing the kids all of the time, but there are homes that need that hickory switch hanging about hardy, and above it the motto: 'I need thee every hour!'"

"The trouble is that men and women are going too far away from home, and the boys and girls in trying to follow them are making wrecks that would make the angels weep," he said.

Paris, Ky., March 27. — Funeral services for Captain Heuben Brent Hutchcraft, former member of the Kentucky Legislature, representing Bourbon county, who was killed in action at France, in 1918, were conducted here today. More than 8,000 persons were at the cemetery, where full military honors were accorded by 250 members of Bourbon Post, American Legion.

CARDINAL GIBBONS DEAD.

Baltimore, Md. — James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and primate of the American Catholic hierarchy, died at the archiepiscopal residence here after a prolonged illness, which mainly affected his heart. He was in his 87th year.

Beside the Cardinals bed stood every member of his household and when it was seen that the distinguished prelate had passed away the priests felt to their knees and began reciting the prayers for the dead.

The wings of the Angel of Death waved gently over the bed of James Cardinal Gibbons. It was a quiet summons, a whispering call that freed the soul of the great American from the body in which it had burned with a warm and steady glow for eighty-six years of faith and good works. All was in good time. The life of the Cardinal, cherished by his countrymen, in a finished canvas, complete in every sense and its background shines with the mellow radiance of the light that never was on sea or land.

He died, not like persecuted Christ breathing in anguish, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" not yet like St. Sebastian suffering from a thousand wounds, but calmly and serenely with the peace of the Almighty in his heart and the prayers of his devoted ones in his ears. Sainly and humanly he lived; saintly and humanly he died.

For Gibbons was a man. The dignity of his princely rank and the veneration that men of all creeds gave him freely never turned the loving kindness of his nature into pride and arrogance. He wore humbly his red zucchetto, forgetting never that he was a follower of that Jesus who taught from the mount that the meek and lowly Jesus had no cunning Wilesey, puffed up with worldly ambitions, self-exploiting, unhampered by the scruples of true religion. Here was no Manning, jealous of his power and party to the intrigues of the papal, antechamber. No Richelieu was Gibbons, ruling with an omnipotent hand, his great duties with simplicity and opposition and carrying out his schemes with crimsoned sword.

never of the narrow-gauge of prejudice. He lived a long time—almost eighty-seven years. In 1861, that far back, he was a full-grown man. For sixty years a priest and for thirty-five years a Cardinal!—C. J.

Used to Boom Candidates.

Chicago.—Col. Wm. Procter, manager of Maj. Gen. Leonard Woods' campaign for the Republican presidential nomination and contributor of $500,000 to the campaign expenses, filed suit to recover $110,000 from Maj. Albert A. Sprague, Chicago, treasurer of the campaign.

The $110,000 was said to represent Major Sprague's liability on money borrowed by him and by Colonel Procter for campaign expenses. It was specified in the bill that one note for $100,000 due a bank had become payable November 15, 1920, and that Major Sprague had refused to meet one-half of it, the amount Col. Procter charged he had agreed to pay as co-signer of the note.

Colonel Procter charged that $50,000 was due him from Maj. Sprague on the note and in addition cited loans totaling $60,000 which, he said, he had made to Maj. Sprague during the campaign.

General Wood said he "did not know a thing about it." "It's a matter for the financial committee to settle," he said. "I didn't know there was any trouble over the financial matters. If the allegations of Colonel Procter are correct, I can't understand why Major Sprague should refuse payment."

Efforts to reach Major Sprague failed. At his office it was said he was out to lunch and later it was said he was out of town for the day.

Richmond, Ky. — Four persons were injured and property damage amounting to several thousand dollars was caused by a tornado that swept a path six or seven miles wide through the section between Silver Creek and Kirksville, Madison county, on March 24th. The injured were three boys and a woman. The roof of a distillery at Silver Creek was blown off.

Hopkinsville, Ky. — Miss Hattie L. Clark announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for County Clerk of Christian county. She is a deputy in Sheriff Clibborn's office and formerly taught school in the county. Miss Clark is the first woman here to offer for any office except Superintendent of County Schools.

Will be paid to anyone by two men who are responsible—one from Boone and one from Kenton county, Ky.—who can take the sting out of a man who has had the Shingles, and place them in as good health as before having same.

I have been sick from the effects of the Shingles for two years, and was not able to give my customers and friends the service I always had before, but, as I have improved in health a great deal lately, I think, I will be able to take care of my customers as heretofore. I am still in the CARRIAGE BUSINESS and expect to remain just as long as I can make a living at same.

Now, a word in regard to rubber tires, I suppose some people think any one can apply a tire to a wheel, but, that is a great mistake; there is just as much in applying a tire to make it wear, as there is in the quality of the tire. If I do like some, cut a pound out of each tire before applying, and take the compression out that ought to be in the tire, I would have more money than I have now.

I have been applying rubber tires for just twenty-six years, and, I think, I should know something about them. I am using the T. J. COOPER TIRE—nothing but first grade and strictly guaranteed to be the best on the market—one price to all.

Those who are going to have repairs done, get your work to me as soon as possible, before work on the Dixie Highway starts, and your work will then be ready for you when the road is ready to travel upon. They claim it will be completed in 40 days from the time they start work on it.

Repainting and anything in the carriage line—one price to all. "All work done by me must be strictly first-class."

STILL WANTED—"A CHANGE"

"We want a change," was a Republican campaign slogan. All along the line the cry was that the officials of the Wilson Administration, who they were not worse, were incompetent and must be turned out for the good of the country. "A clean sweep" was prescribed and promised.

But, somehow, the new broom has failed to sweep clean. Instead of a complete reversal of the Wilson foreign policy which Candidate Harding announced he would make, so far every feature of that policy upon which the Harding Administration has acted has been expressly approved by it. In addition to that, Under Secretary of State Norman Davis has been retained while Secretary Hughes says he hopes of retiring that he can "turn the State Department over to my successor in as good shape" as he found it. He has indicated that he would have liked to retain the department organization intact.

And "intact" is a word which seems to appeal also to Secretary Mellon. "I find," he says, "the Treasury organization has done good work. I hope to keep it intact. Changes of policy will naturally develop as time goes on, but there will be no radical change or 'shake-up.'" Secretary Mellon has stamped with his approval the financial policies of his predecessor, Secretary Houston and has reappointed all three of Mr. Houston's Assistant Secretaries of the Treasury, notwithstanding the clamors of the office-seekers who are wanting a "change" even more intensely now than they did during the campaign.

Have the new Postmaster General from whom so much was expected, and is still expected, by the hungry, says to his men that in all respects it, the Burleson organization, is just as fine as it can be made. The Secretary of War praises the organization left him by Secretary Baker and approves Bakers' plan for a regular army of 175,000 men. And even the policies, big navy and all, of Secretary Daniels, who have been the butt of illimitable ridicule by the Republicans, are approved by the new Secretary of the Navy, C. J.

"GET IT DONE"

The Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City recently came to the realization that they had under consideration a great number of improvement projects, but that not much progress was being accomplished or any of them.

So a slogan "Get it done" has been adopted in that city, and eighty organizations are now co-operating in a "Get it done" movement. They are putting thru a number of public improvements that had been for a long time. Also the "Get it Done spirit" is manifesting itself in private business, and many executives are clearing up long ends.

It is human nature to let a lot of plans lie around in a half-developed state. Such a lot of excellent suggestions are made that people fail to concentrate on any one. Better not to have so many projects but to take a hold of a limited number, and Get it Done.

The State Board of Health filed in the county clerks office a list of all births and deaths for the first five years under the vital statistic law. There are some physicians who have failed to report all births, and their licenses will be revoked unless births are promptly reported. Parents should compel the physician to promptly make his report as in future years the right of inheritance depends on the place of birth and parentage may be shown by public record. Any physician who fails to make the report is criminally negligent.

Many of the early gardeners got busy during the nice weather of last week and planted potatoes, onions, etc., while the farmers were plowing and sowing tobacco beds. It is said that the ground is in fine condition for working, due to the fact that there were no damaging rains during the winter season.

There will be a meeting of the Boone County Chesterwhite Breeders Association at Lexington, 1 p. m. Saturday April 2. All members are urged to be present as there is a lot of important new business to be transacted.

CONSERVATIVES AND PROGRESSIVES

A business man who recently returned from France, was telling how conservative people are in that country and how they won't move out of their old ruts. They are not very strong on advertising. If a merchant is asked to use publicity methods, he will often say, "If I should advertise and get more business, I would have to enlarge my shop and put on more help."

The hustling American business man is just the opposite. He is always planning for the time when he can branch out and handle more goods, which of course means occupying more room and employing more helpers.

That is one reason why American prosperity has been so much greater than the business nations of Europe. It also suggests why some business concerns are stationary while others go ahead. Some men do not have the courage to branch out for a bigger business, while others are constantly planning or more trade, and are developing the advertising campaign that produces it.

Georgetown, Ky., March 23.—The Triangular Inter Collegiate Debate of Kentucky was won by Georgetown College, when teams representing this institution won decisions on both the affirmative and negative sides of the Irish question.

The subject was, "Resolved that Ireland should be given complete independence." Georgetown, Centre and Transylvania each put two teams in the field. Georgetown debated Centre and Transylvania, having the affirmative side of the question at Georgetown against Centre, and taking the negative at Transylvania. Transylvania and Centre debated, Transylvania having the affirmative at home and debating the negative at Danville. Transylvania won from Centre. Thus the score stands, Georgetown won two lost none, Transylvania won one lost one, and Centre lost two.

Here's a Real Argument For Philippine Independence

A Typical Philippine Homestead

The United States isn't the only country that has homesteaders—those enterprising pioneers who leave thickly populated districts and take their families into virgin territory to create homes for themselves. The Philippine Islands have thousands of thrifty homesteaders.

The above photograph shows a picture of a Christian Filipino homesteader and his family near Pikit, Cotabato province, Mindanao, P. I. Five years ago he was a cab driver working for low wages at Cebu, a thickly populated city. He went into the then wilderness of Mindanao, planted hemp and coconuts, paid for his land and has become wealthy. Thousands of similar instances could be cited. One Mindanao homesteader is worth $200,000.

The Philippine government is encouraging the immigration of Filipinos from the thickly populated sections into Mindanao. This is the second largest of the islands of the archipelago. It is still sparsely settled, although it is one of the richest and most productive islands in the world. Many Americans have established plantations there and become rich. Filipinos are using the stories of the many successful Filipino homesteaders as an argument for independence. They make the point that a people that can go out into a tropical wilderness with no capital save their patience, perseverance and energy and win homes or themselves, have the necessary stamina to run their own affairs.

As a Modern Filipino Actually Looks

There are hundreds of thousands of this type of young men in the Philippines. They are to be the future rulers of the destinies of the islands.

The Filipino has been much misrepresented in the United States. This is largely because the Sunday supplements have made a specialty of portraying the semi-naked non-Christian hill tribes as "typical" Filipinos, which is far from the truth.

The total population of the Philippines is 10,350,040, of which 9,405,272 are Christians and civilized, and have been so for 300 years, possessing a culture and refinement that will compare favorably with that of other countries. The number of non-Christians is 855,363, and only a small percentage of these are uncivilized. They are fast becoming educated, and will ultimately make good citizens.

ASKS INDEPENDENCE WITH OR WITHOUT PROTECTION

Manila, P. I. — The people of the Philippines want independence in whatever form they can get it. Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, declared in an address before that body.

"Let the Americans and those in the United States know that the people of the Philippines covet their freedom, liberty and political emancipation so much that they will not hesitate to receive from the Congress of the United States complete and absolute independence without protection," Quezon said. "If the United States, dictated by its own interests, decides to extend protection to the Philippines, well and good. We would accept that as a solution of our problems. If not, let us have absolute independence in whatever form we can get it."

A TEST OF FAITH

(Chattanooga News.)

We have frequent occasion to protest against the efforts of Japan to impose her dominion upon unwilling peoples, yet we have thus far failed to exemplify the ideals which we recommend to Japan. If we should withdraw our sovereignty from the Philippines, in accordance with our repeated promises, we could the more consistently ask Japan to follow a similar course toward Shantung, Manchuria and Siberia. Our plea would have a great deal more force if we could make it with clean hands. To say that the Philippines are not ready for independence is merely to express an arbitrary, gratuitous opinion. It is perfectly easy to create conditions in one's own mind—that no people ever could comply with. Our delay about respecting our own pledge is a reflection on our national good faith and a constant invitation to international complications in the far east.

INDEPENDENCE OF PHILIPPINES

(Associated Press News.)

The Philippines should be given absolute independence, which is their natural right, even if we are well aware that they have not yet reached the full stature of American citizens. We ourselves have not reached it so long as we insist upon governing other peoples against their will.

FLORENCE

Mrs. John Miller, of Erlanger, is very ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mae Nichols, of Crescent Springs.

Press Clippings

The Nashville Banner says a boot-licker is born every minute. That would be 528,000 a year. Apparently posterity will get a run for its money if it inherits anything from this generation.—Houston Post.

"Many of the North Carolina counties are paving their roads with convicts," says the Mason Telegraph. We should think that convicts would be almost as rough a roadbed as cobblestones.—Charleston News and Courier.

The Kaiser's book blames England, France and Russia for the war. The Kaiser has evidently been greatly misunderstood—in fact, he admits as much.—Houston Chronicle.

The British Government reports that in India last year, 1,582 persons were killed by tigers. In this country about ten times that number were killed by blind tigers.—New Orleans States.

Announcement that Colonel Harvey has accepted the Ambassadorship to England may lead to the possibility of his carrying forward his ancestor's studies on the circulation of the "bloods."—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Henry Ford's prophecy that the new may become obsolete suggests another unpleasant prospect—that of a chickenless world. Still if an egg-laying flier will deliver the goods, we can stand it.—Montgomery Advertiser.

A memorial to President Wilson is being planned. The promoters won't get a nickel out of Jim Reed—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Washington—Farm labor is relatively plentiful this year, reports from all parts of the country to the Department of Agriculture, were said to show. This situation, it was declared, contrasts with a year ago, when the labor supply in all sections was far below the demand.

Wages for farm labor this year, according to the reports, show a reduction from last year. Illinois, Michigan and Indiana reported farm hands plentiful, although wage demands were higher than farmers are willing to pay.

Notice

To my old Customers: I will not handle fertilizer this year, but you can get the kind you have been handling through the Farm Bureau and save some money. You can get three or four kinds of Jaroski fertilizers there. So place your order with the Farm Bureau, or you may give your order to me and I will hand it in to Farm Bureau. Respectfully,

A crowd of fishermen, were discussing the sport a few days ago and were deploring the fact that at the places they used to catch fine bass and other good fish, but now it is very hard to catch any fish at all, and those they do catch are an inferior size and quality. At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Boone County Farm Bureau held Saturday afternoon, Walter Robinson and Geo. Penn were elected delegates to attend the Kentucky Farm Federation at Louisville March 29 and 30th.

Tuesday evening, March 28 delegates from all tobacco growing sections will meet to perfect plans for marketing the tobacco crops. Mr. Spapiano, of the California Fruit Growers Association and Mr. Gustafson, of the Market Bureau of the National Federation, will be present and outline plans of marketing different crops, and it is thought that a workable plan for marketing and selling tobacco will be perfected, and if so, quite an expense to the grower will be eliminated. Standards for grading tobacco will also be adopted.

Wednesday evening of last week a meeting was held in the interest of the Boone County Farm Bureau at Grange Hall. This meeting was addressed by Messrs. Harry Harkins, Geo. Penn, Wm. Sutton and others, and new members were received into the Bureau, and it is believed that a number of other farmers in that neighborhood will join the bureau in a short time.

The bureau distributed 350 bushels of certified Early Ohio seed potatoes that had been grown under government supervision.

New and lower fertilizer prices have been received by the bureau and members are requested to send in their orders at once.

The Executive Committee of the Boone County Farm Bureau will meet Monday, April 1st, 1921, at nine o'clock, a. m. A report of the delegates of the Louisville meeting will be received. The plan for product distribution of fertilizer will be outlined. All members of the Boone County Wool Pool are requested to meet with this committee immediately after their business meeting to discuss plans for marketing the 1921 clip.

PRECINCT FARM BUREAU MEETING is called at Florence Friday night, 7:30 April 1st. This is an open meeting and every farmer in this precinct is urged to attend. Be ready to give your order for spring fertilizers. Any needs you have for feeds, seed potatoes etc., will be taken care of. What plan of work do you have for this summer?

CLEM KENDALL, Precinct Committeeman.

Bird and Arbor Day will be celebrated in Kentucky Friday, April 8. Gov. E. P. Morrow has issued a proclamation fixing the date and calling for appropriate recognition of it. His proclamation follows:

"Complying with the wise custom established in the name of the States of the Union, I hereby proclaim Friday, April 8th, 1921, as 'Bird and Arbor Day'."

"The preservation of bird life is necessary to the welfare of Kentucky. Birds are friends of man; they are his servants, protecting his crops against his enemies—the myriad insect life which feeds upon the growing things. It is known that the loss yearly to the farmer and fruit grower in the United States through the ravages incident to pests is $1,500,000,000 annually. Birds are the principal protectors against these destroyers."

"The necessity of reforestation becomes more and more evident. He who plants a tree not only adds to the beauty of the world, but does a substantial service to his country."

"Therefore, I call upon the people of Kentucky, thru the press, schools, farm organizations, etc., on the above date to give thought to the necessity of preserving the bird life of Kentucky and to the reforestation of the State; all for the good of Kentucky."

Lexington Leaf Average Is $13.06 During Week

Sales of the Lexington tobacco market during the week totaled $256,809,909 pounds at an average of $13.06. Total sales for the year to date 49,172,110 pounds at an average of $13.53. In the corresponding week last year 259,120 pounds sold at an average of $13.81. During the season last year to the corresponding date a total of $1,011,230 pounds was sold at an average of $16.19.

Mediamas Cecil Gaines and Stanley Conrad, of Limburg neighborhood, made the Recorder office a pleasant call last Monday afternoon.

R. S. Coghill, who lives at Shaker Bend, got hungry for honey at week end and cut down a big sugar tree on his place which had housed a swarm of bees near the top for several years. We understand he took about fifty pounds of honey. The tree was an ancient landmark in that section.—HARRISBURG HERALD.

Mr. J. D. Randall, a progressive farmer and stock raiser of Shopville, was in Somerset Monday on business and reported to the Commonwealth that he lost a fine registered Shorthorn bull calf last Saturday from the effects of "black leg." He was here to secure some serum to vaccinate his other cattle. Black leg is one of the most dangerous and dreaded diseases among cattle and it would be well for all cattle raisers to guard against this very fatal disease.—Somerset Commonwealth.

The Louisville papers recently devoted considerable space to the fact that a certain woman in Louisville owned a banana plant that was blooming at this time of the year. Louisville has nothing on Somerset. Mrs. J. E. Girdler has a similar plant that has been in bloom for about two weeks. The plant is about seven feet tall and is now about four years old. This is the first year that it has bloomed. Mrs. Girdler is anxiously waiting to see if the plant will bear fruit this season.—Somerset Journal.

A cut made last week by Sheriff Richmond Combs reduced the number of deputy sheriffs in Perry county to fifty-six. Recently the county held the unique honor of having more Deputy Sheriffs than any other in the State. Only one of the deputies is on the permanent payroll of the county. This is Farmer Johnson, who handles the office work.—Hazard Herald.

Mr. A. Riley of the Ballard community says he has a horse which he won't ride—a splendid worker and has never been afraid of anything; but last fall he met a hay baler in the road and this "old rascal" cut capers which would have done honor to a three-year-old.—Anderson News.

A court day visitor who called at this office Monday stated that triplets were born last week to the wife of Milton Long, near Weas, Casey county, a few miles from the Marion county line. Young Long was in Lebanon disposing of his tobacco on the local market a few days ago and while here subscribed for the Fair-Play, but we had no idea the paper was going to be read by such a large family. All the youngsters are doing well, it was stated. But Sears of the Chillicothe community was not so generously remembered by the stork. His wife was presented with only two newcomers, both daughters, but he says they will beat the Longs next time.—Marion Falconer.

Negligence of Doctors.

Physicians are made responsible for the reporting of births at which they assist by the Vital Statistics Act of 1915 and the State Board of Health, intends, under the provision of the law which provides for the punishment of doctors who willfully or through negligence shrink their responsibility in the matter, to prosecute all physicians who fail to make the reports called for by law.

This announcement was made here by J. F. Blackerby, State Registrar of Vital Statistics, who has just returned from Paducah where he was called to the aid of a physician there were not making the reports contemplated by law with the regularity called for. While in Paducah he served out four warrants against S. H. Joyce, a negro physician, each charging him with failure to report a birth, and Mr. Blackerby states that similar remissness anywhere in Kentucky, either among white or negro physicians, will receive precisely the same treatment at his hands.

The law provides that each failure to report a birth is punishable by a fine of from $5 to $20.

B. W. Campbell, wife and grandchildren of Cincinnati, were in Burlington, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Campbell enjoys a visit to the scenes of his boyhood days. He met and talked with quite a number of his old playmates while here.

Edwin Flick, of Bellevue, was a business visitor in Burlington last Monday.

Disasterous Fire in Louisville

Easter Sunday a very disastrous fire in Louisville caused a loss of nearly $153,700.

Most of the loss was caused by the blaze at the Louisville Food Products Company's plant, Shelby Street and Ormby Ave. Sparks from the buildings ignited numerous houses nearby and four or five blocks away.

Citizens disregarded the rain and helped firemen. In several instances they fought flames unaided by regular fire fighters. At one time nearly every piece of fire apparatus in the city was in service.

Loss estimated at $7,000 was caused by fire, smoke and water at the building at 31 South Fourth St. Several alarms from outlying districts were sounded during the afternoon. In each case the loss was slight.

Passing of the Clouds

The farmer and business men are beginning to realize that the clouds in business have passed, and are looking forward to the dawn of a new and prosperous day.

This is being experienced by the rise in prices of tobacco, hogs, cattle, etc., over the low prices of two months ago.

When prices begin to decline everybody rushes to market and when prices begin to advance everybody buys.

Crops will be produced this year at considerable less cost than for the past three years; people will be more economical in their expenses and in the long run have more net profit.

Students Taking "Shots"

The age of the school boy who has been vaccinated since seem to have anything to do with the tenderness of a sore arm. Georgetown College students who have been taking "shots" of Typhoid anti-toxin are seen carrying their arms tenderly the last few days.

At the instance of Dr. Lipscomb the county Health Director a great number of college students have been taking the shots. The Health Department is giving these shots free to all college students. No signs of an epidemic have been seen, but in caring for the general health of the county Dr. Lipscomb has urged all students to take the treatment as a preventive.

Baseball practice and track work has been interfered with during the shooting days, but no casualties have resulted.

The Owen County Democrat published the following:

The many friends of Rev. J. A. Lee will be glad to read his announcement in the issue of the Democrat for State Senator. Bro. Lee runs subject to the action of Democratic primary to be held August 6th in this district composed of Owen, Gallatin, Boone, Pendleton and Grant. He is now serving as representative from Owen and Henry. He is an old time campaigner and his fair to become one of the foremost politicians of the state. Bro. Lee is an eminent Baptist divine and a business man of great ability. He has always taken a leading part in all moves for the uplift of his country and humanity. He was active in war work and is a member of several secret orders.

He is a forceful speaker and a great singer, and will make a strong race. He was an active campaigner for the national ticket and stands for good roads and better schools, and promises if elected to the faithful fulfillment of all duties that go with the position.

Last Saturday night a crowd of men and women from Cincinnati came to Florence and attended the dance. The dance was given by the men of the party did not behave themselves as gentlemen either in action or language. Sheriff Conner and Deputy Rume had been in the south end of the county and they were stopped in Florence on their way home and informed of the conduct of the parties. The officers went to the hall and these parties at once changed their conduct, after they had been called by them.

Burlington's ladies' fishing club for the year 1921 is now functioning. The club is officered as follows: Mesdames Alice Snyder, president; B. B. Hume, secretary; L. W. Kite, treasurer. Each officer is required to catch enough fish to pay her salary, but as yet there is a very considerable club deficit in the hall that carries, Congressman Rouse will be petitioned for an appropriation to improve fishing in upper Woolper creek.

A petition was circulated last week by Timothy Sanford obtaining signatures endorsing and requesting the appointment of C. C. Hughes, as Postmaster of Burlington. Mr. Hughes has been a life-long Republican and stands high in the confidence of the community. The petition was circulated among his Republican brothers for their endorsement and signatures.

L. C. Weaver, Clarence Mitchell, Robert Popham and Howard Kirkpatrick composed a fishing party to the backwater of Dry creek, but they had very poor luck when it came to landing any of the fishy tribe—not a fish. Mr. Weaver is not satisfied with his catch and will try his luck there again in the near future.

A fireplace is a very good deal of fuel air flue, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, and if the house has several fireplaces other such outlets are not satisfactory. Several rooms open into one in which there is a fireplace this is usually sufficient for all the rooms. All fireplaces should have dampers so as to assure positive regulation as a vent flue.

The appearance of the Methodist church has been greatly improved, having received a new roof guthers put up. The work was donated and done by Jesse Kirkpatrick, W. C. Weaver, Jerry Fowler, O. S. Edging and Eliza Poston. The materials were purchased for the work by funds raised by subscription from persons not members of that denomination.

Work began on the dwelling to be erected by Russell Smith and mother Jr. Burlington, last Wednesday. Three teams were started to work excavating the basement and foundation. Jesse Kirkpatrick drew the plans and will have charge of the construction of this dwelling.

Charles Shelling, a young farmer of the Bellevue precinct, was a caller at this office, last Thursday, having received a subscription for another year. He will handle the fine young Jack, "Fair Promise" this season, the advertisement of which appears in another column.

The little daughter of Wilson Corner, of near Rabbit Hash, fell and badly dislocated a bone in her arm when she tripped over a wire, one day last week. It was first feared the arm was broken.

C. C. Hughes made a trip to different parts of the county last week, getting the endorsements of the Republican precinct committeemen of his application for postmaster at Burlington.

Clom Kendall had charge of the Farm Bureau several days last week while Mr. Kendall, the Farm Agent Sutton attended the Farm Federation meeting at Louisville.

Atty. Chas. Strohmer, of Walton, spent a few hours in Burlington last Saturday on business with the county court.

CAN NOT INSURE IN MUTUALS

Ky. Attorney - General Lays Down The Law To School Boards.

Insurance Commissioner Ramey, of Kentucky, has received an opinion from the attorney-general of the state holding that school boards have no right to insure school property in mutual or assessment companies. This is based upon the general principle that in going into a mutual they practically take away from the insurance company the common school funds to an indefinite and indeterminate hazard by underwriting the loss of others. This ruling is in accord with similar findings of the attorney-general and insurance departments of other states. The opinion of the Kentucky attorney-general is in part as follows:

If the County Board of Education should become a member of a Mutual Insurance Co. it would be subject to all provisions relating to such members under the express terms of the statute. It would have to bear its part of the burden of the company as well as share in the benefits. We do not think the County Board can go into such partnership as the statute requires with the members or policyholders of the insurance company, for this might create a liability which might pass the current revenues for school purposes. Section 712, Kentucky Statutes, provides that the company shall have a lien upon the property insured to secure the payment of any assessment or call as may be made under the contract of insurance. If the company you have in mind has a rule that the event of loss a policyholder can only be assessed one percent of the amount of the loss, it cannot escape the limit of liability of members as required by Section 712, Kentucky Statutes. It seems that a probability exists for greater losses than one per cent. Also, under Section 716 a member cannot be assessed until he pays his share of all claims existing against the corporation at the time and must surrender his policies. A company cannot by its by-laws or its charter exempt any member from provisions imposed by the statute. Section 718, Kentucky Statutes.

We think that county boards are vested with power to insure school property and to levy and expend the funds derived from the county levy for insurance premiums upon policies and should at all times have a property interest in the companies authorized to do business in the state. However, we think this insurance should be purchased from one of the companies of the Board for such fire protection would be certain and known at all times. We do not think the Board can legally become a member of a mutual insurance company, and, further, that it cannot bind the common school funds coming into its hands to the payment of an uncertain sum. The common school funds can only be expended for common school purposes and certainly the Board cannot expend for the purpose of underwriting fire losses of other parties. This in its practical effect is what would be assumed by the County Board should it enter such policy contract.

FOR COUNTY CLERK

Miss Mary Elizabeth Rogers Enters Race For County Clerk.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Rogers, who is too well known to the people of this county to need any introduction, has announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the office of Clerk of the County Court of Boone county, and to the action of the voters at the coming August primary election.

Miss Rogers was born and reared in this county, in the old Democratic precinct of Verona, and her many friends there and elsewhere in the county will be pleased to know that she has decided to make the race. She is the present deputy clerk, and has performed her duties faithfully and honestly, and it is due to her good work that Boone county bears the reputation of having the best county clerk in the state. She has never had one of the best in the state. Strangers and State inspectors who have had business with her, and who have been loud in their praise of the neatness and accuracy of the records as kept in this office.

Miss Rogers has been a life-long Democrat, and one of the largest and most influential Democratic families in the county. Her ability as a painstaking clerk has been well known to all this very important office, and our citizens would be assured that the records would be in safe and sound hands. There is not a person in the county who would not appreciate your support more than Miss Rogers, and there are none more worthy or more deserving. During the campaign she was county chairman of the Women's organization for the Democratic party in this county, and she has been given to her effective work for the large measure of loyalty given the Democratic candidates at the last election. She has the influence and support of the county and the voters of the county at the coming primary election.

Moisture Absorption of Wheat.

A recent report made by the Portland, Ore., office of the Grain Division of the Bureau of Market and United States Department of Agriculture, indicates that some of the statements published with regard to the amount of moisture absorbed by sacked grain during the "rainy season" in the Pacific northwest are extravagant. The report in question was based on data in the springtime, sampled during recent years, the wheat of the Pacific northwest region is very dry at threshing time, and from then on until about March, gradually absorbs moisture. Between March and August some of this moisture is given off. The average moisture content of wheat for the three years during which studies were made was 9.1 per cent in August, 11.3 per cent in March, and 10.6 per cent in July. The data for each separate year are given in the same relative changes.

Clay Valuable In Paper Making.

Clay that is highly colloidal has been found by the Forest Products Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to be very valuable as a loading material for giving finish and printing qualities to paper. Previous to the discovery made by the laboratory at Madison, Wis., this whitish clay found in large deposits at Rocky Mount, N. C., has been known and used except as an excellent substitute for soap. In the past all the clay used for loading paper has been imported. Experiments with the American clay from the West show that when this clay is added to the English china clay generally used, the paper produced has a superior finish and appearance and more velvety feel than where the English clay only is used.

FOR BETTER LIVESTOCK.

Figures Show an Alarming Falling Off of Meat Animal Production.

The Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association and the Louisville Livestock Exchange, with the support of the Kentucky State Department of Agriculture, and the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Husbandry Division, are engaged in a movement to promote the breeding of better livestock. To increase production of better grade meat animals in Kentucky. The movement is one which must appeal to the farmer to promote the welfare of Kentucky in a practical manner.

Figures show an alarming falling off of meat animal production throughout the country. In this state, one of the leaders in this field, the slump is particularly serious. This, despite the fact that there is a large number of the careful farmer that is as great an asset and source of revenue as his livestock. It is always saluted as a profitable investment. It is an effort to reawaken the farmer to the importance of livestock production and to stimulate better grade animals, the Association and the Exchange will hold a Farmer's Better Stock Sale at the Bourbon Stock Yards here June 2. Two hundred or more of the best beef bulls of the state will be auctioned to the farmers at the prices bid. It will be apparent to you that the animals cannot afford anything like what they are actually worth, sold under such conditions.

The sale will mean that these animals will be disposed of at such a price that the farmer will have an opportunity to purchase at a satisfactory figure.

The association and the Exchange will receive absolutely no profits from this sale. To the contrary, the sale will represent the expenditure of a considerable sum of money.

The main desire of the two organizations is to obtain the widest possible distribution over the state of these pure bred bulls, where in the course of time their influence will be felt in improved quality of animals produced. Back of this movement will be all of the best interests of the state. Farmers last year lost more than $1,250,000 at the Bourbon Stockyards alone in added profits they might have earned had their cattle been of better grade.

Announces His Candidacy For County Tax-Commissioner.

The Recorder of this issue announces that Lewis L. Stephens, of the Recorder's precinct as a candidate for County Tax Commissioner subject to the action of the Democratic party at the election to be held August 6th, 1921.

Mr. Stephens is holding his hat in the political ring for the first time and he expects to make a thorough campaign. He has conducted on a high plane. He has voted nothing but the Democratic ticket, and no reason can be advanced why he should not make a good office. He is elected. He is one of the younger men of the county who is progressive, and favors anything that looks toward the improvement of Boone county, and if he is elected to the office to which he aspires, the voters of Boone county will not regret that Lewis L. Stephens has been their humble servant.

GROWTH OF CHICKENS

Keep Chicks Growing Properly By Providing Clean Coops, Feed and Water.

The enthusiasm with which many poultry raisers, particularly beginners, are ready to go to work on their young chicks sometimes lags as the season advances and the chicks get old enough to shift for themselves. It is not until the chicks are a few weeks old that the poultry raiser begins to realize the importance of proper care and management during their growth period. The chicks should be provided with clean coops, feed and water, and they should be kept in a clean, dry, and well-ventilated place. The chicks should be kept in a clean, dry, and well-ventilated place. The chicks should be kept in a clean, dry, and well-ventilated place.

The chief essentials to the proper growth of chicks, according to the bulletin, are good coops, houses, cleanliness, proper feed and water, shade, and free range. Growing chicks should be provided with clean, roomy coops or houses, which will give them a comfortable place to stay at night and during stormy weather. The bulletin suggests no particular kind of house, but states that it should be so built that it will provide the chicks with plenty of light, pure air and sunshine, and be free from drafts and storms of all kinds. It should be arranged so that it can be cleaned easily and frequently, which is very important. Chicks should never be crowded in brood coops, for crowding will cause them to become overheated, resulting in improper growth and sometimes death. A good house can be built from a dry-goods box or a piano box, which can be covered with tar paper or a better material. Sickness or disease usually starts in unclean quarters, and in such places lice and mites are always more plentiful. The bulletin says that the house should be cleaned and sprayed once a week, and clean shavings, chaff, or sand put on the floor. Examine the chicks and brasses for lice and mites, and if found they should be killed at once. Farmers' Bulletin 1110 gives directions for fighting lice and mites.

A good kind of feed most necessary for rapid growth are grain feed, green feed, and dry mash. A grain mixture should be fed in the morning, giving as large a quantity as the chicks will eat clean, but no more. A good mixture for growing chicks consists of three parts cracked corn, one part wheat, and one part hulls or rolled or luffed barley may be substituted for hulls oats. A mixture of green feed and dry mash is necessary for growing chicks. They obtain plenty of it if they have free range, but if kept in confinement, lawn grass, clover, cabbage, lettuce, or other such green feed, should be supplied regularly.

A dry mash should be kept before growing chicks at all times. The mash should be changed often. It is best to feed it in a hopper inside the building, or in a trough, so that the chicks will not be exposed to the rain or the sun. The mash should be the following mash: Two pounds corn meal, 2 pounds middlings, 1 pound oatmeal, 2 pounds wheat bran, 1 pound alfalfa, and 1 pound charcoal.

Grift and oyster shells should be provided so the chicks may help themselves whenever they wish. When sour milk can be obtained it should also be kept before the chicks, as no feed is regarded better for them. When this is given the chicks will be happy in the dry mash may be reduced one-half. Plenty of fresh, clean water is absolutely necessary, and in hot weather it should be provided twice daily in dishes that have been thoroughly cleaned.

The bulletin emphasizes the importance of free range and shade for growing chicks. They are necessary if chicks are to grow rapidly and develop into vigorous adults. When growing chicks have free range they obtain quantities of green feed, bugs, and other things therefore they require less feed and are less liable to sickness and disease.

Cutworms are reported to the United States Department of Agriculture as making a clean sweep of the wheat crop in the United States. The cutworms are a pest of the wheat crop, and they are reported to be making a clean sweep of the wheat crop in the United States. The cutworms are a pest of the wheat crop, and they are reported to be making a clean sweep of the wheat crop in the United States. Singing of the Birds.

The time of the singing of birds has come, wrote the author of the sacred Song of Songs, as the most vivid method of expressing the joy of the springtime. Many people spend money freely to hear the manufactured music of opera houses, when even more beautiful notes are heard in the fields surrounding their own towns. The song of a bird has no words. In that it is not inferior to human singing, as the majority of vocalists do not pronounce their words distinctly. But how plainly the bird-song suggests certain ideas to the mind. It seems to stand for hope and country and love and friendship and beauty. If one suffers from grief, the bird's song may be a wonderful consolation. A single blundering word can bring. If one feels gay, the rhythmic warble of the catbird chorus stimulates the frolicsome spirit. Let us spend less time in merely artificial pleasures and more in contact with the voices of nature.

PUTTING NEW MEN TO WORK.

HOW PROGRESSIVE TOWNS UTILIZE THE AMBITION OF NEW PEOPLE.

The old fashioned city was always slow to recognize new men. If a fellow moved into a place, it was felt he should take a back seat for several years. Older residents were jealous of him. When a man joined any society, he was supposed to keep quiet for a time and let others have the honors. In business organizations today the tendency is to push ahead the new members, and new residents in the city, and get them to working for the community as quickly as possible. In the Lincoln Nebraska Chamber of Commerce, for instance, when a new member is elected, he is at once put to work. The committee, as a result of the haste displayed by these new members, this organization secured 130 additions during the past four months.

Communities that put new residents to work promptly, are apt to develop a bunch of hustlers. After a fellow has lived in a place for a few years, he is a part of the community. He is apt to be reluctant to take up public work. When he starts in and desires to make friends, he is in the mood for good community work. Let us give our new people here in Boone county every chance to show what they can do.

Automobile Tendencies.

The tendency of the coming years in automobile construction is likely to be toward lighter weight cars, says C. P. Marden, automobile expert for the Boston Transcript, after studying the displays at recent motor shows.

The times of flush spending have passed. The car is going to be done on a closer margin than formerly. The majority of motorists feel the necessity for economy. As the aggregate weight of the car is reduced, the engines can be lighter and more compact, since there will not be so much power required to haul the load. Engines of that type will consume less gasoline. Lighter cars involve a smaller tire expense.

In Europe the demand for economy is leading to lighter cars. The latest European makes are smaller, and very efficient. They can go anywhere, but not at high rates of speed. In this country, the crowded condition of the roads tends to reduce the demand for high speed cars.

The light car will not be any less expensive. Less weight will mean that better materials must be used, with a higher grade of workmanship. Automobile engineers do not see how prices can be reduced at present. As labor costs are scaled down, prices eventually are likely to be scaled down, but they are probably fixed for this season. People who contemplate buying in 1921 might as well get it now, and have the use of it.

REDUCING INFANT MORTALITY.

In Utica, N. Y., in 1911, the number of babies that died during their first year was 1000. To save some of these wasted human resources, a pure milk and health station was established. This station was staffed by physicians and nurses, and employed until now the city appropriates $6,000 for this service, and an equal amount is raised by subscription. About 68 babies during their first year, has been reduced from 138 per 1,000 to 79 per 1,000. The city has a good example of progressive community work. Infant mortality could be reduced in most places, by systematic effort to instruct such mothers as to not unclean satisfaction and hygiene and preparation for maternity.

Mrs. Nora Walton, of St. Louis, Mo., sends us $1.50 to renew her subscription another year. Mrs. Walton is a daughter of Mrs. Lucy Cloud, and she enjoys the weekly mail from her "Old Kentucky Home."

MONEY AND MARKETS

These Unwilling to Face Present Conditions Are Not Holding Business.

World-wide liquidation has reached a point where it cannot be halted for the benefit of any group or unit of production either in the United States or elsewhere. Employers and workers who are unwilling to face present conditions frankly and courageously are regarding resumption of normal business as working against their own interests. Prevailing wage scales, which under present conditions are of little real advantage to the workers, are at absolute deterrent to the lowered costs which must be established before the prices of coal and steel can be lowered and freight rates altered. High wage rates are purely illusory as long as widespread unemployment or part-time work reduces real income and impairs purchasing power.

The primary and wholesale markets, which for a time showed a spot improvement, have in many lines again become dormant. Steel has fallen to a level below one-half of mill capacity. Railway traffic and earnings are decreasing week by week, production of coal has fallen to a level below one-half of mill capacity. The point in four years and building operations lag far behind the total of new construction known to be in immediate demand. Slow and moderate liquidation of borrowing from the Reserve banks is reflected in the slight but steady improvement in the reserve ratio of the Federal reserve system, although the fact should not be overlooked that a substantial part of this improvement is the result of gold importations, which have continued uninterrupted for many months. There have been further marked declines in wholesale prices, but coal and steel, while lower, are still out of line with the general price level. Buyers remain unwilling to contract for other than immediate necessities, which are at a minimum.

CHECKING THE POPULATION DIFT

When You Spend Money at Home Home You Promote National Public Welfare.

Much has been said about the drift of the population from large cities. Many people who regret this tendency, help promote it by spending money away from their home communities.

When you spend money in Boone county he knows that he is working to build up a healthful community, because he is working for the good of his own people. It is a favorable place to live in. It has those facilities of education and social service that constitute a helpful environment for young people. In supporting the enterprises of this home community, we all can feel sure that we are promoting institutions that are working for the good of the community. We are all working for the development of a high type of character.

When you spend money elsewhere, you cannot be sure what the result will be. You are spending money in other places, the result is to injure business in this community. Enterprises which become less profitable. They must discharge some of their helpers in order to keep going. This reduces the commercial opportunities of your home community. Some young people who otherwise might grow up in these helpful surroundings, must in consequence migrate to other places where they can find a better business chance.

If such young people as a result of conditions that they find in other places, are driven away from helpful home influences, suffer a decline in physical condition, if they yield to the temptations which come when they are away from home, their conduct and careers prove disappointing, some part of the responsibility may rest on you. You are driving them away from your home community, by refusing to support your home town enterprises. You did not help your home community to develop in such a way that it could offer good business inducements to these young people.

Labor Unrest and Poor Houses

Many capitalists feel alarmed by the unrest among wage-earners, and this means that the workers are becoming bolsheviks. But usually the explanation is much simpler than that.

A great many wage earners become dissatisfied because they have such poorly kept up living quarters. A dilapidated house, with no grass or flowers around it, no clean paper on the walls and dirty floors, and a general air of decay, will give most people the blues. They look with envy on wealthy folks, not so much for their money as for the ease and cleanliness of their life.

Give such a family a real little cottage or flat, in a well-kept neighborhood, and they would be as happy as in a big mansion. The landlords who maintain tenements in poor repair, help spread the discontent that underlies wage conditions. Also the landlords who are responsible for the high cost of building houses, help spread the discontent.

Danger in Incandescent Lamps.

Evidence that the high-power incandescent lamps now so commonly used for street lighting may not be wholly innocent as a possible source of fire was observed in southern California recently, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A bulb hanging 20 feet above the ground suddenly burst and the scintillating particles of molten glass scattered about ignited the dry grass on the lawn at the point. When the flames were extinguished, the ground beneath the lamp.

UNION.

The people of this community were terribly shocked last Thursday when the news came that little Margaret Feldhaus, the four year old daughter of Robert Feldhaus and wife, of Erlanger, had been fatally burned. The mother had gone to the summer kitchen a few feet from the house on an errand, and was absent a very few minutes when she heard the children screaming and ran into the house to find the child with all her clothes burned off and her body badly burned. Margaret had lighted a match and the lace curtain had caught fire, and she had tried to put it out and her clothing had caught from the curtain. The house also took fire, but the Elmers fire department extinguished the flames, but not until the paper on the ceiling had been badly damaged. Margaret was an exceptionally bright child and no one knew her but to love her. Fifteen floral pieces from the friends and the Sunday school were carried by six of her playmates to the church and afterward to the Rice cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest. The family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to Bro. Miller for his comforting words and to all other friends who were so kind and good to them in their sorrow. Also to Phil Talaterro, for the nice manner in which he conducted the funeral. L. F.

$500.00 Reward

Will be paid to anyone by two men who are responsible—one from Boone and one from Keaton county, Ky.—who can take the sting out of a man who has had the Shingles, and place them in as good health as before having same.

I have been sick from the effects of the Shingles for two years, and was not able to give my customers and friends the service I always had before, but, as I have improved in health a great deal lately, I think, I will be able to take care of my customers as heretofore. I am still in the CARRIAGE BUSINESS and expect to remain just as long as I can make a living at same.

Now, a word in regard to rubber tires. I suppose some people think any one can apply a tire to a wheel, but, that is a great mistake; there is just as much in applying a tire to make it wear, as there is in the quality of the tire. If I do like some, cut a pound out of each tire before applying, and take the compression out that ought to be in the tire, I would have more money than I have now.

I have been applying rubber tires for just twenty-six years, and, I think, I should know something about them. I am using the T. J. COOPER TIRE—nothing but first grade and strictly guaranteed to be the best on the market—one price to all.

Those who are going to have repairs done, get your work to me as soon as possible, before work on the Dixie Highway starts, and your work will then be ready for you when the road is ready to travel upon. They claim it will be completed in 40 days from the time they start work on it.

Repainting and anything in the carriage line—one price to all. All work done by me must be strictly first-class.

Write or phone me at any time for prices.

No "Booze" This Time.

The political pot is only simmering at present, but before many moons it will be at boiling point. There are quite a number of candidates for office in Boone county to submit their fate to the primary election, August 6th, 1921, and it is not reasonable to conclude that the race will be a quiet one. One thing, however, to be proud of, is the exhilarating fluid of "John Barleycorn" will not add "its heat" to the campaign of this summer, and our unfortunate brothers who were addicted to strong drink will cast their vote at the August primary with a clear, level head. This state of affairs ought to mean the nomination of good men for office.

Better Roads

BETTER TO BUILD UP ROADS.

Continuous Care Has Been Largely Responsible for Improved Highways in Maryland.

It is better to build a cheap road and keep it in good condition by adequate maintenance than to build the most expensive highway and permit it to deteriorate for want of care, say officials of the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Maryland, which has one of the finest systems of improved highways in the United States, is not the best.

Patching a Macadamized Road in Maryland.

has consistently followed this practice. The originally improved roads in Maryland were comparatively inexpensive, costing only what the taxpayers were willing to pay for. The first few years the average cost was less than $10,000 a mile. In some cases the work entailed considerable grading and drainage, but in others it amounted simply to resurfacing the old turnpikes, which had already been graded and drained.

Generally the roads built at that time were macadam, 12 feet wide and six inches thick. Soon the width was increased to 14 feet. Later many were widened still farther, some very successfully, by adding concrete shoulders on each side of the existing macadam. This method of improving roads makes it possible for traffic to continue unimpeded on the road while the work is going on.

The macadam roads in Maryland have given very good satisfaction, but continuous care has been largely responsible for their success. The roads are constantly patrolled and no hole of any size is allowed to go unrepaired. Material for patching is kept at convenient points along the road for the use of the patrolman. From a relatively small investment in an admittedly low-type road it builds up a better one from year to year, always conserving the bulk of the previous investment.

KEEP ROADS OPEN IN WINTER

Federal Highway Commission Suggests That Special Efforts Be Made by State Officials.

It is suggested by the federal highway council that state and county highway departments make a special effort to keep the roads clear of snow during the winter months and thus permit of uninterrupted traffic. The transportation of certain commodities is really more important during the winter than in summer and it is then that the roads are more difficult to pass over. Then, too, the rural mail must be carried whether the roads are good or bad, and when the snow drifts several feet deep over the roads the life of the rural mail carrier is anything but pleasant. As the snow melts it transforms into mud, and a mire that is almost impassable. On any road, no matter how good, there is a tendency for the melting snow to soften the subgrade and loosen the base under the wearing surface, thus causing great damage to the road.

Road officials could do nothing better than to keep their equipment busy in the winter removing the snow from the road surfaces. It is one form of maintenance work that is very essential in lengthening the life and usefulness of the highways.

BENEFIT TO SUBURBAN LAND

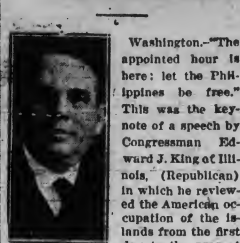

One Advantage of Road Improvement Would Be to Open Up Territory for Homesteads.

Another change in the use of land which may result from road improvement, especially near towns and cities, is to make it available for suburban development. This might better be termed increasing the home value of the land, and it will be found to apply where the land is retained for its original uses as well as where, following road improvement, it is utilized so as to yield a higher return on agricultural products. The home value of land is one to be given consideration.

Roadside Tree Planting. Roadside tree planting had best not be in formal rows, but in groups or as a specimen tree at irregular intervals. Street trees should be in straight rows of the same species for ten or twelve blocks.

Profit in Winter Eggs. The profit is made on winter eggs. Almost any hen will lay in the spring, but prices are usually lowest then, and it requires a good many eggs to pay a hen's keep in these days of the high cost of living.

CONGRESSMEN FAVOR FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE

Congressman Edward J. King of Illinois.

Washington.—The appointed hour is here: let the Philippines be free. This was the keynote of a speech by Congressman Edward J. King of Illinois, (Republican) in which he reviewed the American occupation of the islands from the first day to the present time. He declared that the United States was honor bound to grant independence without further delay.

Congressman King is one of an increasing number of Republicans in the House who are urging quick action on Philippine independence. Mr. King is the author of a bill which provides that within one year the Philippine government, under presidential proclamation, may assemble a convention and frame a constitution.

After the constitution is ratified by the Philippine people the President may recognize the Philippine Islands as "a separate and self-governing nation." The transfer of authority is to be completed within one year. Provision is made for safeguarding American investments in the Philippines and for the providing of coaling stations and submarine bases in the islands by the United States.

Word from the Philippines is that the people expect early independence and will be sorely disappointed if they do not get it.

"No nation has the right," said Congressman King "to hold another people in peonage, even though it may be argued by the professoriate that the condition is simply one of 'tutelage.' "A little more observance of the good sense of the nation and international affairs would soon dispel that desire for exploitation, the fiercest foe of freedom in the world today.

"When we went to the Philippines we declared before the whole world that we were not actuated by any selfish desire of conquest or territorial aggrandizement, but solely by humanitarian impulses."

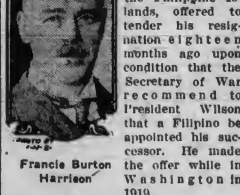

Congressman King called attention to the fact that Filipinos are now raising funds to erect a monument to Admiral Dewey, which he said was indirectly a tribute to the American people as well as to Dewey. He recalled the cable that Dewey had sent to President McKinley, which was as follows:

"In my opinion these people (Filipinos) are superior in intelligence and more capable of self government than the natives of Cuba, and I am familiar with both."

Congressman King then recited the preamble to the Jones law, passed August 29, 1916, and declared it was a definite pledge of independence. The preamble stated "it is as it has always been the purpose of the people of the United States to withdraw their sovereignty over the Philippine Islands and to recognize their independence as soon as a stable government can be established therein."

Congressman King stated there was no question but that the Filipinos had established the specified stable government and, therefore, it is the solemn duty of the United States to grant the promised independence.

ASKS INDEPENDENCE FOR PHILIPPINES

Manila.—Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippine Islands, offered to tender his resignation eight months ago upon condition that the Secretary of War recommend to President Wilson that a Filipino be appointed his successor. He made the offer while in Washington in 1919.

Discussing Philippine independence, the governor general said: "I can see in the future a very beautiful vision. When the flag of the Philippine republic shall be hoisted, when the Stars and Stripes will come floating down to the strains of 'The Star Spangled Banner'—that flag, Old Glory, so rich in happy and honorable achievements, will be made doubly dear because it will mean that the United States will have kept its word to the people of the Philippine Islands."

School of Journalism in Philippines. Manila.—A school of journalism, the first in the Far East, has been established at the University of the Philippines in Manila. Admission to the School of Journalism is limited to third and fourth year students who have shown marked ability in the use of English. The course is open to both men and women. A class of about 100 registered at the opening of the journalistic course.

ROAD BUILDING

MOTORTRUCKS AND HIGHWAYS

Farmer Enabled to Secure Better Prices by Delivering Products Direct to Market.

There is a worthy movement on foot for better roads. Every business man, every home provider and every motorist should support it. Good roads benefit all classes of people in their everyday life.

This vast country has grown so enormously and so fast that its railroads cannot deliver the goods nor carry the people as the prosperity of the country and present demands require.

With good roads the farmer can deliver all his products direct to towns within a radius of fifty or more miles and though making more profit himself, he is reducing the high cost of living.

The merchant is able to take advantage of new sources of supply, to buy his stock under favorable conditions, and give it on sale to his customers in less time than he could have secured delivery by the slower and costlier railway express and freight service. With motortrucks he can then re-deliver to his customers and give better service over a larger territory. Automobile delivery will increase his business, lessen his costs and increase his profits.

Millions of dollars are lost every year through perishable goods spoiling on the railroads, because of freight delays and complications. Inter-city motortruck express over distances of 100 or more miles has already become a profitable business where good roads exist. Single large firms have actually saved over $100,000 yearly by using motortrucks and they will undoubtedly contribute largely to organized improvement of roads.

Good roads are a paying investment. Local authorities in cities, towns and counties should act without delay to meet the growing national and local demands before trade goes to other directions. It is almost impossible to get back the lost advantage after other districts have won it.

This country has more than 6,500,000 automobile owners, one to every 18 of the population, and about 15 of those ride in automobiles.

Owners will not go where bad roads exist and risk costly damage to their cars, not only to tires, but to the battery equipment used for starting, lighting and ignition. With ignition gone wrong a car cannot travel. Southern Good Roads.

HAUL ON UNIMPROVED ROADS

Average Cost Per Ton Mile Estimated at 22.7 Cents—Average Haul Was 9.4 Miles.

In 1919 the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture deduced an average cost per ton mile of 22.7 cents based upon replies from 129 inquiries sent to about 2,900 county correspondents. The average haul reported was 9.4 miles. Since at this time less than 3 per cent of the roads in this country were improved, these figures indicate the average cost of hauling on unimproved roads.

FARMERS' "MUD TAX" HEAVY

Slogan Adopted by Good Roads Advocates of Alabama in Campaign for Needed Funds.

"The heaviest tax the farmer pays is the mud tax."

This is the slogan adopted by the good roads advocates of Alabama in their campaign to put across a 12-year $50,000,000 road-building program. The farmers were shown that good roads would benefit them in a dollars-and-cents way, besides bringing them many advantages which they never had before.

Like the Balty Mule. Like the balty mule, the almighty dollar refuses to move where mud and mire constitute the road from field to farm and from farm to market.

Farm Values Doubled. In many communities farm values have almost doubled when roads have been improved.

Everything Better. Better schools and better roads mean better farms and better farmers.

CHINESE FAMINE LAID TO DEFORESTATION

THE REV. WILLIAM STOUT.

DESTRUCTION of China's great forests is blamed by returning missionaries for the world's worst famine that now threatens to wipe out 15,000,000 lives in North-Central China.

The Rev. Mr. Stout, of Louisville and Georgetown, Ky., who has returned home after five years in China, will begin a tour of the State next week to tell of the horrible conditions in the famine area.

The Rev. Mr. Stout is active in raising funds for the China Famine Fund, of which Joseph Burge, Louisville, is treasurer, and the Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, is chairman. Through the China Famine Fund, every relief organization in China is supplied with funds.

KENTUCKIAN TELLS OF WORST FAMINE

The Rev. William Stout Blames China's Catastrophe to Destruction of Forests

WILL SPEAK OVER STATE

Destruction of North China's great forests during the centuries that have passed; this deforestation which now leaves an area of 500,000 square miles denuded of trees, is the direct cause of the worst famine in history. This is the declaration of missionaries returning from the famine area and voiced by the Rev. William Stout, who has returned to his home in Georgetown, Ky., after five years in China.

The Rev. Mr. Stout will start a speaking tour of the state next week in the interest of the China Famine Fund of which Joseph Burge, a Board of Trade Building, Louisville, is chairman.

Through the China Famine Fund, every relief organization in China is supplied with funds; these organizations, including the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Christian missions, religious organizations and American units.

Deforestation Is Blamed.

"This great catastrophe which threatens to wipe out the lives of 15,000,000 persons within the next sixty days, he said, is due to droughts, the natural result of the denudation of forests which has gone on for centuries in North China. With few trees on the land to hold the moisture, the natural consequence is that rainfall is small and uncertain. Even in years when the rainfall is sufficient the Yellow River and other rivers break over their banks, unprotected by trees, washing away the soil and deluging the crops."

"It is a prevalent idea that rice is the main food of all the Chinese people. This is true in South China where travelers get their impression and is strengthened by the fact that nearly all the Chinese in America came from South China. In the fall, wheat is sown in North China and after being harvested in the early summer, millet and sorghum are sown."

Roots Always Eaten.

"All these crops are harvested by being pulled up by the roots as these with the stalks and straw of the grain are the main dependence for fuel. In the years when crops are short it does not mean only that some little luxuries will have to be given up, but it means that there will be less of the coarse millet meal bread. It means that when the potatoes are gone the vines will be eaten; it means that instead of two or three meals a day there will be only one."

"When a crop failure is fifty per cent, as it often is, it means that many starve to death. The last five crops have been only about ten per cent of normal."

"Practically all of North China is village after village, often badly separated by a few yards of ground. In parts of North China the population is twenty times denser than in Jefferson County. The Chinaman may live and carry on a business in a port remote from his ancestral village, but he expects to go there and spend his last days and he buried by the side of his ancestors."

Salt May Be Cause of Cancer.

Dr. Joseph De Stefano has recently advanced the theory that the use of salt may be the cause of cancer, and he quotes some instances that seem to indicate that such is the case. Some other physicians, however, take issue with him and the statement is made that in Italy where salt is eaten in great quantities there is very little cancer.

They Resist Decay.

The Northwest Indians nearly always made their totom poles out of western red cedar, but this choice was probably due more to the fact that the wood is easy to work and extremely durable, rather than to its fragrance, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. It may be taken as a very good general rule that woods that are scented are resistant to decay and insect attack, and have good cabinet qualities.

Chinese Medical Practices.

In 700 the Chinese began to vaccinate. There were three vaccination stations in which the concoction was poured into the mouth. Stone needles were used to puncture swellings and the idea was not introduced into Europe until centuries later. Cauterization was practiced by burning the soiled leaves of a plant. It was held to be good for rheumatism and nosebleeds. Anesthetic effects were produced by certain mushrooms and the root of acacia. Cases of skin grafting are early recorded.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Will Assist Health Board in Vaccination.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York is going to aid the State Board of Health in procuring more general vaccination throughout Kentucky, and thereby aid in reducing the prevalence of smallpox, Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, announced.

The offer to help was made by the insurance company without any solicitation on his part, Dr. McCormack added, but he as head of the State's health workers was glad to avail himself of this means of striking at smallpox. The particular kind of aid that will be given has not yet been fully determined, but it is certain that it will include the company's circularizing all its policy holders emphasizing the importance of vaccination.

The insurance company also probably will write the heads of all the industries in the State calling their attention to the provision of the State law that makes them responsible for their employees' having been vaccinated. Dr. McCormack is of the opinion this emphasis from a lay source will materially support the constant representations that the State Board has made in the matter.

One Less At Home.

Sarah E. Ryle was born July 3, 1846, and died March 16th, 1921, aged 74 years 8 months and 13 days.

On Jan. 30, 1865, she was united in marriage with Wm. S. White, with whom she lived happily for over fifty years. Her husband preceded her to the grave a little over five years ago.

To his union were born six children viz: James W., Lorena Kelly, John C. H. Clay Jr., Mary E. Receptor and Pearl Lay, all living except John C. H.

She leaves to mourn her departure these children, two brothers, Wm. and Gustavus Ryle of this county, nineteen grandchildren, four great grandchildren, a host of other relatives and many friends.

The professed faith in the Lord and united with Bellevue Baptist church over 40 years ago, remaining a faithful member there until about one and one-half years ago, when she removed her membership to the Petersburg Baptist church where she remained a faithful member until death.

She never allowed anything to hinder her in her worship of the Lord, and always attended services whenever she was able.

She was ever ready to lend a helping hand to the sick and distressed, and ready always to offer assistance to the needy, and no one called on her in vain when it was possible for her to help them.

She found much comfort to her soul from reading God's Holy Word, and passed much of her leisure time in this way.

The Wild Cross.

The Rhode Island Experiment Station, which has done more scientific work in turkey breeding than any other in America, speaks of the wild cross as follows (Bulletin No. 25, p. 116-117): "Wild turkey crosses are hardier and healthier than common turkeys and rarely have disease. A small proportion of wild blood improves the size, form and general appearance, as well as the vigor, without being a disadvantage in any way."

"The wild blood gives the cross astonishing ability to care for themselves. It is apt to have the strongest influence in breeding. If first crosses are bred together the stock resembles the pure wild, and after several generations cannot be distinguished from the pure wild, by good judges. Crosses have much of the superior game flavor of the wild and command a higher price for the table."

These established facts and principles will appeal to the sound judgment and sober second thought of the man who is breeding turkeys for either pleasure or profit.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

What American Legion officials believe will be the most impressive patriotic demonstration ever held in Philadelphia will take place April 7th under the auspices of the Legion and forty-five other patriotic and civic organizations. The purpose of the meeting is the expression of American principles as opposed to the recent manifestation of foreign propaganda. It will be similar to the "All American Meeting For God and Country" held in New York City, March 14th. The Philadelphia meeting, however, will have the additional feature of a parade of 50,000 persons.

In addition to General John J. Pershing and P. W. Galbraith Jr., National Commander of the Legion, speakers will include Vice-President Calvin Coolidge, Rear Admiral William S. Sims, Governor William C. Sprout, Mayor J. Hampton Moore and a member of President Harding's cabinet.

Cupid speeds a reasonable amount of his time loafing about the clubrooms of the American Legion post at West Warren, Mass., for marriage is subsidized in that organization. The post has voted to present $25 to every member who gets married. The offer is retroactive to the date of organization of the post; consequently every member of the members will receive the gift.

One of the numerous overflow meetings attendant on the American Legion's "All American" gathering in New York was an impromptu affair staged by Grant Mitchell, starring in a current Broadway comedy success. "Staged" is the right word, for Mitchell held his meeting in the theater between the acts and the audience were his collaborators. Mitchell explained what the Legion was doing and called on the audience to sing the National Anthem. They responded with enthusiasm. Encouraging voices endorsed the actor's statement that "this is as good a place as any to join the American Legion in showing our Americanism."

General John J. Pershing, Elsie Janis, and national officers of the American Legion will attend an American Legion banquet in St. Louis April 18, which will be the closing feature of a conference of adjutants of Missouri posts of the Legion.

A warning to American Legion post officers against using the influence of the Legion to obtain postmasterhips and other political appointments has been made by H. B. Fell, Commander of the Oklahoma Department of the Legion commander-declared that there is no attempt to curtail the efforts of Legionnaires as individuals, but that activities tending to involve the Legion in politics are contrary to the constitution of that organization.

The state executive committee of the New York Department of the American Legion has passed a resolution endorsing the sale by the American and French Children's League of red artificial poppies to be worn on Memorial Day. Proceeds of the sale go to the orphan children of France. An effort is being made to have all stores and homes display the poppy May 30.

Republican Efficiency.

During the campaign a great deal was said about the splendid work the Republicans would do for business efficiency, if they were given control of the government. They were going to cut out the needless wastes and run the government like a well managed private business.

One of the first illustrations they gave of their spirit, occurred on the effort to omit the annual appropriation for free seeds. This is generally regarded as a petty graft. Viewed in the best possible light, it is a foolish waste of the people's money. The farmers do not want these seeds and have protested against this distribution. The reason why many congressmen vote for these seeds is that they think their constituents are flattered to receive this attention from their representative.

Here was an acid test of whether Congress was willing to cut out waste. The effort to do so failed. Both parties voted for the same old bunk, so both were somewhat to blame. But the Republicans had a majority in both houses of Congress, so the principal responsibility falls on them.

Their steering committees should have brought such pressure to bear on their own members, as to line them up for this change, as one step in the program they had promised to give the people.

Having made professions of superior virtue and superior efficiency in business, it was up to them to make good. But no, they could not do it, and they permitted the same old, ally waste of the taxpayer's money to slip through for the same old frivolous reasons. It goes to show that human nature is about alike. Those that vote for a party change, in the hope they are going to get some great improvement of public efficiency, tend to find that they have put the same old bunch of politicians into office under another name, and have not forgotten the results that were promised them.

A Lancast man who is charged with having taken a fish from a private fish pond declares the fish were so tame that one of them was eating out of his hand, and he simply closed his fingers so it and carried it away. BETTER LIVESTOCK

BANKERS OF STATE ASKED TO BETTER LIVESTOCK.

Abstracts of the 1998 Annual Meeting of the American Society of Human Genetics, Denver, Colorado, November 1-5, 1998.

The appeal to every backer of the state for aid in the battle to stop livestock movement of Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association and The Louisville Livestock Exchange has been made through the consent of the legislature and chairman of the committee in charge of the campaign. The backers were asked to loan their direct aid to the Fairview Sire Sale, June 2nd, 1930, at Stock Yards, when 200 pure bred registered bulls will be offered to the farmers of the state.

The backers were asked to encourage individual purchases, if possible, to assist in the promotion of clubs and groups contemplating buying and registering bulls to be sold at the auction. Financial aid to worthy farmers in these pure the heavy rains this spring have thoroughly soaked the soil. Farmers have been unable to make such headway with the spring plowing in this county this week. The portion of ground that is in this county is smaller than usual at this season of the year, and farmers will have a particularly difficult program of work laid out for them when good plowing weather comes.

looks now as if the tobacco in the county would be a acreage. The Government is the usual talk at the end of the year, but the evidence of that being the year is found in the fact that there are not near the number of hands doing the work that are usually in evidence, especially with this very easy crop of the preparation of part below normal, the crop is a usual size. Some growers are going to cut out altogether, while others will produce a limited acreage. — The work for a better result next year during the buying season has been found that there has been a tendency to be carefully willing about much net return as two acres sold if differently worked as compared for market.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES BILLY SUNDAY SAYINGS.

Buron Pitts, Commander of the California Department of the American Legion, recently suffered a nervous collapse after delivering a two-hour speech at San Diego. Mr. Pitts had been voting eighteen hours a day to Legion affairs and his illness is believed to have resulted from overwork. His present condition is said to be considerably improved. Mr. Pitts was wounded in action.

Sixty Sioux Indians, who served as intelligence scouts in the World War, will entertain delegates and visitors to the third annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City next fall, with a tribal war dance.

A membership card in the American Legion post at Astoria, La., saved C. H. Ellis, an organizer of the post, $500. Ellis, who is a merchant sailor, lost a purse containing that sum, while on leave from his ship in Stockholm. After fruitless search on land, he returned to his ship without hope of ever seeing the money again. Just as the ship was weighing anchor, an honest Swede came aboard and delivered the purse with the money intact to its owner, whom he had located by means of Ellis's membership card in the Astoria Legion post.

A hungry rooster, who had missed his meals for five hours, made a fraction over $1.15 for each grain of corn he could gobble in a three-hour feast for the women of the American Legion's Auxiliary in Cimarron, Kansas. After he sold twice and then auctioned off, the fowl netted $25 for the Auxiliary. Placed in a show window for hours without his breakfast, the bird suddenly faced 1,000 grains of tempting Kansas corn. Guesses were sold at 10 cents each as to how many grains he would eat. He tucked away 238 grains and retired for the night.

The first pilgrimage of gold star mothers overseas to visit the graves of their sons will begin about June 1, when 100 women of the American War Mothers' organization will sail for France on the Steamship America. In France the mothers will be guests of the Women's Auxiliary of the Paris Post of the American Legion.

Newspaper "stories" of a routine nature yielded to American Legion news when "The New Era" newspaper of Banice, La., turned over an entire edition to the local Legion post during a membership campaign. Every item except the want ads told of doings of the Legionnaires.

Federal Market Reports Help Strawberry Growers.

With the commercial strawberry season beginning in Louisiana, the Bureau of Markets of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is turning its marketing machinery to the aid of the growers in disposing of their crops at the best prices and in the best markets. A specialist of the bureau was recently sent to Louisiana for this purpose.

Through its market news service, the bureau will keep him daily informed of conditions at the various strawberry markets of the country—latest price quotations, volume of sales, amount of berries on the way to each market, and many other factors that influence marketing. From this information the specialist can form an accurate estimate of conditions at each of the points. He will disseminate this information among the shippers of the region and advise them as to what market appears to be the most promising. In this way shippers may be diverted from overcrowded markets, sending them to those where the demand is better, and consequently better prices prevail.

As the strawberry season advances this specialist will follow the crop. When the Louisiana crop is marketed, that in western Tennessee will be coming in, and the specialist will move to that state and perform the same service for the growers there. Eastern Tennessee, Arkansas, and probably Missouri strawberry sections will be given like assistance. Formerly agents were sent to other points as well, but this year lack of funds has forced the bureau temporarily to curtail its service. Similar aid is given producers of other crops.

Finding Work.

In times when business is quiet, many people get easily discouraged if their search for employment. Also they are not willing to take any kind of work other than what they are accustomed to. Many so-called white collar men would consider themselves disgraced, if they had to know that they were to work on a road job with pick and shovel.

The people who will fare best in the coming business revival will be those that were willing to do any kind of work. The man who does "hiring and firing" looks askance at those who have been idle for some time. But he will have a very kindly eye for a man who in a time of emergency was willing to take hold and do manual labor. Such a man has demonstrated his willingness to do his best under all circumstances. A business man would feel that that type of fellow would go the limit to keep things moving and make sure of his position, and that kind of man will get the preference.

W. T. Light and family, of Cynthia, spent several days last week with the Ernest Hickman and family. Mr. Light is one of Harrison county's progressive citizens.

However, this trouble is being remedied by calling upon the good women of our town to this important and responsible duties of jury service—Jackson Times.

There were many profitable turkey crops produced in the county last season, and in no few instances the industrious and thrifty housewife of Robertson realized more for her crop of turkeys than her lord and master got for his tobacco. We note one case, where the bunch of turkeys brought the neat sum of $316.52, while the tobacco crop brought less than $300—be exact $261.82.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

Suppose an editor should, just for once, relieve his mind by printing all the news he happened to know at that minute. Options would be thrown up, citizens arrested, families disrupted, fights fought on every street corner, candidates resigning, ministers leaving for distant parts, lawyers taking long vacations, business men turning things over to their clerks for a season, hired girls hurting new jobs, and so on down a long list of casualties. And, there, too, the editor would be so amused up that his corpse could not be identified by his own family—Falmouth Outlook.

An Interesting Meeting.

An interesting meeting was held at Walton last Saturday in the interest of the Dixie Highway. D. E. Chast was in charge.

Of the meeting and D. B. Wallace Secretary. Representatives from all counties along the route were present and after discussing the proposition a committee consisting of three persons from each county were appointed to outline a plan for the Dixie Highway Association. The committee will meet at Williamstown next Saturday and hope to have a plan outlined to assist in the building of the Dixie Highway route and rush the project to an early completion as possible. It is expected that this route will be completed and put in first-class condition within a very short time. The citizens living along this route should exert all of their influence in having this project acted upon and contracted by the National and State Governments at as early a date as possible. J. E. Bessinger, Dr. E. L. Glacken and J. C. Hedinger are the members of the Committee to represent Boone county.

Business Troubles.

Through all the conflicting claims as to who has been responsible for the recent industrial depression, the average citizen can see one thing quite clearly. That is, that the slacking off in demand for our commodities in Europe has slowed up business in this country.

When they began to stop buying wheat and corn and cotton, then the farmers and other producers in this country had to partly stop buying goods. If European conditions could have been stabilized, the depression of the past winter would have been slight.

But how can European conditions be stabilized, when this country has cut itself off from Europe, and has refused to take its share in settling the problems created by the war? Our government, forced by the reactionary United States Senate, quit its place in the council of the world. And until the amount of the indemnity is fixed, the German people will not settle down to business in full earnest. Also until that indemnity is settled, the French, English and Italian people, do not know what payments they will have to depend upon, and they can't buy goods freely or promote business enterprises.

If we had not so ignominiously scuttled out of Europe, but had been willing to take our share in the settlement and join a properly constituted league of nations, all these questions would have been settled more than a year ago. Europe would have quieted down, and would now be buying our goods freely, and we would have remained at a high level in this country.

Covington Sent to Louisiana.

Dr. P. W. Covington, who for more than a year has been attached to the Kentucky State Board of Health, left Louisville for Louisiana, where he was ordered by the Rockefeller Medical Foundation, by which he was loaned to the State board. For most of the time that he was attached to the Kentucky board Dr. Covington was director of the Bureau of County Health Work, in this capacity assisting in the organization of several of the county full-time health departments in that State. Dr. P. Covington was appointed Dr. Covington's successor as director of the Kentucky State Board's Bureau of County Health Work two months ago.

Heart Trouble Not Fatal. Heart disease is not the barrier to an active life of usefulness as has always been supposed, said Dr. Frederick Thrush to the National Society for the Promotion of Occupational Therapy. Nothing is gained and much lost by not to carry, not to play, and so on. Under proper supervision the person with heart trouble can take a large part in active life.

$500.00 Reward

Will be paid to anyone by two men who are responsible—one from Boone and one from Keaton county, Ky.—who can take the sting out of a man who has had the Shingles, and place them in as good health as before having same.

I have been sick from the effects of the Shingles for two years, and was not able to give my customers and friends the service I always had before, but, as I have improved in health a great deal lately, I think, I will be able to take care of my customers as heretofore. I am still in the CARRIAGE BUSINESS and expect to remain just as long as I can make a living at same.

Now, a word in regard to rubber tires, I suppose some people think any one can apply a tire to a wheel, but, that is a great mistake; there is just as much in applying a tire to make it wear, as there is in the quality of the tire. If I do like some, cut a pound out of each tire before applying, and take the compression out that ought to be in the tire, I would have more money than I have now.

I have been applying rubber tires for just twenty-six years, and, I think, I should know something about them. I am using the T. J. COOPER TIRE—nothing but first grade and strictly guaranteed to be the best on the market—one price to all.

Those who are going to have repairs done, get your work to me as soon as possible, before work on the Dixie Highway starts, and your work will then be ready for you when the road is ready to travel upon. They claim it will be completed in 40 days from the time they start work on it.

Repainting and anything in the carriage line—one price to all. All work done by me must be strictly first-class.

Recommends Pe-ru-na for Catarrh of the Stomach, Colds and Grip

"I have used Pe-ru-na for several years and can heartily recommend for catarrh of the stomach or entire system. I always get benefit from it for colds and grip. It stands off a lot of doctor bills and makes one feel like a new person."

R. F. D. No. 8, Box 51, Wayneburg, Kentucky.

It is wise to keep a bottle of Pe-ru-na in the house for emergencies. Coughs and colds may usually be relieved by few doses of Pe-ru-na taken in time. Nasal catarrh, indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea, rheumatism or other troubles due to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes all call for Pe-ru-na as the successful treatment. The health building, strength restoring qualities of this known remedy are especially marked after a protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Flu.

Last Wednesday April 5th, 1921, the friends of Geo. L. Smith began to come to his home about 10:30 with well filled baskets of good eats to surprise him on his 58th birthday. At 12 o'clock a bountiful dinner was served which one and all enjoyed immensely. In the afternoon before taking their departure the pastor, Rev. J. A. Miller, read a passage of scripture and gave an excellent talk after which every one bade him goodbye and wished him many more happy birthdays.

What a Girl Can Do.

Her name is Pearl Shurrick. About fifteen years ago her father died leaving to her mother and seven daughters a ridge farm of about 90 acres platted with a mortgage. Pearl being the eldest took charge of the farm and what she did, handicapped by her sex, is enough to make every man who had made a failure under like conditions, blush with shame. So well did she manage the farm that not only was the mortgage paid but every one of her sisters given a first-class education. Today three are holding responsible government positions and three are receiving top-notch salaries as teachers. With the girls made independent Pearl is still making the old farm to the mark and come more. From her chickens alone she is receiving an average of $25 worth of eggs a month besides what she is receiving from other sources. With a goodly bank account, a knowledge of how to make the farm pay and a willingness to make it pay, the future has no terrors in store for this capable Berry county girl—Lawrence County Chronicle.

Rooms Arranged to Reduce Work of Caring for House to Minimum—Features That Enhance Attractiveness of Exterior

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 137 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp to reply.

Because the average man builds a home but once in a lifetime, it is an event of tremendous importance to him and his family, and should merit careful study and thought. There are many modern features in home-building that cannot be overlooked if the finished product is to be entirely satisfactory. For instance, one of the most important developments in home-building in the last decade has been that of sun parlors and sleeping porches. With the growth in popularity of these rooms, the two factors have become prominent parts of new houses. And as the years pass, improvements have been made in their construction until now they are near perfection as possible.

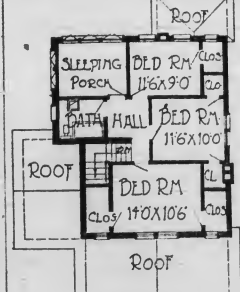

Another important factor in home-building is the material to be used. Because of its permanency and strength, brick is used extensively. It insures a great deal of protection against fire and is specified in many building codes. As an excellent example of what can be accomplished with brick as the construction material, the house shown here is hard to beat.

A glance at the illustration shows a very attractive exterior greatly enhanced by many variations in elevation, such as the roof over the porch, the wing for the sun parlor, the main gable and the rear projection for the sleeping porch upstairs. The architect after effect is very pleasing and the contrast of the white stone trim against the darker brick background is quite striking. In the sun parlor and sleeping porch casement windows have been used insuring maximum lighting space and adequate ventilation. The sun parlor is heated like wife who no longer can get servants at any price.

In a house of this size the work entailed is considerable, especially if one woman has to take care of all of it. Because of the servant shortage she has to have some substitute and builders have found many ways and means to help her out: first, by reducing the size of the rooms without detracting from any of their charm, and secondly, by installing space-saving and labor-saving devices. It has been found that the kitchen no longer need be a large room; in fact the complete equipment can be installed in a very small space. A small pantry is also provided in this plan.

On the second floor are three bedrooms and bath as well as the sleeping ing porch mentioned above. The bedrooms are no service, but ample for needs of the family. All are well provided with windows and exceptionally large closet room.

Although quite impressive looking this house can be erected without considerable extra expense. It is 32 by 32 feet. It is very suitable for the suburbs of a large city or for smaller towns where a wide lot permits a lawn and plenty of breathing space.

SMALL CREATURES AS PETS
Some People Keep Bees in Observation Hive Within the House—Water Bug's Odd Habit.

Such small creatures as bees, ants, fleas, toads and cockroaches have come to their share of petting, and seem to like it, too. Most of us are so used to watching them that we hardly notice the dashing pair of toes pull a small chariot around a tiny ring in the sidewalk of a circus. Toads make as interesting pets as goldfish.

Do you know that every time a toad swallows a firebug his face wears a surprised and rather pained expression.

the test of the house and when furnished with water, and an efficient addition to the house. The wide, open front porch supported by heavy brick columns is a useful place in the summer time when it can be screened in.

Three main rooms are provided for in the first floor plan, the living room, dining room and kitchen. The living room, modeled after the latest lines, is large, well lighted and comfortable, a condition made possible by the open fireplace. In size, it is 15 by 16 feet. It opens and that he rubs his stomach with his funny little hands in order to quiet his restless mood?

Many people keep bees in a small observation hive on a sitting room table near the window. The hive is made with glass sides, and little dark screens are kept pulled down to keep out the light except when they are under observation. The hive is connected by a small hole with the window sash, so that the little creatures do not stream through the room.

Dr. L. O. Howard tells a quaint story about a water bug which lived in his desk. When the doctor finished his cigar each morning he placed the stump on one corner of his desk, but his little friend would come every time after the moisture on the end of the cigar. Later he grew to like the tobacco taste and at last became addicted to the habit, without any detriment to his health, the doctor says. National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Nature's Wise Restriction.

Every fellow with any "go" to him wants to do what he wants to. We might also add that he wants to do what he wants to when he wants to. But very often that is impossible. And in good many instances it's best that it is. As a rule people are more rash than they want to acknowledge. If they had half a chance they would glory in goading others into the wildest rashness and then laugh at them. So nature has put safeguards around humanity to keep it from doing many things that never ought to be attempted. Decisively people break through them and are victimized by the penalty.

Useful Beech Tree.

When in full foliage the beech tree is remarkable for its clear shade and coolness. The leaves are small and such parts of the tree as can be more profitably employed make capital use of them and are very fine for the garden.

She was born Dec. 1918, died April 3rd, 1921, aged two years, four months and two days. Her death has caused a vacancy in the home that can never be filled, thru the long days of pain and suffering, her bright little smile was ever ready. The Farm Bureau has been a very busy place the past week or so on account of the large number of Plymouth Rock eggs which are being distributed. The standardization work is growing nicely in the county and by another year our people will be in position to furnish large quantities of eggs for setting from this popular breed. The eggs are being furnished from the flock of James W. Huey, near Union.

The Boy's First Start.

A business man writing in "System," tells how he makes it his practice to talk with every boy who enters his employment, and try to inspire him with high business ideals. He feels that a boy is the most important raw material that enters his factory.

Business concerns give infinite care and pains to handling the leather or steel or whatever inert material they may use. But they sometimes give little thought to the development of precious human personality, which under the shaping influences is capable of so much development.

The writer referred to feels that the career of a young person depends on the way in which he takes up his work in the beginning of his employment. If he makes a good start, if he gets the idea of careful attention to details, he will perform his tasks faithfully and gradually become capable of bigger things. But if he makes a bad start, he will acquire careless and slipshod ways of working that prove permanent.

In many business houses the beginner is left very much to himself, and if he can not grasp the things required of him from hurried directions, he is classed as stupid and incorrigible. A boy who might have done well, is started in wrong working habits, and probably he never gets over them.

It is one of the fine features of business life that so much effort is made to train the individual worker. Our business men seem to realize the value of this human material which comes to them in such unshaped condition, but can be so easily modeled into a form capable of giving fine service.

It is this spirit that has helped our retail merchants to train a body of helpers that put brains and enthusiasm and thoughtful attention into their work, and the public gets the benefit of their painstaking service.

KENTUCKY GIRL TELLS OF ARMENIA

CONTRASTS SPLENDORS OF HAREM WITH MISERY OF STARVING CHRISTIANS.

Driven To Seek Refuge in Graveyards And To Use Rats For Food People Here Hope Only in Generosity of America.

Surrounded by pictures of starving women and children and also those of riches and luxury, Miss Constance Sheltman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sheltman, Louisville, is living in the midst of the scene of the tragedy of Armenia.

Miss Sheltman is well known to Kentuckians. She was formerly connected with the Pine Mountain Settlement in Harlan County. During the period following the armistice she served as reconstruction aid in Germany, France and Belgium.

Miss Sheltman is supervisor of one of the industries established by the Near East Relief at Stamboul, near Constantinople. In letters to her parents and friends she tells the story of the Armenians, who are homeless and dying and awaiting crumbs which fall from America's hands. She also describes a visit to a Turkish harem, the magnificence of which formed a striking contrast to the suffering all about her, she said.

Writing of the general conditions Miss Sheltman says the atmosphere of Constantinople is one of constant turmoil, strife and hatred.

"The Turks try to run over the Armenians and the Armenians try to run over the Turks," she said. "And all of them try to run over the Jews, who in turn retaliate."

Eats Dogs and Cats.

She says that the former verdant fields of the Armenians are without vegetation or life of any sort. There are no houses for the refugees, no crops, no living animals—which might be used as food. All the cats, dogs and horses have been killed and eaten, she writes. She tells of one instance when she saw a group of persons carefully guarding live rats, which were to be killed and used as food when hunger could not be satisfied otherwise.

Describing the homes of some Armenians who have ceased wandering back and forth from place to place, she says:

"I followed the old sea walls for several miles and saw persons living in ruins—in dugouts, even in graveyards, utilizing tombstones for part of their impoverished hovels. The filth and wretchedness were unspeakable. Even the beach was nothing but slime and in cans and refuse of every kind, and the waves were black with the filth and debris that washed out with one wave and back with the next."

A visit to one of the places of the Sultan of Turkey affords a contrasting scene:

"Yesterday we went to the Seraglio, one of the Sultan's places, rising through the different kiosks (summer houses), the library, the harem, etc. It was all beautiful. Such exquisite rich coloring, I have never seen before. We were ushered into a great reception room, where we sat around very stiff and formally, while the attendants passed cigarettes and Turkish coffee, served in gold cups, each of which was set with thirty large diamonds. Speaking of diamonds, though Constantinople is at present the most expensive place in the world to live, jewelry is one of the things one can get for a song. Much of it has been brought in by Russian refugees."

Where the Money Goes.

Miss Sheltman is superintending the buying of materials for a "fabrics" industry which furnishes employment for several hundred Armenian women and girls. Near the "fabrics" are orphanages of the Near East Relief organization, where thousands of children are cared for. Enough food is given to them to keep the breath of life. It is here that the money collected in America goes after conversion into food and supplies.

Miss Sheltman says she has no personal fear for her safety, for American ships are anchored in the harbor of Constantinople, and the Turks, because of his respect for America's power, does not disturb American citizens or the Armenians in industries and orphanages created by Americans.

However, in the outlying districts, the people are unprotected and the massacre zone on, much the same as it has for years, she writes.

Writing of the work of the industries, Miss Sheltman tells with regret of the laying off of 100 workers, because of insufficient funds to provide work for them.

"Every day they return, begging and crying for work," she said. "It is distressing, but I realize that if we can just get our feet again it will mean so much to these people. My position here lays me open to continual demands for relief and at present (the middle of February) I have only $2 left of my salary to run me the rest of the month."

All America is wondering relief to this stricken people. Miss Beth Higgins, State director, Louisville Trust Building, Louisville, appeals for financial assistance in the movement.

Redwoods in Italy.
California redwoods are commonly found planted in every section of Italy, and they seem to develop splendidly under the conditions of the Italian climate, says the American Forestry Magazine. In Bologna recently a redwood tree over four feet in diameter was cut, which had been planted only about 60 years ago. Sections of this tree are now exhibited in the Museum of the Royal Forestry college at Florence.

Passing of the Clouds

The farmer and business men are beginning to realize that the clouds in business have passed, and are looking forward to the dawn of a new and prosperous day.

This is being experienced by the rise in prices of tobacco, hogs, cattle, etc., over the low prices of two months ago.

When prices begin to decline everybody rushes to market and when prices begin to advance everybody buys.

Crops will be produced this year at considerable less cost than for the past three years; people will be more economical in their expenses and in the long run have more net profit.

DOCTRINE AND CONDUCT.

In these days when there is so much dispute about doctrine, creed, opinion, faith, etc., it is strange that people don't go to the Bible (St. John, 7:17) and read: "If any man do his will he shall know of the doctrine." That is the only way to discover the doctrine. You cannot communicate it; you cannot argue it into a man, you cannot furnish him a faith by word. It is the life that tells. We don't care how smart a man is or how eloquent, the only way he can teach a doctrine is by his conduct. That speaks louder than words. How much time is wasted trying to convince men you are right and they are wrong. It cannot be done that way. But if you argue with fine deeds and a generous life you can make them look your way. Harsh words, petulant attacks, violent language offend men rather than win them, says Ohio State Journal. A man should be turned out of church who runs down a man by calling him names. It is positively wicked. It shows the weakness of a cause when there is a resort to personal detraction.

A French author once coined the phrase, "The land of the mind." It is a realm that many of us have forgotten. There the imaginary is real; there death is unknown, and the only riches are men's thoughts. With every age it grows with splendor. Dickens, Milton, Shakespeare, Hugo—these and countless others have left their all for those who travel there. The demands of existence have blinded some of us to the joys that lie in such travels. As children we roamed the fields of imagination, but now we believe only in the material. Yet we call ourselves wise. The dreary nights of winter are ahead, says London Express. Why not cheat them of their dreariness, and on the wings of literature journey to the Land of the Mind?

A good many towns and hamlets in the French war area have been "adopted" by different communities among the allies. Now comes the news that South Africa has bought French terrain outright. General Smuts' government actually holds the title deeds to Dillville Wood, which has a touch of sacredness to the South Africans. If things go on like this, who knows but what, in a century or two, another Joan of Arc may arise to put the foreigners out of France and win back the precious soil of France for the French!

Figures on farm profits covering seven years in two areas and five years in a third were recently given out by the United States Department of Agriculture. These figures show: That very few farmers in the groups studied have made large profits in recent years. Most of the farmers were making less than $500 cash per year over and above the things the farm furnishes. Five hundred dollars will not go very far at this time.

The new Alaskan government railway, 552 miles long, from the port of Seward to Fairbanks in the central part of the territory, is sure to play an important part in the growth of the country. Already 400 miles of the road has been completed, and the rich coal field of Matanaka has been opened. Our naval fleet in the Pacific will get its coal supply from that source in the future.

MATERIAL FOR ROAD MAKING

Careful Study of Amount and Character of Traffic Is First Important Essential.

Professor House of the Colorado Agricultural college is one of the best-known engineers in Colorado. He has been head of the civil engineer department at that college for several years and has always been in close contact with the affairs of the state. In speaking about roads, Professor House says:

"A great deal of agitation is being carried on at the present time, concerning the construction of concrete roads for Colorado. That some of our roads should be paved in this way, there is no question, but I think we should carefully guard against overdoing the matter. In order to be justifiable, road improvements must return in economic and social benefits an amount at least equal to the interest, depreciation and maintenance, over and above those of the old road.

"It is exactly the same as in ordinary business. The amount that should be invested in road improvement is that sum which will give the largest annual returns in benefits to the people of the community.

"It may be real economy to spend $20,000 per mile for one road and only $2,000 per mile for another, if the former carries more than ten times the service and costs just ten times as much.

"Before we run wild upon the subject of concrete surfacing for roads of Colorado the proper classification of the roads, and a careful study of the amount and character of the traffic ever them should be made, and it is the duty of the state officials, before any general scheme of road improvement is decided upon, to make this careful study. The state is then prepared to determine upon the proper highway system that will be the most economical, and that will meet the traffic requirements of each road."

Crystal Park Auto Road in the Pike's Peak Region in Colorado.

GOOD HIGHWAYS IN JAMAICA

Island in British West Indies Is Awakening to a Realization of Improved Roads.

The island of Jamaica, in the British West Indies, rich in natural resources and active in trade, is awakening to a realization of the importance of good roads. The advent of the automobile has had much to do in the development of an agitation which now promises valuable results. The system of modern highways which it is proposed to build will mean the speedy development of parts of the island now more or less neglected because of their practical inaccessibility. Completion of a radial system of good roads would undoubtedly be followed by a general adoption of the motortruck for conveying the products to the sea. The increased speed and efficiency thus acquired would tend to promote larger production, and thereby increase the wealth of this already industrious island.

GOOD ROADS BOOST PROFITS

Where Farmer Can Haul but One Bale of Cotton on Poor Road, Man on Good Road Hauls Four.

The matter of opportunity in marketing is worthy of consideration. For the sake of example, suppose that two farmers living in separate counties, but at equal distances from the cotton market, learn by telephone that cotton has advanced in price $1 a bale. The man living on a bad road can immediately haul one bale of cotton to market, while the other can haul four bales because he lives on a good road. The rise in price means a profit of $4 to the one man and only $1 to his neighbor.

Change Road Location. If the location of a used road is bad it should be changed if possible. In relocating roads avoid railroad crossings at grades.

First Need of Farmer. The first need of the farmer is good roads leading from the farms to market centers.

Concrete Base Urged. Practically every highway engineer today agrees that all roads should have a concrete base.

a-1 CHARLES SNELLING.

The budget plan is a sort of blue print of what one proposes to do with the funds at command. The builder can do his work properly only with suitable plans before him. The difference between the structure erected with a plan and that erected without one is great. The difference between the results of an income administered according to system and those spent at random is one of just about the same degree. To attempt to work without a well-formulated plan, means a haphazard and unsatisfactory result.

The smaller the income, the more important is the making of a budget plan for expenditure.

GOOD THINGS IN SEASON.

Sour cream is so delicious in cakes, biscuits, muffins and cookies, that not one bit should ever go to waste.

Sour Cream Cake.—Sift together two and one-fourth cups of flour with two teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg. Add one and one-fourth cups of sugar, one-half cupful of nuts, and one cupful of chopped and floured raisins. Stir into one cupful of thick sour cream one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one tablespoonful of water. Add to this one-fourth of a cupful of softened butter and stir until well mixed. Combine the flour and other dry ingredients with the cream and butter; beat together and bake in a paper-lined loaf tin. One or two eggs may be added if eggs are plentiful, making the cake richer. A cake using milk may be made with sour cream, using the cream as a substitute for the milk and counting the cream as equal to one-third cupful of shortening.

Scotch Soup With Prunes.—Cut into bits one pound and a half of veal and three ounces of bacon. Put into a soup kettle with one large onion, three ounces of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and one of pepper. Cook until the veal is browned, add three pinches of water and one and one-half dozen prunes and cook slowly for one hour. Strain, thicken with flour and serve with whipped cream.

Potatoes in Bacon.—Put good sized potatoes and cook in boiling water for fifteen minutes. Remove from the oven and wrap each potato in a slice of bacon, fastening with a toothpick. Place in the oven and cook until the bacon is well cooked.

Live Electric Plants. There are in all about 50 species of electrical fish, but the electrical properties of only five or six have been studied in detail. The best known are various species of torpedo, belonging to the skate family found in the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas; the gymnotus, an eel found in the region of the Orinoco in South America; the malapterurus, the rash or thunder fish of the Arabs, a native of the Nile, the Niger, Senegal and other African rivers, and various species of skate found in the sea around Great Britain.

There has been a revival of the use of Gaelic through the efforts of the Society for the Preservation of the Gaelic Language.

Health Shown by Finger Nails. The rapidity of the growth of the nails is indicative of the health. The growth of the nails on the right hand is in most people more rapid than on the left hand. Another curious point is that the rate of growth of the nail depends directly on the length of the finger. Thus the nails on the two middle fingers of men grow more rapidly than those on the first and fourth fingers respectively, and these in turn are more speedily grown than those on the little fingers.

Saffron Once Royal Color. In Ireland saffron early became a royal color and, for a long period after such exclusiveness was taken away in Erin, the yellow saffron-dyed shirt remained a mark of social distinction in the Hebrides. In art saffron was much employed in medieval illuminated manuscripts. In combination with tin foil as a substitute for gold, and, of course, at all periods the coloring of many textiles was done with little crocus stigmas.

American Shrub Appreciated. One American shrub which has been received with great appreciation in England, and which grows well there, is the gorgeous flame azalea, called by the botanists azalea canadense. This plant was sent to Europe many years ago, and perhaps is not grown so widely now as it has been in the past, owing to the great influx of rhododendron varieties.

G. ED O'HARA

Of Williamstown Announces For State Senator.

The following is taken from the Grant County News:

The announcement of Mr. C. E. O'Hara as a candidate for State Senator, appears in this issue of the News. Mr. O'Hara has lived in Grant county all of his life. He is well-known, not only here at home, but over this Senatorial district, and in fact, over the entire State, as a speaker of force and eloquence, who has fought many battles for the Democratic party. Newly elected, Presidential campaign, since he became a voter, and before, has seen him on the stump. He attended the State in 1916 for Mr. Wilson, doing brilliant work in the western part of the State and elsewhere, where he spent weeks in helping to redeem counties that seemed to be slipping from the Democratic ranks. There has not been a county or State campaign in twenty years, in which his services have not been called upon. He is the command of the ticket without price or reward. In addition to this loyal service as a Democrat, Mr. O'Hara has been a student of history and political science, and a student of the needs of the people. He is a student of the principles of free government.

He is now serving his second term as County Attorney of Grant county, which will be terminated at the end of this year. It was his purpose, at the expiration of his term of office, to devote himself exclusively to the practice of law, until the solicitation of his friends induced him to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination as Senator from this district. In filling the place of County Attorney, he has made an excellent officer, courteous, fair, and just in the discharge of his duties, with no desire to oppress any one, but firm and conscientious in the administration of the law. An office of this sort could not, of course, afford him any opportunity to display the qualities of a politician, but through his grasp of the fundamental principles of Democratic government which we predict, will enable him, if elected to be a valuable member of the Senate, to take a prominent and leading position in that body.

Certainly we have arrived at a period in the affairs of our State, when it is to the great advantage of the people to have as their chosen representatives in the Senate, men of this character. Men who are safe and sound in their political convictions, men of scholarly attainments who are conservative in action in enacting laws, especially laws on the great subjects of education, and subjects touching our economic interests, our industrial, and our farming interests, that so closely and so vitally affect the life and fortune of every citizen, and who are in power in this State, it is riding hard for more power, and seeking to keep it, it is hard upon the State government. We shall have to meet it and beat it on the merits of the case in the future. Therefore, we must, if we wish to win, stand out for our ablest men to represent us in both the Senate and the Assembly, where they can present a united front to the opposition, and assault our political foes and the traitors in our own camp.

Mr. O'Hara has qualities that will be in every sense responsive to a community like this. He is a man of the people of the district. His record of outspoken frankness in the expression of his political views, and his unwavering fidelity to the cause he espouses give ample warrant that he can be trusted. He never concealed an opinion for the sake of personal advancement or seeking to please. He has been a warm friend of public education. He has, in the past, served a number of successive terms as a member of the Williamstown Graded Free School Board. He has been prominent, and one of the most effective, speakers in the community, and has been a constant and zealous advocate. During the war, he gave his time and money to the cause, going over to the front in Ohio, and for the most part paying his own expenses, to speak in the interest of war activities. He conducted and managed the Red Cross Drive in May and June of 1918, in which the largest fund of the sort ever raised in this great organization in which of the same year, he was one of the speakers at the phenomenal patriotic outpouring at the Hippodrome Theatre in Lexington, where powerful resolutions were adopted by the people, which, afterwards read and applauded in the presence of the great, exerted a potent influence in securing the passage of adequate soldier laws.

Nur did his interest in the welfare of the returned soldiers, or his efforts to bring them back after the war was concluded, but he was, and continues to be, a favorite speaker at patriotic gatherings in different parts of the State.

He was the principal speaker at a monster meeting held, in the early part of 1918, in the Opera House, at Paris, Kentucky, for the purpose of raising funds for a memorial to the soldiers of Bourbon county, who died in the war; and, by the eloquence of his address, aroused his audience to such a pitch of enthusiasm and deep feeling that a sum of more than ten thousand dollars was subscribed in half an hour after he had finished.

According to our opinion, Grant county offers in the person of Ed. O'Hara as he is familiarly known among his friends, a candidate of whom the Senatorial district may be proud. He is not a politician in the ordinary sense of the word, and he has never been a chronic seeker after office. We have often heard him say—and it is true—that, but for the accident of having unexpectedly appointed to fill a vacancy in the office of County Attorney created by the death of William Clay, the newly elected incumbent, in the spring of 1914, it would probably never have entered his mind to be a candidate for any office.

But the elements of a real statesman—the experience, the education, the learning, the poise of judgment and the knowledge of affairs, that go to make up a practical legislator and a prudent and wise administrator of public business. We are confident the people of Grant county will rally to his support. He ought not to lose a vote in the county.

Good Salesmanship Satisfying the Public.

The prevalent idea of a successful salesman is that he is a smart talker who takes hesitating people and by gift of gab brings them up to the point of decision and gets them somehow to take his goods.

The basic principle of salesmanship is that the goods to be sold are of value to the people. It is partly a problem of character study, an effort to find out what a customer wants, and then to sell him what he wants.

Yet a salesman may be a keen judge of human nature, but if he is not a good listener, he cannot make very satisfactory recommendations to his customers. In a big crowd, where the people deal with a throng of strangers every day, the smart talker clerk may get by. If he fails to give his customers the best of his wares, his powers of conversation may win a new set the next time.

Successful salesmanship is built up on the basis of satisfaction. Any of our merchants will tell you that he would rather not make a sale at all, than make one which the customer is not satisfied with. The article does not fit the customer's needs, or the customer is not getting the value for the money. The merchant is not selling the shoe, or the dress goods or the potatoes that he is selling the store as a whole, trying to convince the public that their place of business gives dependable merchandise that can be relied upon to please, and that it sells the same at the lowest possible price.

Tariff Changes.

One of the great obstacles to the development of American business has been found in the constant changes in our tariff system.

People would be encouraged to go into an industry by a tariff barrier so high as to prohibit importations and assure a handsome profit to the producers. But the tariff is not so high that the people would want to go into the next political rebound, the high protection would be cut down. A concern that had been built up on the tariff as a basis had probably developed wasteful methods, and it would be some difficulty that it could build up on the tariff as a basis, and meet world competition as other industries have to.

It is always possible to produce a false appearance of prosperity by high tariff. But no permanent prosperity can be expected unless merchandise is turned out for a reasonable price, and that is not usually done under high tariff. If a tariff is to err in any direction, it is better to have it too low than too high, because it encourages the production of goods that are not encouraged to develop on a false basis which will not endure. What is wanted is a stable policy on which capital and labor can depend for many years.

There is great danger that the Republican party will again follow its old policy of a high prohibitive tariff, which can only be followed by one result. The inevitable outcome will be popular reaction, and a period of distress that will shut off all foreign commerce. The Republican party had but the sense to allow the tariff to remain somewhere near the present level, the country could be assured of a permanent basis for business for many years. Also it could produce goods for some of the European countries, which would be a satisfactory foreign trade.

The people whose workmen are the first in the timber lands are no doubt kicking on the high cost of lumber for building.

FARMERS WARNED

By Prof. T. R. Bryant, Asst. Director of the K. U. College of Agriculture.

Insidious propaganda alleging that the farmer is being combined against by large interests of the country was charged by Prof. T. R. Bryant, Asst. Director of the Kentucky University College of Agriculture, in an address to farmers and breeders at the Louisville Livestock Exchange, Monday noon. Prof. Bryant warned the farmers against such reports, denigrating their menace, and urged the farmers to awaken to the need of a better livestock management to maintain their independence.

Farmers also were told that they must take their losses as business men did and build for the future on a sound economic basis by abolishing waste. The complete abolition of the scrub stock was urged as the first step toward the principle that in the future the ownership of scrub stock would be a badge of inefficiency.

Prof. Bryant's address was the second in a series of lectures planned by the College of Agriculture in support of the Farmer's Better Sire Sale, to be held at the Louisville Livestock Exchange at the Kentucky Pure Breed Livestock Association and The Louisville Livestock Exchange at the Bourbon Stock Yards.

He found the idea prevalent that some literate are combined against the farmer, said Prof. Bryant. "One hears it said that the farmer is being combined against by large interests of the country, and so on are trying to gouge the farmer. The term 'middle man' is used and some farmers feel that they are being combined against. But if one stops to think and reflect, he will find that no one is down on the farmer. It is an enemy of the farmer to see the farmer put out of business."

"The farmers have in a good many instances the idea that every one with whom they deal is an enemy of the farmer," said Prof. Bryant. "One hears it said that the farmer is being combined against by large interests of the country, and so on are trying to gouge the farmer. The term 'middle man' is used and some farmers feel that they are being combined against. But if one stops to think and reflect, he will find that no one is down on the farmer. It is an enemy of the farmer to see the farmer put out of business."

As an illustration take an outfit I saw near Lexington the other day. It was a wild; there were nine mules, nine cows, six pigs and six white hens. Now what do you think that corn is going to cost on the market, counting the cost of the production of the corn?"

It also costs more to produce the poor animals I saw in the stockyards today than it would to produce a pure bred animal. It is to the benefit of the stockyards, the livestock buyers, as well as to all who wear clothes and eat to see that better methods of production be practiced. The first thing is to get better sires, better beef bulls.

We are going into every county where livestock is raised, and we are going to produce a plan whereby the farmer can produce better stock than ever before.

TOBACCO MARKET

Growers Paid $12.94 Hundred Compared With $13.16 in Month Before.

New burley sold for growers during March in Kentucky brought an average price of $12.94 a hundred, compared with $13.16 for February, according to the monthly report issued by the Commissioner of Agriculture. There were $70,444,169 pounds sold for growers in March, compared with $59,954,589 during February.

The slightly lower average may have been due to the fact that the quality of the crop earlier in the season. However, the official averages indicate that some of the average prices reported by the growers are high. This difference some times is caused by varying methods of computing averages. There were 3,981,363 pounds of new burley sold for growers at an average of $14.05 during the month and 7,732,235 were sold at $11.09. The total sales and the average price of all new burley for March, 1921, was $11.09 at an average of $11.35. During February this total was $117,474,704 and the average was $12.17, and during January it was $6,309,715 and the average $12.16.

Better Stock Gets Better Care.

In contributing his experiences on the cause of runty stock in a recent inquiry conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, Vermont farmer gives greater care in the early life of domestic animals. "When people are educated to the proper care and feeding of live stock," he declares, "the runty stock is practically wiped out. The reason for this is that the runty stock is not properly cared for. The man who cares for his stock in the early life, and who knows how to care for them, will not have runty stock. He concludes that one of the principal factors in the cause of runty live stock is the man who has the care of them the first year."

What Makes Cities Grow.

While other big cities were growing from 10 to 20 per cent. from 1910 to 1920, Detroit gained 111 per cent. City boosters in places big and little are asking how on earth they did it.

This growth was due largely to the expansion of the automobile business. But the automobile people would not have settled there had not conditions been especially favorable. People familiar with Detroit say these gains were made by the devotion of business men to their commercial organizations, and their willingness to take hold and work for good local government.

Follow Your Wife.

If you want to know what a sure enough day's work is follow your wife one day from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. Her peregrinations are like a labyrinth maze. From the kitchen with its multitude of dishes, rag and frying-pan demands, upstairs with mop and dust cloth, down and ash bucket, bundles of wash and separate packages of laundry, each itemized, trips to the coal house, the garden, the pig pen, the cow stable, feeding the chickens, the horse, mending for hubby and two or three children; the telephone, the ordering and receiving of groceries, and serving the table, she is summing up her household weekly or daily expense, writing a paper for the Missionary Society, preparing and serving tea, meals a day, after-ward washing and patching, away the dishes, and then meeting every one of the family requirements in and out of batallions. Responding to requests from the scissors, hammer, a needle, the screw driver, a newspaper of particular date, a quotation from an obscure author, a button of a certain kind, a safety-pin, a few tacks, some thread, a string-on all this round of going and doing, she never has a merry-go-round, and with it all she manages to keep sweet. Sometimes, in the afternoon she goes down town, immaculate in a costume she has worn as her Sunday-going garment, for the ages. But you will think she looks nice—and she does. We say, if you will follow her about your home for one day, you will know what the Solomon said when he said, "Her price is far above rubies." Mayfield Messenger.

School Notes.

All off for K. E. A. Louisville, who should be there for this week. This is the jubilee meeting, being its fiftieth anniversary. Ten thousand members are expected to be present. While there, expect to see what may be done for local benefit to our teachers by arranging for one of the Extension Normal Schools to be located at Walton, so there may be attendance from some adjoining counties, viz: Gallatin and Grant. We should like to have all teachers and others who are interested in this Normal School to testify us by April 30th. These schools are to run from June 6 to July 9th, six days each week. The last week being Institute week. The same course will be offered as is offered at the Normal schools at Richmond, Bowling Green and Lexington. The instruction is to be selected and endorsed for this work by these same institutions. The credits will be of the same value as though attending at Richmond, Bowling Green or Lexington. A student will be permitted to take these Normal classes and one drill. A full Normal Class or "credit" or "major" in Algebra I or "History 2" &c. A Drill is a class that does not require preparation or study, e. g. Penmanship or Drawing &c. A person taking this Summer Extension Course may enter E. K. S. N. the following Tuesday and continue six weeks and receive full credit. Those who desire this benefit should make such arrangements in advance.

A word of further information to persons who expect to take Teachers' Examination in May or June are informed that the questions for Elementary Certificates on Theory and Practice will be based on "The World of the Future" by Davis published by McMillan & Co., Chicago, Ill.

For High School the same subject will be based on "Parker's Methods of Teaching in High Schools," published by Ginn & Co., Columbus, Ohio. More anon.

How to Lose the Excess Baggage.

Thousands of words could be written on the evils of fat. Whether the message that fat is a killing disease is conveyed to you in three words or three million, is immaterial as long as you get the message, realize its importance to you, personally, and act on it.

There is no short road to healthful reduction. There is no innumerable fat cures, many of them false. To reduce too quickly is neither safe nor desirable. A sudden period of self-starving will do you more harm than good.

The only safe and absolutely certain method of getting back to your normal and proper weight and health is by a combination of a well proportioned, mixed diet, reduction in the quantity of food you usually put away, especially the fats and carbohydrates, a lot of fresh air and some exercise to replace with muscle the fat you will lose. No matter what anti-fat fads may appeal to your pocket book, cast them out. Drug treatments, internal or external, are worse than useless. They are always harmful.

Large Prizes Assured.

Fat and Feeding Cattle Show to be held at Louisville Yards, Louisville, Kentucky, Exchange place, one in connection with State Fair. As a further step in the movement to encourage the production of better grade meat animals in Kentucky and Tennessee, an announcement has been made by the Louisville Livestock Exchange that a fat and feeding cattle show and sale would be held at the Louisville Stock Yards in connection with the State Fair Sept. 15 and 16th.

Prizes to the amount of $5,500 will be offered in eight events. The prizes will be for carload lots and will be for the best showings by dry fed steers, grass fed steers, feeding steers, hogs and single steers. There will be from four to five prizes for each class.

The show is held by special arrangement with the State Fair authorities and with their full cooperation. It was found that the room at the State Fair grounds was insufficient for such a large exhibition of animals as will be held, and the first plans for holding the events there were consequently abandoned.

The hum of sewing machines is daily increasing in a steady crescendo throughout Lake Division of the American Red Cross as more and more chapters engage in the production of garments for the hundreds of thousands of babies and small children in Europe who are clad only in meager rags or newspapers.

In accordance with plans worked out at National Headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington mobilization of chapter workers in a nation-wide sewing circle has taken place simultaneously in the eight divisions into which the country was recently divided.

Conservation will go hand in hand with this vast garment production project, efforts being directed toward the conversion of used clothing into warm and serviceable garments for the destitute children abroad.

Lake Division's quota of the clothing to be shipped overseas is 38,000 layettes and 300,000 garments for boys and girls up to 14 years of age. The spirit of service which accomplished wonders in Red Cross chapter work-rooms is being renewed in a way that promises a quick and generous response to the appeal that has grown up from the great number of suffering little ones in Central and Eastern Europe.

Bad Year for Pests.

Fruit tree and other agricultural experts are predicting that it is going to be a bad year for insect pests. They argue that the mild winter that has prevailed in most localities has been favorable to the survival of many bugs that devastate food products. They are urging orchardists to get ready early for the thorough spraying of trees. It would seem that any crop subject to attack by pests would be in special danger this season.

The American people have permitted pests to gain tremendous foothold, by failure to protect knock the destroy from his pipe insects. Recent legislation favorable to birds has helped keep the pests down, but the older people say there are not as many birds as there used to be. When killing of useful birds is stopped, the damage done by pests will be reduced to a minimum.

The Careless Smoker.

Have you ever seen a man light a cigar and then throw away a match while it was still burning. Have you ever watched a smoker knock the ash from his pipe without heeding the bright sparks carried away by the wind? Have you ever noticed how people throw away glowing cigarettes and cigar stubs without taking the trouble to notice where they fall?

Of course you have many times a day. On the street, in houses and on trains and steamships, in shops and stores, in fact, everywhere, these firebrands are constantly being dropped by people who really know better but are merely careless.

The next time you see a man throw a lighted match over his shoulder, just say to yourself, or to him, if you know him well enough:

"Do you know that you are an enemy to your country? Do you know that you and others like you, are costing the U. S. $15,000 a week, which is $16.00 a minute, by causing fires? Do you know that you are killing people, causing many explosions, destroying homes and wrecking factories?"

If you said this to a man he would probably look at you in amazement; he might even resent your frankness, but you should be "doing your bit" for your country, since every word you spoke would be true.

The U. S. raises every year more than three hundred million pounds of tobacco, and large quantities are also imported from other countries. To light that amount of tobacco is to become estimated that five thousand matches are struck every second. Five thousand matches lighted by smokers every minute. No wonder the careless smoker is considered a dangerous person.

Now can you understand why New York City has made it a penal offense to throw away a lighted cigar or cigarette in any structure, building, car or other vehicle for the common carriage of passengers. Under this law there were in one year, 1,377 convictions and punishments.

Week for Farm Youngsters.

Kentucky farm boys and girls will have their first opportunity of becoming acquainted with the University when the doors of that institution will be thrown open to them June 20 to 25 in connection with "Junior Week," the first event of its kind to be held in the State, according to an announcement which has been made by C. W. Buckler, of the College of Agriculture and state leader of Junior club work.

Because of the limited facilities at the university it will probably be necessary to limit the number of boys and girls enrolled for the week to 160. Mr. Buckler said.

Youngsters from counties having farm and home demonstration agents will be selected by these workers while county school superintendents will be asked to select applicants from counties not having these workers.

The program for the week will include recreational, inspirational and educational features.

Found in Oklahoma.

Tulsa, Okla., April 17.—A painting, said to be Ruben's "Descent from the Cross," for which a search has been conducted for years since it disappeared from a cathedral in Belgium during the German invasion, was said to have been found in the possession of R. L. Tolia, of Tulsa, recently of the American Expeditionary Force Military Police, who brought the painting here with two others, which he purchased "for a song" at Baure, Germany, while serving abroad, he said.

The picture was identified by Charles W. Thurmond, who said he was a New York art connoisseur. Bolin had placed the paintings in an art shop, not knowing their value, in hopes of selling them, but they had reposed there for eight months while many gave up only passing glances to them and refused to buy because the works bore no signature.

According to Bolin, he bought the pictures at a little art shop in Baure, cut them out of their frames, rolled them up and carried them out and finally returned to Tulsa with the canvases. On suggestion that one of the paintings might be valuable, Bolin sent for Thurmond, who arrived from New York. After a minute examination of the canvas, he pronounced it to be the genuine Rubens, said to have been painted in 1412.

FARM INVENTORY HELPS BUSINESS

Enables Farmer to Determine Whether He Is Going or Coming Financially.

ANSWER TO MANY QUESTIONS

Complete List of Assets and Liabilities Each Year Tells Land Owner Just How Much Increase or Decrease Has Been.

What is the net worth of your farm business? Is it more or less than you would imagine from a casual inspection of your farm? Do you know for sure whether you are going or coming in financial standing?

Question Not Easily Answered.

These are important questions to the farmer and questions that are not so easily answered as would at first appear. Farming is an intricate business and one in which returns from investment are sometimes long delayed, so that progress cannot be accurately measured by the amount of money taken in a given time. Sometimes cash income may be almost wholly attributable to reduction in other assets, so that in reality the result is like taking money from one pocket and putting it in another.

The farm inventory, or property list, offers the only practicable way of answering these questions. Once the farmer has made a complete list of all his assets and liabilities and has balanced them he knows just what his net worth is, and when he has made such a list annually he knows each year whether he has gone forward or back and just how much has been the increase or decrease in the net worth of his business.

Detailed Instructions. The United States Department of Agriculture has just issued Farmers' Bulletin 1128, entitled "Farm Inventories," in which are given detailed instructions for making an inventory of farm property and revising such a list from year to year. By using the single system described in this bulletin any farmer can determine exactly his financial status and lay the foundation for a permanent system of accounting.

Without the farm inventory as a basis no system of accounting that might be chosen would be of any great use to the farmer.

FANNING MILL VERY USEFUL

Present High Price of Grain Should Bring Machine Into More Use on Stormy Days.

In many parts of the country there has been a tendency to let the fanning mill rest and rust and gather dust and to pay the mill or elevator for cleaning the grain, paying the bill by accepting a low price for the uncleaned wheat or oats or barley. Besides, the chickens lose the screenings, the present high price of grain should bring many a neglected fanning mill into profitable use. Incidentally, farmers will have profitable work for stormy days, and much cheap feed for chickens, pigs and other animals.

EASY TO WINTER FALL PIGS

Where Farmer Is Properly Equipped He Can Raise Young Animals Without Difficulty.

More fall pigs are being raised nowadays than was the case a few years ago. This is due largely to the fact that grain is relatively high-priced. When a man is properly equipped for taking care of fall pigs through the winter season he can raise them about as cheaply as he can spring pigs and he gets more out of his sow by breeding her twice a year than only once. It is not difficult to winter fall pigs if one gives the matter proper attention.

RABBIT HASH FERRY

Sold to Rising Sun Chamber of Commerce-New Craft to Be Installed.

A deal that has been anticipated for some time, and one that promises to be of far reaching benefit to people on both sides of the river in this section, was effected last Tuesday morning when the Rising Sun Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Josie R. Platt drew up an agreement for the transfer of the Rising Sun-Rabbit Hash Ohio ferry to the former.

One day last week, Mayor Scott Thompson of this city, who is president of the Chamber of Commerce was at Burlington, Ky., endeavoring to satisfy himself as to the title of the ferry property by looking over the current house records in that city. He was invited to attend a farmers' meeting then in session at Burlington. The mayor presided with a thirty minutes' address, and he reports that he found the farmers highly enthusiastic over the prospect of improved ferry service. It is planned, according to the mayor, to replace the present ferry with a strictly modern craft, either steam or gasoline being the motive power. "Ship" that may be counted on to ride the waves in any reasonably "rough sea" and be safe at all times. The landings, it is further stated, will be improved so as to make them of increased inviting prospect for automobiles and heavily loaded vehicles. At least vehicles to be reduced to the minimum in order to encourage the freest intercourse between the sides of the river at this point.

According to the mayor, he found that Boone county farmers had the kindest feeling toward merchants of this city, many of them expressing the belief that in many respects trading in this city, when the raw plan is under way, will be done with considerable more economy than it now can be done in Covington. Night service up to ten or eleven o'clock likely will be inaugurated.

A reduction in the ferry rate on machines will open the way for a shorter way to Cincinnati from this city, which is only twenty-four miles to the heart of the Queen City. Besides, the picturesque view of the new highway structure would afford a diversion of scenery particularly inviting and impelling to the tourist. While the price for carrying would be reduced, it is certain that a reduction, say, to one-half from the present round trip fee of $1.25, doubtless would more than double the traffic over the ferry.

The conduct of the business while it has been in the hands, or ownership, of Mrs. Platt has been as efficient as likely could be expected. Mrs. Platt has encountered no insurmountable obstacles, which ought not to be of sufficient moment to embarrass in any way the operation of this business by the local business organization, -Ohio County News.

Safety Rules for Matches.

Never throw away a match until every spark is out.

If matches are spilled, pick up every one.

Do not carry matches loose; do not carry them at all if a child.

Keep matches out of the reach of little children.

Keep them in covered boxes or dishes away from the heat of stoves and stove pipes, and out of the reach of rats and mice.

Strike matches away from you if striking a box, first strike the box. Strike downward on the box.

REMEMBER a "safety match" makes a flame and in the hands of a careless person, will cause a fire and should be handled carefully.

In a town in the western part of the State some time ago occurred a fire that destroyed the town. This town lives an old man. The usual noise incident to a fire in small towns awakened the old man and he rushed into the street and accosted a passer-by with the exclamation, "This is a helluva time o' night to have a fire!"

The ridiculousness of the exclamation struck the passer-by and for a long time after the fire was the source of considerable levity on the part of the towns-people.

But that is not the point we want to bring out. The point is that a defective flue, a trashor rubbish pile, an improperly installed electric wire, a cigar or cigarette stub, a wooden spit-box, in fact none of the usual sources of fires are respecters of hours. They work all the time, but more often their demonstrations are at "a helluva time o' night."

Three distinct leaf-spot diseases of Burley and black tobacco contributed toward damage which resulted in heavy losses throughout the tobacco growing section of Kentucky in 1920, according to Circular No. 83 written by Dr. W. D. Valleau and ready for distribution at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. These diseases were wildfire, angular leaf spot, and mosaic speck spot.

Eighteen Barred Plymouth Rock hens owned by Mrs. W. O. Kirk of Daviess county took the lead for March egg production among the 37 flocks of the State being conducted at the University of the College of Agriculture in cooperation with the owners, according to an announcement made by Dr. Thomas Martin, in charge of the college poultry work. The flock averaged 913 eggs per hen for the month.

Kentucky Crop Report

The condition of wheat and rye in all the principal farming sections of Ky. is unusually good; there are five per cent fewer brood sows in the State than there were the time last year; and although the labor supply is only eight per cent below normal the demand for farm labor is 13 per cent above normal, according to the April crop and livestock report for Kentucky issued today by the United States -Bureau of Crop Estimates. In co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. The condition of wheat in Kentucky April 1 is given as 95 per cent of normal compared to 62 per cent April 1, 1920, and an average condition of 84 per cent April 1 during the last 10 years. Rye condition in the State is 85 this month compared to 74 per cent April 1 last year and an average condition of 87 per cent April 1 for the last 10 years.

The acreage of wheat sowed in Kentucky last fall was approximately the same as that sowed in 1919, 675,000 acres, but rye was 12,000 acres compared to 14,000 acres sowed in 1919. The mild weather of this winter and spring has been very favorable for small grains in all parts of the State except in some parts of the southeastern mountain counties.

Farm labor is 10 per cent more plentiful than it was this time last year, but still only 92 per cent of normal supply, as many farmers can not afford to pay the wages demanded by laborers, and of all kinds of farm products, the demands for labor 17 per cent below last year's demands and 13 per cent below normal. This is due to the general slump in prices of farm products, particularly tobacco. Farmers say in their reports that unsatisfactory prices for farm products and the high prices persistently demanded for manufactured goods are tending to reduce farm production.

Reports for the United States as a whole indicate winter wheat condition is 91 per cent of normal.

Big Move for Better

Livestock Launched.

Backed by Kentucky College of Agriculture and The U. S. Department of Agriculture, The Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association and The Louisville Livestock Exchange have entered on the most comprehensive campaign ever undertaken in this state to promote the breeding of better and more livestock. To further the movement the Association and the Exchange, at large expense have planned the widest possible publicity.

Three great sales of pure bred and grade animals have been planned to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards. Neither the Association nor the Exchange will derive one cent of profit from these sales. The animals will be sold at auction to the farmers and it is expected that the range of prices so fixed will permit of the selection of these animals by those interested at a cost well within the means of those in the most moderate circumstances.

The first of these sales will be the Better Six Sales of Pure Bred Registered Bulls, 200 in number which will be auctioned at the stock yards June 2d. Some of the finest bulls in the state have been offered for this sale. Trading arrangements have been provided for where Livestock Exchange representatives in the field will buy scrub cattle from such groups as may pool their cattle to replace them with pure bred animals at the sale.

Two hundred pure bred ewes and rams and 2,000 grade sheep will be sold under the same conditions August 11th, and a pure bred ewe sale will be held in the autumn. W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Livestock Exchange has issued an appeal to the farmers interested in any phase of the movement to communicate with him as early as possible.

A Week's News.

In view of the progress made in women's education in Japan during the last decade it is not without interest to recall that one of the very first schools for girls in that land was opened by a Vermont woman in Yokohama in 1871.

In the State of Kentucky alone the production of tobacco exceeds that of any country outside of the United States, although the production in Java and Sumatra is rapidly increasing.

Nearly half of the shell-torn land in the Summe area is already being cultivated.

A New Hampshire woman has among her prized possessions a string of sleigh-bells which were brought to America in 1735 by John Cogswell, the first settler of Essex, Mass.

Col. Henry L. Stone's position that a man who is 80 years old and has done a good hard day's work every day in the week has a right to a vacation is well taken.

Eskimos eat the stomachs of deer, with the contents, to supply the vitamins in their diet.

At the time of its birth the giraffe measures six feet from its hoofs to the top of its head.

As nearly as can be estimated, the value of the output of factories in the United States last year was approximately equal to the value of the manufacturers of the whole of Europe.

The Government owns the copyright on the word "Liberty," as applied to airplane engines and parts.

The total number of women workers employed in commercial undertakings in Japan is more than 130,000.

Among the Brahmins the ruby is a favorite jewel, as they imagine that it acts as a charm against fire.

It has been estimated that there are 8,000,000 acres of peat in the U. S. available for fuel and industrial purposes. It is asserted that with the use of the peat-burning machinery the peat can be prepared for the market at a cost of $1 a ton.

Presidential Primary System Gains Favor.

The concerted attack on the direct primary method of making nominations for office has failed for the time being, at least. The Legislatures of three-fourths of the States which met in January have now nearly all adjourned, and the primary was not upset by any one of them.

It is well understood, however, that the forces which decided shortly after the election last fall that the direct primary should go have not given up the fight. The plan is to organize to break down the primary system between now and 1924. With this end in view it is asserted by persons who claim to know what is going on in the minds of the primary system breakers that they are circulating propaganda against the primary system in every State where such a system is provided.

In the face of the direct effort to break down the direct primary system within the next three years there is an increasing demand in favor of nation-wide Presidential preference primary law. That the subject will be presented to Congress in the near future in some way seems certain. Forward-looking men in both parties who believe that candidates for President and Vice President should be nominated by direct vote of the people say that if a constitutional amendment is needed to open the way for the adoption of this system then steps should be taken to amend the constitution immediately.

Our Criminal Ways of Eating.

In all the assaults we make upon our bodies the wickedest, the most murderous and the most unnecessary is through our eating. Proper eating is the one great function of life. Improper eating is the cause of humanity. It is at the bottom of most of our minor ills and an enormous number of grave ones.

Not one person in a thousand knows how to eat. Practically all of us eat too much. Practically all of us eat combinations of foods which, when mixed together in the process of digestion, produce chemical reactions which are positively ruinous. And yet, moderate and proper eating is the only possible way of attaining long, healthy life. Eating is a habit. Make it a good habit.

Wrong eating is probably interfering with the attainment of success of more people than any other factor. It is obvious that a machine improperly operated cannot produce the results for which it was built. Therefore, let us assume that you are sufficiently interested in your commercial and social future, your own life and health, to wish to correct the mistakes you may be making. It is no more matter. The world is full of wretched, helpless, sick old people, whose condition is foolish eating. There is no more reason for you to become such an expensive and miserable burden to yourself and to others than there is for you to go and jump off the dock.

Sheriff L. A. Conner took George Clark, convict, to the penitentiary at Frankfort, last Monday morning. Clark was convicted of attacking a horse owned by Ben Jones at Coatesburg, and another from William Kelly at Rabbit Hash. Clark will serve five years at hard labor.

BILLY SUNDAY SAYINGS.

Hell is a place without hope. Some people will try to make you believe the word "everlasting" doesn't mean everlasting as applied to hell. Then it doesn't mean everlasting as applied to heaven, either.

It is kindness to point out danger. So, I'd rather be cruel because I am kind than to be called kind because I am a liar.

Now I don't see how any sensible man or woman can believe in rewards without punishment. You can't believe in summer without winter; in daylight without darkness.

I believe in a heaven to get to and a hell to keep away from; and I believe in a God who will boost the sinner who will only climb.

If this life is only a stage of probation, how can we hold that the next stage will result in our reaching our final destination? No, you reach your final destination here.

If God is, then God is holy, and he must necessarily love virtue and hate vice; and if he is just then he must reward the right and punish the wrong; or he wouldn't be just.

In spite of all the jeers and laughter, hell remains a fact.

Hell is a place of remorse. Abraham said to the rich man, "Remember, remember," the rich man didn't take too much to hell with him but he took his memory.

Defends Free Garden Seed.

(Cynthiana Democrat)

The majority of newspapers that comment on the Government's expenditure of $9,000,000 for free garden seeds considers it extravagant money wasted in an attempt to bolster Congressmen's standing with their constituents. Yet all agree that if the seeds were good and were used by gardeners the money would be well spent.

The Democrat can speak for no community but its own. For a number of years this paper has been assisting in the distribution of seeds sent by Congressmen Fields and the Kentucky Senators. The large number of calls for seeds is an evidence that gardeners do want them and use them. Diligent inquiry has elicited the fact that the seeds are considered good, and in the majority of cases justify their use. The Democrat is careful in distribution, insisting that only those who want the seeds and will plant them should have them. They are not given to school children, or to those who would waste the seeds. The Democrat, therefore, concludes that the free distribution in this section is a success and the people approve of it.

Easy to Say.

This is a "neighborhood story" from down Bellevue way:

At a party in a rural home some of the country school boys of a city chap who seemed to be able to entertain the ladies with small talk and witty sayings.

One of the older guests said to one of the disgruntled youths: "That city fellow is pretty smart, ain't he?"

"Think he is."

"Says some funny things, doesn't he?"

"With a grant of contempt the rural swain exclaimed:

"He is a smart fellow, but I don't think I could think of 'em."

Thorough Investigation.

A representative of a big concern that distributes talcum powder was recently telling how his company managed to secure a superior product. It was inquired about about 5,000 women, concerning the kind of powder they liked best, and it put out a product that conformed to the tastes these women expressed. When a big business has been developed it is usually the result of some exceptionally painstaking effort to please the public.

Extracts From Secretary Wallace's Statement.

This Nation can not afford to permit the breaking down of its own agriculture, even if for a time we can buy food and other farm products cheaper from some one else. If there is to be any real progress, it is necessary to put the present discouraging conditions to continue and result in greatly decreased production, because that decreased production may mean exorbitantly high prices within a few years.

We have not considered as we must the heavy additional burden imposed upon producers by the increase in the cost of the large increase in other marketing charges. These increased rates are a differential imposed upon our own producers and to the benefit of our foreign competitors.

Practically all agricultural products should at once be given adequate protection against foreign competition. There is some talk of establishing the old import duties on farm products. In many cases those duties, if added, would not equal the extra cost of marketing. Those rates which may be levied now should be added an amount equal to the extra freight charges in getting products to the consuming centers.

The sooner we get down to studying this whole national situation the better it is going to be for all of us. It is especially important that the industrial sections that our agricultural be put upon a thoroughly sound foundation than it is to the farmers themselves.

Back to the Farm.

The United States Employment Service notes, a slight trend of labor back to the farm.
It is only natural. Silk shirts and hats look mighty attractive when a fat pay envelope is forthcoming every Saturday night, but they have the disadvantages when the pay envelope ceases to come.
It may be a little hard for the men who trooped to the cities a few years ago to get back to the routine of being valet to plug horses and chasing a pen of pigs and where the only white lights are the dull rays from the lantern by which the cow is milked. But even these things in a home where there's sure to be ham and eggs on the table every morning and corned beef and cabbage every night, with a man's size meal in between.
Farmers may not be enjoying prosperity, but they at least eat and. And that, nowadays, is considerable compensation for the loss of silk shirts and jazz.—St Paul Dispatch.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The trial of Henry Souther, charged with the killing of Wm. Belleau, was completed last Friday evening, the jury returning a verdict of not guilty at 6 p. m. The court room was crowded all day Friday, there being more than 450 spectators present. The largest crowd that ever attended a trial in Burlington. The evidence was all in by noon Friday. The argument started promptly at 4 p. m. O. M. Rogers for the defendant, spoke for about two hours, and he was followed by Commonwealth Attorney John J. Howe who also spoke for two hours.

The jury was composed of the following:

E. B. McClure,
John J. Myers,
W. B. Cotton,
C. O. Portwood,
Louette Rogers,
Jno. L. Jones,
Oscar Chandler,
S. B. Scott,
W. L. Gaines,
John Reusler,
Walter Resaker,
Walter Brown.

They were sworn at 3:15 p. m. Wednesday afternoon after which the case of the Commonwealth vs. Henry Souther was called on. The jury was taken to the place of the killing Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Belleau testified that she went to the dairy barn to milk their cow on the morning of the killing and that Mr. Belleau went with her, that after she had finished milking she went back to the house and had been there but a few minutes when she heard a shot, and in a short time Mr. Souther came to the house and told her that he had shot Mr. Belleau and thought he had killed him, and with the assistance of Mr. Souther he was placed on a comfort when the neighbors were called, and he died about four hours later. Mrs. Belleau also testified that Souther and her husband had had some trouble the evening before the killing. Other witnesses testified as to the range from which the shot was fired, and it was the contention of the Commonwealth that it could only have been fired from the loft. A black jack and some cartridges were found in Belleau's pocket by the undertaker who prepared the body for burial. Souther testified that Belleau ran him from his cow barn the evening before the killing with a pitchfork and told him not to come to that barn while he was there, and that he did not go back that night to milk his cows, but got up earlier Sunday morning and when he went to the barn to milk he took with him his shot gun. He had finished milking when Belleau came into the barn and said to Souther "I told you not to come in here while I am here" and reached for the pitchfork, and as he did Souther got his gun from the manger and shot him. No one saw the shooting and other evidence was of statements made by Souther and character witnesses. The jury was given the case at 5 p. m. and returned a verdict at 6 p. m. The trial had been in progress four days.

The grand jury was in session three days and returned six indictments. Two against Geo. Clark, colored, for horse stealing, two against Maude Sternberg for obtaining money under false pretenses, one against Richard Riley, colored, for assault with intent to kill, and one against Harry Dixon, colored, for deserting his children. The grand jury made the following report:

To Hon. Sidney Gaines, Circuit Judge:

We your grand jury empaneled on the first day of the April term 1921, of the Boone County Court, beg leave to report:

We have been in session three days, have examined 26 witnesses and have returned six indictments. We have examined all the real estate property. The court house is in splendid condition and we have no suggestion to make other than to call the attention of the Fiscal Court to the fact that water continues to surround the furnace on account of the lack of any drain to carry it away. The jail is in splendid condition. Both of these buildings are well kept by our painstaking jailer Mr. C. A. Fowler.

The County Infirmary has recently been painted and inside and out is in splendid condition, and the inmates are well taken care of by Supt. Rouse.

Having completed our labors, we now ask to be finally discharged.

Foreman.

The case of J. D. Mayhugh vs. Com'n & vs. Vallandigham Bros. of Walton, occupied the attention of Judge Gaines and jury, Saturday. The Mayhugh company contended that Vallandigham Bros. were indebted to them for materials furnished in building their garage amounting to over $250.00 while Vallandigham Bros. contended that they only owed the Mayhugh Co. a little over $100.00 and that the difference was for materials sold by the Mayhugh Co. to the contractor who built their garage and who was to furnish all materials and perform the work. This contention was denied by the Mayhugh Co. and there was a conflict in the testimony. The jury deliberated over this case for over two hours before they were able to arrive at a verdict which entailed the contention of Vallandigham Bros. The verdict was not unanimous but was signed by nine of the jurors.

The case of H. B. Hume against L. L. Eldred & Co. was tried by Judge Gaines Monday, and the court found for plaintiff Hume

IN REMEMBRANCE.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dearly beloved son, Charles E. Dearnly, who passed away
April 24, 1916.

The stars are dimly shining,
Upon one lonely grave,
Where sleepeth without waking
One we loved, but could not save.
Sweet and peaceful be thy rest,
Forget you we can never.

A most precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled,
Five and years since he has left us,
Whom we loved and cherished
dear;

No more his kind and loving face
Shall know the gleam of life,
How can we help but feel lonely;
Yet in memories love we see him,
While in sorrow we are all alone;
We miss his coming footsteps,
We miss him everywhere.

Life is not life any more since our dear Charles passed away.

The flowers we lay on his grave may wither and decay,
But the love we bore you, dear
Charles,

Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by his loving Mother and Father, and Wife.

Funeral was conducted by Rev.
S. T. Hill, of Richwood, Ky. Interment in Highland Cemetery,
April 27, 1916.

Camp Hospital Fate in Doubt. Said By Sunday On Sunday.

Washington, April 16.—Whether the hospital at Camp Zachary Taylor will be eliminated from the sale of the camp and transferred to the Public Health Service probably will be determined when J. W. Weeks, Secretary of War, and other War Department officials will confer with D. C. Clarke, president of the Louisville Real Estate and Development Company which has the contract for auctioning the camp, and Representatives Charles F. Ogden, Fifth District, and John W. Langley, Tenth District, chairman of the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee. The Kentucky Congressmen discussed the retention of the hospital with Mr. Weeks Saturday and were told that the exclusion of the hospital property from the sale and its transfer to the Public Health Service would meet with the approval of the War Department.

Later in the day Mr. Weeks called the Kentuckians and informed them that because of the nature of the contract between the department and the Louisville Real Estate and Development Co. there are certain intricacies involving the exclusion of the property from the sale.

He pointed out that the contract provides that the government shall be guaranteed $1,000,000 from the sale and that the auctioneer shall be paid a percentage on all receipts over that amount. If the hospital property were excluded it would necessitate changes in the contractual agreement.

The Secretary suggested another conference today, at which Mr. Clarke will be asked to attend. Assistant Secretary of War Wainwright and Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, also will attend the conference.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES.

Endorsement of the American Legion's program for relief of disabled, which was adopted by the investigating committee, named by President Harding, was voted at the regular session of the Maine legislature. A memorial resolution was passed requesting Congress to adopt the Legion's legislative recommendations.

After it was announced that there were 3,000 former service men in Los Angeles, Calif., out of work and that an average of 500 men apply for employment to the American Legion headquarters there daily, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of that city decided that it was time to act. A campaign of relief has been started and the funds will be administered by the chairman of the American Legion Interpost Council.

George Sylvester Viereck's boast that he can control 6,000,000 American votes in the interest of Germany has been denied by letters from twelve leading citizens of Kentucky, to the Jefferson County American Legion in that city. The letters, together with a resolution condemning Viereck as an advocate of un-American principles, have been made public by the post. Louisville Legionnaires will hold an All-American meeting on Decoration Day, May 30.

Lexington, Ky.—The third of a series of disastrous frosts virtually completed the ruin of the fruit crop in Central Kentucky. H. F. Hillenmeyer, veteran nurseryman declared.

The wheat, barley, oats and clover crops were also badly damaged, according to C. W. Matthews, University of Kentucky.

Peach plants already up and uncovered were damaged in the opinion of James C. Stone, ware houseman.

Prof. E. J. Kenney, State Experiment Station, was not so pessimistic about the wheat crop.

Lexington, Ky., April 20.—W. G. Finn, Burlington, and a member of the sophomore class in the College of Agriculture, University of Ky., recently received high honors here when he was elected to membership in Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity which selects its members on the basis of their records as students. The election of Mr. Finn to the organization marks him as one of the most outstanding men in the sophomore class.

In addition to being a member of Alpha Zeta, Mr. Finn is taking an active part in other student activities and is one of the most popular members of his class.

Dr. J. M. Grant, of Petersburg, spent a few hours in Burlington Tuesday morning.

"It is wonderful that the greatest character should come from such obscurity. Why doesn't America produce the equal of Jesus? Why doesn't England or France?"

Another freeze struck this section Sunday night, and the indications are that the part of the fruit crop that was left from the first period of damage, is now completely destroyed. Some apples may be left, but that is about all.

Ice formed again Sunday night to the thickness of a window pane and the mercury dropped to 30 degrees—two below freezing.

This is supposed to be what is called "dogwood winter," as the dogwood trees have been in full bloom the past two weeks, and a cold snap usually occurs about this period of the year, although as a rule not nearly so severe as the ones just past.

Later on, there is, according to tradition and experience two other cold snaps in prospect, although these are never so severe. They are termed "snow-ball winter" and "blackberry drizzle," the first usually comes about the 10th of May, when the chickens are in bloom, and the latter about the first of June when the blackberry bushes are in full bloom. These cold snaps as a rule, however, never do a great deal of damage, and it is hoped now the danger of damaging cold snaps is past.

The Times would believe anything that Russell Glass says, and this is one of the things "Russ" told us when he was in town Saturday. He has a hen with a brood of chickens now eight weeks old. When the chickens were only 10 days old their mother began laying again, and fifteen of her first eggs were set under another hen. Twelve of these eggs hatched, and now this hen is the mother of her own brood and is foster-mother, so to speak, of the brood in an adjoining coop.—Georgetown Times.

The Senior Class of Ludlow High School will present their play, "The Wonderful Mr. Bobba," at White's Hall, Petersburg, Ky., on the evening of April 23, 1921. Basil Mr. Bobba is a farce comedy with much humor and wit. Among the characters being a movie actress, a country landlady, a woman rube character, a society bud and a French maid from Paris, Ky. This play was presented at Ludlow High School April 1 before an audience of 200, and was considered a great success.

Biram Johnson, agitated because Senator Lodge, leading the fight for ratification of the Colombian Treaty, has reversed his former position—says he cannot understand the "marvelous and overnight change" of many Republican Senators who opposed ratification in 1917. Mr. Johnson is overmodest. He can and does understand it. The treaty was submitted by Woodrow Wilson in 1917; it is submitted by Gamaliel Harding now.

Mr. Van Hill, one of the county's good farmers and citizens, residing at Idlewild, was a tourist day visitor in town one day last week, and while here called at our office and handed us the price of an "initiative fee" into our reading circle. We thank him, and hope he'll enjoy the weekly Visits of the Recorder.

The base ball season opened in Boone county last Saturday. Petersburg journeyed to Walton and defeated the team at that place by a score of 8 to 3.

No Excuse for Runts from Well-Bred, Growing Stock

To obtain the most rapid growth and best development of live stock keep good stock, and see that nothing checks its growth from the time it is born. This is the method by which North Dakota farmers prevent runts among his animals.

In a letter on this subject to the United States Department of Agriculture, which has been studying the causes and prevention of underbred animals, he says, "In the 40 years of my farming and breeding and raising of livestock of all kinds I do not remember a runt in any class or breed. I have always been a liberal feeder and a good caretaker. Besides, all stock had access to good, fresh water at all times. With this, in addition to good shelter and ventilation, it seems that my young stock would not stop growing from the time they were born. Use good judgment in feeding, and don't neglect the details."

A farmer in Vermont writes, "A well bred animal well cared for will not produce runts. There is absolutely no excuse for one in five stock or poultry. By well-bred live stock I mean strong, healthy stock, well taken care of for several generations, and bred for constitution. This has been my experience from boyhood, first with rabbits and game fowls, and later with sheep, hogs, horses, and cattle. An accident to a well bred animal healthy animal, will, if the accident occurs before it reaches maturity, affect its size but not its productive capacity. That is, it will not influence its ability to produce such young as it would have had if no accident had occurred. Eliminate all females that are not good mothers, and you will soon stamp the whole herd with constitution. Then with care, which means attention and feed, your runts will fail to materialize."

DIXIE HIGHWAY MEETING

The Dixie Highway Association was organized at Williamstown last Saturday. Delegates from Kenton, Boone, Grant and Scott counties were in attendance. Officers of the association were elected as follows:

D. E. Cantleman, Kenton county, President.

Fred Harrison, Grant county, V. President.

R. C. Green, Boone county Treasurer.

A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws and formulate plans for county organization. The next meeting will be held in Williamstown, May 17th, 1921.

The Scarcity of Wood Products

The American people are cutting wood out of their forests three or four times as fast as the supply is being grown. This produces scarcity in the basic essentials of life.

A large part of the prosperity of this country has been created by the former abundant and cheap supply of wood products. In Europe they depleted most of their supply of wood many years ago. Consequently European cities are largely built of stone, brick, cement, etc., at a higher cost than the American town, which is largely built of wood.

One reason for popular intelligence in this country, is that the abundant wood supply formerly permitted the manufacture of paper pulp at a very low price. This made it possible to distribute great quantities of cheap paper for use in newspapers, magazines and books. This has made popular education thru the printed page available to the humblest family.

The high prices of the past three years in lumber, paper pulp, etc., reveal how these products have been wasted. Forest fires have burned up these essential materials with inconceivable rapidity, and reckless lumbering has increased the waste.

You can burn up in one night timber enough to build the houses of a large town, or to run the newspapers of your state for many months, while it takes forty years to grow the trees that shall take the place of those that have gone up in smoke.

Every land owner of Kentucky should be encouraged to plant quick growing varieties of trees in every unutilized corner. The most careful safeguards should be adopted against forest fires, and steps should be taken against wasteful lumbering methods. Forest lands are a better asset than any gold mines, because they provide basic essentials of life. When you take gold out of your mine, it is gone for good, but by forest products you can have a new forest product one or twice in a life time.

Safety Rules.

Keep things tidy; don't allow rubbish to accumulate anywhere in the house or near it.

If you keep oily clothes, put them into a metal box or can with a cover.

If you learn that anyone is keeping oily rags outside of metal containers, it is your duty to report it.

Don't pile dead leaves against anything that will burn. They sometimes ignite of themselves.

Bury leaves; don't burn them. Don't have old pieces of lumber cluttering up your basement. Have them cut up into kindling and then piled in a proper place.

SOME FACTS ABOUT FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921 and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States.

	Produced	Delivered Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	63,903
MARCH	61,886	87,221

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceed production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,710 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having a Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

The purple color of arc-lamp globes is due to the use of manganese in the glass. The manganese is used to counteract the greenish color which comes from ferrous salts in the glass, but the action of light on the manganese only substitutes a purple coloration for a greenish hue.

There is one quality which all men have, in common with the angels, and blessed opportunities of exercising if they will—mercy.—Dickens.

THE LEFTOVER PROBLEM.

At this season of the year when the gathering of the clans means a variety of leftovers, it is necessary that the housewife should put extra thought on how to serve them attractively.

One may prepare croquettes, souffles, timbales, omelets, filling for patty shells or pastry cases, chicken pie from leftover chicken, with celery and nuts as salad, with celery, apples and nuts as salad, creamed corn, rolled in a blanch mixture baked and served with chicken gravy, creamed with a border of rice, as a hot chicken sandwich, a club sandwich, chicken soup and a filling for rice or potato croquettes.

Turkey, goose or duck leftovers may be served in nearly all of these ways equally as well.

If one has a peach or two or three left from a can they may be used in various dishes as a garnish. Prepare an ordinary cornstarch pudding, using two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, with three of sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of milk, a pinch of salt; cook until smooth and thick and pour into small dishes for serving. When cold place half a peach hollow side up on the mold of pudding, which, by the way, is flavored with a few drops of almond just as it is taken from the fire. Serve with a spoonful of whipped cream or with sugar and cream. Plain cooked rice may be served with such a garnish. If there is but a peach or two they may be cut in dice, added to a diced apple and twice as much celery, mixed with a little salad dressing and served as a salad.

Another dessert which may be made from a few peaches or pears is the following: Take sponge cake cut in rounds, on each place a few spoonfuls of the peach sauce or sirup, and place a peach hollow side up and sprinkle with nuts. Cover with whipped cream and serve. Pears may be served in the same way.

Sour Cream Filling for Cake.—Take one cupful each of sugar (brown), sour cream and nuts. Cook until thick. Raisins may be used instead of the nuts.

TEACHER.

The world moves, and though it still serves the cartoonist's turn to present "Teacher" in a light that is not at all a halo, teacher really doesn't answer to the old picture any more. The unromantic truth is that lots of teachers never did. We remember some five senior high school girls in a class of perhaps ten or twelve who were all going to be Latin teachers. A phenomenon like that calls for explanation. And the explanation was their Latin teacher. Those girls didn't want to teach Latin; they wanted to be like their Latin teacher. And she—she wasn't young, she wasn't—happy or forgiving or as gay as so—pretty, and she didn't pack a bag of tricks, says Milwaukee Journal. She had something worth while, though, didn't she? Call it character or personality or what you will, those girls wanted to be like her. And though none of them ever turned out a Latin teacher, every one of them was better for that teacher they had admired and loved. It is a mark to shoot at, isn't it?

England always prided herself upon her intimate relations with the Gulf stream. It was thought that the current left the sunny shores of distant lands to wrap the British Isles in a warm embrace, bringing with it not only a warmer atmosphere, but trophies in the form of shells from the tropics to ornament the beaches of Britain. The faith of the British in this direction is being shaken. Weather prophets who have been unable to account for the uncertain atmospheric conditions have been looking for a scapegoat for some months, and at last have pitched upon the Gulf stream as the delinquent. It is reported that ships have failed to find it in the ocean, and the west wind is no longer influenced by it. If the old and trusty friend, the Gulf stream, is going to join the strikers, then England indeed will feel this the unkindest cut of all.

Irrespective of opinions and sympathies in the case, all will rejoice that the Cork hunger strikers agreed to end their self-torture. The end aimed at has been achieved as far as possible by the sacrifices already made, and no further need exists to impress the world of the determination of Irishmen to fight to the bitter end for their own ideals, says Baltimore American. It is to be hoped this peculiar weapon of voluntary slow starvation will give way to other means of gaining the same end.

Aerial photography has entered the real estate field. Now, if you wish to buy a suburban residence, a downtown property or a country house, you can go to a broker's office and examine, probably with a reading glass, a most interesting and detailed aerial photograph of the neighborhood that you have in mind. The aerial picture very quickly brings the customer to a decision either to see the property or to look elsewhere. It saves time and the expense of long and often futile trips.

As nearly as can be estimated, the value of the output of all the factories in the world in the current year is: United States, $50,000,000,000, Europe as a whole approximately $50,000,000,000, and other manufacturing countries (chiefly Canada, Japan and India), $20,000,000,000, making a grand total at present prices of approximately $120,000,000,000 a year.

When they tell us that the corn production of the year is 3,200,000,000 bushels, it is proper to get the economic truth that the production is more important than price. The dollar is a flimsy jade, but a bushel of corn will put so many pounds of fat on a hog or make so many pones of bread, dollars or no dollars.

An expert says that human life was never so unsafe as it is today in the United States, and cites homicide figures to prove it. This increase may be merely coincidental with the increased sentiment for the abolition of capital punishment.

PLAGUE IS PERIL TO CHINA'S GRANARIES

Bubonic Sweeps Southward in Manchuria; Dead Donkey Brings $2 as Food
"SPEED UP FUNDS," IS PLEA

In a recent report from Charles R. Crane, U. S. Minister to China, to the American Committee of the China Famine Fund, it is stated, that a bubonic plague which a few months ago appeared in Northern Manchuria, has crept southward until it now threatens the main grain supply of China, which increases the burdens of this woe-betaken nation.

As far back as 1917, China's troubles began to multiply when the Yellow River, always known as "China's Sorrow," overflowed its banks and swept the great provinces of Shantung and Shansi. The crops were destroyed and millions of persons made homeless. Floods are not unusual in north China, but then came the great drought and not until last summer did the rain clouds come between the dry brown earth and its tormented—the sun.

Faced Peril in Silence.
But during these days, months and even years, when the food was gone, China did not raise her voice for help. The world did not know of the great tragedy in the Far East enacted on a parched stage with 45,000,000 famished people as the actors.

It seemed that at last their troubles had ended when the green things began to peep above the ground last summer. Then came that old enemy of mankind—locusts in droves, in clouds so thick they obscured the light of sun descended as from nowhere, and almost over night the earth was stripped of every living growing thing. The stage once more was a parched, brown, dry desert; but many of the actors had passed into the land of their ancestors.

In some recent information received, an instance is related describing the terrible destitution of the famine stricken land—a donkey had died in a distant province from lack of food, its owner carted it into the interior of the famine area where eager bidders finally ran the price up to $2 to use its carcass for food.

Plague Threatens Granaries.
And now the plague threatens China's granaries. Unless the plague can be checked, Mr. Crane asserts, the granary relied on for the relief of millions of famine victims in North China will be cut off.

"The situation is rendered more serious," writes Mr. Crane, "by the fact that Manchuria is literally crowded with foreign exiles." There are no fewer than 800,000 Russians who fled before the Bolshevik executioners, 250,000 Koreans, and thousands of Chinese who formerly lived in Siberia, but who have been driven into Manchuria by the Red Armies.

"Concerted efforts are being made in cities and towns along the Chinese Eastern Railway to combat the plague, hospitals being established and the victims isolated. Efforts also are under way to fight the source of the disease—the rats that carry the germ. Thousands of persons already have died, and have been given hastily burial.

Spells Doom For Millions.
"If the grain supply of Manchuria is cut off, the famine victims in Shantung, Chihli, Honan, Shansi and Shensi will be doomed, Manchuria representatives of the American Red Cross, the Chinese Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. have informed the Peking authorities of the danger and urged that grain buying and shipments be hastened."

In the famine area there are approximately 40,000,000 persons subsisting on dry leaves, bark and roots, and only through the speed of funds to obtain this grain before it is cut off by the plague can these people be saved from death by starvation.

The raising of funds now, at the time when all efforts must be speedily put behind the work, is possible only through organizations in local communities. The Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Chairman in Kentucky for the China Famine Fund, issued a call to persons in each community in Kentucky to get together at once and form a local organization for the solicitation of funds for these starving people before it is too late to save them. Through the China Famine Fund money collected in America is distributed to every organization in the famine district doing relief work. The task is too big for one organization, the American Red Cross reports. The Red Cross already has appropriated $1,000,000 and has a large force of workers in the field. "It is a humanitarian call," says Dr. Mullins.

"The need is great and the time element is an important factor. Wherever Committees have not been formed within the confines of this State, sympathetic friends are urged to form their own committee and ask the headquarters at Room 9, Board of Trade Building, Louisville, for further information. It will be gladly furnished.

History's Great Men Were Warm Friends of the Thoroughbred

The annual spring season of thoroughbred racing will soon be at its height in Kentucky, and there is every indication that interest in the famous old sport, this year, will surpass any of the days that have gone before.

Chief among the perennial attractions of thoroughbred racing is its genuine democracy. The thoroughbred has his charms for us all today just as he did in the days of George Washington and Andrew Jackson.

Both these presidents of the United States were great lovers of the thoroughbred and loyal supporters of the sport of horse racing. They bred and raced their own horses, and history records the fact that the former acted as a judge at the Newmarket Course, Charleston, S. C., on one occasion. Washington, as we all know, was a noted horseman, who enjoyed his spirited thoroughbred for riding and hunting through the field until very late in life, and his stable had a reputation for the number and quality of the horses it contained.

Andrew Jackson was an enthusiastic patron of horse racing long before he became president. He maintained a formidable stable, which included Truxton, a horse of which he was exceedingly proud, and with which he won the famous match race for $5,000 against Greypound. After his inauguration as president, he brought his horses to his capital, and in 1834 trained them in person. Vice President and Mrs. Van Buren often being present to witness the morning workout of the horses personally, superintended by the president, with characteristic impetuosity and plain speech, for "Old Hickory," as history records, "had a temper of his own."

The Washington Course, located about two miles from the Capital, was built in 1802. The Jockey Club, under whose auspices it was operated, numbered among its members the most distinctive men of affairs of the day. Racing was regularly attended by presidents, from Jefferson to Van Buren. On one occasion John Quincy Adams walked to and from the course, surrounded by the equipages of the wealthy.

"Generals Washington and Jackson," writes one leading commentator, "are examples of the fondness that great statesmen and military men have so generally entertained for the horse and sport of the turf. Though equally bold and aggressive riders in the field, General Jackson was the more successful on the course. The racing annals of the west record his numerous victories, and according to the anecdotes which are told of him, he sometimes intimidated his adversaries of the boldness of defiance, where he might not have won by the speed or bottom of his horse."

One of General Jackson's closest friends was the Rev. H. M. Crier, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who was a breeder of thoroughbred horses and who raised one of them in the name of his partner, Col. Geo. Elliott. The reverend gentleman, having been charged with the tribunal and asked if he had anything to say in his defense, "nothing," was his reply, except that "I would like to have you let me know how I can arrange it for my half of the horse to stand in the stable while Col. Elliott's half is racing. The horse belongs to us jointly. He has the same right to control him that I have; and he will race him and I cannot keep him from it."

Needless to add, Mr. Crier was duly acquitted.

The utter absence of prejudice against the turf in earlier days brings into sharp contrast our sporadic latter-day agitation in disapproval.

For example, it is housed in the Catholic Churchman, published at Annapolis in 1744, that among the legitimate pastimes of the population which met with the approval of the church itself, was the new one of racing horses, which had grown to be highly popular among the gentry of the country. However, we of today, have every reason to believe that the turf is at the eve of a greater measure of popular support than it has received in a decade—not only as a matter of healthful out-of-door entertainment but also because of its importance as an adjunct to the industry of breeding thoroughbred horses and its supply of the army with cavalry mounts and other highly valuable purposes.

No Fox; No Fables.
Foxes have figured in the fables of every race of men on earth since the dawn of history, writes Dr. R. W. Shufeldt in the American Forestry Magazine. Take what the fox did out of the fables of Aesop and other writers of fables and their work would be robbed of four-fifths their interest.

JOHN J. HOWE

Announces for Re-election As Commonwealth's Attorney

Commonwealth's Attorney John J. Howe has announced for re-election before the coming August primary subject to the action of the Democratic party.

His achievement, both as a candidate and as an officer, is well and favorably known throughout the Fifteenth Judicial District. When he made his maiden entry into the State to represent the Democratic party, with a Governor's appointee as an opponent, he carried all five counties, having a majority of 3500. His performance at that time attracted wide attention and caused the foremost political writers in the district, a total majority of 3500. His performance at that time attracted wide attention and caused the foremost political writers in the district, a total majority of 3500.

As a prosecutor John has made an enviable record, having been fearless in the performance of his duties and at the same time considerate of the rights of the accused. During 1916 and 1917 he was President of the Commonwealth's Attorneys' Association of Kentucky and his annual address to that organization, including discussions of the decisions of the Court of Appeals in criminal cases, provoked favorable comment by the members of the bench and bar throughout the state. He recently has been invited to become one of the lecturers in the Law of the American Bar Association for the purpose of improving the conditions of criminal law and procedure in this country.

Ever since before arriving at his majority John has been a worker, speaker and organizer in the Democratic party. Under his leadership as county chairman in 1919 Carroll county gave the Democratic nominee for Governor a majority of 968, an increase of 32 over the former year. In 1918 he carried the Democratic majority given that year by any county in the Sixth Congressional District.

Having the confidence of his constituents, there should be no opposition, as his service has been beyond reproach, he has performed the duties of his office without fear or favor and down the road he believes him to be one of the ablest Commonwealth Attorneys in the State. John is a genial Kentucky gentleman. No more can be said of anyone.

Lexington, Ky.—Experiments conducted for a number of years by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station show that if the soil is properly prepared before corn is planted the work of cultivating after planting may be reduced to that necessary to keep down weeds. Three or four cultivations were as good as seven or eight, the experiments showed, provided weeds were controlled.

Lexington, Ky.—Plans are rapidly being completed in connection with the schedule of junior agricultural club camps whereby Kentucky farm boys and girls will be given a vacation during the summer, according to announcements coming from the office of C. W. Buckler, of the state college of agriculture and leader of the Junior Agricultural Club of the four-day camps for 32 counties has been completed.

The camps which will begin July 1st and August 1st will be held in three series, the first and second ones beginning on the same day while the third will start four days later and continue with the other two.

Lexington, Ky.—In an effort to discover and check outbreaks of the two new wheat diseases, "a flagrant" which have been made their appearance in the United States, warnings have been sent out by Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Kentucky Experiment Station, to farmers, county agents, vocational agricultural teachers and prominent mill operators of the State to be on watch for signs of the new wheat diseases, and their method of attacking wheat plants may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

To the Tax Payers of Boone.

There seems to be a misunderstanding in regard to the increased value on property in the county. Some are under the impression that I have increased the value without authority.

I wish to state to all who are under this impression, that the State Tax Commission advised me each year of the increase to be made, and I have only abided by their laws.

County Tax Commissioner.

For Stealing Auto.

Doc Gibson, aged 39, and Elsie Taylor aged 30, of 805 Garland street, Louisville, were arrested Sunday by Sheriff Connor of Jefferson county, after an automobile owned by Kelly Sorrell, of Middletown, O. The Chief of Police of Middletown notified Sheriff Connor by phone that these parties had stolen an Overland machine and answering the description was on the Dixie Highway and that the parties with it were trying to leave the state. He was arrested at once and made the arrest. They admitted that the machine had been taken. The guilty parties were taken to Middletown and delivered to the authorities without a requisition which they waived.

Improvement Competitions.

Feeling that the competitive spirit it always makes it easier to get things done, civic workers in some towns have been commencing improvement competitions, which enable a community to rate itself on the various factors that make up a clean and beautiful city. A number of the places near Terre Haute have gone into this competition, and are seeing which shall develop the most beautiful and sanitary town.

A similar scheme, arranged for individuals instead of for towns, has been conducted at Northampton, Mass., by the "Home Culture Clubs." It involved the planting of flowers and beautification work on home grounds. Hundreds of families went into these contests, which have made a very marked improvement in the appearance of the community.

The annual gathering when these prizes are awarded has been a very notable event. It was interesting to see how a great many hard working people, who apparently had no leisure for garden tasks, would put a great deal of time into raising flowers and shrubbery. The little homes, which previously looked very commonplace and uninteresting, became little bowers of beauty.

Plans like these prove a great incentive to civic improvement anywhere. No town likes to show less improvement spirit than its neighbors, and few people like to remain outside a general community movement.

Billy Sunday Sayings.

I don't know of one blessing God will give to preachers that he will deny to those in the pews.

God has a single standard for men and women.

If the average physician didn't know any good thing about his profession, he wouldn't be in it. The average church member knows about the Word of God, it would be pretty bad.

America does not need conservation of her natural resources so much as she needs a tidal wave of salvation, a cyclone of religion.

A speck in your eye irritates and agitates. Why? Because the eye is sensitive. The nearer you get to God the more sensitive you are to sin.

Christians, if you are not right in your experience you are wrong in your doctrine. If you are right in doctrine but wrong in your life, you are wrong in your life.

If an infidel is going to build a universe you've got to give him a little stardust at the kick-off.

A lot of people disbelieve in the Creator because they can't explain the creation of the world. You can't explain the coat on your back. You can't explain the shoes on your feet. The material must come to you hand and foot prepared. Man can't account for first causes.

If you try to solve creation and at the same time deny the Creator you are as big a fool as the fellow who will try to explain the locomotive and deny steam.

Sustained The Will.

The trial in the Boone circuit court contesting the will of Captain Kottmeyer, which had been on trial for four days was concluded Saturday. The contestants alleged that Capt. Chas. Kottmeyer was not competent to make a will and that he had been influenced to do so by his attorney. The jury deliberated about ten minutes after the case had been given them and returned a verdict sustaining the will of Captain Kottmeyer and ordered Andersons Ferry for more than fifty years and was well known by all river men. At the time Captain Kottmeyer bought the ferry it was a small horse ferry, and he equipped it with a steam boat, and in later years the ferry was operated during the day with a large steam ferry and at night with a gasoline launch.

Wants Two Cannons for Boone.

Hon. A. B. House has introduced the following bill which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

Authorizing the Secretary of War to donate to Boone County, Ky., two German cannon or fieldpieces.

He enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the U. S. of America in Congress assembled, that the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to donate, without expense to the United States, to Boone County, Kentucky, two cannon or fieldpieces captured by the American Army from the forces of the Imperial German Government, to be used for ornamental purposes.

BREEDING INDUSTRY

Renewed Interest in the Raising Thoroughbreds in Kentucky.

The importance of the thoroughbred to the security of the United States is forcibly brought home to us by some comments of Col. F. B. Armstrong, Chief of the Remount Service, Quartermaster Corps, United States Army.

Stressing the point that for years it has been increasingly difficult to obtain good cavalry mounts, Colonel Armstrong calls attention to the dire need of them which the A. E. F. would have experienced had the world war continued a few weeks longer. As to the relation of the breeding industry to the question of supplying army mounts in sufficient numbers. The relation of the thoroughbred horse to the army, he says, "is close. A large number of officers are of the opinion that the cross between the thoroughbred stallion and the grade farm mare will produce the best type of cavalry horse. For several years the thoroughbred horsemen have done much to aid in the production of cavalry horses; and the present racing commissions and jockey clubs have signified their intention of doing greater things.

Blue Martins Here.

(Frankfort Journal)
The blue martins arrived which is taken as a sure sign that the cold weather has passed. It was the custom in the old days to have many people living in small towns to have a martin box where the martin would make their nests and rear their young. These martin boxes were raised high from the ground on a pole affording protection from the cats and reptiles. The blue martin was thus afforded a home in return for its ability to drive off chicken hawks which he did with his quick action and sharp bill. Eagles and many large birds are said to fear the blue martin with such dread that they only have to make a dart at their eyes to put them in complete flight and rout.

To guide boy and girl club members, as well as their elders in producing bigger potato yields, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has recently published farmers' Bulletin 1180, How to Grow an Acre of Potatoes. It is prepared especially for use in boys' and girls' club work, and every step from the selection of the potato soil to the harvesting, grading, and storing of the crop discussed.

Market gardeners sometimes use as much as 2,000 pounds of commercial fertilizer on an acre of ground. This would be at the rate of about 4 or 5 pounds to a plot of ground 10 feet in each direction, or 100 ft. square. Under most conditions 50 pounds of high-grade fertilizer is the maximum amount that should be used on a garden 30 by 70 feet in size.

Mrs. Mary Gross aged 69 years, departed from this life to the Great Beyond April 15, 1921. Words fail to express her goodness and kindness as a mother.

Her mother was the mother of 10 children, six are living to mourn her death, John, Fred, William, Harry, Edward, and one daughter Mrs. Anne O'Donald. Six little granddaughters witness the love of grand mother Gross. Her husband preceded her to the grave three years ago leaving her practically alone on the farm until fifteen months later when her sad life was again brightened by the return of her son Ed, who had been serving the colors in France.

Grandmother Gross endured all hardships bravely and was noted for her wonderful patience, she always looking for the silver lining to the cloud. She was always willing and ready to help anyone in distress, and many were her deeds of kindness and love as the years rolled by. Besides her relatives and neighbors she was loved by friends and neighbors who hold her memory in love and highest esteem.

The Kiss in Religion.

The religious significance of the kiss began in the early Christmas church ritual and still is imparted in the Greek church on Easter Sunday.

In the middle ages it was the custom to kiss children thrice in the name of the Trinity. Gradually the custom spread beyond the walls of the church and eventually people sealed reconciliation and peace with a kiss.

Forenoon Marriages.

Why is noon the traditional and fashionable hour for wedding ceremonies? Because the hour became the customary one in England many years since, when the rule of parking of the holy communion as the first act together of the married pair was universally obeyed. It was not permissible to celebrate that sacrament after mid-day.

CONDITIONING BIRDS

FOR POULTRY SHOWS

Stand Better Chances for Winning if Well Trained.

Poultry Specialists of United States Department of Agriculture Give Suggestions for Preparation of Fowls.

Although the larger poultry shows are usually held in the fall, smaller exhibitions are staged throughout the winter months. The following advice in training and conditioning birds previous to a show, given by poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is good the whole year around. The bird that has been properly trained and prepared will stand a better chance every time of winning a prize than another bird equally good, but wild or easily frightened, or whose plumage is soiled or dirty.

After the birds are selected, remove them from the rest of the flock and place each bird in an exhibition coop for at least a part of each day. Fowls so confined will become accustomed to the coop. Handling them—that is, removing them from the coop each day—will have the effect of making them tame. In handling the birds and removing and returning them to and from the coops, move quietly and handle the birds gently so as not to frighten them.

Examine the plumage so that the fowl will become accustomed to such movements when being handled by the judge. Likewise, attempt to compose the bird by smoothing and stroking the wattles gently; this seems to have a soothing effect on the fowls, and when done frequently and properly they come to look for it when one approaches the coop.

Birds to be exhibited should not be confined to the exhibition coops for too great a period, as long, continuous cooping may cause them to get out of condition and therefore unfit for show. A satisfactory plan is to confine the birds for a part of each day or every other day alternately up to a few days before sending them to the show, when they should be confined until ready to ship.

Feed for Animals Should Be Scattered Around Floor to Compel Them to Hustle.

Some due to farrow in April or May ought to have some bulk feed. Prof. J. H. Shepherd of the North Dakota Agricultural college reports that the herdsmen at the agricultural college feeds a pound to a pound and a quarter of grain per 100 pounds weight of sow and a little alfalfa hay to give plenty of bulk. He also advises making the following exercise for sows needed.

Prize-Winning Poland China Sow.

ing the sows take exercise, scattering their feed around on the floor so they will have two hours or more of work in picking it up. Another good thing about alfalfa hay is that it keeps them on their feet quite a little while. Pigs from sows which have had plenty of exercise and bulky feed are usually much stronger than those from fat, lazy sows.

ROTTER EGG IS UNDESIRABLE

Many Farmers Do Not Seem to Care or Bother About Clean Nests for the Layers.

No one likes a rotten egg, consequently no one is going to buy one—not even the commission dealer. Many farmers do not care whether their hens steal their nests or not and do not bother to hunt for the eggs until market day comes around. Once a week is sometimes as often as eggs are looked for. Any eggs that have come from an old nest or that in any way look suspicious should be candled at home before sending them to market.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

But there are 800,000 other farmers who feel that they couldn't be without it—that's why this unmatched farm service costs you but a single dollar for a whole year—less than 2 cents a week!

Your lone dollar couldn't buy the services of fifty trained investigators who travel all over the United States in search of just the ideas and plans that will be most useful and profitable to you. It couldn't buy the genius and effort of master story-tellers—men like ZANE GREY, HENRY OYEN, ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE—who write the distinctive and interest-compelling fiction that each issue contains. It couldn't buy the time and thought of the many experts on farm home economy who are always ready to help your wife with her problems—or the work of widely-known artists and cartoonists. What's the matter with agriculture? The wise heads say it is the poor marketing system, but the young crows in the rural districts of Boone county think a few more jazz dances would do much to jazz agriculture on its feet.

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Katherine Brown at the residence of Miss Shirley Tolin, last Saturday afternoon. Miss Laura Francis Riddell had charge of the shower which was properly taken care of in every detail. Miss Brown received a large number of useful and as valuable presents. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake was served.

Hubert Rouse For Jailor.

In this issue we found the announcement of Hubert Rouse of Burlington, as a candidate for jailor of Boone County, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Mr. Rouse was born and raised in this precinct and is of an old democratic family and does not know how to vote other than that ticket. He is honest and straightforward and liked by all who know him in which is a recommendation to the voters of the county to cast their votes for him. If elected he will be faithful in the performance of the duties of that office.

George W. Osman, Dead.

George W. Osman, one of our oldest and most respected citizens died at his home, near Beaverlick, Monday at 12:30 noon. Mr. Osman was planting his garden during the morning and while he had been in the best of health his death was sudden. He had lived in Boone County all of the seventy odd years of his life. He was a devout Christian always taking an interest in church work. He was respected by all who knew him. He married Miss Jennie Adams, to this union one child was born, now the wife of J. M. Jack, a prosperous merchant at Beaverlick. He was a kind and loving husband and father and his advice was sought by those who knew him best. If he had an enemy the RECORDER did not know it. The community in which he lived has one of the very best citizens and the sympathy of all is extended to the family by all.

Covering The Field.

A newspaper should be a complete record of events, and offer a comprehensive picture of living conditions, in the field in which it is published. But to make the record and picture complete with the small force of the average newspaper, is almost an impossibility. The reporters would have to be everywhere at once.

BILLY SUNDAY SAYINGS.

Jesus is the changeless Christ, the same yesterday, to-day and forever. The styles change and governments change. Your health changes. You are well to-day, you are sick to-morrow. He is the same always.

"Cain was a Socialist and a Bolshevik when he tried to oppose God's plan. He had about as much chance of success as you birds now will have with your up-to-date theories and beliefs about religion.

When religion interferes with a man's business he's in a rotten business. If religion cuts off your revenue you're a moral pauper.

The same power that inflicts the punishment is the power that lets you escape, my friends. The governor can turn the key and let every man out of State prison. Why? He is the sovereign power. So when we violate God's law he has the right to inflict the punishment—and to state the condition on which you escape.

When you realize you are lost, there is nothing in this world that will satisfy you until you find peace with God—no music, no merriment, no intoxication—nothing until you save by faith.

What you need isn't a new suit or a new hair-cut. You need a new heart.

We were all mortgaged to God and the note was due; but 1900 years ago God invited the world to the Gospel feast and in the Crucifixion agonies of the Cross he held your sins and mine until ever last vestige was consumed.

Johnson Rogers Missing.

Last Monday morning Johnson Rogers, one of our well known farmers left home for the purpose of going to Cincinnati on business. Failing to return home for several days his family became alarmed and notified the police of Cincinnati and vicinity. He bought a ticket at the Southern Railroad Depot from Agent McCarty, but Mr. McCarty does not remember whether he bought a ticket for Cincinnati or Erlanger.

When he left here he had about seventy-five dollars on his person and his family fear he has been robbed and foully dealt with.

Mr. Rogers is a man of quiet demeanor and a gentleman of excellent character and has many friends in this section and in Galatin county from which place he moved here a number of years ago. His wife and children are greatly distressed over his absence and would be thankful for any information leading to his whereabouts. He is a farmer about fifty-five years of age, dark hair and mustache, slow of speech medium height and will weigh about 180 pounds.—Walton Advertiser.

The wife of a Red Cross worker has brought suit for divorce against him. While overseas this misrepresentative of a noble band married a demure French lassie, unmindful of the fact that he had left a wife in stotes. Later there was a child. Wife No. 1 preferred her freedom to being linked up to a brute, even though he wore the emblem of the Red Cross.

The respectable brute creation, however, will probably object to having this animal classed as one of them—Ex.

When the spring morning is clear, warm and inviting, and when the housewife begins to hustle around with broom in one hand and a bannet in the other, with swift movement from which the cats take flight, and when that same woman begins to rip up carpets, slinging chairs out the door, take down the pictures from the wall, down baby, you have better take warning. The old woman is getting ready to house-clean and you had better go fishing.

Slas went home from town the other day and said to Maud that the "lowed there must be a boom in the live stock market because he had seen more calves this year than ever before. And Maudy, because she knew Slas to be a game old sport who was extremely fond of chickens without feathers, said she supposed it was because "skytas" were short.

Judge Gaines left early Monday morning for Carrollton where he will hold the April term of the Carroll Circuit Court.

ON KEEPING A GOAT.

Now and again the goat butts into public attention as the benefactor of mankind, only to disappear after a few economies from the doctors and the food experts. Whether our methods of quantity production and centralization, our incompatibility of temper with the goat, our general habituation to the cow and cow's milk, are the reasons is not clear. At any rate, the goat finds small place in American society. Those who have seen goats, domiciled in the cross-roads alleys of Europe, stabled comfortably in anything from a dry goods box to the spare bedroom, know that the goat is hardly and long-suffering, and two quarts of goat's milk a day give health and vigor to many a poor family. Though dwellers in flat buildings might encounter difficulties in raising goats, others who have no facilities to finance and operate a cow might easily undertake goat culture. The goat is non-tubercular and safe and the milk excellent as food. The cream is emulsified and does not rise to the top. The expense of keeping a goat is trifling. In some circumstances the benefits are large.

The unrestricted wholesale slaughter of many thousands of birds in our own country has made it almost impossible in some places for farmers to grow fruit without careful spraying to kill off the swarms of destructive insects, especially when it is done at the proper time or in a proper manner, says Thrift Magazine. All such expensive undertakings go to show how disastrous it may prove for man to disturb the wonderful balance which we see in our natural surroundings. The beautiful birds with their song and cheer are an attractive addition to our lawn and garden. For this service we should not begrudge them the small amount of berries they eat, which indeed is small pay for the insects they destroy, and the good work they perform.

In a recent dispatch from Argentina it is stated that a bill has been introduced into the legislative body of that country which, if it becomes a law, will result in drafting a great many young men as farmers. It is stated in the dispatch that although compulsory military service is in force in Argentina, the young men who actually go into the service are selected by lot; also that there is some dissatisfaction because of exemptions. Under the measure which is now proposed, young men who do not go into the army or navy will be required to work on the farms of the country for a certain length of time. If this should be done, the agricultural production of Argentina will be considerably increased.

Alaska's loss of population in the last decade, amounting to nearly 15 per cent, was probably due in large part to the war. The flow of white emigration across the continent was completely checked and a place so far off in the extremities of our territorial system as Alaska inevitably suffered a reaction in its growth. The state of Washington was similarly affected. Alaska will pick up again when there are more people to go around.

A league of women voters has been formed representing all states, whose chief aim is to protect the motherhood and childhood of the nation, thus verifying the theory that women will always use their power in politics to further the interests of the home. The league also declares its intention to bring housewife methods into politics.

POULTRY FLOCKS

FOOD PRODUCTS FROM FOWLS

On Average Farm Poultry Furnish About 10 Per Cent of Meat for Family Use.

A large proportion of the poultry products of this country are produced on general farms. Nearly every farm has its poultry flock. The average American farmer reserves about three dozen eggs a week for family use and about 50 fowls are consumed by the family during the year. These food products can be secured absolutely fresh, which considerably enhances the value of this contribution from the farm, says the United States department of agriculture. Of the meat furnished by the farm to the operator and his family, poultry constitutes about 10 per cent.

A small flock of poultry can be kept on the farm at little cost. The fowls find scattered grain about the farmstead and on the adjoining grain fields after harvest. Garden refuse and kitchen waste are usually available for them. They also feed on insects and worms. In many cases the farmer's wife and children find pleasure in caring for the flock.

STEW OR SELL ALL ROOSTERS

Male Bird Does Not Aid in Production of Eggs and Should Be Disposed Of in Summer.

Farmers lose many millions of dollars annually from bad methods of producing and handling eggs. Much of this loss is preventable, because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs, which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to incubate.

You can help save the loss due to food rings by keeping the male bird from your flock after the hatching season is over.

The rooster does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly becomes a blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market. Summer heat has the same effect on fertile eggs as the hen or incubator.

After the hatching season is over, cock, sell, or pen your rooster. Your hens not running with a male bird will produce infertile eggs—quality eggs that keep best and market best.—United States Department of Agriculture.

CLEAN CONDITION OF FLOCK

Boards Under Roosts Make It Easy to Remove Droppings Daily—Little Sand Helps.

To keep the flock in a clean and sanitary condition dropping boards should be provided and roosts above them. This makes it easy to remove the droppings each morning and helps greatly to keep the house free from objectionable odors. A little sand sprinkled on the dropping boards after each cleaning will make the cleaning easier.

HOMEMADE HOPPER IS HANDY

Joint of Stovepipe and Wooden Box Make Convenient Device for Feeding Dry Mash.

An easy way to make a hopper for feeding dry mash to poultry is with a joint of stovepipe and a wooden box, 10x10x4 inches. Set the box on the floor and hang the stovepipe from the roof so that it is about 1/2 inch from the bottom of the box. Fill the pipe with the dry mash. It will feed down into the box as the chickens eat it out.

Gather the eggs twice daily.

Market the eggs at least twice a week.

Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.

As food there is nothing better to supply protein and mineral matter than eggs.

Trees with good-sized tops and out in the open so that air may circulate freely about them, are a tried and true idea of parasites. Fix up some open sheds if you cannot have trees.

Making Talking Machine Records.

The method of recording phonograph records is as follows: The record is first placed on a wax master record, by a process similar to electrotyping. This record is finally transferred to a solid metal plate. It is from this plate that the records are pressed. An unlimited number of records can be produced from a single plate. When vocal artists make records they sing into a small wooden or metal horn.

How High Do Birds Fly?

This appears to be still an unsettled question in ornithology, and recently a scientific institution requested air-men engaged in meteorological exploration to observe the heights at which birds are found. At present it is believed that birds generally do not rise more than about 1,500 feet above the ground, although occasionally they attain an elevation of between 5,000 and 7,000 feet.

How to Tell a News Item

HADLING "BAD BOYS"

Many people, noting deprecations committed by boys complain of the "lawlessness of youth" as one favorite phrase goes. Very frequently the kid element do show a spirit of mischief that is ominous for their future. But frequently these acts are committed by youngsters of exceptional energy and vitality, who demand outlet for their animal spirits. Give those youngsters opportunity to do interesting things, and they can grow up into splendid men. But if repressed, these tendencies may lead into lawless adventure and possibly crime.

The Brockton, Mass., Chamber of Commerce had an interesting experience in dealing with a kid bunch of this type. One neighborhood in the city had trouble with the lawless boy element, and had been annoyed by many petty offenses.

The Chamber of Commerce had started neighborhood gatherings and community work in four school buildings, and it was found at one of these centers that some of these troublesome boys had quite good voices. They were given a chance to sing under a musician and they liked it so much that they have kept coming for that purpose all through the winter.

At one of their meetings, one of the youngsters said that he had heard the purpose of the center was to work for the benefit of the neighborhood, and he asked what was to be done for the boys. When they were asked what they wanted, he said they would like a swimming pool, so now an effort is to be made to give them a pool. The boys all ready, show marked improvement, and if their energies are rightly directed, they will come out all right.

Saw a candidate approach a lady one day last week with hat under his arm and his face wreathed with his most fascinating smile, while he presented her with one of his cards and began the special spell which he has prepared for the voters of the fair to his little talk and read the card to her. The lady listened attentively to his little tawdler his drat rahora to his little talk and read his card carefully, but returned the card with the remark: "I'm not a citizen of Kentucky, therefore can render you no assistance." The candidate bowed himself out of the lady's presence very gracefully and hunted others to interview.

Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, is a recent recruit signed by Charles A. Leonard Post of the American Legion, in Detroit, Michigan. The post received the famous ball player's application through Harry Kuthill, former trainer of the Tiger team and now foot ball coach at Woodward High School. Cobb is a player who every eligible player on the Tiger team will become affiliated with his home post.

GOOD ROADS MEETING.

To Be Held in Louisville From June 7 to 10, Inclusive.

Louisville Ky., April 27.—Planning to make its annual convention this season the largest and most effective good roads meeting ever held in the State, the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Road Engineers' Association has extended invitations to all County Engineers, County Judges, Fiscal Courts and good interests to participate in the sessions.

The Convention, which will take the form of a good road Congress, will be held in the Jefferson county Armory, Louisville, June 7-10 inclusive.

No county can afford to fail in sending delegates to attend this important meeting if it is to be progressive. Nothing is of greater importance in the development of a County than good roads. Advocates of the cause are urged to see that their County is well represented.

The status of the highway system, Federal and State aid, will be intelligently discussed and explained by State Highway Commissioners. Road experts will tell of the different methods of road building and maintenance. Every phase of the question will be considered.

In connection with the Convention there will be a big exhibit of modern road equipment. Material men and manufacturers and dealers will be on hand to demonstrate their products. Delegates will be taken on automobile tours of inspection. Close examination will be made of various types and their durability. Arrangements are well under way to provide royal entertainment for visitors during their stay in this city.

The Sales Clerk's Manner.

Perhaps the most distinctive difference between the forces of salespeople in big city stores, and the sales clerks in a community like this county lies in the prevailing manner in dealing with the public. There is something about big city life that produces a dull, bored, and tired manner. The people in these big towns, living in that incessant whirlpool of faces, get weary of human contacts. Many of them pursue exhausting pleasures outside of working hours.

The complaint is frequently made by residents of such cities, of the toward a bored and often snappish manner. A great many of them hand articles over the counter in a careless way, and they do not seem to care whether you buy or not. No doubt the managers of these stores regret this attitude on the part of many of their helpers, and try to get them out of it. But it seems to be a spirit naturally created by the nervous strain of big cities.

In a community like ours, the prevailing temper among the sales forces in the stores is one of pleasant enthusiasm, expressing their interest in their work, their desire to make good in it, their ambition to render real service to the public.

They give the impression that they are personally interested in their mental ability into each sale. They are not only interested in the needs and desires of each customer but they are also interested in the problem worthy of their best thought and effort.

All rural stores of course are constantly training beginners who have to learn the principles of good salesmanship. But they are working toward the ideals suggested above, and under the good direction they get, show a fine enthusiasm in their work, and will keep the service of rural stores up to a high level.

Economy experts tell us to keep hens, but many residents of Boone decline to do so, for fear of getting disorderly back yards. It must be admitted that Old Mother Hen does not usually contribute much to realize the Town Beautiful idea. She does not comprehend that her fluffy plumage looks far better on her own back than when scattered over the ground. Also she regards green grass as a kind of weed to be thoroughly eradicated.

Yet some people can keep poultry with an air of style. They are not too tired to use the quaint brush. Who could expect that a hen kept in a weather beaten coop, would feel cheerful enough to lay any eggs? A touch of bright paint might so relieve her depression that she would go to work with some industry. And when you take a flock of chickens all one breed and color, they have the smart aspect that goes with any kind of regular uniformity. Perhaps the speckled hen's principles of order have been contaminated by too long and intimate association with the human race.

IN MEMORY.

Mrs. Mary L. Ryle, daughter of the late Warder and Louisa Rice, died at the home of her son, Everett Ryle, April 17, 1921, of pneumonia.

She united with Bellevue Baptist church at the age of 16. She was united in marriage to Randolph Ryle. To this union were born six children, four of them having preceded her to the grave. She leaves to mourn her death a son Everett Ryle, of East Bend, a daughter Edith Sebree of near Landing, four grandchildren and a host of friends.

She had been ill a week and three days. Everything was done that could be to save her, but in spite of all the care she passed from our presence to the heavenly home where there is no more parting or sorrow.

We wish to thank Brother Miller, pastor of Big Bone church for his consoling words, Dr. Ryle for his attendance, and the undertaker Mr. Steel. We also wish to thank the neighbors who helped us thru this sad hour. We know that she had all the help kind hands can give.

She's waiting, dear one, at the pearly gate.

To welcome you; come soon or late.

Aer eager hands will clasp yours on that shore.

Where happy meetings come, and parting is no more.

Her Granddaughter Iva Ree Sebree

Indications that the public school of the state in the rural districts will enter the campaign for better bred live stock were evidenced when favorable response to letters to several county superintendents asking assistance was received by the Louisville Livestock Exchange and the Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association.

Appreciation of the seriousness of the livestock situation was expressed by the superintendents as well as concern for the success of the campaign. An effort will be made by exchange and the association to reach the children direct thru the schools and the parents in turn through the children. Literature explaining the purposes of the campaign, the promotion of calf, sheep and pig clubs the writing of essays by the children on the reason why better bred cattle pay will be among the features to reach the children.

Material for the children will come from the U. S. Government, Association and the Exchange. County Agents already are advancing the club movement, while bankers and business men in the farming districts also are aiding in many instances with prizes. Survey of the demands for pure bred bulls preliminary to the Farmer's Better Sire Sale at the Bourbon Stock Yards June 2nd, indicate that the number of bulls will have to be increased from 200 to 300.

The Spirit of Jefferson.

The people who think the Democratic party has gone into eclipse as the result of its disastrous defeat last November, should note the celebrations of the birthday of Thos. Jefferson held about the country. They will find that the spirit that has kept this old organization in existence since the foundation of the government, is as keen and alive as ever, and destined yet to be a dominating influence in American life. It is sometimes said that the type of citizen who used to be called a "Jeffersonian democrat" is dead, and that the party which Jefferson founded has taken up lines of action that its creator would have But it must be remembered that Jefferson was an innovator, a man who did not fear new things and necessary changes. If he were alive today and meeting the altered conditions of these times, he would be the first to feel the necessity of adjusting himself to the facts of a totally different age.

It is sometimes said of Jefferson that while he was not a wholly successful administrator, yet he influenced American political development more than any other one of the fathers of the republic. Others suggested the form of government, but Jefferson breathed into it the breath of life, by the faith in human nature, his trust in the common people, and his demand for the protection of human rights.

These dominating principles of Jefferson's life are what has kept the Democratic party a vital force. They are just as characteristic of that party in these times as they were in Jefferson's days. Conditions change, but the Jeffersonian spirit gives the Democratic party the confidence of the mass of the people, may lose temporarily as the result of transient conditions, but it has always risen from defeat.

SOME FACTS ABOUT

FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921 and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States.

	Produced	Delivered Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	63,903
MARCH	61,886	87,221

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceed production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,710 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having a Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

The Licensed Falsehood.

THEY ALL WERE AMERICANS

Interesting Observations on the Product of the Melting Pot by Frederick Palmer.

Where were the foreigners? I wondered as I looked at the faces in the streets upon my return from Europe. The French, who had heard much of our polyglotry, asked this question when they saw our soldiers marching along the roads of France. In French eyes the men were all of the type American. Yet they included foreign born, as well as sons of every race in Europe, Frederick Palmer writes in Harper's.

Are you Americans? their adopted country asked of them in those trying days. They gave their answer in sacrifice at home and in battle, often fighting against an enemy of their own blood. Zolinski, Einsteins, Schmidts, Bertellis, Katsenians won the Distinguished Service Cross, thrilling our pride with a new sense of nationalism. Had they now reverted to loyalty to the lands of their origin? If so, what had wrought the change in their hearts?

At first fresh from all the people were distinctively Americans in garb and taste; in their complexion, which our climate so promptly affects; in their brusque and frank civility, their intensity, their pleases, and their restless motion. Later, as I became settled at home and more discerning, I might note that this or that person was of Swedish, Italian, Hungarian or Slav stock. Then I would see through the veneer, as I was told. But aren't most of us—again, not a new idea—who are "off the reservation" of foreign stock? My people missed the Mayflower not only in 1639. I could not discern that the descendants of the Pilgrims were more American than I was or than a dark eyed telephone girl whose father was an Italian immigrant.

Not even in the mean streets did I find patches. I saw no shriveling babies in enclaved mothers' arms on bread lines in the European sense, though conditions were bad enough from the point of view of desired standards which must ever call our ambition away from stagnation of "everything is for the best in the best of worlds." In place of saloons in mean streets and average streets, new stores and restaurants had appeared. How clean the restaurants were compared to those of the same class in Europe? How wholesome was their atmosphere!

WAR ON DISEASE WORLD WAR

Health Problems of the Remotest Land is the Concern of All Peoples.

The war against disease is a world war. Commerce carries dangerous infections, as well as goods and ideas. The health problems of the remotest land concern all peoples. More and more nations are coming to realize their interdependence in health as in industry, government, science, and culture. There are even now forebodings of world-wide co-operation in combating the maladies which have long threatened humanity. For this new campaign leaders are needed to extend the frontiers of medical science, to teach, to organize, to administer. Demonstrations are required to convince communities and nations that diseases can be controlled and even eradicated. The Rockefeller Foundation, enlisted for this world-wide campaign against disease, is co-operating with many agencies in five continents, in fostering the growth of international confidence and good will, and in seeking the fulfillment of its chartered purpose—"to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

Fuel Oil for Railroads.

The great scarcity of coal has caused the Peru, Lyons, and Mediterranean Railway company to transform some of its motive power from coal to fuel oil consumption, which is about to be followed by the Chemin de Fer de l'Etat, or state-owned railway, and engines at its shops at Salines are now undergoing changes for experimental purposes. Much attention is being directed to the announcement that the first named railway company is planning to equip 200 locomotives for fuel oil and install numerous storage reservoirs of from 40 to 100 tons capacity at various points on its lines.—Scientific American.

Census Involves Much Work.

The 110,000,000 cards needed to record the population of the United States in the new census made a stack more than ten miles high. Without machinery it would be almost impossible to manage a census nowadays. It took seven years to complete and publish the census of 1880, and nine years to complete the census of 1890. By means of electrical mechanism which punches something like 4,000 cards a day, the cards are now sorted and tabulated in weeks instead of years. The device also saves expense and eliminates error.

Forewarned.

A little girl was sent to fetch some milk from a neighbor. She took with her two cats.

On arriving home she was crying and bespattered with mud. Mother saw at once that her darling had had a fall and asked if she had lost all the milk.

"No, mother, not a drop."

"And how did my clever little darling manage that?" mother asked.

"I knew I was going to fall, mother, so I stood the cats down."—Answer, London.

PARCEL POST DELIVERS EGGS TO DOOR OF CITY CONSUMERS

One Big Advantage of the Parcel Post Is That One Package or Many May Be Sent.

If the rural delivery is at your door, the city market is there for your small produce, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. At present many producers are neglecting entirely this marketing medium or are not utilizing it to the extent they might. Wider use of the parcel post for marketing eggs is particularly advisable for the small producer who can easily and advantageously build up a direct trade with the city. When more produce is marketed directly from the farm to the city there will be less complaint on the part of the producer that the prices he must sell for are too low, and less on the part of the consumer that the prices he pays are too high.

Sell Only First-Class Eggs.

It is preferable to produce infertile eggs for market, as fertile eggs deteriorate rapidly in warm weather and are the cause of much loss. The eggs should be gathered and packed once a day and stored in a well-ventilated place, where they can be kept as cool as possible. As washing removes the natural mucus coating of eggs and opens the pores of the shell, it should not be practiced in the case of eggs intended for high-class trade. Solved eggs should be used at home or disposed of otherwise than to a parcel-post customer.

If there is any doubt concerning the freshness or quality of the eggs, they should be candled, so that all eggs showing any defect may be held at home, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. For parcel-post shipment it is essential that uniform containers and a uniform pack should be used, as otherwise the packages will not wear well, nor will they look attractive and appeal to the city buyer. Furthermore, the containers should be sturdy and durable, so as to make it worth while to return them as "empties" for subsequent use.

According to post office regulations, eggs will be accepted for local delivery when they are so packed in a basket or other container as to prevent damage to other mail matter. Eggs to be sent beyond the local office are accepted for mailing, regardless of distance, when each egg is wrapped separately and surrounded with excelsior, cotton or other suitable material and packed in a strong container made of double-faced, corrugated pasteboard, metal, wood or other suitable material and wrapped so that nothing can escape from the package. All such parcels must be labeled "Eggs." Eggs in parcels weighing more than 20 pounds are accepted for mailing to offices in the first and second zones when packed in crates, boxes, buckets or other containers having tight bottoms to prevent the escape of anything from the package and so constructed as properly to protect the contents. Such packages must be marked "Eggs—This Side Up" and must be transported outside of mail sacks or boxes.

It is advisable that square block tissue paper, which comes in packages of 500 sheets each, soft wrapping paper, or newspaper should be used around each egg, as otherwise there is a danger of breakage in handling. Average hens' eggs will weigh about two ounces apiece, or between two and three pounds a dozen, when properly packed for mailing in a carton. Most parcels containing a dozen eggs will exceed two pounds, but will not reach three; therefore the postage on them will be 7 cents within the first and second zones, or 15-cent limit. A parcel containing two dozen eggs will add, perhaps, 2 cents to the postage, though sometimes only 1 cent, depending on the character of the container and wrapper.

Ship Large-Size Packages.
The larger the parcel, within the size and weight limits, the cheaper is the postage, as the first pound of every package costs 5 cents within the first and second zones, while each additional pound, up to 50, costs but 1 cent.

COMPOST HEAP MADE FROM GARDEN WASTE

Organic Rubbish of All Kinds Especially Suitable.

Start by Laying Down Bed of Stable Manure and Alternating With Refuse Matter—Especially Valuable for Hotbeds.

Garden waste, decayed vegetables, dead vines, weeds, and the organic rubbish that collects about the place during a busy summer may be cleaned up and put to work again through the agency of a compost heap, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Start the heap by laying down a bed of stable manure, and engines at its shops at Salines are now undergoing changes for experimental purposes. Much attention is being directed to the announcement that the first named railway company is planning to equip 200 locomotives for fuel oil and install numerous storage reservoirs of from 40 to 100 tons capacity at various points on its lines.—Scientific American.

If it is desired to add to the heap from time to time the top layer may be opened and the new material emptied into the hole thus made. This is convenient for the suburban home where there is no animal to consume the kitchen waste. In the spring the heap is well mixed with a fork and the compost is ready to be spread on the garden plot. The heating manure will effectively destroy any weed seed present and will also break down the structure of most of the materials that have been thrown upon the pile. The process may be continued indefinitely by simply adding enough manure to insure heating. Compost is especially valuable for use in hotbeds and cold frames.

GIVE BIRDS CONSIDERATION

Little Songsters Are Friends of Farmer and Should Be Looked After in Winter.

Birds as friends of agriculture are entitled to consideration from the farmer. When the snows come the birds find it difficult to make a living. Crumbs and suet placed outdoors may save bird lives.

WEEDS ARE INJURIOUS

Weeds are injurious to man in the following ways: 1. They crowd out the growing crop. 2. They consume the moisture necessary for a crop. 3. They consume the mineral or other food elements essential to a crop. 4. They pull down a crop. 5. They are injurious because they harbor insects. 6. They are injurious because they harbor parasitic fungi. 7. They prevent the proper cultivation of the soil. 8. They may cause conditions which breed diseases. 9. They may poison the soil. 10. They stop drains. 11. They poison animals and man.—Prof. L. H. Pammel, Iowa State College.

URGE TESTING OF SEED CORN

Even When Carefully Selected and Stored It Should Be Tested Before Planting.

Even where seed corn has been carefully gathered and stored it should be thoroughly tested in the spring before planting. The best way to do this is to make a seed corn testing box and test 100 seeds separately. Each kernel that is tested must be perfect, and not injured at the tip when it is removed from the ear. Hand-shelling will give much fewer injured tips than machine shelling, and should be used with all seed corn. If three or more kernels out of ten from any one ear fail to grow it will be wise to test every ear in the entire supply of seed. If the 100 tested ears show no poor ones, further testing of the supply is unnecessary.

PROPER CLUTCH LUBRICATION

Truck Operator Will Do Well to Use Oil Recommended by Manufacturer of Vehicle.

One rule the truck operator will be well advised to cling to as regards the lubrication of the disk clutch, and that is always to use the brand of oil recommended by the maker of the vehicle. The truck clutch shoulders a heavy burden at heat and absolutely correct lubrication is essential to efficient operation of continued service.

The famous Leaning tower of Pisa is of pure white Carrara marble in the Gothic style. Public Discussion.

It takes something more than isolated intelligence to produce community progress. The trouble with many towns is that people do not express their opinions. But if a lot of fine talk in private conversation, suggesting this thing or that which should be done for the advancement of the community. But if they attend community meeting they are perfectly mum, and do nothing to lead public opinion in any definite direction.

The home newspaper furnishes a medium by which all the people can contribute their ideas to the public. If you can not talk effectively in public, at least you can sit down in the quiet of your home and write a letter to the Recorder suggesting the things that should be done for the advancement of Boone County.

The Recorder welcomes correspondence on matters of public interest. But keep good conduct, and reflect that other people with whom you differ are probably just as honest and public spirited as you are. Sincere attack does no good and stir up ill feeling.

JOHN WESLEY RICE, DEAD.

Before a large crowd of rooters and visitors the Bellevue basketball club opened the season at their new grounds last Saturday. The strong Petersburg team was their opponent for the opening and the Bellevue boys had no trouble in defeating the visitors in a runaway score of 11 to 4. It was a real treat for the Bellevue fans, and starts the season with enthusiasm for a successful year. Bellevue has an aggressive aggregation of good ball players and other teams will have good playing to defeat them.

RECITAL WELL ATTENDED

By Parents and Others Who Are Interested in Local School Work.

A large number of parents and others interested in the local school were present at the recital given in the court house last Friday night by the pupils of Miss Mattie Kreylich, teacher of elocution and Miss Ethel Skillman, instructor of music. The program was one of interest throughout as the interspersed musical numbers served to alleviate the monotony of too many successive readings or declamations. Nothing derogatory is meant toward the efforts of the pupils in public expression for each one did exceedingly well but "variety is the spice of life."

The program was opened with a reading by Miss Mary Beas Cropper entitled "The Soul of the Violin." It was rather pathetic in nature, dealing with the struggle of the starving violinist as to whether he should sell his beloved instrument or not to provide funds for food. Miss Cropper was at her best and delivered her reading in a splendid manner. Following her was a piano solo by Miss Kathryn Clore, executed in a commendable style. Next was a declamation by Mr. Clifford Cropper which was delivered in a forcible manner.

Again the scene was shifted into a musical atmosphere for the succeeding recitation was a piano duet rendered by Miss Marjorie Tanner and her highly capable instructor, was given in such style as to elicit great applause from those present. Following this was a recitation by Lee Artie Franks, which was well received. Bob Hensley delighted the audience with a recitation entitled "Sister's Best Feller." Mary Louise Renaker next played two selections on the piano with such skill as to command praise for one so young in both years and instruction. The next two numbers on the evening's bill were recitations by Elizabeth Hensley and Ruth Walton, both giving to their efforts their best expression and enunciation.

Each succeeding performance of this kind given by the pupils of Misses Kreylich and Skillman only served to strengthen in the minds of the parents the belief that in these two highly gifted instructors the local school has those who are really interested in the advancement of their children. From a financial standpoint the affair was successful as the sum of $27.00 was realized, which will be applied for books secured for the school library.

AUTOMOBILE TAX ALMOST DOUBLE.

Frankfort, Ky. The Ky. auto tax law, which went into effect on December 1, 1920, had brought in to the State treasury a total of 1,377,866 up to yesterday, it was announced at the office of John A. Craig, State Auditor. The total for the fiscal year ending June 30 1920 under the old law, was approximately $803,000, it was stated.

The fund derived from auto taxes, which now are assessed according to the horsepower on pleasure cars and according to tonnage on commercial vehicles, goes to the highway fund of the State.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Quotas of garments and layettes to be produced for the hundreds of thousands of wools of Central and Eastern Europe by volunteer workers of the American Red Cross have just been announced for Lake Division which now embraces Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Michigan and Kentucky. The division quota of 300,000 garments for boys and girls up to 14 years and 38,000 layettes has been apportioned as follows:

Ohio, 100,000 garments; 15,000 layettes; Indiana, 70,000 garments; 8,500 layettes; West Virginia, 30,000 garments; 3,000 layettes; Kentucky, 30,000 garments; 3,000 layettes.

The Burlington ball ground has received a considerable amount of work over the last two or three days and as a result it is highly improved. A radical grading around first base and in the section at home plate and extending to the box has made a surface far more level than the ground has ever been before. The local team is in process of organization and the promoters are planning some hits which will be the nucleus of a team which the local rooters may well be proud. It is to be hoped such will be the case for there are many local athletes around this neck of the woods and they are always willing to "root" their heads off, so to speak.

BUSINESS OPTIMISM.

For about six months now many business authorities have been distributing cheer up talk. They felt that the trouble with business has been largely "psychological" to use President Wilson's famous phrase. If the people could be persuaded to look ahead with more confidence and plan for the future as in ordinary times, business would revive.

To some extent this prediction has been justified. Easter retail trade was called good. Woolen manufacture has picked up. The whole situation is considerably improved over its position in the early winter. But there has not been as much revival as was expected.

The situation includes fundamental difficulties that can not be removed by any mere optimism better conditions in Europe, and a settled labor basis, are needed before there can be any real recovery. But people should not think that disaster in Europe necessarily means disaster here. Heavily indebted nations, if they can give good enough security to be lent to credit, may be able to run their industries on full time, and produce a normal output. Thus they can buy a normal amount from other countries.

Europe is bound to buy a large volume of our products under any bought before the war. This business of raising money for production necessary to supply the wants of our own people, should produce a pretty good degree of prosperity independent of the conditions elsewhere in the world.

MINORITY RULE.

During the recent controversy over the treaty of Versailles, the Democratic party was practically sold out by the majority of the Senate and for entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. And probably a majority of the Republican party wanted some reservations.

But as the result of skillful political maneuvering, the country was steered around into a position where the minority was able to dominate the situation, and it controls it today.

The new administration goes in to power on a tidal wave of reaction from the hundreds of different groans and dissatisfactions entered into the verdict last November. A lot of people voted Republican simply to down President Wilson, and millions of these people believe in the idea of a league of nations.

The new administration seems to have no intention of doing this. The country has turned down the idea of a league of nations. There is nothing to indicate that the country has never had a chance to vote for the League of Nations. Some nations apart from other issues. When it does get a chance, it will show some results that will make the Republic's people shudder. Think of the people who have struck them. Meanwhile the people should note very carefully the senators who so bitterly oppose attempts to have the United States join the League of Nations. Some are with other powers in promoting world peace and restoring world prosperity.

A country that determines to isolate itself from the rest of the world, will come out just the same as a business man who refuses to join the community organization. Such a man does not have to pay any civic organization dues, but everybody hates him and dislikes to do business with him. It is going to work just the same way, if this reactionary Republican minority continues to defy the will of the country.

IMPROVE THE FARM BUSINESS.

Business that is spasmodic, careless, or otherwise not dependable is not profitable. Says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, "Some farmers send their produce to market on consignment without any previous notice to the commission merchant, and in such cases the latter has no opportunity to prepare for a satisfactory sale. Some farmers take no pains in making shipments regularly as to enable the merchant to build up a reliable demand for the products."

In justice to himself, say marketing specialists of the Government, as well as to the commission man, the farmer should find market demand, always make products appear attractive, and deliver them at regular intervals, so far as he can.

SALESMANSHIP

"The Man With a Smile is The Man Worth While; No One Likes a Grouch."

Mr. N. E. Riddell, Editor Boone County Recorder, Burlington, Ky.

I read an article in your paper recently on salesmanship; this subject is naturally always of great interest to me, having been on the "firing line" as we call it, for nearly twenty years, and all of this time have been fortunate in having been associated with what is conceded by other large selling organizations of the country to be the best trained and most efficient selling organization of all time. Namely: The National Cash Register Company.

I have learned through experience in selling and in teaching men that we bring into this business from time to time, also the teaching of those who have been in the association, that there are a few fundamentals that are very essential for the young salesman to follow if he hopes to succeed in this work.

Salesmanship today has become a profession.

The first qualification in my judgment, that is necessary for a salesman to be successful, is that he must have the proper initiative; he must have a thorough knowledge of the product he is selling; he must be convinced in his own mind that what he is selling is worth the money he is asking the other fellow to pay for it; these will give him confidence.

He cannot hope to throw his line to catch a prospect; it will not work. He must be honest; honesty is not only the best policy, but as I once heard a man say: "It is a good business."

One of the greatest assets any salesman can have is the natural ability of being able to "size up" his man quickly and not make the fatal mistake that so many salesmen have made, and lost their opportunity of autographing him. There are a lot of lost sales that are due to this. Always be there with a smile; especially on your first approach. As the old saying goes: The man with the smile is the man worth while; no one likes a grouch.

I could go on indefinitely on this subject, but if the young man who is seeking a profession, will follow these few simple rules, he will, in my estimation, succeed just in proportion to the degree he lives up to them.

My only object in writing you this is, that it might be a guide to help some young fellow that is struggling to get a foot hold in this work. And I know of a lot of fellows who 30 years ago instead of having to dig it out by hard knocks, for myself, it certainly would have been of great value to me.

Yours Very Truly,

E. M. GAINES.

Mr. Gaines is a son of Al. S. Gaines, who was County Clerk of Boone County many years ago, and he is a native son of Boone, and has made good in foreign lands. He holds a responsible position with the National Cash Register Co., of Milwaukee, Wis.

A Dangerous Weed.

There is a weed, a great deal of which is growing in the gardens in Burlington, that is becoming widely spread over Boone county, which is thought to be very dangerous in that it is hard to kill out when once started. This weed is known as "Winter Cress" and resembles mustard when it is in blossom at the present time. As a usual thing it can be easily pulled up when not too thick.

Legend Gaines was taken to the hospital of Dr. Uner, in Cincinnati, last week where a mastoid operation was performed. Mr. Gaines is 27 years of age but he stands the operation as well as some of the younger men and is recovering rapidly.

Why Men Fail.

(Philadelphia Public Ledger)

Men fail for various reasons, little or none.

Most men fail because they are lazy.

To be lazy means—to be late, to be slovenly, to be a poor economist of time, to shirk responsibility.

It means to say of anything that is clamoring to be done; "No, I'm not going to do that, because 'no' is my work."

Laziness is at the back of most of the lesser reasons for failure. The minor causes are derivatives from that one great major cause.

It is so easy to dream in the sun and let the world be to do; to dawdle and procrastinate, till one wakes up—too late.

Late and lazy are, in fact, first cousins.

If you are late you waste other people's time as well as your own.

Lazy people have all the time there is, and yet they haven't time to be polite. They disdain the forms of ceremony that sweeten life.

They are grumpy, surly, gruff. It pains them to be pleasant, to say thanks and to smile.

Therefore they remain underlings. There is plenty of room at the bottom for the boy who has never learned to be polite.

To be differential is to be servile. It is merely to be decently respectful.

The biggest men are the most unassuming and the most unassuming.

It is the insignificant people who fluff themselves up with coals of pride and are forever orating from the flimsy and slippery platform of their own touchy dignity.

Failure is generally elective. It rests with the man himself to decide whether he cares enough for success to pay the price.

MRS. WALLACE GARRISON

Died at The Home of Her Son,

E. C. Garrison, Richmond,

Sunday, April 23d.

One of Boone county's most excellent christian women passed away at Great Beyond, Sunday, April 23d, when Mrs. Sarah Garrison, widow of the late Wallace Garrison, departed this life after a short illness from heart disease at the home of her son, E. C. Garrison, near Richwood.

Mrs. Garrison was born and raised in Gallatin county near Napoleon, Ind. She was a daughter of Dr. H. H. Lett. After her marriage to Wallace Garrison she and her husband moved to Boone county, where they resided the greater part of their lives with the exception of a short residence in Covington.

To their union was born one child, E. C. Garrison. For a number of years Mr. and Mrs. Garrison resided in Walton, having moved there from their farm near Union, and several years ago they moved to Covington where Mr. Garrison died in July, 1920. Mrs. Garrison remained in Covington but a short time after her husband's death, being in failing health, she moved to the home of her son where she was tenderly cared for until claimed by death.

Mrs. Garrison was 72 years and 2 months of age. The funeral took place Tuesday, April 26th at 8:30 o'clock p. m., Rev. John Herget, of Cincinnati, preaching a very appropriate funeral discourse, after which the remains were taken to Highland Cemetery for interment. A large number of sorrowing friends and relatives were in attendance to pay the last sad tribute of respect to this good woman.

Undertaker C. Scott Chambers had charge of the funeral.

NOTICE.

WOMEN TO PARTICIPATE.

For the first time women will participate in a Good Roads convention in Kentucky June 7-10. The executive committee of the Kentucky Road Engineers' Association, arranging for the road meeting to be held in the Jefferson County Armory, are taking interest in public affairs and have been given the vote, they should be allowed opportunity to participate in the sessions. It is expected that some of the most enthusiastic road advocates will develop among the fairer sex, not only are they being urged to attend, but women speakers will be included in the program.

Gov. Edwin P. Morrow will be asked to issue a proclamation officially designating the week as Good Roads Week in Kentucky and calling upon the people to participate in the road congress. Every county is urged to be well represented. County Judge, Engineers and Fiscal Courts have been invited.

In addition to Governor Morrow, Joseph S. Boggs, Highway Engineer, and members of the State Highway Commission, who have accepted invitations to deliver addresses, some of the most noted road experts of the nation have been engaged to speak. The exhibit of modern construction and maintenance equipment and motor trucks, in connection with the Convention, will be highly interesting and instructive to delegates and visitors. All sessions, the exhibits and various entertainments will be open to the public without charge.

BASE BALL.

The strong Taylorsport nine defeated the Newport A. C. team on the grounds of the former Sunday afternoon, the score being 7 to 1. Ed Sanford, twirling for Taylorsport, deserved a shut-out, as the city team scored its lone tally in the ninth thru a muffed fly on the first man up, the runner finally being shoved over.

In the fifth with two Taylorsport men on, Walton drove a double down the first-base line, scoring them both. They scored again in the sixth, but the seventh proved to be the fat inning, as four men were put across the pan in that round. With two on, Howard Aera lined a triple, stepped right and he scored a minute later on a muffed third strike. With another getting on, a single to right put him over—making the fourth run for that inning. The river-town boys contented themselves from then on and the visitors narrowly escaped a "skunk."

MAKING SOME IMPROVEMENTS.

A glance at the Harvest Home grounds between Limburg and Hebron, reveals the flooring of both the dancing pavilion and refreshment stand in a state of removal, from which the inference is gained that new material is contemplated for each. Last season saw a pick-up for that popular resort in the matter of dancing parties, especially those at night, which were all admirably conducted, and the young people in general are looking forward to the coming suitable weather, which will mean a resumption of the same.

Herbert Snyder and Allie Grant of Woolper neighborhood were calling on friends in Burlington Sunday afternoon.

SAID BY BILLY SUNDAY.

The world does not care for those who have ruled it, but we will never forget those who have served it.

I have no sin in a God that will not smite an unrepentant sinner.

Shun sin mar the fairest face in the world.

Shun sin mar the fairest face in the world.

There are people in hell who never expect to be there.

I am a Christian because God says so. That is the last word; the supreme authority. What God says no man can deny.

Some people deny that their sufferings in the next world, if they are lost, will be eternal fire. Some scoff at the idea. Do you think you can put the fire out because you sneer at the thought? Do you think your scoffing can frustrate God?

God never told mankind that it was lost, headed for hell, and then left it to grope its way out alone. But God says, "I have sent a guide, my only begotten Son, who will show you the way."

In these days it is "Big man and little God." "Gigantic I and puny God." These are the days when it is "Ponderous man, infinitesimal God."

Very few people attended court Monday.

Mrs. Harold Gaines is visiting relatives in Louisville.

Walton defeated Erlanger in a well fought game Saturday.

James L. Riley of Ludlow, was transacting business in Burlington last Friday.

John Hogan, of near Hebron, was a business visitor in Burlington, last Friday.

Benjamin Sutton and family of near Hume, were in Burlington Sunday afternoon.

Jesse Kelly, of near, Petersburg visited his brother, E. E. Kelly and family last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brady spent Sunday with their son, H. D. Brady and family, at Bellevue.

What is wanted in government is fewer tall costed orators and more shirt sleeved business men.

Rev. Tomlin preached to two large and appreciative congregations at the Methodist church last Sunday.

J. J. Kirkpatrick and force are rushing to completion the bungalow of Mrs. Smith, on Jefferson street.

Miss Bess Kirkpatrick spent a couple of days last week in Cincinnati, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Albeiz.

You hear a great deal of blue talk in these times from merchants who never dared risk a dollar in advertising.

Anonymous letter writers, to do the thing appropriately, should indicate their communications on yellow paper.

Most encouraging sign of normalcy yet reported is the sound of the batter hitting a two bagger out to center field.

As the government has investigated everything now, there is not much left to do but investigate the investigators.

Mr. and Mrs. Albies of Cincinnati Mrs. Calvert Kirkpatrick of Bromley were Sunday guests of Mrs. Vina Kirkpatrick and family.

No one is willing to do common labor in these times, but no difficulty is reported in securing foremen and superintendents.

Miss Margaret Hughes, who is employed in the Cincinnati post office spent Saturday night and Sunday with friends in Burlington.

Dancing does not seem so much like tripping the light fantastic now, when you feel the floor shake under the thuds of the big feet.

No houses are being built because labor costs so much, and labor costs so much because no houses are being built to keep rents down.

You couldn't persuade a boy to aspire to be a college president if he thought there was a chance he could become captain of a local fire company.

While the folks in many cities are preparing to set their clocks ahead to save daylight, the summer girl is going to set hers back so as to get in more daylight.

THE VALUE OF INITIATIVE

Many sales clerks never seem to make any move of their own to sell goods. They assume that if people want to buy anything they will ask for it. But others know that the prizes of life go to those who show go ahead spirit.

The general rule is laid down that when a customer has bought one or more things, the efficient clerk will ask if he does not want something else. Is there anything else today? This is the common stereotyped phrase. It has some value in suggesting wants that people may have forgotten. Yet it is indefinite, and has become hackneyed.

Salespeople frequently find it helpful to call attention to some special article, in which they feel value.

It is always a more effective to be definite in our appeals. One salesman for instance may say, "Don't you want one of these neckties? I call them mighty handsome. That is good, as it seems to show some interest and end usiam. But another salesman was heard the other day saying something like this: "Wouldn't you like one of these special lot of neckties? These are pure silk and they keep their lustre. I wish you would notice their firm texture. A quality like that will not wrinkle up the way most of them do." Positive, definite reasons like that should sell more stuff than the general line of talk. It seems more interesting to the customer and he feels that the store that shows this attention to detail will have a better line of goods.

Some salesmen have a very happy gift of bringing the merits of their goods to the attention of the public without any attempt to force them to buy, or pursue them officiously when they are merely inspecting the merchandise that is offered.

CITY AND COUNTRY CO-OPERATION.

Up to a few years ago there was business men in the centers of buyers in the outlying country. The city folks laughed at the country people, and the country people looked at the city people with a certain degree of hostility.

To-day business men in cities realize that their prosperity depends upon the advance of the surrounding country, and they are trying to organize the production facilities in the tributary territory.

A good example can be found at Selma, Alabama. Eight years ago the county agent undertook to ascertain what crops other than cotton could be grown profitably, by himself farming six tracts of 20 acres each on six average farms for three year period. The farmers furnished the land, and the business men of Selma supplied the fertilizer and seed.

The bankers worked out a plan for financing purchase of dairy cows, and the business men raised $2500 to start a creamery. A delegation was sent to Jersey and Holstein centers to buy cattle, and there was also movement to increase the herds of swine. The owners of 1600 cows signed up to furnish milk or butter fat to the new creamery.

There are now two creameries in Selma totalling a business of over $2,000,000 a year. There are 50,000 cattle and 76,000 swine in the county, with a cow testing association, and a great increase in the production and wealth of the district.

Every county in the United States ought to be working along similar lines for increased production, with business men placing their resources and experience at the service of the rural community.

Kentucky ranks 86th among the States in the number of school pupils who are enrolled in the Junior American Red Cross, the national headquarters of that organization in Washington announced. Kentucky has 20,867 pupils enrolled.

The school authorities are now hunting up teachers for another year and there is a strong feeling among the young men that they should get some good lookers.

The tremendous enthusiasm for federal highway appropriations was slightly clouded in some districts when they learned that they had got to maintain the roads after they were built.

The Dixie Highway Association will hold its meeting at Williams town Saturday May 28, and all persons interested are requested to be present. The members of the Association want a good attendance.

American Indians' Origin Unknown.

No definite solution has been found in regard to the origin of the American Indian. Anatomically, the Indian bears a striking resemblance to the Mongolian. Therefore it is reasonable to believe that his ancestors originally crossed from Asia to North America. The period of this migration cannot be calculated accurately. It is believed, however, that man has existed in America at least 25,000 years and not more than 200,000 years.

Mental Depression Common.

Comparatively few persons, if the feeble minded and a large number of the insane are excepted, are entirely free from the tendency to bouts of more or less mental depression. The more intellectual portion of mankind is indeed more prone to this kind of mental malaise, or spiritual equivalent of an attack, than the less "braining" majority.

How Peanut Grows.

The common peanut grows in a peculiar way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As plants are said to be especially fond of these it has been humorously suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

$300 IN PRIZES

Prizes totaling $300 will be distributed by the Louisville Livestock Exchange to the boys and girls of Kentucky in a Junior Judging contest of beef cattle, hogs, sheep and dairy cattle at the Kentucky State Fair next September. The awards for individuals will number 10, totaling $165, and six premiums totaling $85 will go to county agents producing the winning teams. In addition, a trophy worth $50 will be offered to the team making the best showing, to be retained by the team for one year and to become the property of the team winning three successive years.

Announcement of the plan was made yesterday by W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Livestock Exchange.

The Judging contest will be held at the State Fair grounds on a date to be announced later. It is intended to hold the contest in the morning in order to finish it with the least amount of interruption and to lift the tension from the children as quickly as possible, as boys and girls under such conditions are peculiarly susceptible to strain.

Following the contest, trucks will take the children from the Fair grounds with the county agents to the Bourbon Stock Yards, where they will be conducted around the grounds and the scientific methods of handling livestock there will be explained to them. A demonstration will be given the children at the stock yards, in which a comparison of the relative merits of a scrub and a pure-bred animal will be made by cutting up actual carcasses into their various meat cuts.

Carl W. Buckler, of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the state leader of the Junior Clubs, has agreed to take the matter before the clubs of the state in various counties with the hope of getting 100 per cent representation at the contest. Mr. Bell has taken the matter up directly with the county agents themselves.

For several years the government and the College of Agriculture have been promoting clubs for children in the interest of pure-bred animals. Some of the clubs have a large membership. The movement by the Louisville Livestock Exchange to award prizes is the first undertaken on a large scale in the state, and is part of the campaign, including better sire sales, fat and carcass cattle shows and sales, to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards to restore the high-grade livestock production in Kentucky.

Under the arrangements made with Mr. Buckler, Judging contests for the Junior Judging contest will be held in the various districts, and the winners of these contests will compete at their county fairs. The victors in these county fairs will compete for the supremacy at the State Fair here.

It is planned next year that the victorious team at the State Fair of 1922 will be sent to the International Livestock Show to compete for national supremacy with the best teams from other states.

THE RICH MAN'S HOARD.

We should not covet the rich man's hoard, for the rich man sits down to his groaning board and feasts to eat of pie and cake, lest the blamed thing gives him belly-ache; while we sit down to a plain repast and eat and eat while the victuals last. The rich man lies on a downy bed, but no sleep comes; his worried head; he harks to the slow hours dragging hence, while we can sleep on a barbed wire fence.

SOME FACTS ABOUT FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921 and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States.

	Produced	Delivered Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	63,903
MARCH	61,886	87,221

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceed production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,710 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having a Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

The Varied Activities of Faith

By REV. JOHN C. PAGE
Teacher of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—Without faith it is impossible to please Him.—Heb. 11:6.

The greatest event in New Testament history, after the ascension of Christ and the pentecostal gift of the Holy Spirit, was the conversion of Saul of Tarsus.

This event might also be regarded as most important in world history, for the world, as well as the church, owes much to the conversion of this man who is known to us as Paul, the Apostle.

The first preaching tour Paul undertook led him from Antioch, the chief gospel center of that day, to the island of Cyprus, and on to the provinces of Asia Minor. The journey occupied about three years and the varied experiences of that time involved much suffering and persecution. Converts were gathered out in the places visited and churches formed.

Amid these varied experiences Paul received one deep, lasting impression which confirmed his point of view and gave him settled convictions in regard to the method by which men and women were saved and blessed. That impression is to be seen in his report to the home church in Antioch to which he returned at the end of his journey. According to Acts 14:27 the church at Antioch was gathered together and Paul rehearsed all that God had done during the missionary journey, and how He had opened "the door of faith" unto the nations.

This door of faith is the only way by which any one may enter into the spiritual blessings of the gospel and the Kingdom of God.

To this great truth the church of God needs to be called back today. Salvation is a work of God into which we enter by the door of faith. Not only so, but the walk of the saved is dependent upon faith. The principle on which the Christian life is commenced is the principle of its continuance. Salvation is an act and a process in which, from the human point of view, faith is the key to all blessing and progress.

This truth is present in all of the writings of the Apostle to the Gentiles. In his effort to call some converts back to faith the device in the words of Galatians 2:20, "I live by the faith of the Son of God." When this same apostle drew near to the end of his earthly career he looked back over the course he had covered and said, "I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith."

One of the best definitions of faith is found in 1 Timothy 6:12, where Paul writes to Timothy and urges him to "fight the good fight of faith." The next two words define the activities of faith. It consists in "laying hold." But there must be something to lay hold of, and that something is the truth of God. "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God." Faith is the door through which one enters into God's treasure house, but such faith is dependent upon the proclamation of God's revealed truth. It comes not through the discussion of current events or the expression of personal opinions.

This puts a tremendous responsibility upon the preacher and teacher, for if the word of God is supplanted by discussion of popular subjects faith will not be formed or fostered. On the other hand, the people who hear the truth cannot "lay hold" of it unless their hands are empty. If the hands are filled with selfish plans, with pleasure-loving devices, and covetous desires, there will be no ability to lay hold of God's truth. The human will must be subjected to the divine will. When this is done an entrance into the saving grace and power of God is effected. Through the door of faith one passes from the power of Satan unto God, and in the power of faith one walks in the way of holiness and eternal life. Relying upon the Holy Spirit of God, victory is assured, for "this is the victory that overcometh the world, even your faith."

Be Swift to Love.

Oh! let us not wait to be just or pitiful or demonstrative toward those we love until they or we are struck down by illness, or threatened with death. Life is short, and we have never too much time for gladdening the hearts of those who are traveling the dark journey with us. Oh! be swift to love, make haste to be kind.—H. F. Amiel.

God Gives All Good Gifts.

You never can have too strong a will, but the trouble is we do not give that strong will up to God, to make that vessel in which God can and will pour His Spirit, so as to fit it to do splendid service for Himself. Does not God give us all good gifts to enable us to give them to others? But the reality of the enjoyment in the giving back.—Rev. Andrew

THE FINE YOUNG JACK

"FAIR PROMISE"

Will make the season of 1921 at my farm on the Botts Road, about two miles from Bellevue, and one mile from the Burlington and Bellevue pike at $15.00 to insure a living colt, money due when colt is foaled or mare is parted with or bred to other stock. A lion retained on all colts until season is paid.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE:

BASE BALL.

The Burlington boys, in their first ball game of the season, cleaned up on Florence at Burlington. The score was 22 to 5. The game was a swatting fast throat, the Burlington bunch securing 26 hits off the two Florence pitchers. Included in those were four home runs, three triples and several doubles.

These two teams met again next Saturday on the Florence ground, and a better game is promised.

Bellevue and Big Bone had a good game Saturday. Joe Brady, who is home on a furlough from the U. S. Navy, twirled for Bellevue. He pitched a noteworthy game, defeating, with the help of his comrades, the strong Big Bone team 4 to 0. Black was in the box for Big Bone and reports have it that he still possesses his famous "speed-ball."

Taylorport and Riverside, Ohio, met together Sunday afternoon, with the result that an unexciting contest was staged, as Taylorport simply walked away with the game by the score of 16 to 3. The visitors used two pitchers, both of whom were hit hard, but rugged support did much to roll up the big score against them. Sanford was in the box for Taylorport, and pitched his usual good game. Zimmer received him.

Petersburg played Hebron and won out 7 to 4. The game was closely contested and furnished the many fans present with numerous thrills.

Next Saturday Burlington will play at Florence, and Walton at Bellevue.

There is now an assurance of some work being done on Dam 38 this year. Only a few are working there at present and mostly shore work is being done. A cable will be laid across and on the bottom of the river for telephone purposes. The Ohio River Telephone Co., or better known as the Green Line, has arranged with the government to use a portion of the wires for their service.

At a conference held in Cincinnati last week General Lansing and Colonel Brown have appropriated $365,000 for Dams 38 and 39. Of this amount it is understood that the dam at Markland will receive $65,000 and the balance, $300,000, will be used at 38. This will give employment to about 100 men during the low water stage of the river.

An airplane, advertising a well-known automobile tire, landed in the field owned by Mr. George Penn just north of Burlington, Saturday afternoon, and took several of the citizens in this neighborhood on flights lasting about 10 minutes. The charge for a flight was $5. The plane would reach an altitude of about 1,500 feet.

The flights were enjoyed by those who took them.

About 40 young people who compose the Price Hill Hiking Club, walked from Price Hill to Burlington Sunday, reaching here about 11:10 a. m. They remained in town several hours, and then walked back to Price Hill, Ohio, the round trip being about 30 miles.

JOHN NOAH CRISLER DEAD

Another Old Confederate Soldier Has Answered The Last Roll Call.

John Noah Crisler was born in Boone County, Oct. 22, 1842, and he died within a short distance of the place of his birth, May 4, 1921, after an illness of several years.

He enlisted in the Confederate army Sept. 6, 1862, and served under Gen. Kirby Smith for about four months, when he was transferred to General Forrest's command. He was honorably discharged at the close of the war, April, 1864.

A braver soldier than John Crisler could not be found either wearing the blue or the gray.

He was the oldest child of a family of five and the first to pass to the great beyond. The other children are: B. F. Crisler, of McVine; R. S. Crisler, of Burlington; Mrs. W. Grant and Miss Lucy Ann Crisler, of Florence precinct.

John Crisler married Ann Utz, who preceded him to the grave more than 30 years ago. To this union were born five daughters, who are now living to mourn his death, viz: Mrs. Hiram Long, Mrs. Robert Dickerson, and Mrs. Ed Borders, and Miss Jennie, who nursed and cared for him in his declining years.

Mr. Crisler was not a member of the church, but his belief he was of the old Baptist faith.

Funeral services were held at Hopeful church May 6, 1921, Rev. Royer, pastor, officiating, after which the remains were laid by the side of his wife in Hopeful cemetery, in the hard cloth suit in which he was married.

He was a man among men, honest, upright and industrious, and the county has lost an honorable citizen, a man who with his sword defended what he thought was right. Another name has been added to the Confederate dead.

FOREST PRODUCTS LABORATORY HAS MECHANICAL BEHEMOTH.

A gigantic machine, with jaws which open to take in timber or assembled wood structures 30 feet in height and which can crush them like egg shells when the jaws close together again, has recently been erected at the Forest Products Laboratory of the United States Department at Madison, Wis.

This machine is to be used for testing very large wooden columns. It is possible to exert a force of a million pounds with it, and it is built to crush a wooden post a foot square. Its great range of testing speeds enables it to apply its tremendous load with the fatiguing slowness of a building settling on its foundation timbers or with the speed of a train dashing onto a wooden trestle. The machine and engineers have very little data on all kind which this machine will supply to the scientists at the laboratory.

TOMATO CULTURE IN HOME GARDENS.

There is perhaps no product of the garden that is so refreshing and palatable as well-ripened, fresh tomatoes, and they can be used in such a variety of ways. While fresh tomatoes are preferable to canned ones, they lose very little flavor or quality in the canning, and good canned tomatoes add very materially to the food supply of the winter months.

Early ripening adds greatly to the value of the tomato crop and early tomatoes can be secured in most sections only by starting the plants indoors. Garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture say it is easy to grow plants indoors by sowing a small packet of tomato seed in a cigar box filled with mellow soil about six or eight weeks before the usual time of the last killing frost in spring. The seeds should be covered about one-fourth of an inch and the soil kept moderately watered, and the plants will generally come up like magic. Keep the box near a window where it will get plenty of sunlight, and turn it around each day to make the plants grow straight.

When the plants begin to crowd each other, which will be in about 15 days after they come up, secure a large, flat box, say three inches deep and just long enough to fit into the window, fill it with rich, sifted soil and transplant, giving each plant about two inches of space. With paper tape to turn the box from time to time, so that the plants will be about four inches high, strong and stocky when the weather has warmed enough to make it safe to set them in the garden.

Tomatoes naturally grow in a warm climate and require plenty of sunlight. Keep them in a long, roomy temperature until a few days before they are to be set in the garden; they should be gradually exposed to outdoor conditions to harden them. After they are set in the garden it may be necessary to cover them for a few nights with several thicknesses of newspaper to protect them from the cold.

Tomatoes require a moderately rich soil, not too rich, but just such soil as will grow a good crop of corn or potatoes. A little well-rotted manure can be worked into the spot where each plant is to be set and a tablespoonful of high-grade fertilizer sprinkled over a space about one foot in diameter and mixed with the soil, will aid in giving the plant a good start. Planting distances will depend upon whether the plants are to be pruned to a single stem and trained to stakes or are to be allowed to grow according to their natural habit of spreading over the ground. If the plants are to be trained, they may be set in rows as close as three feet, and spaced 18 inches in the row. If they are not to be trained, the plants should be set three or four feet apart in each direction.

WAR-RICH FEAST

BERLIN IS SCENE OF MAY-DAY DEMONSTRATION.

BERLIN—Any American in Berlin during the past week or so has seen the sides to the question as to whether or not Germany can pay the reparations demanded.

He has seen those who can't pay, and he has seen those who can.

On the eve of May Day he might have seen Germany's war profiteers crowding into the great hotels, wearing costly clothing and jewelry, eating such delicacies as hothouse peaches and guzzling champagne.

These are the men and women who have fattened on war's miseries; they have profited in everything from cannon to food; and they have THE MONEY.

Workers' Demonstration.

These hardly had scattered to their homes when thousands of men and women, bringing their children, swarmed from the capital's poor districts to hold a May Day demonstration in the Lustgarten.

They carried red banners. They clustered on balconies of the ex-Kaiser's palace. They banked a chorus of made voices on the art museum portico.

It was a workmen's demonstration. The red was not of Communism, Spartacism or Bolshevism, but of Social Democrats.

On all streets leading to the Lustgarten green-uniformed police were stationed, rifles slung over their shoulders. One sensed in nearby buildings more police with machine guns. In contrast with the fat, red-faced profiteers of the night before, one saw white-faced wives of workmen shepherding pathetic hundreds of children, pale, spindle-shanked children.

Banners Are Carried.

The youngsters carried wreaths of paper roses, green branches and banners demanding "Schools For All, With Equal Opportunities For All." Other banners denounced child labor.

The adults carried banners that screamed "No More 1914," "No More Wars."

This May Day demonstration was in a sense an answer to the monarchial pomp the old ruling class displayed at the funeral of the late empress. It was the common people's defiance to those who never cease working and hoping for restoration of Kaiserism with its plunder and privilege.—Kentucky Post.

Garnett W. Tolin.

The Recorder is authorized to announce Garnett W. Tolin, of Burlington, as a candidate for Representative from the district comprising the counties of Grant and Boone.

Mr. Tolin is an attorney by profession, which should be of assistance to him in the discharge of his duties of the office, should he be elected. Mr. Tolin is a son of Hon. S. W. Tolin, who has been a practicing attorney in Burlington for a number of years. This is the first time that Mr. Garnett W. Tolin has cast his hat in the political ring, and he will undoubtedly make a hard fight for this office.

Mr. Tolin was educated in the schools of Boone County, the Covington High School, and at Centre College, Danville, Va., and he is thoroughly competent to fill the office to which he aspires. He has always voted the Democratic ticket, and asks the support of all Democrats at the coming primary election.

The weather conditions have been particularly distressing to farmers, and they are very much behind with their plowing and other farm work that is usually completed at this season of the year.

Even with the most favorable weather from now on, farmers will be very late in their planting.

When President Harding threw out the first ball in the Washington baseball season, many people became convinced that the administration would be loyal to the traditions of the presidential office.

OUR FAR-FAMED KENTUCKY DERBY

Men and Women of Renown From All Parts of the World Come to Louisville to Witness the Running of This Historic Race.

CABINET MEMBERS AMONG THOSE IN ATTENDANCE THIS YEAR

Few of us native Kentuckians realize, perhaps, what a truly magnificent world event the Kentucky Derby has come to be.

Year by year, it has grown steadily in popularity, until now it tops all other sporting events on the calendar; thereby advertising the state as millions of dollars' worth of space in the public prints could not possibly do, besides attracting periodically hosts of people who spend their money freely and greatly benefiting an industry of vast importance to Kentucky in particular—the breeding of the thoroughbred horse.

The list of personages who cheered the winner of the 1921 Kentucky Derby shows that the Derby has become the limitations of this little article. Suffice to say that it included several members of President Harding's cabinet; distinguished visitors from abroad and financial and commercial giants from all parts of the country; some of the latter the owners of horses that started in the Derby and heavy investors in Kentucky estates, elaborately improved and primarily maintained as breeding establishments.

FORD STOLEN—Thief Caught.

Earl Williams, colored, who gave his address as John street, Cincinnati, drove a Ford automobile into Walton last Thursday afternoon and made several attempts to sell it at a price that excited the suspicion of the citizens and the marshal, after talking with the negro, put him under arrest and called Sheriff Connelley, who went to Walton. Upon investigation he came to the conclusion that the Ford had been stolen, so he brought the negro here and lodged him in jail that night.

The negro made statements that were contradictory, but maintained his innocence and said that he had purchased the machine from a man in Cincinnati that he had known only a few days and that he resided on John street.

When the negro was searched and his clothes examined, his coat was found to have been sold by a clothing firm in Dayton, Ohio, and the license number of the Ford was issued in Dayton. Upon investigation, it was further discovered that the machine was owned by a negro preacher who lived in Dayton, and that the automobile had been stolen.

After staying in jail Thursday night, Williams admitted his guilt and confessed that he did steal the machine from the negro preacher. The Dayton authorities were notified and they came to Burlington and took Williams to Dayton.

The deputy sheriff, Wilson Lewis, colored, and the colored preacher came to Burlington Saturday morning and the prisoner was delivered to them for trial at Dayton. The prisoner's correct name was Soda Wilson and not Earl Williams.

This was a colored man's affair. A colored man stole a colored preacher's automobile and a colored deputy sheriff took the prisoner to Dayton.

NEWBERRY GOES FREE.

By the narrow margin of five to four in the Supreme Court of the United States, Truman H. Newberry evades the penitentiary sentence given him after a jury trial for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act. And at that Mr. Newberry escapes largely on a technicality. The Supreme Court does not hold that the charges failed of proof, but denies to Congress the power to impose such penalties for violation of laws applicable to party primaries.

No sane person has ever questioned the fact that Mr. Newberry defeated Henry Ford for the United States Senator from Michigan almost entirely by the use of money. Mr. Ford had more money than Mr. Newberry, but he did not spend his, and nearly won without spending anything. Mr. Newberry and his friends raised an enormous sum of money, and through its use managed to secure a scanty plurality in the Republican primary.

The best way to apply commercial fertilizer to the home garden is to scatter it broadcast over the ground and then harrow or rake it well in order to mix the plant food with the soil.

Harry Dixon who was indicted by the last grand jury for failure to support his children was released on bond last Friday.

Robert P. Berkshire.

Robert P. Berkshire, of Petersburg, Ky., has announced as candidate for Circuit Court clerk—his official announcement appears in another column.

Mr. Berkshire was born and raised in the Petersburg precinct of Boone County, is of an old democratic family and is especially fitted to take care of the duties of the office to which he aspires. He studied law for two years at State University, but did not complete the course on account of his health.

He is a son of B. H. Berkshire and Ethel Norris Berkshire, is married and has a family consisting of his wife and three children. He is one of our citizens in whom the most confidence can be placed.

If elected to this office he will perform his duties without fear or favor, and the people of his district vote for Robert P. Berkshire will have nothing to regret.

LAMB FROM MUTTON

Department Experts Tell Housewives How to Distinguish Lamb From Mutton.

Unless the housewife knows the difference between lamb and mutton, which few housewives do, she is apt to get mutton when she thinks she is purchasing lamb, say the marketing experts of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Not only will she get meat of inferior quality, but she may pay lamb prices for the carcasses of yearlings and sheep, the wholesale prices of which are considerably lower than for lamb.

With such a difference in price between mutton and lamb, it is vastly to the financial interest of the housewife to be able to recognize the various kinds of meat, and the following pointers by Bureau of Markets dressed-meat experts may help her to do so.

Distinctive Points of Mutton Carcasses.

Generally speaking, at mutton carcass is heavier than one of lamb. The color of the meat is one of the best indications of age. The lean meat of lamb ranges from pink to light red, but as the animal grows older the color of the meat turns to a deeper red. This is also true of the thin strips of lean meat covering certain portions of the outside of the carcass. The bones of lamb are smaller in proportion to the meat and usually present a reddish appearance. The bones in a mutton carcass are not only larger, but whiter and more flinty, both in appearance and texture. If the whole carcass can be seen, the ribs in a mutton sheep will show a much more pronounced spring or bow, whereas those of a lamb are straight, giving the side of the carcass a more compact and less distended appearance.

One of the standard methods of distinguishing lamb from mutton is to inspect the first or ankle joint of the front leg. In dressing a lamb the knuckle, or end of the shank bone, is broken off and the end of the bone presents a ridged and porous appearance. This is soft and moist to the touch and carries a decidedly red color. As the animal grows older the bone becomes harder and whiter and the knuckle becomes more firmly attached to the bone. This is the condition during the yearling stage. The knuckle still breaks off, but when this occurs the red of the shank bone presents a hard, rough appearance and has lost much of its red color. When the lamb has passed through the yearling stage and has become a sheep, the bone has become so ossified or hardened that the knuckle no longer breaks off the end of the bone and separation of the foot from the shank is made at the ankle joint. Thereafter the knuckle normally forms the extreme end of the foreleg and presents a hard, smooth, white surface with two prominent polished ridges. In the case of mutton the knuckle is frequently broken off by mechanical means in order to give the carcass a resemblance to yearling or lamb, but in these instances the bones are decidedly jagged and splintered and lack the redness which is characteristic of lamb and yearling carcasses.

It requires a ready and application to learn to distinguish the various classes and grades of dressed meat, but everyone whose duty it is to provide wholesome, nutritious meat for family consumption and to provide it economically, should be able to distinguish good meat from that of inferior quality, whether it is seen in the packing house cooler, on the butcher's block, or in the home.

In renewing his subscription to the Recorder, Mr. D. E. Lawell, of Lexington, writes as follows:

"I have not been in the best of health for the last few months, but hope to be better soon. Mother, who is entirely blind, is feeling fine, considering the fact that she is in her 90th year."

The farmers have been a busy set the past week.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Sixteen purebred animals, including both sheep and hogs, have been offered by 11 breeders and one swine association as prizes for junior agricultural club members who succeed in raising the champion animal in their county, according to an announcement which has just been made by M. L. Hall, assistant state leader of Junior agricultural clubs from the College of Agriculture. One Werford, a pure-bred Hampshire ram—has been offered by William Reid, Owensboro; for the champion sheep raiser.

Those who have already offered prizes and the animals which they will give are as follows:

W. Reid, Boone County, a Son, Glendean, ram or ewe lamb; H. H. Drane, Eminence, ram lamb; W. F. Harris, Morganfield, Duroc gilt; William Reid, Owensboro, ewe lamb, and ram lamb; Rufus Lisle, Nicholasville, Hampshire gilt; J. O. Werford, Elizabethtown, Duroc gilt or boar; John Moser, Anchorage, Duroc gilt; James McKee, Versailles, Duroc gilt; L. L. Dorsey, Anchorage, Poland China gilt; O. T. Fry, Danville, Berkshire gilt; Huffman Brothers, Lexington, Poland China gilt. The Swine Breeders' Association of Jefferson County will give a Poland China, Duroc Berkshire and Hampshire. The county club champion in each of those breeds.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Further damage to seed beds to all tobacco-growing sections of the country is threatened by a new disease known as "the tobacco blue mold," which has just recently made its appearance in the United States, according to a warning received by Dr. W. V. Williams, plant pathologist of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington.

As yet the disease has not made its appearance in Kentucky, Dr. Valleau stated, but he has asked that all farmers take precautions and report symptoms of trouble in their plant beds to the Experiment Station. The disease first made its appearance in Gadsden County, Florida, and within a short time had infected practically all of the cigar wrapper tobacco area in the Florida-Georgia district, causing heavy losses.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Fulton Co. farmers are planning on an elaborate display of farm and home products at their county fair this fall, according to County Agent O. L. Cunningham, who has reported to the college of Agriculture that approximately $4,000 in prizes will be offered to successful exhibitors. Features of the fair are expected to be the community and junior agricultural club displays.

Judge Sidney Gaines.

In this issue of the Recorder will be found the announcement of Sidney Gaines as candidate for Circuit Judge of the 15th Judicial district, composed of the counties of Grant, Owen, Carroll, Gallatin and Boone.

Judge Gaines will complete his present term January 1, 1922, and hopes that the electors of the district will by their votes endorse his administration by re-electing him for the next term. Judge Gaines is a man of the highest ideals and nothing that is not absolutely right and proper will be permitted in his conduct. He has at all times responded to the call of the Governor to hold Court at different places in this state, and has given universal satisfaction, and the bar at several points has requested the Governor to send him to their town whenever a special Judge was required.

Judge Gaines is one of the best Judges in the state, and the district should give him no opposition for re-election, as he is entitled to an endorsement for the capable and efficient manner in which he has conducted the business of his office. Litigants can get their business disposed of without delay, as the Judge will not adjourn a term of Court until all of the business has been transacted.

The Recorder asks that the people of Boone County endorse Judge Sidney Gaines for Circuit Judge of this district and that this endorsement be given him without opposition.

FARMER WANTS FAIR CHANCE.

The average intelligent, patriotic farmer is not asking for special privileges. If proper regulatory laws insure him a free and open field for the exercise of his ability, he will establish a place in the commercial world which will be not only a source of credit and profit to himself, but also to the country at large. All the American farmer wants, and has a right to have, is an equal chance with other business men, fair and just reward for labor performed. Every man in every business is entitled to a profit for his contribution he makes to the sum of human happiness, as happiness is represented in better living.

BETTER LIVESTOCK.

Breeding Is Important Factor In Realizing Profits On Livestock.

Breeding is such an important factor in realizing profits on livestock that with the proper steps taken for improving the quality of their live-stock in a few years the farmers of this state will reap enormous returns, instead of the present waste of millions of dollars, Prof. W. S. Anderson, specialist in charge of animal breeding at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, declared in an address at the Bourbon Stock Yards. His talk in support of the Farmers' Better Sire Sale of 300 pure-bred registered bulls to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards June 2nd, was the fourth in a series of lectures by the College of Agriculture experts under the auspices of the Louisville Livestock Exchange. The address in part follows:

"Now, as I see it, there are three things we have to have in mind in producing beef cattle for the future, the first, early maturity of the animal; second, economical gains, and third top prices when the animals are put on the market. Now market stock can be produced by using registered cows for the simple reason that there are not enough to go around. It would be ideal if the situation was such that all could use registered cows, but not being able to use them, the next best thing is to use pure-bred sires. The registered sire carries the factors for early maturing. For many years the pure-bred beef cattle have been produced with the idea of early maturity. It would not surprise me if in the near future, we see this change in the production of beef cattle. I believe we are going to come to it gradually, of course, as none come suddenly to the method of taking a well-bred calf and feed from the time it is dropped the maximum ration instead of the least that it can live on. We will keep that calf growing until weaning time, giving it milk enough to keep it in good shape and condition, and begin feeding corn ration before weaning, so when it is weaned it will know that it is weaned. This weaning will be about six or seven months. This calf in fine condition will be rushed with the maximum ration instead of the minimum, kept growing until 12, 14 or 16 months, when it can then be put on the market as baby beef. The time is coming when something of this kind will be done to consume, in other words, we are not going to continue the present method of raising calves, letting them eat until they weigh 150 or 200 pounds when 4 or 5 months old, then roughing it thru the first winter, coming out weighing 300 to 320 pounds, then taking it thru the summer and next winter and not marketing it until it has eaten its head off. That is the old method of producing beef cattle, and for that reason I say the early maturing animal is the one we have to depend upon for beef in the future. Now, the only place you can get this early maturity is from registered stock and not elsewhere. You might ask why this, and I answer that from 100 to 200 years the pure-bred beef breeds have been bred with the early maturity in view. The slow maturing family has been weeded out and discarded, sent to slaughter and only animals maturing quickly and come to form and condition quickly have been kept to send on the breed."

FARM BUREAU NEWS.

The Farm Bureau held a very interesting executive committee meeting Saturday afternoon, May 7th. It was voted to have an all-day Farm Bureau meeting or picnic early in June. This is to be one of the big events of the year. The arrangements are in the making, but a big feed and some of the best speakers in the country are assured. If you have a suggestion or a good idea for this meeting, be sure to notify your committee man.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be held at Burlington on County Court day, June 6th, 9:00 a. m.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation staged an old-fashioned barbecue at Paris, Bourbon County, in the heart of the bluegrass, on April 30th. President J. R. Howard, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, was the guest of honor, and delivered an address to our Kentucky farmers. Kentucky being the largest tobacco-growing state in the Union, is hard hit on account of demoralized markets.

President Howard is now at work selecting the National Tobacco-Marketing committee, authorized at the Louisville convention on March 28.

W. B. GRUBBS.

W. B. Grubbs, son of the late Dr. Grubbs, died May 5, 1921, at Denver, Colo., following an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Grubbs was born and spent the greater part of his life at Parlor Grove. He was buried at Denver.

A. B. Renaker, wife and daughter, Mary Louise, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. Renaker's mother at Ivy Ridge.

WILL SOON HAVE NEW WATERWORKS.

LOUISVILLE—Acting on the belief that its present high death rate and its excessively high typhoid fever death rate are due to its present impure water supply, Harrodsburg (Mercer County) plans the installation of a new municipal waterworks. F. C. Dugan, sanitary engineer for the State Board of Health, announced here today. The contemplated improvements include the reconstruction and extension of an existing masonry dam in the Salt river, the installation of a filtration plant having a capacity of 600,000 gallons every 24 hours, the addition of about one mile of 4-inch mains, and certain additions and repairs to the municipal electric lighting plant so that electric current will be available for operating the new pumps at the waterworks plant.

Detailed plans and specifications for the installation now are being prepared by a Chicago firm of engineers and the City hopes to advertise and receive bids on or before June 15, so that the entire undertaking can be completed during the present year. The money for the project will be derived from a bond issue for $100,000 which already has received a favorable vote. In accordance with the State law, the plans and specifications for the waterworks will be submitted to the sanitary engineer of the State Board of Health before the work is commenced.

ROOSTER DESTRUCTION IS GOAL OF CAMPAIGN.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Many roosters on Kentucky farms are expected to be disposed of during the coming weeks as a result of a campaign being conducted by the Poultry Department of the College of Agriculture. A proclamation announcing May 23 to 28 as "Rooster Week" has been made and farmers asked to kill, confine or sell all male birds during that week and those following thruout the summer. Roosters running in the flock cause fertile eggs, which spoil rapidly during warm weather. Farmers are suffering heavy annual losses by reason of this, specialists in the department say.

Experiments have shown that fertile eggs are unfit for food after 24 hours in warm weather, while infertile eggs may be placed in an incubator at 103 degrees and left for 14 days, after which they are still suitable for food.

SHELLED AND EAR-CORN HAVE SAME FEED VALUE

Shelled and broken ear corn are about equal in feeding value for fattening steers, according to results of experiments conducted by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and presented at the recent annual spring meeting of Kentucky feeders and breeders.

Two lots of 10 steers each were fed similar rations for 140 days with the exception that one lot received shelled and the other broken ear corn. The first lot gained a total of 2,730 pounds at a cost of $14.23 per hundred pounds of gain, while the second lot, which received the broken-ear corn, gained a total of 2,640 pounds at a cost of $14.21 per hundred pounds of gain. Cottonseed meal, corn silage and straw were fed in addition to the two kinds of corn.

FARM PRODUCT SHOWS.

People who think that country fairs and farmers' exhibits are merely festive occasions, fail to realize what a big factor they are getting to be in booming the rural industries of a section. In the state of Nebraska, for instance, there are to be 62 of these fairs held this season. People would never go to the border town, gazing all around displays unless there was some direct business advantage.

In many places business men's associations are running such fairs. Recently the Luzerne County and Wilkes-Barre—chambers of commerce in Pennsylvania—got up a show of farm products with 1888 exhibits.

These affairs start the spirit of healthy rivalry. Farmers study and adopt the scientific methods used by prize-winners. Men who raise high-grade stuff get their product advertised. Every rural section ought to have these displays to help advertise and standardize its food-raising industries.

MRS. MARY SMITH.

Mrs. Mary Smith, wife of Arthur Smith, Walton, died Saturday evening following an operation for gall stones.

Mrs. Smith had been in bad health for some time, did not seek medical aid until last Thursday morning, when she went to Dr. Rankin's office. Upon examination he found that she was in a serious condition, and took her to the hospital in Cincinnati, where she was operated upon Friday morning and a large number of stones removed.

Mrs. Smith leaves a husband and six children ranging in age from 13 years to two months.

Mr. Smith has the sympathy of the entire community in his bereavement.

ARSENICAL POISONS KILL FLEA BEETLES ON TOBACCO.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Arsenical poisons will control tobacco flea beetles which are appearing in many plant beds and causing damage, according to H. H. Jewett, of the College of Agriculture. The plants should be sprayed with arsenate of lead paste at the rate of one pound of paste to 10 gallons of water, or with arsenate of lead powder at the rate of one pound to 20 gallons of water.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The sixth and last number of the Lycium course conducted by the High School will be given Monday night, May 23. The International Male Quartette will appear here on that night. This is reputed to be the best number of the entire course, and it is hoped a large audience will be present to hear them.

The Ciceronian Literary Society held its last meeting for this session Friday afternoon. The program was both quite interesting and well given. The freshman class took a large part in the program and surprised the society with their cleverness.

The students are practicing pretty faithfully for the tournament to be held at Crittenden this month. Burlington will be represented by entries in practically all the events.
The elimination contests in tennis and basketball were conducted at Crittenden last Saturday. Burlington was defeated by Crittenden and therefore will not be in the finals in those events. The score was 8 to 8 at the close of first half, when Owen Acra took sick. This fact enabled the opposing team to defeat the local boys in the second half.

The grades have been dismissed for the past 10 days and the exams are being used by the high school department for the science classes.
The grade pupils who were unable to take their examinations on account of mumps returned Monday and were given the examinations by Mr. Skillman.

A very choice selection of books was donated to the High School library by Mrs. B. E. Aylor. They were 10 beautifully bound volumes of "The Children's Library." These books occupy a very important place in the library and will be used extensively by the pupils, especially those in the first two years of high school. The school wishes to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Aylor for her thoughtfulness and generosity.

Prin. E. A. Skillman sent out notices to all former graduates of Boone High to meet at the school house for the purpose of re-organization. About 25 of the alumni attended this meeting and voted unanimously to re-organize and to hold an Alumni banquet in honor of the seniors of 1921. They elected the following officers: President, Mrs.
Pauline Smith; vice president, Mrs.
Garnett; secretary-treasurer, Miss Ruth Kelly. Further notice in regard to the banquet will be given in next issue.

The Northern Kentucky School tournament to be held at Crittenden, beginning May 25th and continuing for three days, promises to be the greatest tournament yet held in the Northern Kentucky district. Ten counties will be represented in the tournament and about 20 schools.
Three hundred and twenty-five entries for the various contests have already been made. The contestants from a distance will be entertained by the residents of the Crittenden Consolidated High School district, and a committee has been appointed to find homes for them. To entertain the large number expected will tax the hospitality of the district to the limit, but no fears are entertained that ample accommodations will be found.

The 10 counties which will be represented in the contest are:
Grant, Owen, Henry, Carroll, Gallatin,
Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Pendleton and Bracken. Each of the counties will be represented by one or more high schools. Boone will be represented by her several high schools.

LOW STOCKS OF MERCHANDISE

It is an encouraging sign of the times, as reported by Chairman
Lovett, of the Union Pacific Railroad, that stocks of merchandise are exceedingly low all through his territory, and that merchants have less goods on hand than for many years.
A good buying movement for six weeks would empty a great many shelves and send in some hurry-up calls to the manufacturers for more goods right off quick.

It has been claimed that the consumers are wearing their old clothes and thus avoiding the buying of new ones. The great majority of people always do that anyway, and they did more than ever of it during the war period. Clothes will wear out.
Unless our people decide to go naked or the climate changes, they have got to have complete new outfits before long. When that time comes, you will see a big buying movement and the business croak-ers will wish they had stacked up when they had a good chance.

The Democratic Store.
People who visit big city stores often remark on the undemocratic spirit manifested by many of the salespeople. In many stores a woman can not get attention unless she is dressed in the latest style.
If her garments are a little behind the game, she is regarded with a certain contempt, and attended to in a patronizing and indifferent manner.

It will frequently happen that people who are wearing clothes showing some slight shabbiness will ask to look at some fine quality goods. A poorly trained clerk will show surprise and indicate that she thinks the customer may want something cheap and flimsy. But it frequently happens that the people the best able to pay will wear old clothes. They established financial independence by economy, and they are not ashamed occasionally to appear in ordinary garments. A woman of that kind does not always take rebuffs meekly. If she is slighted in one store, she will visit some other where her credit is not judged by superficial appearances.

People living in fine houses are sometimes slow to pay their bills, while those of moderate incomes may have learned to handle money carefully and do not buy until they have the cash to pay.
Well trained clerks have been taught to give equal attention to all types of people. It is a pleasure to wait on successful folks who have plenty to spend and help them get the worth of their money and to find articles of distinction and artistic beauty.

It is an equal pleasure to look after struggling people of small means and help them make their dollar go the limit in covering their pressing needs. So with the spirit of considering people's real worth rather than mere exterior appearance, merchants should endeavor to attain this fine ideal of democratic spirit and render equal good service to all elements.

ject of general commiseration, but

The American people don't seem much inclined to beat their swords into plowshares, but a good many of them would like them made into golf irons.

After tramping dirt into the house for a year, many of the men of Boone County will kick on a day or two of house-cleaning.

Perhaps the reason why convicts don't escape from jail as much as formerly is because of their growing sense of honor such as the attractiveness of free board.

Wherever we turn in our attempt to analyze the present economic conditions of the United States or those of western Europe we encounter the problems of international trade, and in facing these problems we are at once confronted with the extraordinary conditions of the foreign exchanges.

International trade, on the scale demanded by twentieth century civilization, requires the co-operation of importer and exporter have reasonable assurance that in return for the values which they part they will receive at least the equivalent in goods or other final payments. Before the great war such assurance was poorly given, because the exporter could not obtain for his goods in currencies that were freely convertible into gold. Gold being the almost universal standard of value, a bill of exchange constituted effective demand for goods and services throughout the world. Thus with gold flowing freely from one country to another, trading with Europe was as safe to the informed trader as selling in the domestic market.

LAUGHTER.

Providence Journal.

A New England editor says that the world needs to learn again how to laugh. "It would be a gain to humanity," he goes on, "if some Prime Minister or President could crack a stupendous joke, which traveling around the world, would set it laughing for a day.

There are some people who think on the contrary, that the world is too frivolous. It seems to them to be too much inclined to laugh, too eager for mere entertainment. But is not the desire for amusement natural in these years of reconstruction and readjustment after the Great War? We have been going through a gloomy period since 1914.
Our deepest emotions have been touched, our feelings have been fearfully harrowed, our nerves have been frayed and set on edge.

The wish for laughter is a perfectly comprehensive reaction. Perhaps there will come a time when we shall turn by choice to more serious things again; at present we want a pretty high percentage of humor in our daily thought and pastime.

Arsenate of lead will control tobacco plant flea beetle. Prompt and proper application of arsenate of lead offers a sure means of ridding tobacco plant beds of flea beetles, which, from reports, are causing considerable damage to plants this season.

In order to destroy this pest, the plants should be sprayed with either arsenate of lead paste at the rate of 1 lb. to 10 gallons of water, or with arsenate of lead powder at the rate of 1 lb. to 20 gallons of water.
These fleas have biting mouth parts, and will eat the pollen; insects or pests with sucking mouth parts must be sprayed with Black Leaf 40.

Paris green will kill this flea beetle, also, but there is danger of it burning the tender plants.

BUILDING.

Labor, the direct recipient of a large percentage of the amount spent in building operations, still remains the prime obstacle to a resumption of construction activity. Decreased prices for many classes of material have accentuated the difficulty which the present attitude of workers in the building trades entails. Lower material prices with out lower wages and the restoration of an honest output per man per day raise the proportion of cost which must be charged against labor and increase its responsibility for the prevailing stagnation.

Governor Miller, of New York, correctly stated the only solution of the problem at a recent public hearing on the housing shortage, when he was quoted as saying:

"Labor is destroying its own capital when it limits its production. Labor must co-operate. It needs to stimulate production, to give a day's work for a day's pay." He further stated that as a result of the failure of labor to co-operate, the working man forces himself to live in three or four-room houses at excessive rents and loses out at one end what he thinks he is getting at the other. Thus the situation bears on him more heavily than anybody else.

Meanwhile the F. W. Dodge Company's report on building activity in the 25 states north of the Ohio and east of the Missouri River places the total value of contracts awarded during the month of March at only $164,194,000, compared with $327,897,000 in the corresponding month last year. The value of contracts awarded during March increased 63 per cent over the value of contracts awarded during February, but this increase is entirely the result of a larger number of small projects.

EXTENDING TRADE.

The trade extension committee of the Johnstown, Pa., Chamber of Commerce has made the following suggestions for realizing its aims of growth:

- 1—Automobile parking places should be established for visitors.
- 2—Advertise train and street car schedules.
- 3—Distribute road maps showing best ways to reach the city.
- 4—Continuous campaign to bring before residents in the surrounding country the advantages of trading in Johnstown.
- 5—Trade tours (by automobile or rail) to arouse interest in the city, with friendly visits to industries and communities of the neighborhood.
- 6—Style shows, etc.

SUNDAY SAYS.

"Without a definite purpose in life, failure is the certain result."

"Before you jump into the hopper, look at the grist that is coming out."

"Come on; let's all line up for Jesus Christ and put the devil out of business!"

"The manner of his resurrection was wonderful. No human mind ever imagined that scene."

"A prudent man won't swallow a potato bug and then take a dose of Paris green to kill the bug."

"His enemies could bring no graver charges against him than that he claimed God as his father."

"He said, 'I am the Son of God.' They said, 'We do not believe it.' All he did was to point to his works."

"God is dead stuck on character. When God says perfect, forget all that will follow. That is home base."

"The way Jesus taught was wonderful. The simplicity was wonderful and the clearness was wonderful."

"There may be another Homer, Dante, Shakespeare or Charlemagne, but there never will be another Jesus Christ!"

"Say, take a tip from me. I'll tell you a good time to put in the first crop of wild oats. It's when you're between the ages of 85 and 90."

"It is wonderful that the greatest character should come from such obscurity. Why doesn't America produce the equal of Jesus? Jesus? Why doesn't England or France?"

Ray Conner and John Wagers, of Cincinnati, spent Friday night and Saturday in Burlington. They tried their luck with the finny tribe in Gunpowder creek. Lloyd Weaver and Herbert Kirkpatrick accompanied them, but as usual the fish would not bite.

President Harding writes a boy admirer that there are swimming pools in an Ohio creek that he would "like to go into again right now."

COMMENCEMENT ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The time of the year for commencements is once more here. This is rather an enjoyable period for the seniors, since their serious high school duties are over. They are privileged during the last two weeks of school to interest themselves in their own way and to receive the various honors due young men and women who successfully complete a state high school course. The faculty takes pleasure in announcing the names of the following as eligible to receive diplomas from the great State of Kentucky:

Corey Slater Acra, Clayton R. Brown, Robert Clore, Mary Bess Cropper, Raymond C. Early, Oleve Hensley, Howard C. McGlasson and Jessie Wilson.

The Junior-Senior reception will be held Friday night, May 13th, at the home of Miss Georgie Kirkpatrick. There are 12 juniors, and each one of them is doing his or her part to make the reception a great success. It is also good to see such a cordial spirit existing between classes.

The sermon to the graduates will be preached this year by Rev. G. R. Tomlin and will be held next Sunday night, May 15, at the local Baptist church. The services will begin at 7:30 p. m., sharp. Reverend Tomlin is a young minister of most excellent attainments and the graduates and public are assured of an able and appropriate sermon. Special music will be provided.

The Senior class play, "A Kentucky Belle," under the efficient direction of Miss Kreylich, will be held Wednesday night, May 18th, at Library hall. This is an excellent and high-spirited play and the seniors no doubt will acquit themselves well. The play will run for three acts. Owing to the limited seating capacity of the hall it would be well for the public to come early. However, as many extra chairs as possible will be placed within the hall and an attempt will be made to accommodate all desiring to attend. Another announcement concerning the play will be found in another column.

Commencement night proper will be held in the Baptist church Friday night, May 20, at 8 o'clock. An excellent program has been arranged and an unusually large audience will no doubt greet the seniors. The class address will be given by Dr. A. W. Fortune, Dean of Transylvania College. Dr. Fortune has spoken in the county before and is rated as one of the strongest speakers in the state. The music will be furnished by the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and will consist of a trio, piano, cello and violin, together with a baritone soloist. The program for the night will be as follows:

Invocation . . . Rev. David Blythe
Salutatory Address . . . Oleve Hensley

Oration—"Today's Call to Youth" . . . Robert Clore
Valedictory—"America's Place in the World"—Mary Bess Cropper

Class Address. Dr. A. W. Fortune

MOTHERS' DAY.

Last Sunday was observed by America as Mothers' Day—a day that is a tribute to a mighty nation to the impulse that gave it its power and its birth. Did it mean anything to you? Are you still of those who realize their inability to satisfy the debt of gratitude owed to motherhood? Mothers' Day has become a day of national observance.

Although observed perhaps with only a bit of flower or a line of good wishes, the day betokens the debt of manhood and womanhood to the mothers who gave them care and guidance that enabled them to buffet the storms of the world, the mothers whose sacrifice gave them the will and strength and encouragement to pass through the dark clouds of adversity and on to a higher and happier plane.

The day with its memories, with its happy thoughts of childhood hour and of home brings to the boy or girl of today a feeling of debt, of gratitude and of love. Whether in the stress of war when sacrifice is called from every side or whether in the joy of peace and prosperity with its triumphs, Mother stands alone as the great power and the great loving spirit to share both sorrow and gladness with those children who have become the puppets of fate and whose work goes forth to make for a better world.

Mother love survives every other earthly passion, hope, dream, desire. The mother influence and teaching are distilled in the fountain of eternal purity. The child is her child, brought forth in travail, and she loves it with a higher, holier, deeper love than man can know. There never was a mother born who did not seek to preserve and develop truth and innocence in the heart of her child. To that end she makes the endless sacrifices of the years.

You are the child, you reader of these lines. Are you giving her love for love? Do you honor her as the priestess by the altar in the temple of that God whose name is Love? If so, it is well. No night ever fell so dark that she could not dissipate its shapes of fear. No day ever dawned so brightly that her smile could not glorify it with a beauty more transcendent.

From the cradle to the grave, and beyond the stars they love and care, these mothers of ours. Bring to them your offerings of reverent affection day by day or wait to them on the wings of your prayers the incense of hallowed memories if they have passed the Gates of Silence.

Newspaper Ideals—No. 4—Educational Leadership.

Formerly newspaper-making was a trade that employed a lot of uneducated people. There is a certain instinct for journalistic success that is inborn and can not be manufactured by any courses of study, so many uneducated men have done mightily well in this profession. But still broad education makes a man a better worker in this field.

It is the ambition of every newspaper to maintain high standards for its working force. It wants a group of workers who not merely have the hustle called for in this business, but who have the gift of leadership, who shall constitute a force in the community for progressive measures.

The better support a newspaper gets from its community, the higher standards it can require of its force of workers. It can offer better opportunities when the brightest young people of the community seek this career in the home field. The newspaper that is able to attract and hold people of that type becomes a tremendous power in the service of all good home causes.

MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1922.

William J. Bryan issued an interview the other day in which he predicted a Democratic sweep in the elections of 1922. He alluded to the strong movement in the Republican party for a sales tax, as manifesting the disposition of the Republicans to take the taxes off from the people of wealth and put them on the backs of the common people.

The proposed sales tax does not seem likely to pass Congress on account of the very strong opposition which the idea has aroused, particularly from Democratic sources. It appears probable today that the majority of the Republicans believe in the idea of a sales tax. The Democrats will probably line up almost solidly against it.

It is significant of a wrong point of view, when it is proposed to repeal the higher income taxes and raise the same amount of money by a general tax on consumption, the most of which would fall on the backs of the common people. The time may have passed when the excess profits tax was of much value. The war could never have been successfully financed without this eminently just measure. But at the present time it may tend to encourage people of wealth to put their money into tax exempt bonds instead of investing it in industrial enterprises that keep labor employed.

The income tax hands out justice about as evenly as any law can do. It collects the bulk of the assessment from the people of wealth and bears but lightly on the poor, which is precisely right.

If the Republicans undertake any radical modification of this profoundly wise measure, which was one of the great triumphs of the Wilson administration in behalf of social justice, they will run up against an avalanche of adverse sentiment. Mr. Bryan's prediction of a Democratic victory in 1922 may well be justified.

The Farm Bureau's Legislative Program.

A repeal of the guaranteed railroad rates and a lowering of the freight rates.

The same tariff protection that industry enjoys.

Retention of the excess profit tax; opposition to the general sales tax; opposition to the proposed 1 per cent Federal excise tax on land.

Commodity financing on warehouse receipts; live-stock financing on the proper pledge; personal rural credits secured by proper insurance features; use of Federal Reserve profits in a revolving fund to provide working capital from date of application for loan, until sale of debentures; increases of maximum Federal farm loans from $10,000 to $25,000.

Fair and just packer regulation, vested in the United States Department of Agriculture rather than a separate commission.

A Precinct Farm Bureau meeting for Bullittville and Constance precincts was held at Hebron Monday night in connection with the Milk Producers' Association. These meetings render excellent service to all members in a precinct.

Pasture is our most valuable crop. Don't neglect to rid it of bushes and briars during this season of cheap cultivated crops!

OH, SAY IT AGAIN!

If whiskey is not withdrawn in larger quantities from warehouses of the state than it has been during the last month, the stock probably will last 40 years, according to figures in the office of Elwood Hamilton, Collector of Internal Revenue.

During April 30,000 gallons were taken from warehouses for medicinal purposes, and at the same time only 26,000 gallons were withdrawn for export. There are approximately 27,000,000 gallons in warehouses in the state.

It is probable that floor stocks of wholesale liquor dealers, which are being sold hastily because of a regulation which permits no sales by wholesale dealers after May 15, is responsible for the low withdrawal rate, it was said.

John Kyle, who lives about 1 1/2 miles east of town, while plowing one of his horses, stepped on an old scythe blade, cutting both leaders in his leg.

"MAIN STREET" SPIRIT.

A popular author recently made a big success with a book called "Main Street," in which he satirizes the petty spirit which he claims is found in small towns. Many people will feel that he exaggerates the gossiping spirit of these communities, and fails to credit them with the mental ability and brightness that they contain.

But there is a lot of what he would call "Main Street" spirit everywhere, by which he would mean the tendency to concern oneself mostly with the merely personal details of one's surroundings and not think much of community interests or the broader questions of human progress. That spirit exists quite as much in large cities as in smaller places.

There are many people whose conversation deals mostly with the doings of their neighbors and the most minute details of daily life. They will spend hours discussing the scandals of the neighborhood, while they are indifferent to any movement for better education or community development.

But it does seem as if people were less petty since the war. They found during that period how closely their welfare depended upon conditions in the nation and world at large. Also they learned the value of community movements to improve living conditions in their localities. When people get really interested in schemes of town betterment, they are not so likely to concern themselves about the kind of clothes the woman across the street may wear, or whom she invites to her bridge parties.

The newspapers have done good work to broaden public interests. While the magazines seem to aim to please those that want sentimental fiction and flashy articles, the newspapers assume that the public is able to think. They may not print less personal news, but they print far more of public discussion and public events. The Recorder has always had faith that it pays to appeal to public intelligence.

SPRING FEVER

What is called "spring fever" was first known when one of the first fishermen heard the call of the river on a mid-April morning and beckoned to a boy who looked like a bait-digger.

A nearby field was calling, too; for there was a battle of the grass going on there, before which the young and tender plants capitulated.

But the fisherman heard only the river's voice; the bait was there, for the digging, and the idle boy was willing.

So the man and boy, they went the river way, the one not caring a snap whether or no the fish were in a biting humor, and the other almost equally indifferent after he had climbed a tree and robbed a bird's nest.

Fishing is fine—when, in spring time, they bite awake; but "the sweet influence" of sunny spring time weather makes drowsing and dreading on the green banks of a river the most delightful thing in the world!

Even the "pull" of the fish that proverbially "gets away," can't rouse the dreaming victim of "spring fever."

Its effect is somewhat like the old colored brother tried to describe in this manner:

"I des so lazy
I dunno what to do!
De yaller fly light on me,
But I never tell him "Shoo!"
O I des so lazy
I dunno what to do!"

Most willingly the world falls a victim to it. The lines fall from the listless hand of the hired man who drives the slow team afield; the man at the plow, at the furrow's shady turn, leans restfully on the plow-handles and almost nods his head off!

Only the field larks look lively, and the crows that wait the corndropping are alert.

It's "spring fever time," and the crops will come to harvest, even if you drowse a sunny hour or two away!

That's the philosophy of it. But—deliver the spring garden from much of that happy-go-lucky philosophy!

Better make a determined effort to shake off the spring fever habit and get the garden going.

Then, when there is drowsing time, you'll have something worth while to dream about, while birds and winds sing you to sleep.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

GENTLENESS AIDS LIVE-STOCK GROWTH AND CHECKS DRIFT.

The practical value of treating live-stock kindly is discussed by a Virginia live-stock owner in a letter to the United States Department of Agriculture. "All cattle buyers," he remarks, "know how great is the 'drift' in shipping cattle. Very much of this loss is due to digestive troubles caused by excitement and fear incident to travel."

"Keep all live-stock as quiet and make them as gentle as possible and your feeding costs will be noticeably reduced. Try this suggestion with one litter of pigs."

"It will abundantly repay any live-stock breeder," he adds, "to spend a great deal of time going out quietly among his animals and letting them make the advancements. He will be surprised how soon he can begin to put his hands on them. After they realize his hands are not to be dreaded, they will soon enjoy gentle rubbing or scratching. When animals are sheltered from annoying or exciting occurrences they digest feed better and it takes much less to keep up normal growth and fat production."

INDIA RUBBER.

Overproduction has reduced the price of rubber to less than twenty cents a pound, which is less than a third of the price prevailing from 1913 to 1918 and compares with three dollars a pound, which was reached in 1910. With the constant increase of the supplies made available by the East Indian plantations the price has declined steadily, with minor fluctuations, until now it is below the cost of production on most if not all the estates where it is grown. Curtailed output may remedy the situation of the growers temporarily, but the chief hope for permanent relief lies in the fact that rubber is a comparatively new commodity for which new uses are constantly being developed.

Rubber was among the many substances discovered with the new World. Columbus and the Spanish Portuguese missionaries who followed him report the use of a material which they found the natives using for balls, ornaments, waterproof shoes and other clothing. Scientific studies of rubber were not undertaken, however, until French interest was aroused by specimens gathered by La Condamine in Ecuador in the first half of the 18th century but in the latter half of the century many experiments were carried on in Great Britain and the United States as well as in France. At some time between 1770 and 1780 Joseph Priestley, the English chemist, discovering that rubber could erase pencil marks gave it its English name from that property. In 1832 Luedersdorf found that sulphur added to a solution of crude rubber in turpentine rendered it non-adhesive. Seven years later by accident that when heated to a high temperature a solution changed the characteristics of the rubber from a sticky unstable material to the vulcanized rubber as it is known today.

Although rubber waterproofed garments and shoes had been made in Europe prior to this time, the vulcanization of rubber made it available for many additional uses. Rubber hose was originated by Charles Macintosh and Thomas Hancock of London. A patent on rubber tires was taken out by Robert William Thompson in 1845, which was followed 43 years later by a patent granted to Dunlop on a pneumatic rubber tire. Today from erasers to balloon fabrics and from spectacle frames to street paving, the uses of rubber are countless and are ever increasing.

The United States consumes over two-thirds of the world's rubber, but except for a relatively small amount grown in the Philippines, produces none. Until 1913 Brazil was the chief source of rubber. Since then, however, the cultivated trees in the Far East have come into bearing, so that now the plantations furnish nine-tenths of the supply. Great Britain, thru ownership either of the plantations or of the territories where estates are located, controls about four-fifths of the plantation output.

India rubber is obtained from the latex or white milky fluid secured from rubber trees by a variety of methods of tapping. Different methods, also, are used to coagulate the rubber. In South America the rubber is ordinarily prepared by turning a paddle dipped in the fluid in the smoke from the burning of oily palm nuts. Plantation latex, on the other hand, is usually placed in large vats and acetic acid or lime juice is added. The rubber, separated in a spongy mass, is washed, dried, cut up, and passed thru rollers from which it issues in the form of sheets or crepe. As a consequence of the more careful handling plantation rubber comes on the market containing only about 3 per cent moisture, dirt and other foreign matter, while the native rubber sometimes averages as much as 25 per cent foreign matter.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES.

Instances where the American Legion has lent a helping hand in times of catastrophe as well as in the ordinary routine of civil life are reported almost daily to national headquarters.

Texas and Arkansas Legion members assisted in the recovery of 100 bodies of victims of the recent Texas tornado, as well as carrying on relief work among the survivors. The Williams post of the Legion at Clifton Forge, Va., has arranged to take up picks and shovels to help the city build a $10,000 playground. The spring municipal house-cleaning in Kansas City, Mo., and Eunice, La., received fresh impetus when Legion members provided wagons and fatigue details for the work.

Seventy-five per cent of requests for information received at the American Legion's National Service Division in Washington are concerned with compensation and hospitalization claims. Other inquiries come in the following proportion: Vocational training, 10 per cent; retraining pay, 5 per cent; Liberty bonds and Victory medals, 2 1/2 per cent each; miscellaneous, 5 per cent.

Manager Zimmer of the Taylorport club has booked Capt. W. W. All the continents except South America have areas of dry land below sea level, the lowest being in Palestine, where there is a point in the Dead Sea basin 1,200 feet lower than the Mediterranean.

SOME FACTS ABOUT FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921 and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States.

	Produced	Delivered Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	63,903
MARCH	61,886	87,221

showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceed production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,710 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having a Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

It would be difficult to create an atmosphere more favorable to the American Legion than that which attended the birth of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Loomis, of Nashua, New Hampshire.

His father served in the Medical Corps during the world war; his mother was a yeamanette; the attending physician was a Medical Corps captain, and the nurse was an army nurse. All four adults are members of James E. Coffey post of the Legion.

When Rene Viviani returned to France he brought to the French people a lively appreciation of the work of the American Legion, as attested by a wireless message to the message, in part, read: "Before returning to France I cannot refrain from expressing my affectionate greetings to the American Legion, to its National commander, Colonel F. W. Galbraith Jr., and to the Commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, my beloved and valiant friend, Gen. John J. Pershing."

Fifty-eight charters were granted to units of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion during the week ending April 23, Legion national headquarters reports. Pennsylvania led with eight units organized; Iowa and Kansas tied with six units each and New York with five units. There are now 2,671 units of the Auxiliary in the United States and territorial possessions.

The American Legion extended its activities into the fifteenth foreign country last week with the issuance of a temporary charter for a post at Macaribo, Venezuela. There are now 10,383 posts and 2,613 units of the Legion's Women's Auxiliary. Kansas led all other departments in new posts for the week, with Wisconsin a close second. Iowa was first in obtaining Auxiliary units, while Kansas and Michigan tied for second place. The departments of Indiana, Massachusetts, Ohio and Oklahoma were cited for organization activities.

Entrance of the Legion in the South Sea Islands is forecast in a report that former service men in Auckland, New Zealand are organizing a Legion post there.

Allen soldiers who saw service in the world war in the United States army and who were naturalized during the war period will be granted their papers upon application to the Bureau of Naturalization, Department of Labor, National headquarters of the American Legion is advised. Applicants for the final papers, of which there are 2,000 waiting delivery in Washington, must notify the naturalization bureau of the date and place of the naturalization proceedings.

One of North Dakota's highest-ranking buck privates has joined the staff of field representatives of the American Legion. He is C. L. Dawson, Beach, N. D., chief clerk of the North Dakota Legislature during its last session and state commander of the Legion. Although past middle age, Mr. Dawson enlisted as a private in the Balloon Corps, served 15 months at Fort Omaha and was discharged as a private first class.

I. W. W.'s may be excluded from Kansas through an interpretation of the anti-syndicalist law, fathered by the American Legion and passed by the Kansas Legislature in 1919. The decision will be made in the hearing of an injunction suit against members and organizers of the I. W. W. before a district court in Eldorado.

Praise of the ideals and purposes of the American Legion was voiced by Chin Yun-peng, premier of China, a speaker at a dinner given by the Legion post in Peking. Other guests of the foreign post were: Admiral Sah-Chen-ping, Chinese Minister of the Navy; Charles B. Crane, American Minister to China, and Major General Crozier, retired head of the Ordnance Department, United States Army.

"My name is Smith and my buddy's name is Brown. I've bet him a trip to the next American Legion convention at Kansas City that there were more Smiths than Browns in the army during the world war. Who wins?"

This query was received by the Washington bureau of the American Legion News Service from a member of an Oklahoma post. The answer was:

"You win, buddy Smith, by 3,900 majority. There were 51,900 Smiths in the army and only 48,000 Browns. It's a good thing, too, that you didn't get into a bet with one of the Johnston tribe, who numbered 53,200 in Uncle Sam's army."

"May God bless and reward the American Legion and give it strength to continue its good work," is the sentiment expressed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Hawkins, of West Philadelphia, Pa., in a letter to Miss Ray Sawyer, executive secretary of the Legion's Women's Auxiliary in New York, thanking the Legion for its aid in bringing the body of James A. C. Hawkins, a son, from El Paso, Tex., to Arlington cemetery in Washington, D. C. When the body arrived in New York City, it was met by a delegation from Marine Post of the Legion, who brought floral offerings and made arrangements for shipping the remains to Washington, where the Marines held a military funeral. Mr. Hawkins, a former member of the Sixth Marines, died from tuberculosis brought on by pneumonia contracted in the service.

TO PREVENT DOOR FROM STICKING.

A door which sticks to the frame every damp day is not conducive to unruffled feelings on the part of those who use it. The Forest Products Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture at Madison, Wis., has recently made public a method which obviates the difficulty.

Wood specialists there say that the fact that the top and bottom edges of a door are practically always left unfinished is largely responsible for its troublesome habit of swelling and shrinking. The exposed ends of the vertical stiles give up or give off moisture more rapidly through surfaces cut across the grain than through those cut parallel to the grain.

If the doors in a house are to shut easily and fit tightly, it is important that their top and bottom edges be protected by paint or varnish. If it is necessary to refit the door after it is hung, the freshly exposed surface should be refinished at once.

HAS 100 PER CENT PUREBRED SIRE.

The township of Jackson, in Hardin County, Ohio, is entirely free from grade and scrub sires. In notifying the United States Department of Agriculture of this fact, Prof. John W. Waichert, of the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service, adds:

"This is the first township which has come to our attention that we feel satisfied is 100 per cent on the right side. No sire was considered pure-bred unless it could be proved that its sire and dam were registered."

The survey of sires included the principal classes of live stock, except poultry, and was made for advance credit by a student in the college of agriculture. The survey showed that the township included 165 farms, on which were 21 pure-bred boars, 26 pure-bred rams, 6 pure-bred beef bulls, 3 pure-bred dairy bulls and 2 pure-bred stallions. No grade or scrub sires of any kind were found in the township.

Despite the very inclement weather, tobacco-plants have been growing nicely under the canopy and there seems to be an abundance, and many plants will be ready for transplanting by the middle of May. It is said that as if the tobacco plants will be ready to set before the season is planted.

KENTUCKY TAX LAWS.

There seems to be a peculiar misunderstanding in regard to the tax laws in Kentucky, and it is a serious mistake to attribute the recent increases in assessments to the classified tax law voted for by the people in 1913 and 1915, and adopted by the Legislature in 1917 and now in operation.

Assessments are made under Section 172 of the Constitution of 1891, which provides that "all property shall be uniformly assessed at the fair cash value," and the recent increases merely show that the taxing authorities seem to be making an attempt to enforce this unamended fundamental law.

The complete failure of the old law caused the people by its votes and the Legislature by its acts to substitute the more modern classification law under the belief that other property could be induced to contribute in taxes and relieve the burden which had been carried almost entirely by real estate, and this has come to pass.

Under the old law real estate paid about four-fifths of the taxes, but now pays but little over one-half. Of the two millions increase in State revenue, real estate was called upon for only about 10 per cent. Of the increase in assessed values for the current year, of about 80 millions, land and improvements will have only $16,000 additional taxes to pay $308,000. There is conclusively no shifting of the burden from personal property to real estate, as has been charged, according to these figures published by the State Tax Commission.

In the realized expectation that personal property would contribute more liberally under classification, the State tax rate was reduced from 55 to 40 cents, and had this reduction not been made real estate would be paying a million and a half dollars more than the current tax bills on this class of property now call for.

These are some of the benefits of classification, and a reversion to the old system of so-called uniform taxation would only result in a renewal of the practices of evasion by the owners of movable property, and real estate would have to make up the loss in revenue as in the past. The government must be sustained, and principally by taxes on property. The more property that pays, the less taxes there will be on all, and it would be suicidal to drive away the vast amount of personal property now contributing.

It is stated that there is a billion and a half dollars, in value, of untaxed wealth in Kentucky, and when all of the property in the State is subjected to fair taxation, the rates should be lower and taxes a matter of little concern.

"MY OLD KENTUCK HOME."

Every Kentuckian should be glad of a chance to contribute to the fund to purchase "Federal Hill," the old Rowan homestead near Bardonia, where Stephen Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home," as a memorial to the author of the most appealing State song ever written.

Tardy recognition has been given the composer, and the movement to buy "Federal Hill" and make it a Kentucky shrine is a most worthy one. The Foster masterpiece was a work of inspiration. It shares with "Dicie" the honor of international fame. It is on the programs of the celebrated European orchestras, and it is in the repertory of every great singer. Nothing has made the world better acquainted with the grand old commonwealth, and now that the opportunity is to contribute to the memory of Stephen Foster, the response should be prompt and generous.

We shall be glad to receive checks from those who desire to contribute. Checks will be duly acknowledged in this paper, and forwarded to the Commissioners having the purchase in charge. Checks should be made payable to "Old Kentucky Home Commission." — Hopkinsville News Era.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE AND TREAT THE DISEASES OF SHEEP.

How to recognize and treat the more important diseases and common ailments of sheep is told in Farmers' Bulletin 1155, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. While the actual treatment of disease is primarily a matter for veterinarians, the information given in the new bulletin will enable sheep owners to recognize symptoms early in their development and thus avoid losses to their flocks. Altogether 57 kinds of diseases and ailments are discussed.

The sheep industry of the country has suffered severely from the ravages of infectious and noninfectious diseases. In addition to the scientific names, the bulletin gives the common names by which the various diseases are known. A convenient arrangement of cause, symptoms, post-mortem appearance, diagnosis, treatment and prevention makes it possible for sheep owners to obtain a practical knowledge of the best means for preventing and controlling sickness in the flocks. Numerous illustrations add to the clearness of the discussion.

As a companion bulletin to "Diseases of Sheep," the department is distributing also Farmers' Bulletin 1156, entitled "Parasites and Parasitic Diseases of Sheep." This bulletin explains methods for controlling various pests and parasites that attack sheep and points out the advantages of pasture rotation, feeding from racks and other measures of value in parasite control.

Why Buried Glass Disintegrates.

The bureau of standards says that glass would slowly disintegrate when buried in moist soil. The action on the glass would be due primarily to water and alkali. The disintegrating action would vary with the composition or character of the glass and the conditions that obtained in the soil. This action would probably be extremely slow with any glass, and it would probably be centuries before some glass would be completely disintegrated.

The Trouble.

"Everybody about that bank seems to be catching cold. Is it damp?"

"No; but there are so many drafts about it."

Presence of Henry C. Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, at the Bourbon Stock Yards Fat and Feeding Cattle show and sale, September 15th and 16th is expected by members of the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, W. S. Bell, president of the Exchange, announced yesterday. A letter received by Mr. Bell indicated Mr. Wallace's intention of coming.

The Exchange in the name of the livestock interests of the state invited Mr. Wallace a week ago to come for the occasion of the show and sale. The intention of Mr. Wallace was called to the movement for better bred and greater meat animal production being conducted by the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association and the Louisville Live Stock Exchange and in which the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture are deeply concerned.

It was first intended to ask Mr. Wallace to attend the Farmers' Better Stock Sale of 300 pure-bred registered bulls, to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards June 2, but was felt that the time was too short and there was a possibility of Mr. Wallace already being otherwise engaged for that date.

The presence of Mr. Wallace at the fat and feeding cattle show and sale in September will give him double opportunity of meeting the farmers of Kentucky and Tennessee, of whom thousands will be present to attend the show and the Kentucky State Fair, which will be held the same week.

The principal factor in civic progress is public sentiment. Your community may have splendid leadership, and many men and women willing to give time to public causes, but if the people as a whole are indifferent to modern ideas, if they are determined to follow along in the old rut, no amount of talent or leadership will accomplish much.

It will run up against a dead weight of popular indifference. After encountering this form of discouragement for a period, the most enthusiastic leaders will succumb to the general inertia.

The good newspaper tries to keep up a constant campaign in favor of modern ideas and advance measures. It aims to reflect the current of modern progress, not with vague and aimless talk, but with convincing facts and figures and information.

It is the ambition of the Recorder to work so continuously and intelligently for all good ideas of human and social progress that it can contribute largely toward creating a strong public sentiment in Boone County favorable to the advance movements of the times.

In another column will be found the announcement of Frank M. Walton as a candidate for Justice of the Peace of the Petersburg-Bellevue district.

Mr. Walton was born and has resided near Bellevue all his life, and he needs no introduction to the people of that district. Mr. Walton is one of the prosperous farmers of his section, and if he is elected will undoubtedly devote the same energy to the performance of the duties of the office that he gives to his personal affairs.

Hicks and Rouse, of Union, Ford agents for Boone County, are prepared to give first-class service to all FORDSON owners. Mr. Rouse has had years of experience with Ford cars in the garage business, as well as a number of years' service in the Ford factory at Cincinnati. No better service can be given by any agent than will be given by Hicks & Rouse.

The office-holders who are trying to get their pay increased, were but recently working just as hard to get these jobs at salaries much less than those now paid.

While many painters won't work because they are not satisfied with their pay, a lot of people are painting their own houses, because the job costs so much.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION

Fiscal Courts Authorized to Appoint Delegates—Meet at Louisville, June 7-10.

The fact that it is candidate year has given impetus to the Good Road Convention, which will be held at the Jefferson County Armory, Louisville, June 7-10 under auspices of the Kentucky Road Engineers' Association. Candidates are expected to swell the attendance, and arrangements are being made for accommodation of 3,000 delegates and visitors.

The meeting will be absolutely non-partisan in its nature. Candidates of all political faiths realize they cannot wage an intelligent campaign before the people without being well versed on the subject of roads. The convention will afford them golden opportunity to inform themselves. Every phase of road construction and maintenance will be discussed by experts. To avoid technical terms, using language understood by the layman.

Motion pictures will be used to illustrate road building and upkeep. Delegates will be taken on automobile tours of inspection of various types of roads. Modern equipment will be demonstrated.

The movement has the hearty support of the State Highway Commission. Joseph S. Boggs, State Highway Engineer, who was in conference this week with the committee in charge of arrangements, is urging that every county have good representation.

Fiscal Courts are authorized to appoint delegates. Mr. Boggs has pointed out in letters to them. County Engineers, County Judges, Fiscal Courts and citizens interested in road projects will be welcome. All sessions and entertainments will be open to the public.

BOYS AND GIRLS' CLUBS.

Kentucky Junior Week.

Lexington, Ky.—Farm boys and girls who attend the University of Kentucky during Junior Week, June 20 to 25, are to receive much valuable instruction in addition to a real vacation, if plans being made by the Junior Agricultural Club Department of the College of Agriculture are taken as any indication.

Instruction will be given during a part of both the morning and afternoon of the week, while the remainder of the time will be devoted largely to games, setting-up exercises and general get-together sessions, at which time the youngsters will sing their club songs and have a general good time.

One of the features of the week for boys will be a judging contest, in which the youngsters will place rings of hogs, sheep, dairy and beef cattle. Animals on the College of Agriculture farm will be used for this purpose, and suitable prizes awarded to the winning contestants. The boys will also have an opportunity to study farm mechanics' subjects and those related to soils and crops. Tours of inspection over the experimental plots, being conducted by the Experimental Station, will occupy an important place in this instruction.

While the boys are studying farm tractors and soils under the direction of members of the college faculty, the girls will be instructed in home improvement. Miss Maybell Cornell, head of the home economics department of the college, will be in charge of this phase of work. Home conveniences and decorations, both interior and exterior are to receive attention. The girls will also be given an opportunity to study butter-making and other subjects of special interest to them.

Instruction in health and sanitation will be given to both the girls and boys.

MALE AND FEMALE.

Women, in our opinion, are as keensighted and as forthright as a rule as men. They may not be as able to dissect or peer into the minutia of things or as able to separate truth from error or lay bare facts as sifted from a preponderance of evidence as men from lack of experience, but to make up for this possibility they possess a mentality of reasoning, a peculiar instinct of what is reasonable at the moment of action that is not surpassed by man. Many women possess an intuitive power of thinking twice that of man, and will therefore, as jurors, yield to few unjust verdicts.

Judge Sidney Gaines.

Judge Sidney Gaines should be endorsed by being nominated as the candidate of the Democratic party at the June primary without opposition, as he has performed the duties of the office of Circuit Judge honestly and fearlessly, and no litigant has ever been heard to say that anything has been done in his case that the judge did not believe to be correct. The judge believes in having the law and letting the chips fall where they may.

L. C. Littrell for State Senator.

The above is a good likeness of Hon. L. C. Littrell, of Owen County, who is now the State Senator from this district. Mr. Littrell will announce as a candidate for an endorsement in a short time. He served the old district composing the counties of Owen, Gallatin and Boone and thinks that the new district to which has been added the counties of Grant and Pendleton, should endorse his official acts by nominating him for reelection. Mr. Littrell stood for a reduction of the State tax rate from 55 cents to 40 cents and believes that the State expenses should be paid from sources other than by taxing real estate. Mr. Littrell carried every County in the district in his last race and at the time he was a candidate for Public Instruction he carried over 40 Counties. He has held the office of Superintendent of Schools in Owen County and also served in the Legislature as a representative from Owen.

Mr. Littrell is an old war horse, and when he gets in the race he will hustle until the final count.

LYCEUM COURSE NOTICE.

Owing to the serious illness of the tenor, the International Male Quartette can not appear here on May 23. On account of the lateness of the season a new tenor can not be secured, and the last or sixth number of our Lyceum Course can not be given. The Lyceum Bureau regrets this very much, as does the local management, but things of this nature can not be avoided.

It is the desire of the High School to return to each holder of a season ticket one-sixth of the cost of the same. This amount of money is on deposit at the Peoples Deposit Bank, and each holder of one or more such tickets is asked to call there and receive their refund. Bring your season ticket with you. The refund on each ticket will be as follows:

Adult Ticket ($2.25)..... 38c
High School Student ($1.25)..... 21c
Grade Student ($1.00)..... 17c

The High School management cordially desires that each ticket holder take the trouble to call and receive what is due them. The entire student body also wishes to take this opportunity to thank the Burlington community for the very cordial support given the Lyceum Course this winter. If these different numbers have added anything to the enjoyment of the people the High School feels well paid for its effort.

Club Girls Will Have Demonstration Contest.

Club girls of Kentucky are to have an opportunity of displaying their talents in the first State Team Demonstration Contest which will be held in connection with the 1921 State Fair, Sept. 13 and 14, according to an announcement made today by Miss Anita Burnam, assistant state leader of junior agricultural club work from the College of Agriculture. Cash prizes totaling $150 have already been offered, and will be divided among four winning teams, while the first team will receive a $50 trophy, which will become the property of the county producing a winning team for two years. The teams, which will be composed of three members, will demonstrate canning, food and stain removal, care of clothing, dyeing of cloth, and several others.

Studying Marketing Conditions.

The Philippine government is showing keen interest in what the Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture is doing to better marketing conditions in this country. Recently Senator Filomeno Costo, commercial agent of the Philippines, spent some time with officials of the bureau in Washington, D. C., studying marketing practices generally, giving particular attention, however, to the matter of standard containers and co-operative marketing.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

With Rev. G. R. Tomlin as the officiating minister, the Burlington Baptist church was filled to overflowing last Sunday evening at the Baccalaureate sermon which was delivered to the graduates of the Burlington High School.

Rev. Tomlin, who is pastor of the local Methodist church, has long since established a reputation as a minister of exceptional personality and divine gift, and he delivered a powerful sermon, which fully coincided with the high expectations carried by his hearers.

The services were opened with a prayer by Rev. Campbell, former pastor of the church. The large choir then rendered two appropriate songs, the titles of which were: "The Fight Is On" and "Forward Go." Rev. Campbell next read a fitting passage of Scripture.

The vocal solo by Mrs. Flossie Campbell Martin, which followed was highly enjoyed by all.

Rev. Tomlin chose as his text the following pregnant passage of Scripture, "The fear of Jehovah is the beginning of knowledge," which is to be found in Proverbs 1:7. Proceeding to analyze his text in his usual methodical manner, he first improved his hearers as to the meaning of the word Jehovah. Jehovah, as it stands, means the eternal one. Supplementing further, God is also called Jehovah-jireh, which means the Lord will provide. Proceeding further, we find applied to the Holy One the term Jehovah-nissi, which signifies "the Lord my banner." Rev. Tomlin then earnestly strived to implant in the minds of his audience, and especially the members of the class, the thought that with these attributes God was able to give them all they desired in their career thru life, were they willing to live in such manner as to deserve His care and assistance.

The minister next dwelt at some length upon the omnipotence, omniscience and omnipresence of God. God is all-powerful, all-knowing and ever-present. Citing a homely example, Rev. Tomlin called attention to the life of the farmer, the farmers of the world, as a class, are credited with being the foundation of the life of the world, as they furnish the food for all, yet how much are they indebted to the thoughtful One who furnishes each and everything necessary to the production of their crops, such as the producing quality of seed and soil, the sunshine and the rain.

The speaker earnestly implored his young hearers to beware of any belief in the theory of evolution, which, in itself, dismisses the idea that God is responsible for the existence of this world and our presence thereupon. He then sought to have them understand the true meaning of how to fear Jehovah, the only true method for so doing being thru the love and acceptance of Jesus Christ. With the comforting assurance that no calling or profession would be so high but that they could safely choose it and thru the help of God achieve results beyond their fondest hopes and desires, Rev. Tomlin exhorted them to devote their future to a righteous, consistent life which would bear the three great characteristics of idealism, generosity or altruism and bravery.

He concluded his impressive and splendid sermon by assuring the class they would have his sincere prayers for their future success, and he implored the parents to give to their children all their support in the same manner.

The message of Rev. Tomlin was of such nature as to not only furnish his hearers with a determination to fashion their future lives according to the best moral precepts, but to also serve as a source of inspiration and thorough enjoyment to all who heard him, and strengthen in them the rapidly growing admiration which they hold for him as a minister and a man.

Following the rendering of the hymn "Crown Him King of Kings," the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Tomlin.

Style Shows.

There are sometimes people who get the notion that they can find more stylish merchandise in the shops of some metropolitan city than in their own home stores. Others do not fully realize what up to date lines of goods their home town merchants are all the time carrying.

To demonstrate to their people that they can buy the same lines in their home town that are for sale in New York and Chicago and other big centers, the stores in many towns have formed the habit of holding "style shows." These occasions are exceedingly effective in drawing trade from the surrounding country.

The people of towns who object to the boys playing ball in the streets are hereby invited to subscribe to a fund for more playgrounds for them.

Although 16,140,585 people voted for President Harding, he has no far been so ungrateful as to provide jobs for but a few thousand of them.

A Man's Personal Honor.

It came out the other day that comparatively early in the recent war the German Government thru its chief spy in this country Count von Bernstorff, offered Chas. M. Schwab a personal bribe of 100,000,000 on condition that he would agree to stop supplying Great Britain with munitions from his steel works. Now Mr. Schwab is being praised extravagantly by many of the papers for having refused to consider the proposal. We do not think he deserves these praises especially, for probably the offer of the bribe was not the slightest temptation to him. To refuse it probably involved not the least struggle of self-denial on his part; the tender of it probably aroused in him no feeling save one of perhaps amused contempt.

Decent men are like that. Nothing else is worth so much to them as their personal honor and they dismiss attempts to buy and betray by spontaneously and without conscious consideration. If somebody should try to buy your personal honor with a great sum of money, would you consider accepting it or would it cost you a struggle to refuse it? If so, your ideas of relative values are all askew and you would better get down on your knees immediately and pray for strength to make a real man of yourself.—Ohio State Journal.

A CARD.

To the Voters of Boone County:

I want to call your attention to a false rumor which has been circulated in some of the precincts, and which will no doubt be carried to all of them by the same persons.

This malicious and untrue report charges me with having been insulting toward the American Legion concerning their use of the court house. Knowing the Legion is opposed to any participation in politics, I beg their pardon for this article, but I feel that it is necessary to plainly tag the report at once as untrue. At this time I also respectfully call your attention to my past record as your Jailer.

This report was conceived in and started from Burlington.

Beginning with the Red Cross banquet shortly after the close of the war, it has been my pleasure to have had the American Legion in the court house at different times. On no occasion have I ever treated them discourteously or unfairly. On one meeting night I did call their attention to some unnecessary dirt which was made, but I only did this in a friendly way, and I am sure it, and would have made the same remarks to any other individuals or organization. On Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1920, I did all that I could to make the Legion exercises a success. I claim no credit for that, as it was only a small part of the debt which we all owe to the ones who offered their lives for our protection.

All that I ask is a square deal. I feel confident that this report is not in it being done by a single member, but that they are all my friends and no matter how much is added to the story as it spreads, I am still a friend of the American Legion. The strange part of it all is that no one seems willing to assume responsibility for having started this untruth. If I were guilty of such an offense, it should very properly be made public, and the person or persons so doing would be rendering a service. But as any such report is absolutely untrue, "discretion is the better part of valor" (?) on their part.

I am sure all of you know what I mean when I label it as political trickery. If I felt it was necessary, I could present signed testimonials from officers of the Red Cross and Legion commending the attitude I have always maintained toward these two most worthy organizations, as well as toward any other worthy movement which required the use of the court house.

I have held the office of Jailer for the three years of an unexpired term. During that time I have tried to do my duty and take care of the public property in the best possible manner. Each Grand Jury which has sat during my stay has been highly commendatory in its final report concerning my strict attention to duty. In view of this and because I have only held the office for an unexpired term, I feel justified in asking for your support in my race for re-election, and feel assured that the spirit of fairness on the part of the people of Boone County will prevail again in August.

In closing, allow me to say that I have known my opponent all of my life and have nothing whatever to say against his character or reputation. I cannot feel that he is taking any part in spreading this misleading rumor, or resorting to any kind of unfair methods.

I expect to see all the voters I can without neglecting my duties, so thanking you in advance, I sign, C. A. FOWLER, J. H. C. Advertiser.

From the amount of bloom there promises to be a bountiful crop of blackberries.

LIVESTOCK AND MEAT SITUATION

An important survey of the livestock situation in the nation has been made by Graddy Cary, general counsel of the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, figures from which were used in an address recently at Lebanon in the campaign of the Exchange to improve live stock of the state. Mr. Cary, in his talk in behalf of the Farmers' Better Sire Sale of 300 registered pure-bred bulls to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards, June 2, called attention to the rapid national decrease in live stock, so entirely out of proportion to the increase in population.

"Of outstanding importance to every person in this country is the fact that the number of people in the United States has been increasing much faster than the number of cattle, sheep and swine," declared Mr. Cary. "In 1900 for every nine inhabitants of the United States there were eight head of cattle, seven and one-half head of swine, and seven head of sheep. On the first day of January, 1921, for every nine inhabitants the ratio had shrunk to approximately five and one-half head of cattle, six head of swine and four head of sheep. The statistics establish that the per capita supply of swine and cattle combined has decreased more than one-fourth in 20 years and the per capita supply of sheep nearly one-half."

The total live stock production of the United States on June 1, 1900, was of cattle, sheep and swine, 192,091,164, and on January 1, 1921, the total live stock population was only 177,907,000, which means that during that period there was an actual decrease in live stock population of approximately 14,000,000 head, while there was an increase in the human population of the country in the same period of approximately 32,000,000 persons. Thus, it will be seen that the people of the United States increase about 40 per cent, while the live stock population decreased between 8 and 9 per cent."

"An analysis of the actual figures reveals the following economic situation, which should be of serious interest to consumers and, of course, to producers.

First—Apparently the United States is reverting toward a situation wherein the production of livestock and consequently of meat will be outstripped by increasing population.

Second—The per capita production of meat and lard, including extra edible parts, such as liver, hearts and tongues, was in round numbers 195 pounds in 1920, as compared with 211 pounds in 1919; 222 pounds in 1918 and 248 pounds in 1900.

Third—Less beef and veal were produced in the United States in 1920 than in 1900 notwithstanding the population during the same period increased approximately 40 per cent.

Fourth—Pork now appears to be the main resource of the nation in the losing fight to increase livestock and meat production as rapidly as population. In 1909 beef and veal constituted 48 per cent, and pork and lard 48.4 per cent of the total production of dressed meat and lard. Last year the ratios were beef and veal 39.6 percent; pork and lard 57.6 per cent.

Fifth—If the livestock production had increased proportionately to population since 1900 the meat and lard produced would have been 5,500,000,000 pounds (five and one-half billion) which would have been more than was actually consumed.

Sixth—Canadian meat industry has been lamenting the fact that the number of cattle per capita in the Dominion has not increased since 1908 and various efforts to increase livestock production in the Dominion have been made, but at the present time there are ten head of cattle to every nine inhabitants in Canada and in the United States at the beginning of this year there were less than six head of cattle to instance the figures include cows.

If every inhabitant of the U. S. in 1920 had eaten as much of the various meats as every inhabitant ate in 1900 the total amount of meat and lard consumed last year would have been increased by nearly 4,000,000,000 pounds.

Too much cannot be said for the co-operation which the live-stock interests of the State are receiving from the county agents and the state representatives. Meetings are to be held all over the State in the principle counties in the hope that the farmer whether he operates on a small or a large scale will be convinced that it not only is his personal material advantage to raise and market as much livestock his farm will conveniently accommodate, but in so doing he is rendering a public service and unless such a service is rendered there will not be available for consumption a sufficient amount of meat for the population of this country.

COL. A. B. WHITLOCK DIES

One of the most noted dog fanciers and fox hunters in America died yesterday at Seikatan, Ohio. He was Alfred B. Whitlock. His death took place at the home of his brother, Robert Whitlock.

Colonel Whitlock developed a shaggy hound from a pair of dogs bred in the Virginia mountains 60 years ago.

These dogs were brought to Virginia from an English kennel and given to Major Lige Howard, himself a noted breeder, who in turn presented them to Colonel Whitlock. From this pair sprang dogs that have raced and won laurels in every fox-hunting state in the Union.

With Whitlock can be mentioned the names of Jack Chinn, Steve, Ed and Wood Walker, Hayden C. Trigg, Charles Evans, Major Young, Dr. Blacky, Frank Hayden and scores of others whose reputations are familiar to lovers of the sport.

Colonel Whitlock was in his 78th year at the time of his death. Burial will take place at Hebron, Boone County, Kentucky, his old home, on Monday afternoon.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Which Will Last Longer Split or Round Fence Posts?

Some people believe split fence posts last longer than do round ones. Probably as large a number hold the opposite view. The Forest Products Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture says that one will last about as long as the other if the percentage of heartwood and sapwood are the same in both. If the percentage of sapwood is increased by splitting, the split post will be less durable, while if the percentage of heartwood is increased it will be more durable than the round one. Exceptions to this should be made if the posts are of spruce, hemlock, or any of the true firs, whose heartwood and sapwood are about equally durable.

If the posts are to be treated with creosote or some other preservative, the round post is preferable to the split, because of the comparative ease with which the sapwood can be treated. Experiments at the laboratory demonstrate that the heartwood faces on split posts do not, as a rule, absorb the preservative as well as does the sapwood.

If "big business" does not soon reduce prices, the people will be calling it pig business.

EXPECT 1000 AT BURGOO

Dixie HIGHWAY MEETING TO BE HELD AT GEORGEtown May 28.

One thousand people are expected to gather on the beautiful campus of Georgetown College at Georgetown Saturday, May 28, at the big burgoo and road meeting to be held there in the interest of the Dixie Highway, according to the announcement of Judge J. R.
Lancaster, President of the Northern Kentucky Dixie Highway Association. Prominent and authoritative speakers will explain just what the Dixie Highway situation is at present and discuss the significance of the announcement.

Georgetown merchants and the Georgetown Booster Club will spend $300 in providing burgoo and lunch for those who attend and the Georgetown College band of fifteen pieces will furnish a concert, the announcement says.

In discussing the situation, Judge
Lancaster pointed out that 3,660,891 automobile owners north of the Ohio river are ready to travel south, spending their money and making investments, when there is a permanent Dixie Highway.

The permanent construction of the Dixie Highway will be the greatest economic achievement that can come to this section of the southland, he said. Judge Lancaster is County Judge of Scott county and publisher of the Georgetown News, and his views on roads and economic subjects are considered authoritative.

Corinne Balsly Riley.

Corinne Balsly Riley was born in North Bend bottoms in Boone County, Kentucky, on the farm adjacent to where all her children were born, save one, on July 24, 1856. She was taken while a baby in her mother's arms to the south, where her father practiced medicine.
During the Civil War, her father's drug store was burned at Des Arc, Ark., by the Union soldiers. Her father was a surgeon under General Price during the war, and later the family settled in Louisiana, where the mother and father died. The together with two other children, yellow fever took her father in 1877.
The mother preceded the father to the grave several years. The father was married twice and was the father of 13 children. After the Yellow Fever had taken away the father and the others had recovered from the disease, the remaining children were taken into the homes of their God-parents, for the mothers of the children were Catholics and all the children were reared in that church. Mrs. Riley, as the oldest of the living children, came back to the home of her father in this County, and lived in the home of Mr. Junius Balsly until her marriage to William Riley, March, 1881.
Of her own family there remain one brother, Lewis Balsly, and two half sisters, Lillie M. Whitlock and Adelia B. Crisler. Her own children all survive her, viz: Edgar C., George L., Edna M., Charles W., and Thomas Milton Riley. She, as well as her husband who preceded her to the grave in 1909, all of her children and the only one of her grandchildren who reached the age of accountability, were members of the Christian Church.
She died at Petersburg May 10, 1921.

CHARLES A. FINN.

Charles A. Finn, aged 62, died at his home on Woolper creek Friday,
May 13, 1921.
Mr. Finn is survived by four sons,
Russell, Aubrey, William and John.
His wife died about two years ago.
He had been in bad health for some time, but his death was rather sudden. He had a stroke of paralysis
Friday afternoon and regained consciousness for a short time only. He was buried in the cemetery at Petersburg at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.
He was a quiet unassuming gentleman, and well liked by all who knew him. He was one of the oldest citizens in the neighborhood in which he lived and died. The family has the sympathy of the community.
